Moscow May Day Air Show Biggest In Several Years

But No New Types Seen In Fleet of Jet Planes

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A fleet of 178 Soviet jet and turbo-prop planes roared over Moscow's Red Square today to highlight the annual May Day demonstration marking international labor day.

Foreign observers said the air show was the largest and most impressive seen here on May Day for several years. The fly-past consisted of no new types, however, and Soviet delta-wing bombers did not put in an appearance.

More than a million citizens, wearing light clothes and open-neck shirts in the brilliant sunshine, watched the air and military parade and then marched past the Lenin-Stalin tomb in a parade that lasted for the remainder of the day.

PARADE NEW GUN

A 20-minute military parade contained a number of familiar operational army weapons as well as a self-propelled gun not publicly shown before.

This gun, of about 57-millimetre calibre, carries a crew of five and is intended for use in airborne units to defend paratroopers against tank attack.

Security police moved among the crowd in force to prevent any attempt to use cameras. Police confiscated films of two American news correspondents who were tempted to take newsreel shots of the fly-past from outside the square.

All members of the Communist party presidium, led by First Secretary Nikita Khrushchev, took up positions on the walls of the Kremlin to review the parade.

TRAINS AGAINST U.S.

Before the fly-past and military parade, Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov addressed troops and military academy cadets drawn up in front of the tomb.

Zhukov warned that an outbreak of atomic war had been brought nearer by the American decision to base atomic weapons in other countries.

15 NATO Nations Gather at Bonn For Conference

BONN (CP)—This old university town in the Rhineland, sometimes called the dullest capital in the world, plays host to Western statesmen this week.

Starting Thursday, ministers of the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations will meet for three days. Nuclear arms, Britain's new defence strategy and the Middle East situation will be among the main items of discussion.

The deliberations take place against a background of what appears to be a reduction in international tension. There are signs that Russia, having allowed some of the shock and anger aroused over Hungary to subside, now is getting ready to resume its charm offensive, ruddy arrested by the Hungarian uprising and repression and by the Anglo-French intervention in Suez.

Pointers to a more conciliatory Russian attitude include Marshal Bulganin's recent letter to Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain, which was couched in candid, almost conciliatory terms, and the visit to Vienna by Trade Minister Anastas Mikoyan.

Those who feel Russia is eager to consider Hungary and Suez as closed chapters would like to see the West take Bulganin's letter seriously. There is even a suggestion that the marshal's proposals, particularly on the Middle East, might be the basis for a new Geneva conference.

The Spectator, a British magazine, says "sooner or later, the West will have to talk to the Soviet Union on these matters."

If it does, the West will be following a tactic that has been privately suggested by Canadian diplomats. It believed that Maurice Robertson, Canadian high commissioner in London, has long urged the wisdom of associating Russia with a settlement in the Middle East, for that matter in any area where the interests of Russia and the West collide.

Hamilton Baby Burned to Death

HAMILTON (CP) — A year-old baby was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the upstairs of a house here today.

Sandra Mackendrick, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burke MacAndrew, died in her bed despite efforts of her parents to save her. Her father suffered painful burns to his face and hands when he was forced back by flames which shot across the upstairs part of the house.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

Sandra was sleeping with a sister, Chrissy, 4, while the three other children were in a bed across the hall. The other children escaped injury.

Today's Chuckle

The store wrote the customer to pay his overdue bill, or else. Back came this letter:

"Enclosed find check to settle my account. You are very kind. You are very good. You are patient and wonderful. Yours truly

"P.S. This is the kind of letter you would write you if I had the money."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:— A surge of cold air today pushed southward across Northern Ontario, making temperatures there about 20 degrees lower than Tuesday's unseasonable 70s. This cold air will continue southward across the province, but seasonable temperatures will be general again today in Southern Ontario.

During the past few days, the air in Ontario has been dry. An air mass which contains more moisture is expected to move eastward from the U. S. plains, spreading cloud into Ontario on Thursday.

CANADA MAY GET ATOMIC WARHEADS FROM BRITAIN

Would Fit on Missiles Obtained From U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada eventually may get atomic warheads from the United Kingdom to fit on guided missiles obtained from the United States, officials here say.

But they add, the U.S. is the more likely source of supply for the warheads as well as the missiles.

Authorities indicate strongly that they are convinced the U.S. in the next year or so will repeal the amended present American laws which prohibit the U.S. from supplying its allies with atomic weapons.

But in case the U.S. doesn't take such action, Britain would be an alternative source of supply for atomic warheads. The U.S., Britain and Russia now are the only countries manufacturing atomic arms.

SUPPLEMENT WAR PLANES

It is generally accepted here that nuclear-headed missiles will have to be incorporated into the defence plans of the North American air defence system. Defence Minister Pearkes, Conservative MP, Lt.-Gen. Howard Graham, DFC, in the directorate of operational and electrical engineering at RCAF headquarters, says he believes manned aircraft will remain the predominant air weapon for at least the next 20 years.

The defence department's research division, led by Flight Lieutenant Nikita Khrushchev, is looking into the use of missiles launched underwater as a new secret—presumably atomic—weapon development by the U.S. Navy.

The Canadian Army is keenly interested in seeking an atomic missile of comparatively short range to replace or at least supplement conventional artillery. However, immediate prospects of this appear remote.

Canadian Press Membership Up

TORONTO (CP)—D. B. Rogers, president of The Canadian Press, reported today that the number of newspapers holding membership in the national news co-operative will reach 101 this year.

CP is the non-profit agency which Canada's dailies exchange the news of their areas and bring in news from the rest of the world, including news from The Associated Press and other U.S. and foreign sources outside Canada.

This year is CP's 40th. It is also the 40th anniversary of co-operative news-gathering in Canada.

EXTRADITION DELAYED

DETROIT (AP) — The extradition of L. Ewing Scott to Canada on a murder charge was delayed when Judge Miles N. Culehan found a writ of habeas corpus legally sufficient. Scott is charged with murder in the disappearance of his wife Faith, 30, from their California home. He also is charged with passing a grand theft in connection with management of her $600,000 estate. He was arrested in Windsor April 15.

First of May Still Favored Date To Begin Trek to New Homes

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thousands of Canadians will pull up stakes this week and begin the annual spring trek to new homes.

May 1 is the traditional moving day for Canadians and a Canadian Press survey shows it is the favored date for crossing new thresholds in many areas.

Montreal moving companies have stopped taking orders as more than 150,000 persons, 20 per cent more than last year, have picked today for moving day.

Ottawa, Edmonton and Quebec City report May 1 is still the traditional date. Other cities show a growing reverence for tradition.

New homes should be easier to find this year because of record building in most areas during 1955 and 1956.

Officials in Toronto report 19,000 new units constructed last year, mostly in suburban Scarborough, Etobicoke and Eglinton.

Metropolitan Ottawa, including Hull, counts 4,334 new units built last year.

Builders and prospective buyers blame tight money policies for a sharp drop in construction in prospect. Only 10,000 new units are planned for Toronto this year.

Builders are working as fast as possible at two boom areas in northern Ontario—Elliot Lake and Cardiff—where workers from the uranium fields are now living mostly in trailers.

Rents vary widely across the country, but the survey shows they should be slightly higher—about $5 a month—than last year.

OPERATION SUCCESSFUL, EDEN TO REST

U.S. Not Worried as Hussein Rejects Eisenhower Doctrine

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials professed today to be unworried by King Hussein of Jordan's refusal to President Eisenhower's Middle East program.

Hussein has accepted an American offer of $10,000,000 to help him strengthen his country's economy and finances, and presumably also to assist in meeting the payroll for his army.

But he told a press conference at Amman Tuesday that Jordan is not interested in the "Eisenhower doctrine." The Arab ruler also commented that he had declined a visit from Eisenhower's special ambassador in the Middle East, James P. Richards, because Jordan was not interested in the Eisenhower program.

Officials here say that acceptance of the program is not particularly important because Hussein is in fact working along the same lines that the program itself would call for.

The American policy laid down in a resolution by Congress in March is aimed at opposing the spread of Communist power and influence in the Middle East and promoting stability within Middle Eastern countries.

State department officials say that on the basis of the record there are also Hussein's aims, and that the U.S. has supported him for that reason.

Ontario to Lead in Industrial Development for Years to Come

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario—which for a decade absorbed half the Canadian investment in industry—will continue to lead the provinces in this field during the next quarter-century, a report on Ontario's industrial development says.

The report reviews the province's industrial progress during 1956 and forecasts economic prospects for the future. It was released by Planning Director Hickie and A. Crate, director of trade and industry.

The report says 143 new industries were established in Ontario in 1956 with 71 of Canadian origin. Of the rest, 54 were of United States origin, 13 originated in Britain and three were from West Germany.

Metal products led the new industries with 33 plants, while machinery and metal products firms and chemical firms established almost as many.

Wood products, textile, rubber, leather, electrical and other industries helped spark what the report says was "unprecedented growth."

In the future there would be a larger Canadian participation "of which Ontario will constitute a third," the report says.

Looking to the future are: A buoyant farm industry; a labor force of more than 3,250,000 by 1980—one-third the national total; a farm work week of 44 hours with a business work week of 34; a rise of two-thirds in net income after taxes for the average Canadian family and expansion in markets for Ontario flour, autos, iron, steel farm machinery and coke and fertilizer industries, due to the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The 55-page report said that Ontario now has one-third of Canada's labor force, 40 per-cent of the national annual gross income of $3,600,000 and 38 per cent of Canada's retail sales.

Half of industry's products in Canada are turned out in Ontario, the report said, with the province producing nearly all automobiles, heavy electrical machinery, and agricultural implements made in Canada. Ontario produces also three-quarters of the product goods and primary iron and steel.

Ontario cash farm income is now about $753,000,000, 28 per cent of the Canadian total; mineral production is worth about $650,000,000, 31 per cent of the national dollar total; and pulp and paper production averages about $425,000,000 a year, 25 per cent of Canada's production.

During 1956, in new construction and equipment, Ontario accounted for more than one-third of the total Canadian outlay of $7,900,000,000.

Major expansion was in manufacturing where the province absorbed nearly half the investment in the field—$605,000,000—an increase of 120 per cent from the 1947 figure.

Brig. R. Rowley Expected to Get Kingston Post

OTTAWA (CP) — Brig. Robert Moncel, 40, of Montreal, will take command of the 2nd Infantry Brigade in November, army headquarters announced today.

He will replace Brig. Roger Rowley, 42, of Ottawa when the brigade returns this fall from a two-year tour of duty in West Germany.

The new appointment for Brig. Rowley was not announced but it is believed he will become commandant of the Canadian Army Staff College at Kingston.

Brig. Moncel now is senior military adviser to the Canadian delegation on the Viet Nam international truce supervisory commission.

Boston Plans New Tea Party For Old Reason

BOSTON (AP)—A group of Boston businessmen, their heads capped with colored bands and Indian feathers, will stomp on the old Tea Party next Monday to spark sentiment for slashing the United States tariff.

A troop of Boy Scouts dressed as Indians will stand near the site of Griffin wharf, scene of the original tea party, while the two dozen "tea partiers" at Tabor Boy pushes gently into Boston harbor on a short distance.

Then the staid businessmen with the feathers on their heads will toss empty tea crates into the water. The crates will carry such legends as: "waste in government" and "super bureaucracy".

DROWNING TOLL 13 IN 14 DAYS OF TEXAS FLOODS

Families Still Being Evacuated in Low Areas

DALLAS (AP) — The Upper Sabine River, at its greatest height in history, went out of its banks around Gladewater, Tex., early today, but the heart of major floods on other Texas rivers eased slightly.

Oil wells in the Gladewater area stopped pumping because of high water, but there were no residents in the immediate high-water area.

Meanwhile, the drowning toll climbed to 13 in the 14 days of flooding. Latest victim reported was Earl Thomas, 27, a prison trusty who was sent out to "make himself useful" assisting trained and was drowned in a flooded ravine.

A federal official called the Texas floods "a disaster of major proportions."

SOME STILL LEAVING

Families still were being evacuated today in many areas, as the floods crept over fields which were in the drought disaster area only a few weeks ago. Some persons still were isolated by high water.

One man has isolated himself so he can remain to operate a 24-water pump at Liberty Manor.

He is Jim Elliott, who has been marooned five days. For a time, he was delivered to him by boat. Then his suppliers left him the boat so even the 1½ miles to the station goes under.

"It's pretty lonely down here," he told one supply team.

Study Reveals Heart Disease Tests Unreliable

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A study of hidden heart disease has revealed that the most medical techniques can spot only a small percentage of the seemingly healthy persons who will develop that trouble.

Among 1,551 people found by various procedures to be normal, heart disease developed within 30 months in 165 and gained potential heart disease in 46 others. Results of the study were published today of heart trouble in the 2½ years.

In the same time, 30 out of 80 people who originally showed suspicion of heart disease had no cardiac symptoms after the 30 months. And 11 out of 165 people who were found to have a potential test turned out to have normal hearts in autopsy after death.

Also among the 165 detected heart cases and the cases which appeared in the group of 46 cases in the 30 months there were 26 deaths from coronary disease. Examination techniques detected advance signs of coronary trouble in 19 of the 26 cases.

These findings were reported today in two talks given by the medical society by a group of investigators headed by Dr. L. S. Goerke, of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. Goerke'scardiogram had a batting average of only 29.3 per cent in diagnosing heart disease in cases where it was found proven to have suspicious signs. It showed abnormal readings in 249 people who later were found to have no heart trouble.

See NATO Meet Urging Study Of Red Arms Plan

Western Reaction Is Cool To Disarmament Proposals

BONN (AP)—Foreign ministers of the 15 NATO allies, assembling here today for a three-day meeting, are expected to recommend intensive negotiations on Russia's latest disarmament proposals, announced Tuesday night, but initial Western reaction to the Soviet plan is generally cool.

Part of the Soviet plan broadcast by Moscow radio provides for limited acceptance of President Eisenhower's "Open skies" scheme for disarmament inspectors to photograph American and Russian regions from the air at a check against preparations for war.

Moscow radio said Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin has told the United Nations disarmament sub-committee in London that his government is ready to open about 2,750,000 square miles of its territory in Europe and eastern Siberia to aerial inspection if the United States will open the same area almost the same amount of territory in Alaska and the western states. There was no mention of Canada's Arctic territory.

Zorin coupled this with proposals for an immediate moratorium on nuclear weapon tests and Russian acceptance of President Eisenhower's plan of the use of nuclear weapons. He also repeated previous proposals to reduce armed forces of the U.S., the Soviet Union and Red China to 2,500,000 men each and of Britain and France to 750,000 each as a prelude to further cuts.

Although Zorin did not set forth the geographical limits of the proposed American area to be inspected, the total specified, minus Alaska, would take in most of the land west of the Mississippi River. This includes the great industrial regions of the west coast, key naval and air bases, atomic energy sites and power installations.

The key question still to be answered was how far into European Russia—location of the chief Soviet industrial complex—the inspectors could penetrate.

Western sources in Europe and Washington had no immediate comment on the Soviet move. The arms talks in London have been adjourned until Monday.

British officials called the Russian plan "unacceptable in its present form." France's delegate to the talks, Jules Moch, said it "leaves much to be desired." He complained that it "opens the ice and wasteland of Siberia in return for opening up to inspection the populated areas of the United States to inspection."

Blonde Barmaid Has Good Time In Strange Home

NEW YORK (AP)—A Bronx baker and his wife found a blonde barmaid lolling in their bed Tuesday. She was munching a cracker and enjoying a fruit cocktail.

Edward Hennessey, 30, and his wife, Betty, 26, returned to their apartment after a long weekend away. They walked into the bedroom and there was the shapely stranger propped up in bed.

The uninvited visitor was wearing Mrs. Hennessey's lounging robe and slippers.

"What are you doing here?" the astonished couple asked.

IN NO HURRY

The blonde casually dipped up a spoonful of fruit and nibbled thoughtfully on the cracker.

"I'm tired," she said.

Hennessey grabbed a carpet and his wife stormed, the blonde slowly removed her snack.

Finally she finished and stood up.

"I think I'll get dressed now," she said. "If you'll just step out of the room."

The nonplussed couple stepped out.

CALL POLICE

In a few minutes the blonde came out, wished the Hennessays good night and said "I'm going now."

Hennessey grabbed her and his wife called police.

Police said she identified herself as Marion Dershamin, 23, an unemployed barmaid. She told them she had left her apartment via a dumb waiter shaft earlier in the day because she was hungry and had no money.

She was booked on a burglary charge.

Says Americans Play 'Hide and Seek' With Court's Order on Segregation

TORONTO (CP) — A Chicago rabbi Tuesday night declared Americans are playing "hide and seek" with the U.S. Supreme Court in carrying out its directive to end racial segregation.

Dr. Louis L. Mann made the plea in an address to a group commenting the court's ruling in addressing the general assembly of the Canadian and American Jewish Congregations, parent body of the Canadian Council of Jews and Christians in North America.

He took issue with Rabbi Roland Gittelsohn of Boston who called on those living in the southern states to show they are "willing to move forward . . . with all reasonable speed" in ending segregation.

"What is reasonable haste?" Dr. Mann asked. "We have had the problem before us for well nigh a century. . . The issue is clear and unmistakable. The Supreme Court has spoken. If we can civilly-daily with some decisions of the Supreme Court, before long other decisions of the Supreme Court, our politically holy of holies, will become the victim of juggler's art."

Dr. Gittelsohn said the racial problem is not restricted in any part of the United States.

"The northern property owner who refuses to sell his property is confined to their squalid ghettos in the north just as much as those in the southerner to whom he sometimes preaches with such superiority. If anything, his moral status is even worse, for the stakes in his case are somewhat near as formidable as for his southern brother."

He said those who live in the north "must be patient and understanding with southerners."

Claude D. Tice New President Of Bridge Club

Another successful year in the history of the Belleville Bridge Club has passed into history and those attended the annual meeting held at the Shrine Club on Tuesday evening thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

James Hall, president of the club, welcomed the guests, thanked all for the co-operation given him during his term of office and W. R. "Skit" Vandervoort, the efficient secretary-treasurer of the organization, since its inception, was honored by the chairman with a presentation. "This is only a small reward for the wonderful job you have done for the club the years," said Mr. Ward in making the presentation.

The minutes of the previous annual were accepted and the following executive for 1957 was elected, Mrs. "Skit" Vandervoort, and Robert Murphy. Edward Lewis and John Hibbard as directors.

NEW PRESIDENT INSTALLED

Mr. Tice assumed the chair and thanked all for the honor conferred and hoped for the continued cooperation from the club. It was decided to hold a 'Ladies' Night' and Frank Domenico and Harry Trepanier were appointed as committee to complete arrangements for this event. The wish was expressed that every member of the club could be in attendance on Tuesday, May 28th., when the women are honored because the number present at the last sfrix was disappointing and those absent missed one of the best nights the club has ever put on.

A short discussion took place on the rules of play and it was decided that all games should be played in the way they are scheduled. The members favored a penalty for wildcat slam bidding. Next season the team making the slam bid will receive the points but if a slam is bid and not made the points will be deducted from the total.

The members enjoyed a game of bridge, the winners being "Red" Townsend, Stuart Robb, Fred Holt and Ed. Jones, and the full buffet lunch was served by by the guests. A most delightful buffet lunch was served by the stewardess of the Shrine Club, Mrs. Earl Cole, and the thanks of the club were suitably expressed by the past president, James Ward.

PRIZES PRESENTED

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of prizes won by the various teams during the season's play and these were presented by the president, James Ward and Robert Murphy were the high point makers in the season, while Ward, Murphy and A. Wolfenden finished second, Frank Domenico and Harry Trepanier, third; James Walker and James Trusiach, fourth; Hugh Murray and H.C. Sweeney, fifth and Hibbard and W. B. Vandervoort, sixth. Gerald E. Ward and Bruce Miller won the slam point prize while Claude D. Tice and Bill Hollway won the first section prize, William Coulby and Gord-on Vince, second. Down and Kerr the third, Fred Holt and G. H. Jones the fourth and Jack Lawrence and Don Stirling fifth.

To conclude a most delightful evening the boys enjoyed another round of bridge to the early hours of the morning.

Police Blotter

City police constables Jack and Leo Kent arrested 18-year-old Oscar John Luffman, R.R. 2 Belleville, last night and charged him with the theft of 72 caterpillar track pads from the McFarland Construction Co. dock on Dundas Street West.

Police have recovered half of the stolen pads but have not yet located the remainder. Each pad is valued at $11.53. Twenty-five of the steel pads were recovered in thigh-deep water in the Massassaga marsh and 47 were found on the third concession of Sidney township.

Provincial police headquarters here reported a quiet night.

County Council Members Seek Increase in Provincial Road Subsidy From Present 50 P.C.

Member support of a Wentworth county resolution to petition for an increase in the provincial road subsidy for county and suburban roads from 50 per cent to the present 50 per cent, was seen in Hastings county council Tuesday afternoon.

In support of concurrence in the resolution, Reeve Irwin McCoy noted that heavy trucks were demanding roads of a type which the small municipality cannot afford to build.

He said the recently announced increased provincial roads program would benefit the urban and suburban municipalities to a greater extent than it would the "fellows in the back concessions". This, he said, was his reason for supporting the resolution.

Reeve Harold Price of Elzevir township said he partly agreed but said the county would benefit if the subsidy on maintenance of road work was raised, rather than for all construction and maintenance.

Also, he pointed out, Hastings had considerable mileage of new development roads paid for entirely by the province and it might not be good business to ask for 75 per cent subsidy on county roads at the expense of having a drastic cutback in the development road program.

Reeve Earl Sager said such a move as outlined in the resolution would be a move on the part of the highways department to charge non insured drivers an extra fee in order to take care of the fact that insured drivers were paying on extra fee of $30 premium.

Deputy Reeve Charles Long of Tyendinaga said he went along with the thinking of many of the United States where a vehicle owner was first required to get a safety check, then procure insurance and finally was given his licence.

"I believe in compulsory insurance," he said.

Council also went along with another outside resolution asking for compulsory insurance for auto drivers. The resolution claimed too many inexperienced drivers were driving modern high powered cars. "Anything we can do to increase safety on the highways is a good thing," commented Reeve Price as the motion for concurrence was carried.

The new per capita provincial grants for administration of justice were termed "a good deal" despite the fact there would be no more administration of justice subsidy coming back to the county. The per capita grant of $1 will be paid direct to the local municipalities, while in turn the county will have to levy for the full cost of administration of justice costs.

MOVE TO SHOW TAXPAYER

The new grant will mean $50,000 to the local municipalities in Hastings, while in previous years the county had received about $120,000 back in administration of justice grants.

"It looks like a move to show the individual taxpayer just how much the province is paying," commented Reeve Davis. "Many of the taxpayers do not realize what the government contribution is."

Clerk-treasurer Erle Denyes commented that the change really was an increase in the county rate, but the local municipalities would get back the subsidy.

"The only thing I see wrong," noted Reeve Irwin McCoy of Marmora township, "is that many the taxpayers get their bills they will wish the county got the credit."

He suggested that it may have been as well to keep on as was having done "and save all this legislation."

SHOW ON TAX BILL

Reeve James Kinlin of Hungerford township took issue with the that few taxpayers would realize just how much they are getting from the government. To this Reeve Price pointed out that the amount would be noted on the tax bill.

Reeve Al Wickett of Thurlow doubted if there was any less criticism toward the county for any possible increase than the view of "It is the township councillors who get the criticism," he said. "There is seldom any criticism regarding the county rate." He said if the overall total cost was down it would be a good thing.

Official notice from the Department of Highways indicating that as of last February the county road between Marysville and Napanee had become a provincial highway, was read to council.

It was a move which relieved the road situation in the county," commented Warden L. McLaren.

Ken Pinder Shows Kiwanians Movie Of Australia

Proof that a certain set of Bellevillians are really getting around these days can be seen in a few facts.

Two weeks ago Ralph Clapp took the Kiwanis Club on a filmed hunting expedition to Alaska.

On Monday Bellevillians Phil Dodds and Sam Gentile escorted the Rotary Club on a movie version of a holiday in Jamaica.

Yesterday at the Kiwanis Club, when Ken Pinder took members on a movie trip through the state of Queensland in Australia.

Australia, in many respects, is very much like Canada. It has its lakes and streams, mountains and hills, but its climate is a pleasant mixture of California-like warmth and sunshine and Canadian year-round pleasantness.

Much of the animal on the continent are unlike any that are found in North America. The cross-eyed kangaroo, the friendly and rare koala bear, sandpiper - sided sharks and giant lizards and crocodiles are found in parts of the three million square miles of Australia.

Just off the east coast of the state of Queensland, Australia, is a long chain of "million billion" ants and termites of all colors, sizes, shapes and forms. Their homes are engineering marvels. Reaching a height of over 20 feet, these ants' dwellings are built of earth and clay dug laboriously by the tiny creatures and cemented into place to take as hard as concrete in the blazing sub-tropical sun.

If men were to build on a proportionate scale, keeping in mind the height of the ants' work to the ant, the building would fill eight city blocks and tower 4,000 feet into the air.

Vegetation on the island continent is different and not found in Canada. There eucalyptus trees are about as common as dandelion maples. The flowers of Australia are no more beautiful than Canadian ones—but there are different species. Orchids of all colors and sizes are common there.

Highlighting Dr. movie was a thrilling scene of man pitting his strength and skill against an equally cunning and skillful 25-foot crocodile. Fortunately the man won the exciting duel but lugged the grinning prize triumphantly through bramble and chest-high grass to a waiting lorry — alive, no less!

Weather Ideal And What's More Fish Are Hungry

"That," said George (Lefty) Whitman, minus three fingers, "was one of the finest fisherman's New Year's Days I have ever experienced."

He explained that the day on Belleville's first season opener was dubbed by the angling fraternity "New Year's Day"—and, all indications point to the correctness of his statement.

The great day broke clear and cool. A cloudless sky arched overhead as dawn silvered the eastern horizon. Later in the morning the springtime splendor on a young army of Izaac Waltons which invaded the speckled trout streams in the city to the northern areas.

The water was clear and cold. Levels were slightly below normal—and best of all, between dawn and seven o'clock the trout had appetites.

Whitman was one of a party of three which fished a stream twenty miles out of the city—"I'll not say where for your information." The party came home with 19 speckled beauties with Mr. Whitman on the short end of the score. He landed a lone trout but "Friday" Fraser hooked an even dozen and Bill Bolte was good for six.

They saw other anglers, one had caught nine, with two others having six each.

Reports sifting in from other parts of the district indicate the trout were generally in biting mood.

The woods, however, are tinderdry, Whitman said. "The fellows should exercise extreme care with cigarets and matches for fires could start very easily."

Say Macmillan Plans Moscow Visit in Fall

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Mail says Prime Minister Macmillan will visit Moscow this fall after Britain tests her hydrogen bomb.

The newspaper adds that Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will present to Premier Bulganin and Communist Leader Khrushchev "a peace plan backed by the whole British Commonwealth."

"This will be drawn up by the Commonwealth prime ministers when they meet in London next month," the newspaper says.

The Daily Sketch, hinting strongly at the Moscow trip, says the Commonwealth conference will consider the whole problem of East-West relations.

"A plan will be worked out to take up Marshal Bulganin's proposals in a big way. Mr. Macmillan will then arrange to talk it over personally in Moscow."

There was no confirmation of the trip in official quarters.

Uneasy Quiet Prevails at Copper Centre

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—An uneasy quiet prevailed here today as Gaspe Copper Mines Limited and the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) awaited developments in a strike which has paralyzed the company's mine since March 11.

Violence which was feared early this week has failed to develop but this company-owned community near the tip of the Gaspe Peninsula still is afraid of a spark which might ignite tense tempers.

Trouble has been brewing here since last June when the Quebec labor relations board was restrained by a company - obtained injunction from certifying the union.

SAYS STRIKE ILLEGAL

On this basis Richard V. Porritt, general manager of Noranda Mines Limited, of which Gaspe Copper is a subsidiary, said in Toronto last week that the strike has been illegal since it began.

Mr. Porritt said the injunction was sought when the union refused to comply with a request for unspecified information on membership. He added there was some confusion over a previous unfair charter which led to cancellation of the USWA out of the question.

Early last February Gaspe Copper's oil tank at Mont-Louis, 35 miles north of here, was damaged heavily by an explosion. A provincial police force of 20 was augmented to about 110 and 35 men hired by the company from a Montreal detective agency moved in.

The company officially reopened its mine this week and encouraged the workers to return to their jobs. Roger Bedard, union spokesman, said the handful went back.

EVICTION CONTROVERSY

Mr. Bedard said the 300 workers now living in company-owned homes are being threatened with eviction unless they return to their jobs by Saturday.

He said he was to inform the men they may be excelled if they remain on strike is being spread chiefly by company foremen who approach workers individually.

This statement was denied by Mr. Porritt. He said rent for the homes is paid by payro'l deductions and no rent has been paid since the strike began.

"Obviously we will have to make up our minds about it sooner or later, but we have no intention of doing anything about it now," Mr. Porritt said.

Twenty Police Officers Assigned Lower Rank

TORONTO (CP) — Magistrate C. W. Bick, chairman of the Metropolitan police commission, said Tuesday about 20 police officers will be assigned lower rank without salary reductions.

The move is part of the reorganization of police departments in Toronto and its 12 suburbs into a single police force which became effective Jan. 1.

Magistrate Bick said most of the men affected belonged to suburban police forces. No officer will lose more than one rank, he said.

Marsh Afire At Rossmore

Heavy black smoke rolling up from across the bay in the direction of Rossmore led city residents to believe a big fire was in progress yesterday afternoon.

There was no doubt about the fire, but the blaze was in the marsh at the rear of the Tatham property.

At one time it appeared as though cottages along the bay shore would be threatened but firemen kept a close watch and no damage was reported.

It was a fairly busy day for the fire fighters with two rubbish fires reported in the city, while the reels also answered an alarm to Thurlow township for a chimney fire at a house north of the Deloro Stellite plant, east of the city.

MEN ON THE SIDE OF THE FIRE

"What is it, known or unknown to psychology, which will cause an otherwise gentle, kindly, thoughtful, sentimental, middle-aged family man to stand for hours as a silent cheering section for a fire?"

That is the intriguing question asked by a columnist in the New York Times. It is based on the assertion of the editors of the dairy of George Templeton Strong that the diarist, in common with most fire-goers, "was usually on the side of the fire." The New York Times columnist holds that "this trait of being on the side of the fire is a human one, even though it is inexplicable." That it is a common reaction many will testify from their own experience.

Does the following not sound like a true description of the feelings of many a spectator at a fire?

"While he is prevented by ethical and social forces from actually applauding as the fire finally breaks through the roof, he nevertheless has watched for its happening. He nudges a neighbor and calls attention to a wisp of smoke at the far corner of the roof, then watches as it grows larger, to be followed by a sudden burst of flame. Although he wouldn't think of admitting this to anyone, perhaps not excluding himself, he suffers a feeling of disappointment if the firemen manage to cut off that wisp at source, long before it becomes a flame. Let the full truth be told. To a complete dyed-in-the-wool connoisseur, the really good fire is one which rages out of control until there is nothing left to burn."

Is this reaction, which while not universal we suspect is commonplace, so inexplicable?

We think not. There is nothing really morbid about this love of a fire, for the fire-watcher is not thinking of the destruction which is being wrought. The fascination which holds the onlooker as the flames mount high is the same mingling of awe at an elemental force and delight in beauty which sends a man to the window to watch lightning rend the sky and to have his ears filled with the crash of close thunder. The flames have the same appeal as the wild dance of water over Niagara, as the pound of breakers on a rocky coast, as the long, mountain-high swells marching across the surface of an ocean, as the gale ripping the tree-tops into a frenzy. They speak to man of their might. The day when he wishes that all flames would be match-sized, all rains soft, all seas smooth, all winds gentle—that day a man knows he has grown old, in spirit as well as in years.

THE WILD WEST

Those who dream of the possibility of a return to the old two-party system in Canada are doing just that — dreaming. That is the conclusion to which the impartial observer will be forced by a report by The Canadian Press. With the official nomination day still four weeks away in most ridings, there are already 197 candidates in the field for 56 seats in the three westernmost provinces. Four-way contests are evidently going to be the rule, rather than the exception, in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Most of the candidates will represent one of four parties, the Liberals, Progressive Conservatives, CCF or Social Credit. Furthermore, on the basis of past results, the two "added starters," the CCF and Social Credit, could argue with considerable logic that they should not be considered the "third" or "fourth" parties in the fight in many of the ridings.

It would be interesting if there were any way of determining how the Liberals and Conservatives would fare if they were left to battle it out alone west of Manitoba. Any attempt to do so, though, would be just a wild guess.

A DOG'S LOVE

The love, loyalty and devotion of a dog towards it's friend or master passes all understanding.

Recent news reports tell of a dog that refused his food when his inseparable tom cat companion strayed permanently and of another dog that sat broken hearted by the bank of a river for days vainly waiting for his four-year old master who had disappeared beneath nearby waters.

It is difficult to conceive a human being so overcome by loss of a friend as to forgo food to the point of near starvation or to maintain a lonely graveside vigil for days and nights on end.

More than human love from less than human creatures is a wonder of God's handiwork.

Young people are criticized for wanting security. But it's not that we didn't want it in our day it's just that it never occurred to us there was such a thing. —Winnipeg Tribune.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright 1956, Edgar A. Guest)
By EDGAR A. GUEST

GOLF SEASON

Hope blossoms on the starting tee
All golfers good expect to be,
But hope's bright petals often fade
Before the second hole is played.

Before the eighteenth hole is reached
The golfing parson, who has preached
For years the straight and narrow way,
Has all too often gone astray.

Where perfect play has made a four,
The deadly eight appears once more;
And though to tell it isn't nice,
A seven spoiled his record twice.

Good golfing parson, sad it seems
To have disaster spoil your dreams.
But those who wander from the line
Will never shoot a seventy-nine.

Josephine Lays an Egg

Christian Science Monitor

Josephine, a whooping crane, has laid an egg that has her keepers at the New Orleans zoo doing a little whooping of their own. Josephine and her mate, Crip, are the only mated pair of their dwindling species in captivity, so the egg may be expected to be one of the most widely publicized since the goldleaf egg in Mother Goose.

It is perhaps ironic that Americans get excited over the world's two dozen remaining whooping cranes than they do about six hundred million Chinese, but there is a real reason for paying attention to Josephine and her kind. Those two dozen graceful birds typify the grave situation gradually being faced by all the earth's wild animals.

In a recent book, Bernhard Grzimek, director of the Frankfurt zoo, cited a score of cases in which species of wild animals that at one time unmbered in the hundreds of thousands or millions became extinct within a few years because of the greed and carelessness of hunters.

His rather grim statistics would seem to indicate that many animals will soon join the dodo, the great auk and the passenger pigeon the Sumatran rhinoceros in extinction. But the case of the whooping crane does give hope. The intense interest with which people every where have followed the fortunes of the few remaining cranes suggests well the other wild animals. It shows that, made aware of the facts, men can exercise effective to prevent needless hunting of game.

So, Josephine, take good care of that egg. It's more important than you may think.

Canada Third In TV World

Ottawa Citizen

If possession of a television set be taken as a measure of happiness, Canadians must be counted among the most contented people in the world. A survey lists Canada as third in point of receiving set ownership among the countries which are now exposed to this marvel of the ages.

Canada has about 2,200,000 TV sets. This number is exceeded only by the United States with much larger populations — the United States, with 38,200,000 and Britain, with some 6,140,000. The mighty Soviet Union shows only 1,000,000.

Europe, indeed, does not seem to have taken to television as severely by the television bug. West Germany is reported to have only 500,000 sets, Belgium about 382,000, Italy 310,000, Holland 175,000, Sweden 160,000, Germany 60,000, Denmark 34,000, Sweden 10,000, Hungary and Czechoslovakia 4,000, Spain, Poland and Eire each 2,000, and Norway 500.

Nor the pattern much different in Latin America, in lands well removed from the cold war. Cuba has 300,000 sets and Argentina with 200,000 sets and the Pacific gadget-making Japan can muster no more than 145,000 of the electronic boxes in its own homes.

Meanwhile Australia and India—which are among countries late in taking up TV—are preparing to join the ranks of the progress. Perhaps they won't be in such a hurry, though, when they hear of some of the things Dr. Edith Summerskill, a former minister of health, has been telling in the British House of Commons. Dr. Summerskill believes people are suffering from chronic ute doses of radiation given off by television sets. Some other doctors disagree, but it is thought that will no doubt add to the task of watching the animated screen.

Mother Earth Bombarded

Scientific American

On January 21 the earth, sailing through space in its orbit around the sun, ran into a great cloud of electrified particles that had been blasted out of the sun. Most of the world's population went about its day's business unaware of the event.

But in the arctic the northern lights put on a brilliant show; radar operators in northern regions saw brilliant blobs on their fluorescent screens; workers at magnetic observatories found that their delicate compasses quivered erratically for a day or two, and radio operators on both sides of the Atlantic had trouble transmitting their messages for some hours.

Collisions of the earth with clouds of corpuscles from the sun are not unusual: the average one encounter such a cloud about once a month. But they have rarely taken on the new interest because of evidence that the corpuscular clouds have an impact on our weather.

Nile Muck Started Soap

Aramco World Magazine

No one knows exactly how or where soap originated, for it has been taken for granted for so long that its evolution has been ignored and forgotten. Despite the vintage of its birth, however, its use as a popular cleanser of clothes and the body is relatively new— a matter of only a few hundred years.

The discovery that fats cooked with ashes made a water softener came early in man's existence. But it took him centuries to learn to use it as a cleaner and an even longer period to discover how it could be made cheaply and abundantly.

As with so many of man's achievements, it is believed that soap began with the Egyptians. They used a natural soda (trona) found only along the banks of the Nile and mixed it with animal and vegetable fats. This produced a jellylike mass which hardened into a pomade. It was used mostly for medicinal purposes. The secret was carried all over the known world by the seafaring Phoenicians. Seen pomade balls, perfumed and odoriferous, were known and made everywhere from Damascus to Teutonic northern Europe.

Snails for Longevity

Hamilton Spectator

A study of the Canadian census from 1851 to the present decade shows that the percentage of people over 60 has more than quadrupled. And every fifth parliamentaries inevitable attribute this splendid progress to medical science with help from welfare.

But it is the individual observations of the 19th century that themselves for longevity formulae that make the more interesting. They are alternately confusing and conflicting, patterns.

So when eight durable members of the Giraldeau family of Perpigan, France, celebrated their 70 to 93, declare the secret of life is pea soup, salt pork, cigarets and hard work, it makes pretty weighty testimony. Then they add that TV keeps them up until 11 p.m., but that reveille is still around 6 a.m.: "Lying in bed too long never did any one any good."

The Giraldeau formula doesn't appeal, there's always the recipe of Mme. Marie Toubert, of Perpignan, France, who on her 104th birthday said: "Never put water in your wine, and eat plenty of snails".

If some would rather die younger than eat snails, even if washed down with undiluted wine, here's a tip from Madeleine Suite, 102, born in Guam who only 3.6 of the population was under 21. "Don't worry about whether you can digest something you can almost be sure you won't be able to." Then she goes to bed after midnight but rises early.

From Sydney, Australia, it was heartening to hear that the world's oldest horse, Pinbah, had like his owner, Mr. Jim Auld, 74, attributed his old age to steady beer drinking. Well, that's Mr. Auld's story.

This Sounds Too Familiar

Windsor Star

There was a harsh and too familiar Germanic ring in Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's words when he said the other day that unless the West German armed forces are equipped with tactical atomic weapons it would mean the beginning of NATO and West German security against Communism.

If he assumes that his countrymen are not yet fully reconciled to the West, that could be true. But apparently this is not the principal reason why there are at present no plans to give West Germany atomic weapons. It has not been revealed that France is getting them, either.

The fact that 18 of West Germany's leading atomic scientists oppose the supplying of atomic arms to West German forces also annoys Chancellor Adenauer. But few in the West will bank heavily on the sincerity or stability of the scientists' position. German science has been one of the Reich's staunchest allies in its internecine interests.

West Germany is in the NATO alliance in its own interests as much as in the common good. It should not be raised to a position where it would be tempted to become a balance o fpower, and in a third try appear to win a bid for power it already has lost twice.

Decorative Window Boxes

Hamilton Spectator

It must be spring in the air, the appearance of buds, the freshness of the breeze, the lengthening of the days, for cloudswiftly travelling across the blue skies that make us think at this time of the year of gaily flowering window boxes and hanging flower baskets at this season, when the gardening tools are being checked in the basement, the lawn mower sharpened and the seed catalogue studied, gardeners begin to think about and decorative charms of the window box garden and the hanging flower basket.

Window box gardens give a splash of color to houses and city streets and would certainly make our city streets gayer. They enchance the charm of older houses and soften the frequently cold impersonal appearance of modern houses by proclaiming, in a way that is the envy of every other could, that "somebody lives here."

There are many precedents for hanging flower baskets on shopping thoroughfares. They are common on the Continent and in Britain, they are to be seen in Victoria, B. C. and Montreal and contrary to the views of the cynical they appear to survive the depredations of the hand of modern society, the destructive teenager.

In a world in which rigid conformity is increasing there is a definite need for individuality the wise recognize. And there is scarcely anything more beautiful and individual than flowers.

TODAY'S TALK

A DOG INTERVIEW

I am a lover of dogs. On my way to get a train I noted a little French Poodle looking out the window of a parked car. As I was a little early to catch my train, and my attention was attracted by that bright little dog, the idea of an interview came to me. And this is what occurred:

Me: Whose little dog are you? Dog: Bark, bark, bark. Me: May I see you have a beautiful collar about your neck, with an emblem that looks like a gold watch. I'll bet it was put there by someone who loves you. The Dog: Bark, bark, bark, bark! Me: You look to me as though you are kindly treated, and that you love the home from which you come. The Dog: Bark, bark, bark.

Me: Don't you think that what people call "a dog's life" isn't so bad after all. The Dog: Bark, Bark, Bark, Bark. Me: Did anyone ever tell you what an intelligent face you have, and that your eyes seem to go right to the heart of those who look at you? The Dog: Bark, Bark, Bark. Me: Did you select the home in which you now live? The Dog: Bark, Bark.

Me: Do you think the people who have given you a home, and who feed you and look after all your needs, deserve a home in the country or city? The Dog: Bark.

Me: I'm just a stranger to you, but I am going to look for you at the same place I found you today. I love you very much, and wish for you every Dog happiness! The Dog: Bark, Bark, Bark, Bark, Bark, Bark, Bark, Bark, Bark, Bark— Me: Good-bye now! I hope to talk to you again soon. The Dog: Bark! (O.K.)

Hear This, Kids—Now Is The Time To Run For Your Life

"Grandson, 4, the past winter has gone from strep sore throat to tonsil sore throat to just sore throat, so says the doctor. Now his mother has promised the doctor that as soon as the weather evens off she will have him make arrangements to hospitalize the child and remove his tonsils. She says she dreads it . . . and if Dr. Brady knows it better, she'll be happy to follow his advice.

"Please, Doctor, now that spring is here and all the poor kids that have had sore throat this past winter are fair game for you." (J.M.C.)

Fair game for tonsil snatchers, the ever-ready operators, the trick specialists, perhaps. Not for honest doctors.

Half of all children two to six years of age have repeated attacks of tonsilitis or sore throat.

The offhand application of the term "strep" to any such condition, without benefit of examination (culture, microscope) is the kind of carelessness that loses customers like — as they do the equally pretentious term "virus" for streptococcal and viral diseases occur, all right, but a doctor can't diagnose them by ear.

If this huckless little boy's history justifies the atrocity, why wait for the weather to change? Why not have him do it now, with streptococcus or other infection?

On second thought, the mother-in-law's idea of a stay of execution is fine. I heartily second the motion from all parts of the hall. And is effective for 90 days. In that time, if the little boy gets a break — gets out of gym for life without coddling — the chances are his throat and tonsils will be perfectly normal.

I appeal to parents, grandparents, uncles, aunts, big brothers, and sisters of young children who are threatened with tonsillectomy — don't surrender them to the ever-ready operators as though there were no alternative course and you were anxious to have it over with. Don't forget that tonsillectomy is a major operation with a mortality rate of its own — and your child may be the one to become a mortality statistic.

Please, young parents, give the little ones with large tonsils a break. Give the poor fresh air breaks and let 'em live for a season like wild Indians, wearing little as they and the police like.

Strength for The Day

SINS OF MIND AND SPIRIT

Bible readers have often observed that in his teachings Jesus had very little to say about the sins of the flesh. He did say that the lustful desire was equivalent to adultery and that anger could very quickly burgeon into murder. What he did say about the sins of the flesh was searching and fundamental.

But it is true that for the most part He spoke not about the sins of the flesh but about the sins of the mind and spirit. He warned men for the most part against avarice, pride, jealousy, self-righteousness, selfishness, and last of love. The appalling thing about these sins is that so often they are mistaken for virtues. The sense of energy and enterprise, admired by everyone who knows him, may be dying, spiritually, of avarice. The man who insists he is honest and speaks confidently about his devotion to righteousness may be filled with himself, and trying to hide from the world, the fact that he possesses almost no selfconsuness at all.

Guard against the sins of the spirit and mind. Often they so resemble virtues that one actually mistakes them and comes to regard them as virtues. Mushrooms and toadstools look almost identical, but the toadstool is poisonous. Likewise, the sins of the mind and spirit often look like qualities God loves to see growing in the human heart, but they are not. They are the hand of Satan to deceive and ruin us.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my friends has a housekeeper who is a jewel. She has been with the family over thirty years, and it seems to me she is more respected and held in higher affection than anybody I know.

She came out on this country from Ireland as a child in the big immigration movement around the beginning of the century. Her first job was as hired girl on a New Brunswick farm. She graduated to being cook in the combined home of some wealth and pretensions, where she picked up not only the tricks of housekeeping upstairs, but also learned walking in silks and in due time becoming so likeable a little body, the lady taught her the arts of the kitchen.

"From what I saw of men," she replied, "in Ireland and on the farm, and in that big house in Montreal, I decided as a young woman I would be a fool to limit myself up to any man."

She was ten years in the fashionable home before the blow-up call another home, the historic home were she is, to all intents and purposes, the head of the house.

"One day," she told me, "I was ill with the flu. I went and told the mistress I would have to stay in bed.

"The mistress also had the flu. She was indignant with me for wishing to stay in bed. I was to stay up and attend to her, in bed. She protested.

"'My dear young woman,' she said, 'are you suggesting that your health is more important than mine?'

"Sick as I was, I went upstairs and packed my bag. I got a friend's home for a few days. I had $600 saved up. From friends I got letters of recommendation. I got letters of recommendation. I bought a ticket for the West and came out to this city on a colonist car. Why this city? I just liked the sound of it. I went to the biggest church I could find and asked the priest to recommend a good home where I could get work. Then I picked the best looking bank, went in and got a job. Meanwhile, deposited my $600, showed him my letters of recommendation. And

'Hastings Skyway' Proposed By Reeve Holt of Stirling

Development of a "Hastings Skyway" on the rim of the Oak Hills 12 miles north of Belleville where an unbroken view extends for as much as 30 miles in almost any direction, was suggested as a tourist attraction Tuesday at Hastings county council.

Reeve James V. Holt of Stirling, chairman of the publicity committee said that such a "skyway" needed only a three-quarters of a mile stretch, of road to become a reality.

He even suggested that rental of a concession at a possible lookout might go a long way towards paying the cost of such a roadway.

The Stirling reeve made the suggestion during a verbal report of the publicity committee's activities.

Possibility of the Ontario Mayors' and Reeves' Association being invited to Belleville next year for their convention, was also suggested by the Stirling reeve who noted that information was now being gathered to learn what the cost of being host city for the gathering might be.

Warden Leslie McLaren said his understanding was the city was now obtaining information with respect to possible costs and the matter would be brought before city council.

County council yesterday voted Reeve Holt as a delegate to the upcoming association convention to be held at Chatham with the view of strengthening the city's invitation should the decision be to invite the association to Belleville next year.

MR. HAMILTON PRAISED

Reeve Holt voiced commendation of Robt. Hamilton, secretary manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce for his part in the publication of the tourist booklet "Highlands of Hastings" which had wide distribution at both the New York and Cleveland sportsmen shows.

He suggested, however, that a skeleton of the booklet be provided to the county tourist committee in late fall before going to press in order that any omissions might be noted.

Reeve Nilmott Rose of Frankford, as member of the tourist committee of Zone 2 of the Lake Ontario Development Association and delegate of the Association to the Cleveland sportsmen's show, told of the booth at the show in that city and of the many contacts made.

He explained the set-up of the Association and how the provincial government sponsored organization matched by up to $15,000, monies raised through membership fees from the participating municipalities. "Main function of the Association was to promote industry and tourist attractions," he said.

Mr. Rose noted that tourist booklets, including the "Highlands of Hastings", and road maps of the area were handed out at the Cleveland show with more than 2,000 signed cards being brought home. From these cards prospect lists would be made up and be made available to resort owners.

He suggested if tourist operators would follow up the information gathered, the tourist industry in the district could expect a greater turnover during the coming summer.

PLANE LANDS ON TRUCK

CABOOL, Mo. (AP)—Trying to land on a highway because of a heavy fog, two men set their light plane down atop a big truck that was rolling along the road Monday. William Keaton, 21, the pilot, and Ray Lee Strickland were not hurt, although their plane bounced off the truck and was demolished in a ditch. The unusual landing did little damage to the truck.

Toilet Tissue Flight Training Method Banned

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Authority has told flying instructor Everett Stanlake to stop throwing toilet tissue out of his plane on training flights.

On Sunday, Stanlake was demonstrating the turns to some students. He tossed three rolls of paper over the side, then threaded a weaving, banking course through the falling streamers.

Scores of persons, however, called the sheriff's office to report "parachutists" dropping all over the county.

Deputies told a nearby air force base, which sent up a helicopter. "Seemed like a needless waste of time and manpower," said the sheriff.

The CAA agreed, and told Stanlake to figure out some other way to dramatize his turns.

Weddings

ADAMS — GREEN

White lilies adorned the altar and white satin bows designated the guest pews in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, April 20, at 2.00 p.m. for a lovely spring wedding when Sheila Annette Green, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Howard Storms, and the late Mr. Andrew Green, became the bride of Arthur Rowland Adams, of Toronto, son of Mrs. H. Adams, and the late Mr. Adams. The Reverend E. P. Smith, assistant rector of the church, officiated.

The boys' choir rendered three lovely numbers, "Oh Perfect Love," "The Lord's Prayer," and "O Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Howard Storms, the bride was charming in her waltz-length bridal gown of slipper satin under Chantilly lace, featuring a jacket with Peter Pan collar trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. She wore a matching 'Grace Kelly' headdress studded with seed pearls and sequins, and finger-tip veil of lace and net. Her flowers were a crescent of red roses.

Miss Joyce Hannah, of Belleville, attended the bride as maid of honor, gowned in waltz-length nylon net over satin with matching headdress, and carrying a nosegay of assorted pastel-tinted 'mums.

Miss Marion Adams, of Toronto, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Geraldine Clark, of Belleville, were bridesmaids; both were gowned in powder blue net over satin with matching headdresses, and carried nosegays of pastel-tinted 'mums.

Mr. Donald Rushlow, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, and Messrs. Garry Whalen, and Harry Green, both of Belleville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the Canadian Legion hall, where the bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake. Pink streamers and wedding bells added a lovely nuptial accent.

Receiving the guests were the bride's mother, in navy and white with white accessories, and corsage of white 'mums. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in pink and black with pink accessories, and wearing a corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, the bride travelled in a mauve dress with white accessories, and white flower corsage. Upon their return, the young couple will reside in Belleville for a short while, and later in Gander, Newfoundland.

Guests attended from Toronto, Oshawa and Belleville.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was the honored guest at showers, one given by Mrs. Daisy St. Pierre, Mrs. Flossie Waite, Mrs. N. Harris, and Mrs. I. Bentley, at the home of Mrs. Lillian Rivard, and the other by girl friends, Miss Geraldine Clark, and Mrs. Jeannette Sero.

BEAULIEU — BEDORE

MARMORA — Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, was the setting on Monday, April 22nd, for a lovely double-ring wedding ceremony when Bernice Catherine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bedore, was united in marriage to George Edward Beaulieu, son of Mrs. Eugene Beaulieu, of Alban, Ontario. The Rev. W. P. Healey, P.P. officiated. The altar was decorated with Easter lilies, snapdragons and carnations.

Mrs. Hugh Brady was organist for the occasion, and also sang, "On this Day, O Beautiful Mother"; "O Sacred Heart", and "Oh God of Loveliness".

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William Bedore, the bride was charming in her waltz-length gown of lace and nylon net having a fitted bodice of lace with lily-point sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of rhinestones and she carried a white prayer book with red Sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley, and streamers of white ribbon.

Her only attendant was Miss Josephine Logan, of Marmora, who wore a strapless waltz - length dress of shrimp crystallette with matching cape and headdress of shrimp colored feathers. She also carried a nosegay of shrimp and white carnations.

Mr. Paul Beaulieu, of Blind River, attended his brother and Mr. Leo Hulsman, of Marmora, and Mr. John Beaulieu of Blind River, were ushers. Altar boys were brothers of the bridal couple, Eddie Bedore, and Gabriel Beaulieu.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the parish hall with the CWL as caterers.

The bride's mother received the guests, gowned in a blue nylon dress with navy accessories, and wore a corsage of pink Delight roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother attired in a turquoise gown with matching accessories, pink Delight rose corsage.

The bride's cake chose for the honey-moon to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N.Y., a suit of mint green linen with white hat and gloves, brown shoes and purse, and corsage of brown button 'mums. On their return they will reside in Sudbury.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a white rosary; to the best man and ushers, cuff links, and to altar boys, wallets; to the bridesmaid and flower girl, cups and saucers.

Guests were present from Toronto, St. Catharines, Alban, Owen Sound, Meaford, and Garson, Ontario.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored with two lovely showers: Mrs. Ted Bedore, her aunt, was hostess to relatives and neighbors at her home in Deloro, for a miscellaneous shower, and Mrs. James Walker was hostess to her miscellaneous shower, where the bride received many beautiful and useful gifts.

GOING SHOPPING ?

This summer, garments — dresses, suits etc — are going to be seen a great deal in a new fabric or more accurately, a new blend. It is composed of 65 percent terylene and 35 percent cotton. Great things as well as general popularity are expected of the new blend. You will find that it is called an intimate blend because the basic material is blended and then spun. It gives the appearance of combed cotton, yet possesses the "easy care" properties of teryiene; i. e. wrinkles are resisted, drying is accomplished quickly and seldom is it necessary to go to the trouble of ironing. Blend is a rather happy and descriptive word these days when used in connection with women's clothes. It used to be not so very long ago, just yesterday in fact, that utility and style waged a battle of desires on pocket books. However science is bringing utility and style into a blend that decreases, partly at least, the struggle to be in style within the limits of a budget.

Have you noticed the new plastic clothes basket? It is woven so as to resemble the old-fashioned basket and there is close similarity to the eye. In practical usefulness it is far better than the old-fashioned basket. It is light. It is strong. Fine clothes and fabrics cannot snag on the smooth plastic. It can be kept, quite easily, spotlessly clean. And it comes in various gay colors.

To say that something is in season does not always imply or guarantee anything one way or ether is so far as prices are concerned. It is satisfying to report that prices this season for green food are fairly steady. There is a fine variety — lettuce, celery etc. etc. — everything for a fine salad. Fresh vegetables look particularly appetizing and there is variety here also, with prices steady. The tender cuts in meat remain expensive, but if you watch carefully there is usually a special each week.

Early flats of plants are on market and there will be a succession of them for some time now. Perennial roots and rose prices appear to be prominently in demand.

GOOD SHOPPING

T & T has carefully abstained from too much comment re the weather. We realize our inconsistancy and possibly injustice. When the weather does not smile, we are prone to abuse and complain. In justice, and in gratitude, we join with all the thousands who have enjoyed the early spring sunshine with warm night rain.

It does seem that the eternal process of dimnoving one hundred percent perfectionism is always present. We heard this week that the early warmth brought out the leaves on forsythia shrubs before the yellow flowers. It is predicted that there maybe a scarcity of forsythia color this season. Everyone we know who is interested in gardens is keeping his or her fingers crossed that such things as strawberry blossoms — already out — will continue to find the weatherman striving for a perfect spring from now on. Even skepticism cannot defeat wishful thinking.

T & T thanks Mr. O. P. Khosla of the Information Service of India for the following information. We enquired about a competition held in India in which Canadians take considerable interest. The annual competition for children in "drawing of pictures and writing of articles" was started by Children's Weekly (New Delhi) in 1949. It became international in character by the next year. Since then the number of entries received every year and the number of countries participating has been steadily increasing. For the 1956 competition, 40,000 entries were received from 60 countries. Of these 37,000 were drawings and paintings and 3,000 writings. In all 320 prizes have been awarded this year — 200 for drawing and painting and 40 for writing. The President's Gold Medal for best painting was awarded to Judy Laiken of 2990 Linton Avenue, Montreal, P. Q., and the Vice President's Gold Medal for best literary entry was awarded to Marita Lapien of Australia. All the first prizes (about 20 in all) are donated by Prime Minister Nehru and are called the Prime Minister's Prizes. Two of these were awarded to Canadians — Donna MacLean of Regina and Jena Howard of 342 Kingston Ave., Montreal. Canada won 23 prizes in all for drawing and painting.

In a personal note Mr. Khosla expressed regret that no one from Belleville has won an award, but added that we have the consolation to know that Annabel Cohen, 26 MacDonnel Street in Kingston, won Merit Award.

We thank Mr. Khosla. He and his office have been very courteous and helpful. Talking about a rising cost-of-living index and prices going up and up and up, is affecting us from every direction, even when we compliment. It used to be the dreamy and wistful thing to say "Oh, if only I had a million dollars." There is up. Now we say, or so we're told. "Oh, if only I had ten million dollars."

Two One-Act Plays Presented At Coronation Club

The Coronation Club of Bridge Street United Church was privileged to witness two one-act plays at its monthly meeting held Monday evening. The Bridge Street Young People's Union portrayed the comedy "Blue and Shine" and Sophiasburg Young People's Union enacted the hilarious play, "Are We Dressing?"

At both plays were so well done it was a difficult task for the adjudicator, Miss Mary Cuthbertson, to pick a winner. However, Bridge Street Young People's Union were victorious in winning the trophy presented by the Coronation Bakery.

The audience was also favored with two accordion solos by Carl Gilbert of Sophiasburg.

The Coronation Club retired to the ladies parlors for a brief business meeting. The president, Sylvia Cronk, announced the "Spring Tea" to be held by the W.A. at the parsonage later this month. Volunteers were also asked to assist at the V.O.N. tea.

The social hour was convened by Jane McCabe. Refreshments were served by Helen Savage, Norma Arendson, Bea Williamson and Delores Cunningham.

Volunteer Firemen Sponsor Dance Recital

For the calibre of the dance recital sponsored by the Volunteer Firemen's Association in the Lions hall, Deseronto, the attendance was disappointing last Wednesday night. Those who did attend saw a show which could not be equalled in eastern Ontario, and Ontario as a whole, and one which would put many TV shows to shame.

The recital was presented by the Barbara Diment School of Dance from Belleville and from the beginning to the end was a pleasure to see and hear.

Opening the show was the "Kiddies Kabaret" with Janice Ronsby, Dianne McCallum, Jackie Cook, Iris Lohns, Shirley Chisholm, Bobby Brant, Paddy Whalen, Francis Rose, Steven Boyle, Wayne Campbell. This was a tickling, tapping number that brought the spectators in full attention. The sword dance followed, by Barbara Woodcock, which was superbly done. A song and dance by Gail Juby was most enjoyable. The "Three Little Dolls," starring Patty Whelan, Mary Elizabeth Young and Heather Warder Wright brought the house down as the oldest of the three was only seven, and this was their first year performing.

NOVELTY NUMBER

A novelty number, "Black Out" with the crowd speechless and topped any single act seen on local television shows. A group number, "Hong Kong Kapers" was a treat to behold and the "Dunga Tap" by Susan Blanchard and Mary Lou Wrenshall was exceptionally good. The "Acrobatic Tap" by Iris Lohns held the crowd enthralled, and in "Let's Go Steady," two youthful performers presented an extremely cute routine. "Tap Baton," by Judy Wainright in which she twirled the baton while tap dancing, was delightful.

Then followed in rapid succession a two-part presentation, "Dance Parade" and "Honeymoon Express," by a large group; it's starring Ralph Wood, Nancy May and Mary Lou Chisholm; "Cowgirl" with Donna Morrison; "Dutchee Dolls," with Gail Juby taking the solo part; "Toe Ballet" with Gail Hendricks; "A Swing Tap" by Brenda Archer; "Acrobatics" by Iris Lohns and Jackie Shrubs, perennial roots are roses appear to be prominently in demand.

"Toppertette" by Heather Scott; "Toe Jazz" by Paddy Jenkinson; "Baton Twirling" by Susan Blanchard, and the finale by Wayne Campbell, Francis Rose, Paddy Whalen, Steven Boyle, Bobby Brant.

A complete show so superb that to pick an individual star would be impossible. It was an opportunity for the townspeople to see something that will never be repeated in Deseronto.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DO YOUR STANDARDS REALLY MEAN ANYTHING?

It's very commendable thing to have high standards, but it's even more commendable thing to stick by them.

If you've made up your mind that some specific course of conduct is the one that squares with those standards, then it's not only right, but sound good sense to follow that course. For, oddly enough, perhaps, to insist on doing right, as you know it, very frequently pays off in the end, while to cross yourself up on your principles all too often leads you in trouble instead of in the happiness you thought you were headed for.

A young woman who is apparently not sure whether holding to her standards will bring her happiness or trouble has written me that a young man with whom she has been going out for some time suddenly surprised her by suggesting that she have an affair with him.

"I told him off," she says, "and then he told me he wouldn't see me for three weeks in order to give me a chance to think things over. I said I wasn't at all sure that I ever wanted to go with him again, and his reply to that was that I was just too unsophisticated to know anything about life and that I'd be more attractive if I grew up a little.

"I didn't know what to say to that, so I just told him I thought he'd better take me home, and he did. He didn't come in for coffee, as he usually does when he's come home from a date, but just left me at the door and walked away without kissing me goodbye.

"Well, at this point I may say that I agree with the young man that the young woman is too naive. If she had been more sophisticated, she would simply have laughed it into her house, and shut the door firmly on such a fellow as this forever.

"Unfortunately, because of her lack of sophistication, the boy friend's remarks evidently shook her faith in those high standards of hers and made her wonder if perhaps she shouldn't become more 'sophisticated,' as he interpreted the word. So, after thinking things over for a few days, she took the initiative and got in touch with him again.

"I wrote him a letter, telling him that I was sorry for the way I had talked to him," she says. "But I told him it was his own fault; that he had brought it on himself."

To this letter, which she sent ten days ago, she has so far received no reply. But she has heard that the young man has been asking about her through friends. Hers, then, letting it get back to her that he is still interested. Obviously, this is a young man who plays it smart, as all this has only served to make her more anxious to win his attention again, as, of course, he intended it should.

She ends her letter this way:

"I would very much like to go out with this fellow again, but I don't want him to realize that I really care for him or to think that I'm running after him, so what should I do?"

Naturally, there is only one thing for her to do, unless she has lost all interest in her original standards. That is to hold to her first reaction on the young man's proposition. It's regrettable that she let him, see she is wavering, by writing to him even though he has made no move toward apologizing for his behavior. For if she encourages him to come back now, he is playing right into his hands by giving him every reason to believe that she has reconsidered that first commendable "No."

Is that what she really wants him to believe?

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

WHAT'S NEW IS "SPECS"!

Mme. Schlaparelli's latest conceit in sunglasses—"awnings" to keep out the glare.

Eyeglasses are going spectacular this year, with the latest styles in women's frames taking on the function of a hair decoration or replacing a hat for evening wear. That is the advice from a mid-western optical firm which recently displayed some of the most sensational "specs" ever seen.

You don't believe that an eyeglass frame could replace a hat? Well, lady, then you haven't seen the one from which exotic fish, formed of gold filigree and multi-color rhinestones "swim up" from the frame right into the hair, making a truly spectacular hair ornament. And you haven't seen those which sport hand-carved white ivory "dido" birds swinging away from one temple on a rose-colored frame, with carved ivory foliage climbing the other side of the head. More attractive than any evening hat you ever saw.

"Cleopatra" frames feature a symbolic asp in red and black rhinestones running from the end of the frame, along the sides, pieces and right into the hair. These are also for evening wear. Even music lovers are remembered in the eyeglass "spectaculars". For the opera-goer, there's a pair called the "Musical Note". The frame, of satin bronze, is stylized gold staffset with amber "notes" along one temple, with the other side of the frame left plain. The decorated temple can be put on either side to set off a woman's "best" profile. Another "Musical Note" for the opera-goer features a gold filigree staff with clef sign and notes done in rhinestones. This one's a mere $250 but, my dear, such chic!

New, too, are sculptured frames which match the textured loom of bas relief, with the fine gold beading of a Persian tapestry. For the June bride this optical firm suggests eyeglasses to complement the bridal gown. These have the pearl while plastic frame, daintily set with gold studs and multi-colored marcasite.

Even sun glasses have gone spectacular. Trickiest of all, we thought, was a Schiaparelli number which featured striped "awnings" to keep out glare. You'll be seeing all these and plenty like them in the months to come.

Readers' Bonus Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: Many thanks for your wonderful column . . . last Fall I made your Society Chip Pickles and they were lovely. They went so quickly that I bought more cucumbers at Christmas and made another batch and thought they were worth the price I had to pay for out of season cucumbers . . . wondering if I could successfully do them up with tiny onions and, or cauliflower? Could you possibly tell me what is wrong with my meringue? It stays lovely and high and doesn't shrink from the crust but a liquid always seeps through and makes the pie crust soggy . . . you mentioned a fried oyster sandwich . . . would you tell me how to make it? . . . Irene T.

Answer: I haven't tried the Society Chip Pickles with onions and cauliflower but would suggest this: Pour boiling water over prepared onions and cauliflowerets, let stand 5 minutes, drain, then proceed the same as for cucumbers. If you do it do let me know if it is successful.

The method for making meringue which follows is the result of research work by a team of home economists.

Meringue (for 9-inch pie) Three egg whites from medium-large eggs, 6 level tablespoons sugar. Beat egg whites before adding sugar until they are glossy and remain in bowl when it is inverted (What if they fall out!? Just be sure you beat them long enough!) Fold, do not beat, in sugar gradually. Apply to filling in pie by sealing to crust all round edge, working from centre out. Bake at 350 deg. F. 15 minutes. This never "weeps" or soaks the crust for me.

I had to guess in a big way when I made this for it was weeks after I had tasted it in Halifax. Fried Oyster Sandwiches: Toast white bread golden but not crisp. Spread with butter to which a little lemon juice has been added. On 1 slice place 6 or 8 fried oysters (see below) — the number depending on their size. Sprinkle with salt and freshly ground pepper. Cover with top slice. Cut in halves crosswise not diagonally. All ingredients must be piping hot. Garnish plate with cress and lemon wedge. To fry Oysters drain them well and gently saute in butter, until edges curl and they are hot — no longer. I would be grateful if any Haligonians in our audience would correct me on this.

Question: . . . please print recipe for Braised Short Ribs . . . Mrs. Jo. G.

Answer: Braised Short Ribs two and one-half lbs. short ribs of beef cut into 2-inch squares are dredged in mixture of 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, then browned in hot frying pan in 2 tablespoons fat on all sides. Transfer to deep baking dish and add ½ cup each diced carrot, onion, celery and turnip. Rinse out frying pan with 2 cups boiling water and add that. Cover tightly and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 3½ hours. Serves 6 to 8.

Club 40 Holds Inspection Night Of Junior Crafts

Club 40 held a most successful evening April 24th at the Orange Hall, Church street, where all crafts were on display and with nearly 100 children participating.

The evening's entertainment got under way with Mr. A. E. Anderson acting as master of ceremonies, many Christian songs were presented both vocally and instrumentally by Mr. W. Taylor, Dave Lowe, George Sweetnam, Roy Anderson, R. Anderson with Alice Mc Micken participating in one of the songs.

At the conclusion of this part of the entertainment, several old time songs were sung along with Carol Brown giving a fine display in acrobatics. Mr. R. Anderson and son Bob, gave a beautiful duet on piano and violin.

Mr. Howard Ackerman, chairman of the Crafts, was introduced by Mr. Anderson, thanking all who had made the evening such a huge success, calling first on Miss K. Homan of the City of Belleville Recreational Committee, who read to inspect the children's work prior to the final judging to be held at Centre street United Church, Hillcrest.

While Miss K. Homan was judging the crafts, Miss H. Ackerman was called upon to make a few remarks. She spoke chiefly to the parents and friends, of the many enjoyable hours she had spent with the children, and the many to come, and wishing their parents and them all success in the coming years.

On Miss K. Homan's completion of inspection, she chose the embroidery work on which first to comment, pointing out what improvements might be made with the exhibition of Mary Ann Curtain's fine showing, also for those of Joan Reddick, Jean St. Dennis.

On the copper work, Miss Homan stated that it would be a hard job to judge the 30 or more pieces which she stated were the finest pieces of copper work she had ever seen. One piece in particular, a Liberty Bell of America, which was encased in a lens and beautifully bound was done by Ron McCoy.

At the conclusion of the evening program refreshments were served by the ladies of Senior Club 40, with plenty of chocolate milk.

An Easter egg hunt was fun for all, which brought the evening to a close.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP

It's easy to be polite in an easy situation. But we show the real pattern of our politeness when we are polite in a difficult situation.

SHE WANTS TO OMIT BRIDESMAIDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to have a fairly formal church wedding soon. I'd like to have my only sister as my matron of honor, and her twin daughters, aged seven, as the flower girls. I'd rather not have any bridesmaids because, if I do, I'll have to invite the two sisters of my fiance (his mother has been trying to promote this idea to my mother and some of my friends, so they will convince me, but his plan, for many reasons, would not be at all to my liking). Would it be too unconventional for me not to have any bridesmaids?

— Bride-to-be

No, not at all. Today there are many brides who choose to have in their bridal party only an honor attendant and one or two children (sometimes one flower girl, sometimes two, very often one or two flower girls and a page). Your proposed plan would be: first, the ushers, two by two; next, the matron of honor, alone; next, the two flower girls, together; last, you and your father, or whoever is to escort you up the aisle.

WATCH HOW TO SAY "CHAISE LONGUE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one is speaking of a chaise longue, isn't it really incorrect to call it a "chaise"? One hears this so very often that I'm wondering if this short-cut is now accepted. — F.H.

It is not correct to refer to a chaise longue as a chaise, Chaise longue means a "long chair," and chaise means "chair" . . . very different. (And another mix-up one hears about this word is that longue is frequently mis-pronounced "lounge.")

AGE USUALLY NO' GIVEN IN OBITUARY NOTICE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it true that nowadays in the obituary notice the age of the deceased is usually not given?

— W.B.

Yes, it is true that the age is usually not given, except in the case of a child. However, when there is a news story about the death, the age of the deceased is very often mentioned.

CALL THE WAITRESS "WAITRESS" . . . NOT "MISS"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When you want to call the attention of your waitress in a restaurant, should you say "Waitress" or (as we so often hear) "Miss"?

— A and R

"Waitress" is the word to use.

Mrs. G. Weese Chosen Head of Melrose W.I.

The annual meeting of the Melrose Women's Institute was held April 25th at the home of Mrs. Roy McLean.

The president, Mrs. C. Weese opened the meeting in the usual manner and welcomed all members and visitors and thanked the hostess for her hospitality. She also expressed her thanks for the cooperation during the year.

Special features to recommend to other Institutes included conservation done in their district, 4 H clubs and historical research.

The secretary read the financial statement showing a gratifying balance, followed by the auditor's report. The president conveyed thanks to the press reporter and it was moved that expenses of same be paid. Yearly reports of conveners were given also of special committees.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The nominating committee presented the slate of officers, and Mrs. A. English conducted the installation and the following were elected: president — Mrs. G. Weese; 1st vice-president — Mrs. E. Pascoe Jr.; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. C. Bates Jr.; secretary-treasurer— Mrs. T. Howard; district director — Mrs. J. Lazier; alternate — Mrs. A. English; press reporter — Mrs. Roy Badgley; pianists — Mrs. L. Weese and Mrs. F. Robinson; auditors — Mrs. R. McLaren and Mrs. M. Lazier. Agriculture and Canadian Industries — Mrs. V. Pascoe; citizenship and education — Mrs. G. Stratton; historical research and community service, opening with home economics and health — Mrs. McLaren; resolutions — Mrs. R. Badgley; card committee — Mrs. J. McFarlane, Mrs. J. Millagan, and Mrs. E. Whiteman.

A vote of thanks was moved to the retiring secretary, Mrs. Frank Bush.

Correspondence was read with special mention of a lecture on 'Mental Health' on May 21st. Plans were made for district annual to be held at Melrose, and a committee appointed.

Mrs. J. McLaren, convener for home economics and health, prepared the program, opening with a poem "Health" followed by a reading, "Doctor." She said to have faith in your doctor. Your body was the greatest of machines, treat it better than your car.

Mrs. J. English gave a timely poem, "Calling the Doctor." Mrs. K. McMechan read, "Spare Parts For Human Bodies," which explained the advance in medicine and surgery. Mrs. L. McLaren gave an interesting reading followed by a poem, the "Gardener's Itch," by Mrs. E. Pascoe Jr., the Institute was favored with a piano solo by Mrs. F. Robinson.

Mrs. McLaren spoke on two more impressive subjects, "Food for Thought," and "New Weapons on Heart Disease." The main theme of the latter was to slow down. Two selections from Edgar Guest were read by Mrs. E. Badgley and Mrs. M. Lazier.

The convener thanked those who took part and the roll call was answered by the "payment of fees."

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

The blouson with its drawstring waist is now an accepted member of the blouse family. Ready for spring is this one, fabric white pique, crisp and fresh. Velvet ribbon is run through the neck and waist and ties in bows. Cotton lace banding and ruffles complete the pretty picture. Perennial favorite is the cashmere sweater and it appears in so many guises these days. This one, in a delicious hue, to match a skirt of satin that is available, has a blond mink collar. The fur collar is detachable so that the sweater can be worn with a matching wool skirt. Fine for cocktail evenings, over semi-formal dresses.

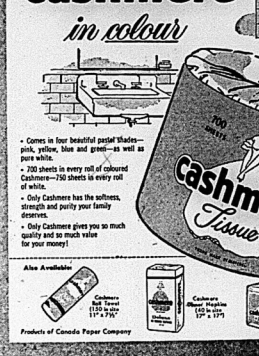
Increased Costs May Curtail VON Services

TORONTO (CP)—Delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario section of the Victorian Order of Nurses said Monday increasing administrative costs may necessitate a charge for services greater than the average patient could afford.

A panel under the chairmanship of Mrs. H. J. Hugh of Woodstock recommended to the meeting that provincial and municipal authorities be asked to increase their grants because the average patient, particularly the aged and chronically ill, would be unable to pay the fee for services.

At present the cost per visit varies from $1.75 $2.75 in the different branches. The indigent get the service free, but the cost must be made up from charity grants or provincial grants.

The provincial grant now is given in a lump sum, but the VON hopes that a grant may be given on a basis of a percentage of the cost per visit.



The VON says indigent patients are the responsibility of the public and the province should pay the cost.

Miss H. K. MacKay, district director of nurses for Hamilton, reported that 546,772 visits were made to patients in Ontario in 1956 and the service would need to expand rapidly.

The 61 branches of the order in Ontario were represented at the meeting and the members they elected to the board of management included Treasurer T. E. McKay, Peterborough.

Those elected to the board of directors included: G. Dickson, St. Catharines; Mrs. H. Ransom, Ottawa; Miss Cecilia Quist, Fort William; Mrs. M. Laurie, Barrie; Mrs. H. Robertson, Carleton Place; C. Balfour, Brockville; Mrs. H. Hugh, Woodstock; and H. Walton, Welland.

Miss Mary Ferguson of Ottawa was elected to represent Ontario on the VON Canada.

When asked why the ointment was not sold and given to the poor, Jesus said "This shall be a memorial to her. She hath done what she could."

He also spoke of Jesus being betrayed. One of His disciples had betrayed Him, others had denied and deserted Him.

Mrs. Charlie Treverton gave a reading, "The Sepulchre." There were 16 adults and two children present.

After the meeting closed a social hour was spent.

RCN DEVELOPS HYDRAFOIL CRAFT FOR HIGH-SPEED RESCUES

Undergoing tests now off the Isle of Wight, the experimental hydrafoil craft, Bras d'Or, as illustrated, lifts itself out of the water and skims the surface. The ship, named after the famous Cape Breton Island lakes where Alexander Graham Bell and Casey Baldwin investigated hydrafoil principle early in the century, was built by the RCN and the Defence Research Board. She is of aluminum construction, weights 15 1-2 tons and is 59 feet long. At 20 knots the hydrafoils, V-shaped blades attached to the hull, cause the ship to rise completely out of the water. The design is being investigated to produce high-speed rescue and fighting craft. She is to be shipped to Halifax for further trials.

Election Campaign

Diefenbaker Says Govt. Frightened By PC Strength

NEW GLASGOW, N.S. (CP)—John Diefenbaker says the federal Liberal government is rediscovering the Maritime Provinces in an election year because it is frightened by Progressive Conservative provincial election successes in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

The Conservative leader dwelt on that theme in speeches Tuesday, here and at Antigonish, as he launched a three-day tour of eastern Nova Scotia.

The speeches opened up three new topics on which he had not spoken previously during his national campaign which began last Thursday:

1. The recent federal proposals to build coal-derived thermal power generating stations in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. He said the Liberals have just started talking about that. John Cabot found Nova Scotia in 1498. "The Liberals didn't find Nova Scotia until 1957."

2. A proposal to expand the present old age pension system by addition of a retirement insurance plan similar to that of the United States.

3. The issue of the conduct of Speaker Rene Beaudoin during last year's stormy Commons pipeline debate.

Nova Scotia's Conservative premier Robert L. Stanfield joined Mr. Diefenbaker at Tuesday night's meeting here and gave him a firm endorsement.

Earlier, Mr. Diefenbaker moves to Truro for a night speech in Colchester-Hants.

It raised the both of Tuesday's meetings but about 300 persons turned out at an Antigonish theatre in the afternoon and another 700 attended the night meeting in the high school auditorium at this town of 10,000.

Premier Stanfield, speaking on the power proposal, said it is obvious the federal government is not yet prepared to say how much federally produced power will cost. The province couldn't talk business on that basis.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a Conservative government at Ottawa would pay a subvention on Maritime coal used for power.

PENSION PROPOSAL

Mr. Diefenbaker said a Conservative government would consider supplementing an old age pension plan like that in the United States "in addition to" the present old age pensions.

The United States plan provided average monthly benefits on retirement of $76 for single workers, $128 for married couples without dependents and $65 for aged widows. Average annual contribution per person was $27.08—not much more than the average $22.70 a year paid by Canadians for the old age pension.

Mr. Diefenbaker referred only briefly in both speeches to the issue of the Commons Speaker's conduct.

Prime Minister Given Ovation At Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP) — An unidentified heckler stirred Prime Minister St. Laurent to express impassioned support of minority groups as he appealed to this Social Credit province to turn Liberal and share in the job of leading a strong, free Canada into "even greater days."

The incident occurred Tuesday night where some 1,500 persons filled a hall to give the Liberal leader two standing ovations.

Mr. St. Laurent plunged into his vote-appeal, recounting what the Liberals had done for Canadians, including Eskimos and Indians, a voice from the audience demanded:

"Why haven't you done more?"

"We have been doing more than had been done ever before," replied Mr. St. Laurent, his face flushed and his voice rising. The introduction of new hygiene methods had helped treat the natives as "human beings."

FROM MINORITY STOCK

He recalled that he himself had come from minority stock—Irish and French. But that did not deter his choice as prime minister.

It had demonstrated, said Mr. St. Laurent, drowning out the heckler's voice, that race, religion or language provided no impediment to those who aspire to Canada's highest office. Most Canadians carried their citizenship with greater pride than did those of any other country.

The heckling ended and the prime minister continued with his argument that though the Liberal had a strong majority in the last Parliament and had a "great record," they could do even better if they had Alberta's support.

Of Alberta's 17 federal seats, Social Credit holds 11, the Liberals four and the Progressive Conservatives four.

A small crowd of about 150 greeted the prime minister on his arrival here.

"UNCLE LOUIE"

Later, after a two-day trip to nearby St. Albert, Mr. St. Laurent got a big ovation from some 5,000 persons when he officiated at the opening of the Edmonton Indoor Rodeo. He was introduced as "Uncle Louie."

At St. Albert, eight miles from Edmonton, he waved some 500 schoolchildren who had waited for him in the sun.

In his main evening address, Mr. St. Laurent made these points:

1. Canada's productivity would increase and the government would share the benefits of these increases with all fellow citizens.

2. He was "hopeful" that a 400-mile rail line could become feasible to connect Grimshaw in Alberta's north to the south shore of Great Slave Lake. The proposal is under CNR study.

3. Canada needs more people. Immigration was important.

Ducks Changed By Injections Of Gene Material

PARS (AP)—Young ducks have been radically changed in inherited characteristics by injection of gene material from other ducks, a distinguished French biologist reported Tuesday.

Whether they will transmit these new characteristics to their offspring is not yet known.

The achievement could lead to "far reaching" effects on human beings and human heredity, said Prof. Jacques Benoit of the College de France.

Human heredity might some day be changed to produce better characteristics, or get rid of bad or unwanted ones, or increase disease resistance.

Not Strong Enough

NEW YORK (AP)—There isn't enough evidence to claim that cigarets cause lung cancer, Dr. Clarence C. Little, chairman of the scientific advisory board of the Tobacco Industry research committee, said Tuesday.

He issued a statement replying to a report released March 22 by a study group on smoking and health organized by the American Cancer Society and other agencies.

The study group expressed the opinion cigaret smoking is a "causative factor" in human lung cancer.

Dr. Little said the scientific advisory board "questions the existence of sufficient definitive evidence to establish the cause and effect explanation of the complex problems of lung cancer."

Reserve Judgment

KITCHENER (CP), — The Ontario municipal board reserved judgment Tuesday in the City of Waterloo's application to annex 1,200 acres of Waterloo Township land northeast of the city.

At the outset of the three-hour hearing it appeared the township objected strongly to the annexation. But after the finish, A. W. Boos, township solicitor, said the township has no objection to the annexation "because of new evidence produced" and provided the city has satisfied the board it has a real need for the land.

SUEZ CLOSING CONFIRMED

Canada Threatened With One-Party State Claim Made by PC Leader

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker says that should the Liberals be re-elected in the June 10 federal election, there would be "a very real threat that Canada would become a one-party state."

And, he added in a television broadcast Tuesday night: "At no time anywhere, in any country, has democracy survived under a one-party system."

Prime Minister St. Laurent, meantime, said in a French radio broadcast that the Liberal party's success in retaining office can be explained only by its "attachment to a social philosophy which satisfies the majority of Canadians."

The party's philosophy was based on principles which Sir Wilfrid Laurier once said "are as old as the world"—that always exist somewhere in human affairs there were abuses to be corrected, new horizons to be explored and new forces to be developed.

Th 75-year-old Liberal leader moved Ottawa's thermometer a grandfatherly fashion Tuesday while Mr. Diefenbaker, fighting mood opened a three-day campaign in eastern Nova Scotia.

Mr. St. Laurent appealed to Albertans at a night meeting to vote Liberal June 10 to help with a vast building an unlimited future for Canada.

Solon Low's 15 Social Credit members in the last Parliament included 11 from Alberta while campaigning.

Veteran Newsman Of Port Arthur Dies in Hospital

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Oliver Frank Young, 76, an active newspaper man for more than half a century, died in hospital Tuesday.

Editor of the Port Arthur News-Chronicle since 1930, he would have marked his 50th anniversary with the paper next October.

Mr. Young suffered a heart attack about a year ago. He was advised to take a long rest but was soon back at his post. Two weeks ago he was not feeling well and returned to hospital for a check-up. He was believed on the road to recovery when he suffered a relapse.

Born in Bruce County, Ont., Mr. Young got his start in newspaper experience as a cub reporter on the news in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., then published by Frank Knox, later publisher of the Chicago Times.

He was married twice. In 1907 at Sault Ste. Marie, he married Eva Jessie Turner. Following her death here he married Laura Dennis at Port Arthur.

He joined the Port Arthur News in 1907 and continued with that paper until its amalgamation with the Chronicle in 1916. He became city editor and on the death of F. B. Allen in 1930 was appointed editor.

He was keenly interested in sport and at one time was an active baseball player. He was particularly proud of his membership in the New York Central Railroad officials baseball team which won the Vanderbilt Cup.

Surviving are his widow and two sons, Gavin and Howard, both Port Arthur lawyers.

RAILWAY STRIKE

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — About 200 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen went on strikes at the New York Central freight yards here Monday. Spokesmen for local 1468 said the walkout was unauthorized. Railroad officials said five freight trains and the westbound Empire State express passenger train would be delayed until supervisory personnel could be organized.

Isachsen Is Satellite Weather Station on Lip of Arctic Ocean And at Outpost Cook Is King

ISACHSEN, N.W.T. (CP)—The cook is king in this tiny outpost on the lip of the Arctic ocean. The work is cook but profitable.

Isachsen is a satellite weather station, one of five operated jointly by the Canadian and United States governments in the Arctic Islands.

Its eight-man staff—half Canadian with a Canadian in charge—feeds weather observations daily by radio to Resolute Bay, 315 miles to the southwest and 1,780 miles north of Winnipeg.

WIND DISTRIBUTION

That information, plus that from such northern points as Cambridge Bay, Frobisher Bay, Yellowknife and more remote stations, is passed on to Canada and the United States and many other countries including Russia.

Isachsen consists of about seven main prefabricated structures. Its busiest event of the year is the annual resupply airlift which has been conducted by 426 transport squadron from Toronto. More than 1,000,000 pounds of materials to last the next 12 months have been toted in four satellites.

Bob Frank of Bridgewater, N.S., in his 20s like many of the satellite personnel, is the man in charge. He explained some of the events in the daily routine while a stiff breeze intensified a 30-degree below - zero temperature outside the cosy kitchen-living room to the point where 15 minutes in the open was hard to take.

Staff is broken down into four upper air men, two radio operators, cook and mechanic and shifts operate 12 hours.

The Canadians are assigned for two years, mostly on a contract basis which provides about $7,000 gross annually. That's the attraction for most men, particularly married ones, although some like single life.

BUSY WITH CHORES

A host of housekeeping chores are required to keep alive in a country where working efficiency is curtailed by the cold and the bulky clothes it dictates. An air strip must be kept open in winter by tractors which run 24 hours a day to avoid starting trouble.

Hydrogen or helium weather balloons released twice daily radio back information on temperature, humidity, pressure and winds at a height as far as 12 miles. Surface records are kept.

Isachsen receives about one inch of rain during the summer and a scant eight inches of snow annually, but winds pile up drifts against any obstruction.

Red-headed Clarence Swasey of Minneapolis, a gaunt, drawling cook, serves up both sustenance and recreation in the form of food. Weather office officials say flatly the cook is the important man on the satellite.

Mr. Swasey gets supplies in the spring, some in a smaller fall airlift and from a Christmas drop. Its has fresh fruit and vegetables four months, a year, fresh meat kept in a permafrost frigidaire all the year round, fresh butter, varieties of canned foods and jams and sauces.

JUST LIKE HOME

He serves steaks, roasts, chicken, ham and bacon, home-made bread and ice-cream, apple pie and steaming coffee by the big potful for chilled workers.

Each station receives mail periodically, has a hi-fi set with records, a library and an opportunity to chat periodically via ham radio with the folks back home.

There is no beer or liquor kept on the satellite although it isn't banned. The men sleep in small, separate cubicles.

Canadians with Mr. Frank include Dave Wright of Toronto, who will relieve him shortly, Dour Christian, Toronto and Ken MacTaggart, Vancouver, Frank Spencer, radio ham, is from Dublin.

Arctic weather men say that Russia has at least as many polar weather stations—and has had for some time—as Canada has in its most populated regions.

Isachsen was built in 1947 when the joint Canadian-U.S. system was started in the eastern Arctic. Another near it as a new camp is scheduled for the same site.

Actress Claims Company Used Obscene Pictures

NEW YORK (AP) — Arlene Dahl, shapely film star, complained Tuesday that the promotion pictures for her latest film were just too much for any lady-like actress to take.

"I would not strip nude," she told State Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg. "I couldn't do that. My modesty would not permit it. I could not think of doing that."

The actress, clad in a demure grey suit, testified at trial opened of her $1,000,000 damage suit against Columbia Pictures Corporation.

She contends advertising pictures used by the company to promote the movie, Wicked as They Come, were "obscene, degrading and offensive."

Miss Dahl said the promotion pictures had her face all right, but somebody had grafted it onto exceedingly undraped female forms. She never posed for the pictures, she said.

A private showing of the film today was arranged for the judge.

Carp Fishermen Want Subsidy

PORT ROWAN, Ont. (CP)—Carp fishermen along the north shore on Lake Erie, victims of a market slump, are planning to ask the Ontario government for a subsidy.

Leon Scharm, head of the Port Rowan Fishermen's Co-operative, says a meeting will be held next week to discuss an approach to the provincial government.

The price for carp now is two cents a pound and fishermen feel it should be at least five cents. They argue that by removing tons of carp from Ontario waters they are perhaps doing as much as the government toward protecting game fish.

"We think that the government should in the first place abolish the $90 licence fee and then subsidize the carp catch," says fisherman John Lewis, who operates out of nearby Turkey Point.

At the appreciation draw which takes place weekly, (Saturday), Mrs. Harry Lush, McGowan St., missed out when it was unfortunate that she wasn't present when her ticket was pulled. The next one to be drawn was for Mrs. Wm. Rogers, Mary Street, with a 10 per cent ticket on a "kitty" of $288., so she was richer by $28.80. The sad thing about these draws is for the "who" who has changed the rules and are now giving only voucher slips so consequently the ones who were fortunate enough to be drawn earlier are more lucky because now there is no money involved and the shopping with the 5 cent bit of cash or voucher is done in Tweed. This is not as acceptable to the public according to all reports.

The first shots are for diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus, and consist of four shots, followed by booster shots at regular intervals. Polio shots are also given after a baby is six months old, and a vaccination for small pox included before the infant is a year old.

Trout Season Opened Under Ideal Conditions

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario trout season opened today with clear skies and sunny weather forecast throughout the province.

Lakes are free of ice as far north as North Bay, the fish and wildlife branch of the department of lands and forests reports. North of that area, it is believed some lakes may still be ice-covered.

The rush for the lakes and rivers by fishermen coincides with the opening of the baseball season here, but the Toronto Anglers' and Hunters' Association reports that tackle stores in the city are still experiencing a last minute rush for fishing equipment.

MAY SET RECORD

If good weather prevails throughout the season, it is expected that the number of fishing licences might set an all-time record this year.

The lands and forests department says the number of non-resident licences sold is increasing. Although 1956 figures are not available, it is expected they will be higher than the 377,200 licences sold in 1955.

Speckled trout, the fish most sought after, will have a rough time outwitting the many tackles as they bob and weave in the water. But brown trout, Aurora trout, Kamloops trout, maananiche or Atlantic salmon, rainbow trout and the splake, hybrid or speckled lake trout, will also prove ready victims.

The season for perch—the fish found almost anywhere in Ontario—is expected to be in full swing in the next few weeks. These fish average between four to 10 inches and may even exceed a pound in the deep waters of the Great Lakes.

Castellani Gets Nod Over Benson

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Rocky Castellani got up off the floor to score a unanimous decision over Felix (Choo - Choo) Benson, of Philadelphia, in a middleweight bout Tuesday night.

Benson was a late substitute for Ernie Durando who failed to show up for the fight. There was no immediate explanation for Durando's absence and the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission will investigate.

The fight was delayed an hour until Benson could make an appearance. Choo-Choo started off strong, winning three of the first four rounds and flooring Castellani with two rights to the head in the fifth.

Castellani came back willingly and dropped Benson with a right for a short count in the ninth.

Castellani weighed 157½ and Benson 154.

ONESCHUK SIGNS

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats have announced the signing of halfback Steve Oneschuk for his third Big Four football union season.

The former University of Toronto backfielder last year scored 53 points, highest on the team and fifth in the Big Four.

Used chiefly as a defensive back Oneschuk also won the convert and field goal kicking job last year in a battle with Ray Truant, Chet Miksza and Cookie Gilchrist.

Whitby Fetes New Champions

WHITBY (CP)—Shouting, cheering residents, led by the Whitby band, welcomed Whitby Dunlops home Tuesday night after their Allan Cup victory at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

The Dunlops were greeted at the railway station and paraded, as they sat on the back of a truck, to the Whitby shopping centre. Held high in front was the silver Allan Cup, awarded to Canada's Senior A hockey champions.

At the shopping centre the team mounted a platform to be introduced to their fans. Manager Wren Blair repeated his earlier announcement that the Dunlops will seek to represent Canada in the 1958 world hockey tournament.

The largely-impromptu celebration was only the beginning of festivities. Wednesday, May 8, has been declared a civic holiday and celebrations will include a parade and dance.

SUGAR OR BULL?

The big question among the boxing fraternity tonight is, can the handsome Harlem Hotshot, Sugar Ray Robinson, snatch back the middleweight crown from the rugged Utah Charger, Gene Fullmer?

Can the dancing dandy who has kicked away a couple of fortunes throw off the hand of Old Father Time and clip the horns of the youthful bull of the Utah pampas?

A lot of people say "Yes." Just as many think the opposite.

The "yes" claim Robinson learned a lesson in his defeat at the hands of the Mormon bulldozer. They claim he has changed his offensive and defensive tactics to meet and overcome the young "bull's" charging style. They won't admit that Old Father Time may have something to say about it.

They admit the dancing master from Harlem was no torcador when he met the Bull the last time. But they also claim that Fullmer's victory was not impressive because Gene is not an impressive fighter. He is crude and awkward, they say, with only flashes of class.

The "nays" claim that the previous fight proved that Robinson's punch has lost its power. They point out that the Sugar sweetened Gene with a couple of powerful lefts that in his prime would have felled Paul Bunyan's ox. To Gene they were a couple of mosquito nips. The relentless pressure exercised by Fullmer had Robinson in a tizzy. Unwarranted alibi of the Harlem Dandy tying him up in the clinches closer than a clansman's purse.

They point out that Robinson was the old boxing master in the first three rounds of the first fight. He plotted his strategy after studying the foe. Near the end of the third he floored in an uppercut that would have rocked the Empire State Building. Fullmer didn't even blink.

In the ninth it looked like the old master was ready for the kill. He ripped in another uppercut and Fullmer dropped his guard. This was the opening the sugar lumps said.

It was. Robinson threw a terrific left hook to Fullmer's jaw that should have sent him on his way to Utah. Gene rubbed his jaw as though an insect had bitten him. Robinson was astounded. The Bull rushed in and was met by another hook to the whiskers. Fullmer merely chased Ray into a corner.

The anti-Robinson clan claims the Sugar is just another boxing lump on the downhill road to dissolution. They point to such fighters as Jersey Joe Walcott, Ezzard Charles and Archie Moore, all of whom fought the greatest fight of their careers against Rocky Marciano. Each was a reasonable facsimile of himself the next time out.

We won't buy that. Ray Robinson was one of the greatest ring craftsmen in the history of boxing, perhaps the finest fighting man of his generation. He was always the masterful boxer, the deadly hitter and the strategist supreme. His alleged deterioration hardly is perceptible. He is still the panther stalking the deer. But can he hold off Time's relentless toll to the point where he can do better than the last time out with Fullmer? On the other hand, can the Utah Bull fight as well as he did the last time against Robinson? Tonight will give the answer.

As one expert put it, "For all of Sugar's fervent protests that he knows now what he failed to do, there isn't much reason to believe that he will improve. Remember, he held the whip then and didn't have to enter the ring until he was satisfied he was at his best. He availed himself of a postponement and was loaded with self-confidence going into the ring. Now he fights on Fullmer's terms. He has to be ready when Gene is ready or wait that much longer for a chance at the title."

On the other hand Fullmer's over-the-weight appearance (two) should encourage champion Ray as not been impressive in the least, but they are not an indication that he can't fight the same sort of fight as the last time he met Sugar. The reason is simple; he was not precise that time, merely powerful. He was cautious, too. With the crown in his possession, he's apt to open up more, and therefore be better than before.

Robinson hasn't been consistent, either, except for his two fights with Bobo Olson. Before that, with Tiger Jones, whom he never fought take on again, afterwards with Fullmer, he showed all the insufficiencies of an older fighter—failure to sustain an attack and lack of durability under pressure. And Fullmer, whatever he lacks, is strongest where Robinson is weakest.

Besides, Robinson's greatest misjudgment all through his comback has been a failure to recognize what Old Man Time has done to him.

The limb? Fullmer around the ninth or tenth, if not sooner.

Dunlops Defeat Spokane 6-2, Are First Club to Win Cup In Four Straight Victories

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Whitby Dunlops, a hockey team which admits to having no individual star, are the 1956-57 Allan Cup champions.

Dunlops Tuesday night became the first team in history to win the Canadian Senior title in four straight games as they overpowered Spokane Flyers 6-2.

Completing their first season in Senior A competition, they exploded four third-period goals to eliminate Flyers in much the same manner as they had won the first three games of the best-of-seven series.

For the first 30 minutes of the game, Flyers held a slight edge in play. They were particularly strong in the first period but couldn't beat Whitby netminder John Henderson as the teams battled through the scoreless period.

FLYERS THREATENED

Spokane took a 1-0 lead midway through the second when a pair of goals by centre Bob Attersley within 33 seconds gave Dunlops a lead they never relinquished, although Spokane threatened later.

Continuing the pattern of every play which helped them throughout the playoffs, Dunlops were led by Attersley and centre Charlie Burns, who also scored a pair of goals. Left winger Ken Laufman and Doug Williams scored the other Whitby goals.

Whitby was ahead 2-1 at the end of the second period and Laufman made it 3-1 at the 31-second mark of the third. After Spokane's second goal, Burns started Dunlops on their rout when he scored while his team was a man short. Eicher and Williams closed out the scoring.

DIFFERENT SCORERS

In all Dunlops' playoff games—not eliminating Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association final—a total of North Bay Trappers in the eastern Canada final—a different player led the team in scoring.

Playing - coach Bus Gagnon summed up the season for Dunlops when he said:

"It was a wonderful guys who never stopped skating who won us the championship. Where else can you do you single out 15 players? Every game somebody different became the big play."

Henderson, who had a brief stint with Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League in the 1954-55 season and who played in the game largely responsible for Dunlops' success, refused to take any of the credit.

"It was those guys in front of me who saved us," he said. "All I did was make a few saves but they scored the goals.

BIGGEST THRILL

"Sincerely, this is my biggest hockey thrill. And that includes my playing in the NHL."

The record Dunlops fans hollered long and loud as the game ended and George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, presented Cagnon with the Allan Cup.

In the Whitby dressing room, manager Wendy Caid he hoped his team would be able to represent Canada in next year's amateur world tournament.

He said he will present a brief to the OHA executive meeting this month in Edmonton, requesting approval to have Whitby represent Canada.

"We're the best Canadian amateur team in spirit and calibre," he said. "We've won the Allan Cup in our first year as a Senior A club and we're the first to win it in four games since it became a best-of-seven series in 1946."

Blair said he thought the team's sponsor might give it financial backing if Dunlops were named as Canada's world representative.

Spokane coach Roy McBride gave no alibis for his team's failure to become the first United States club to win the championship.

"They just had too much power and finesse and we didn't have enough," he said.

"Sometimes he don't seem to remember where they are the strike zone is!"

'The Lip' Talks At Toronto Baseball Feed

TORONTO (CP)—The manager of a baseball team gets the tag "genius" for a number of reasons that can include hit-or-miss luck, "the breaks" or even his mistakes, says Lou Boudreau, ex-baseball manager now National Broadcasting Company executive.

Durocher told 700 persons at an Old Timers' annual dinner Tuesday night that the main thing for a manager to do is to have his players believing "he's the greatest manager in the game, even when they know he's wrong" about something.

The dinner was a "Meet the Ball Club affair for Dixie Walker, coach of Toronto Maple Leafs, and the 1957 International Baseball League club.

"The Lip" said that as a manager he failed to get rid of Dusty Rhodes because of his attitude to temperance but was stalled off by New York Giants' owner Horace Stoneham.

In the 1954 season Dusty's pinch-hitting won the club the pennant. "That is how a manager becomes a genius."

His greatest thrill in baseball, he said, was the 1948 Indians' World Series victory over Cleveland Indians, while Willie Mays was the player he thought he had seen the most.

Bobby Porter, president of the Old Timers' Baseball Association, said the association last season gave $3,878 in charitable contributions to youngsters.

In an interview earlier Durocher said he thinks Toronto is "ideally suited" for major league baseball. He said the main thing needed is a large enough stadium.

Barbarians Rout Ontario Stars By 52-0 Score

TORONTO (CP)— Great Britain's Barbarians rugger team Saturday night cut out Ontario All-Stars 52-0 for their second straight victory.

Last Saturday, the Barbarians walloped Ontario 47-3.

Barbarians, without right winger Tony O'Reilly who scored five tries in the opener, led 16-0 at half time, mainly on the booting of second row George Hastings, who kicked five penalty goals and five converts for 25 points. He added three points on a try.

The Ontario team, made up mostly of former English-Scottish players, never were in the picture. They were forced into the Barbarians territory three times during the game, but ineffective passing nullified any scoring chances.

Barbarians were held off the score sheet for the first 15 minutes until Hastings booted the first of his five penalty goals.

Barbarians made up of players from England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, is the third of their six games on their Canadian tour at Vancouver Saturday afternoon.

From what they have shown here it is unlikely that any Canadian team can extend them. Their lateral passing is reminiscent of Canada's Grey Cup football. And their kicking, particularly on contested fronts any angle, is something Canadians haven't seen in years.

WILL SHARE TROPHY

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Victor Sherones of Philadelphia, owner of Rush IV., and Ernest Fay of Houston, Texas, owner-skipper of Sabre, will share the Edward Prince of Wales yachting trophy during the coming year.

Their yachts finished in a tie on points Monday after three races were completed and another was ruled no contest because the course didn't finish within the time limit.

Algerian in Line for Title Clangs Bell in Easy Style

MONTREAL (CP)—Cherif Hamia, the smart little Algerian with a dazzling left, was confident today that he will be the next man to wear the world featherweight boxing crown.

Hamia, the No. 1 ranked contender for the title vacated by Sandy Saddler, scored a unanimous 10-round decision Tuesday night over Bobby Bell of Youngstown, Ohio.

The Algerian's speed and his persistent lightning left, with an occasional authoritative straight right, earned him the victory over his unranked opponent. The animated paid attendance at Montreal forum was 7,228.

Hamia weighed 127½ and Bell 128.

WELL SATISFIED

Hamia's manager, Philippe Filippi, said both he and his fighter were well satisfied. Filippi said Hamia did all that was asked of him and that Bell was a fighter who "was in wonderful condition."

Filippi said he is ready to send Hamia into a world - title fight against Hogan Barney, the Nigerian who scored an upset win in Washington last Friday over Allheena Belloo.

Hamia was in front of Bell virtually all the way, taking the first two rounds and finishing strongly to assure himself of a comfortable decision.

Bell couldn't quite match Hamia's speed but was counter-punched well and took many of Hamia's snapping lefts on his gloves.

SLIGHT NOSEBLEED

A left by Bell in the third caught Hamia just under the left eye and there was a slight swelling for the remainder of the bout. In the final round, with Hamia in command, Bell was bleeding slightly from the nose.

Hamia was warned for hitting low by referee Leo Fisher in the fifth and seventh round. Neither Hamia nor Bell appeared injured.

The two tangled in one brief flurry of toe-to-toe socking—in the seventh round—and Hamia's slight lead in that round was lost when Bell evened things with his belting. After that Hamia carefully kept out of a slugging duel.

JUDGES' CARDS

On the five-points-a-round system, Hamia had 49-45 and Bobby Leitham had the results 48-41 for Hamia and Judge Leon Germain 49-42. By rounds, the judges' cards show: Germain, 8-1-1; Ouimet 8-2-0, and Leitham 7-3-1. The Canadian Press point score had it 48-44 for Hamia, and by rounds 8-2-2.

Dave Rent, former British amateur heavyweight champion, won a unanimous decision over Gordon Baldwin of Toronto. Rent who now fights out of Toronto made certain of his win with a big eighth and final round.

Baldwin, bleeding freely from a cut at the side of his right eye from the fifth round on, went down under a solid right in the eighth. He took the automatic eight count but reeled about and hung on until the finish.

CHAMP TO DEFEND

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The chairman of the National Boxing Association's rating committee said Tuesday he has been advised that bantamweight champion Raul Macias of Alexico has signed to defend his title at the San Francisco Cow Palace June 15 against Dom Ursua of the Philippines.

Chairman Fred Saddy notified Macias Friday that the NBA would withdraw its recognition of him as champion if he didn't defend his title by June 15.

Antonelli Mauls Milwaukee As Brooks Barge By Chicago; Bolling Blast Beats Bombers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milwaukee's early drive to the National League pennant was halted, at least temporarily, Tuesday night as New York Giants blanked the Braves 4-0.

Braves, who had nine wins in their first 10 starts, ran into a tartar in Johnny Antonelli who allowed only seven hits in posting his second victory of the season.

The loss, coupled with Brooklyn's hard-earned 10-9 triumph in 10 innings over Chicago, trimmed the Braves' first place lead to one game over the Dodgers.

Stan Musial's home run in the 13th inning gave St. Louis a 6-5 victory in Pittsburgh and advanced the Cardinals into a third place deadlock with the Giants. Cincinnati slumped Philadelphia into fifth place as Brooks Lawrence scattered nine hits and Frank Robinson slugged a three-run homer for the Redlegs' 6-3 success.

FANNED NINE

Antonelli, making his fourth start of the season, not only fanned nine Braves but helped his cause with a two - run homer. Dusty Rhodes accounted for the other two runs as he hit his first home run of the season off loser Bob Buhl.

The Braves had runners on base in each of the first four innings but were unable to crack through Antonelli when a hit meant a run.

Don Demeter's fifth hit, a home run off Dallas Hillman, Chicago's seventh pitcher, won the game for Brooklyn after the Dodgers had tied the score in the ninth on Sandy Amoros' pinch homer. Eight batters were swatted, five by Brooklyn and two by Roy Campanella as the two teams employed 12 pitchers. Walt Moryn's four-bagger came with the bases loaded in the seventh and gave the Cubs a 9-7 lead after the Dodgers had routed Sal Maglie to an early 6-0 advantage.

TIED IT IN NINTH

Musial's game-winning homer, the 2,891st of his major league career, wiped out the memory of a sad St. Louis ninth when Pittsburgh rallied for five runs to overcome a 5-0 deficit.

The Pirates scored their five runs on six hits and three St. Louis errors. Larry Jackson, fourth Card pitcher, was the winner while Roy Face, veteran Pirate relief artist who came on in the 10th inning, was charged with the loss.

Robinson's game-winning blow came in the third off loser Harvey Haddix after Lawrence, Wally Post and Gus Bell singled with Lawrence scoring on Bell's hit.

Lawrence weathered Philadelphia hitting in every inning but the sixth and seventh to win his second against one loss.

Detroit Tigers are struggling around in the American League's second division and their manager Jack Tighe puts the blame on the shoulders of a trio of .300 hitters who have produced almost nothing but outs in the first two weeks of the campaign.

The rookie manager makes no secret of his displeasure with the lack of hitting from Al Kaline, Harvey Kuenn and Charlie Maxwell.

Kaline is batting only .204 with 10 hits in 49 trips. Maxwell is hitting .242 and Kuenn has a .167 average. Last season they all were well over the .300 mark.

CHEERED BY BOLLING

Even with this gloom around his head Tighe did have something to cheer about Tuesday as unheralded Frank Bolling scored the first Tiger run on a triple and then walloped a 10th inning homer to give Detroit a 2-1 triumph over New York Yankees.

Bolling, a .258 lifetime hitter with only 13 home runs, is hitting .321 so far this season with 18 hits in 56 at bats.

In other games, Chicago White Sox powered by Billy Pierce's six-hit pitching trampled Baltimore 6-1 but their lead over second-place Boston Red Sox remained at one game as the Sox edged Kansas City 3-1 on homers by Jackie Jensen and Ted Williams.

IN FOURTH PLACE

Cleveland vaulted into fourth place, a half game behind the Yanks, as Don Lemon hurled a two-hit 5-1 win over Washington.

Bolling's homer gave Duane Maas his first lifetime victory over the world champions. The loser was Bob Grim who took over from Johnny Kucks with the score tied in the 10th.

A four-run seventh against Ray Moore iced the victory for the White Sox as Pierce became the first pitcher in the league to win three games. Larry Doby drove in three runs with a pair of singles.

Boston's eighth victory in 12 games was achieved by Willard Nixon who handcuffed the As with three hits. Faye Throneberry and Milt Bolling, traded by the Red Sox to Washington Monday, went hitless.

Lemon helped win his first game with a home run, 37th of his career as a pitcher, to come within one of Wes Ferrell's major league record of 38.

Kiniski is said to be one of the roughest, toughest guys ever to enter a ring and he has met the best and worst of them. He fears none and hates all. Friday's bout should be a thriller. Nine Horses Face Barrier In Derby Classic

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A swiftly run Kentucky Derby, possibly fast enough for a record, was predicted today by the trainers as a field of nine shaped up for Saturday's running of the $125,000 added turf classic for three-year-olds at Churchill Downs.

Two world records and 12 other track standards have been either broken or equalled this year by seven of the nine horses whose names will be dropped into the entry box Thursday.

Conditioners of the favored Calumet Farm entry of Gen. Duke and Iron Liege and the second-choice Bold Ruler from the Wheatley Stable are hesitant in voicing an opinion on how fast the race will be run.

But other trainers say they wouldn't be surprised if Whirlaway's mark of 2:01 2-5 made in 1941 is equalled or broken should the track remain as fast as it was Tuesday when Clifford Lussky's Louisville - owned Fleet Hill whipped Gen. Duke by 2½ lengths in the Derby Trial with a 1:36 1-5 clocking for one mile.

ELIMINATED ONE HORSE

The trial served to eliminate only Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Man Up Stairs as W. A. Reed's Better Bee ran third with Mrs. Rice's Indian Creek Inn and Liege fifth in the six-horse field. But the stock of Federal Hill, rated a fast horse by doubtful staying ability, was boosted.

Although jockey Willie Hartack whipped Gen. Duke through the stretch in a futile effort and Iron Liege just managed to run his usual good race, the Calumet pair remained the 4-to-5 choice to win the derby. With nine starters, North America's premier race will gross $131,900, with a cut of $107,700 going to the winner.

Odell Hurley, with Eddie Arcaro seeking his sixth Derby triumph, is the second choice at 2 to 1, Travis Kerr's Round Table is third at 9 to 2.

SUGAR RAY ROBINSON

GENE FULLMER

Fullmer Rated 2-1 Favorite To Give Sugar Ray His Lumps

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer, a bull-dozing battler of 25? is favored to bash artistic but ancient Sugar Ray Robinson into the ring graveyard tonight in a title rematch at Chicago Stadium.

The 36-year-old Robinson, a 2-to-1 underdog, seemingly has only one chance to capture the 160-pound crown for the fourth time. That's by an early knockout of the durable Fullmer, who dethroned Sugar Ray at New York Jan. 2 with bar-room brawl tactics.

The 15-round championship bout, expected to attract about 12,000 fans and an approximate gate of $150,000, will be televised and broadcast nationally (at 10 p.m. EDT).

MAY RETIRE

Robinson has said he may retire if he loses to Fullmer again.

In their New York fight, Fullmer pressed a relentless attack that dropped the sugar man in the seventh round and had Robinson hanging on helplessly most of the time.

There were cries from the Robinson camp that Fullmer rabbit-punched his way to the title. Handlers of Fullmer said Robinson was holding most of the fight.

Illinois uses the "five-point must system." This gives a round winner five points and the loser any lesser number. An even round is 5-5.

Each fighter will get a 30-percent share of both the gate and a $100,000 radio-TV rtelcon. That could mean around $65,000 each.

Memorial Cup Series Resumes At Regina

REGINA (CP)—Flin Flon Bombers continue their best-of-seven Memorial Cup final series with Ottawa Canadiens here tonight as they meet in the fourth game. The first three contests were played in Flin Flon, Man.

Canadiens, eastern representatives in the Canadian Junior hockey championship playoff, hold a 2-1 edge in the series.

All remaining games will be played in the Saskatchewan capital with the fifth game Friday and the sixth Saturday.

Ottawa, after losing the first game 3-1 came back to win the second 4-3 on two goals in the last 33 seconds. Monday night they made a runaway of the third game 5-2 by scoring four unassisted third period goals.

Canadiens and Flin Flon early Tuesday, taking a bus 100 miles south to The Pas, Man., and there boarding taxis for the other 400 miles to Regina.

Bombers left Flin Flon by train Tuesday night. They are due to arrive here today.

Flin Flon winger Barry Beatty, who suffered a back injury in the second game and regular Bomber goalie George Wood, who suffered a hand injury in the first contest, are expected to be available for duty. Wood was replaced in the third game by Lynn Hall of Fort William Canadiens, one of three replacements allowed the West under a special Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruling.

Coach Sam Pollock's crew has no physical handicaps.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNERA
Walter Lockhart Bennett and Thompson

There are many kinds of stretches in baseball. "Pepper" Martin became famous for stretching base hits by his daring base-running for the St. Louis Cardinals, and this is a terrific asset if you can develop the skill to do it.

However, baseball is a game of inches, and proper exercise can develop your ability to stretch an extra inch to catch a ball and make a putout. The conditioning drills Joe Adcock went through during his prep-school days and as a star athlete at Louisiana State University and then every time he takes a throw at first base for the Milwaukee Braves. The extra stretch he gets out of his big body "shortens" the throw as he stretches to meet it—for if the throw happens to be wild, he may be able to reach the extra distance required to catch the ball.

Since so many players are safe or out by inches, the ability to stretch to meet a throw can take away base hits from your opponents in every game you play. And spearing a wild throw can keep an opponent from taking one or two extra bases. There also is the kind of stretching Marty Marion did when he was making unbelievable stops at shortstop. He cut off so many base hits with his stretching and leaping that his major league opponents called him "The Octopus."

Moore Favored Over German

ESSEN, Germany (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore a surprisingly beefy 196½, was expected to make short work of German heavyweight Hans Kalbfell in their 10-round, non-title bout in the outdoor Dubois Arena today.

It would be considered an upset to most fistic observers here if the 37-year-old butcher from Hagen lasted more than five or six rounds. Kalbfell, 210½, has posted a numerically fine 16-1 record, including 11 knockouts in a pro career of less than two years. He is Germany's third ranking heavy.

Moore had been expected to scale about 185 pounds for the tuneup for his June 7 title defence against New York's Tony Anthony.

Archie said he wasn't worried. "Bringing down my weight to the 175 pound limit is very easy for me. I can do it in a few weeks."

Reports in the United States that the 40 - year - old veteran wouldn't meet Anthony brought a warning from Floyd Stevens, president of the National Boxing Association, that if he didn't get a definite assurance from Archie by today on the Anthony fight he would declare the title vacant.

In New York, however, Moore's manager, Charley Johnston said Archie "positively" would fight Anthony.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In the advanced stages of bridge, numerous players throughout the world use what is called the exploratory club bid. This is an opening bid of one club with a negligible club suit.

If partner assists the suit it is an indication that there is a stopper in the pair. So, the opener switches to no-trump if he can take care of the other three suits.

After frequent usage of this, players get careless and switch to no-trump without having all the other suits protected. And this lands them in many no-trump contracts they are unable to make.

Here is world championship deal number 85:

NORTH
♠ J 9 7
♥ 10 7 4
♦ 9 5
♣ A K 10 7 3

WEST
♠ 10 8 6 5 4
♥ A 8 5
♦ J 7 3
♣ 9 5

EAST
♠ A K 3
♥ J 9 3
♦ Q 8 6 4
♣ Q 6 4

SOUTH
♠ Q 2
♥ K Q 6 2
♦ A K 10 2
♣ J 8 2

Room one did the bidding like this:

North	South
Pass	1 C
2 C	2 NT
3 NT	Pass

Opening lead from west was a small spade that let east cash both tops in that suit. A third spade went to dummy jack. After cashing a top club, a diamond to the ace entered south for a club return.

The club finesse was lost to east queen and the diamond return was taken with south ace. The remaining clubs were run and all that was left went to defender. Three no-trump went down two tricks.

Room two did the bidding like this:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 H	1 S
2 C	2 S	3 C	All Pass

Even though it went down one, three clubs is not a bad contract. The west defending bid of one spade was too bad to be called bad. It was putrid.

May Increase Puck Telecasts

CHICAGO (AP) — National Hockey League owners meet today and there is a possibility they will discuss adding to their Saturday afternoon game telecasts. The meeting is a prelude to the annual June conclave.

Attending the meeting will be James D. Norris, Chicago Black Hawks; John R. Kilpatrick, New York Rangers; Walter A. Brown, Boston Bruins; Bruce Norris, Detroit Red Wings; Conn Smythe, Toronto Maple Leafs; and Frank J. Selke, Montreal Canadiens.

Owners of the four United States teams and the Columbia Broadcasting System are reported to want to add to the number of telecasts which proved so successful last season.

Senators Sell Olson to Sox

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators Tuesday sold outfielder Karl Olson to Boston Red Sox for an undisclosed sum.

A Washington spokesman said the deal set off a chain reaction which saw Olson wind up with the Detroit Tigers and Detroit send first baseman Jack Phillips to San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League. San Francisco is a Red Sox farm club.

While no figures were given, the Senators reportedly received for Olson the $10,000 waiver price for a major leaguer or slightly more.

The deal was the second in two days involving Washington and Boston.

Helen O'Connell on 'Today' Finds Time for Romance

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP—Hardy souls who labor on television's early morning shows will tell you earnestly that the only thing wrong with their jobs is their social life.

In order to arise at 2:30 a.m. or 4 a.m. they must bed with the birds and are among the missing when the rest of the adult world is dining in restaurants, playing bridge with the neighbors or watching quiz shows.

Despite this handicap, let the record show that Helen O'Connell, featured on Today (7-10 a.m.) has found time for romance. She will be married next week to an author she met—at lunch, naturally —a month or so back.

This may be shattering news to believers in the magic of moonlight, but Miss O'Connell currently has no time for philosophical reflection. She's just happy things have been arranged so she can ride a Friday and a Monday show to have a four-day honeymoon.

Helen, a pretty green-eyed blonde with dimples, was a singing success in pre-war days when the big name bands were the fancy of the young crowd, which in those days liked to dance—not just listen—to music. As a featured singer with Jimmy Dorsey's band she had a big body of fans and turned out such hit records as Tangerine, All of Me, Green Eyes and Six Lessons from Madame Lazonga.

Last December she went on the Today show—singing only occasionally, for it isn't a music show —but commenting on fashions, chatting with Dave Garroway and handling a variety of chores.

After marriage to Tom Chamales, author of Never So Few, she's planning to continue her work.

"It's fine with Tom," she says. "He likes to get up and start writing at 5 in the morning, so my hours won't be a problem."

What I can O'Connell day like? When she arises around 4 a.m., she has a glass of tomato juice and a couple of vitamin pills and drives from a Long Island suburb to the broadcasting studio. During rehearsal and the athree-hour show she nibbles on an occasional doughnut and sips coffee. At 10 she has a hearty breakfast—usually including two eggs. Then in the afternoon she does chores—dressmakers, hairdresser, shopping, checking the next day's show.

She retires at 7:30.

"It's not bad at all," she says happily. "Once you're accustomed to it."

Now Dorothy Malone Has Oscar She Has Time for Dan Cupid

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This may be the first time that Oscar has given cupid a boost. In Dorothy Malone's case, it did.

In the last two years, Dorothy has made 10 pictures, with hardly a breathing spell in between. This naturally forestalled any chance for romance.

"I could go out on the weekend while I was working," she remarked, "but it was impossible to date during the week. I had to study my lines and get up early in the morning."

But now she's the winner of an academy award and can afford to slow down her film-making pace. She has four big films finished and unreleased, so she needn't worry about being absent from the nation's screens.

Having predicted the Oscar for her, I peered further in my crystal ball and told her there would be a man in her future.

"I don't know," she sighed, seems like a hopeless case."

SHE'S REGULAR

Hopeless! There is something wrong with the American male if that is true. Dorothy's physical assets are obvious: A lovely face, wavy blonde hair, whistlable figure. What's more, she's bright and breezy, a regular gal.

Dorothy once has she come close to marriage. That was after her early film career had begun auspiciously and then fizzled. She went back home to Texas and fell in love with a local boy.

"We were very fond of each other," she said, "and so were our families. But we decided it might not work out for us to get married."

She came back to Hollywood and resumed her career, starting out slowly and proving herself in roles that grew in importance. Her latest assignment is opposite Robert Taylor in Tip on a Dead Jockey.

She's obviously in the starring class now.

Nearly 300 Junior Members Attend Rally

WELLINGTON — Close too 300 Jr. members and their leaders attended the Jr. Auxiliary rally, Thursday, held in St. George's Cathedral parish hall Kingston.

Following registration all attended service in the Cathedral at this time there was a dedication of the "Mission Gift", brought there by each branch. They will be sent later to a hospital in the Yukon as Christmas gifts.

At 11.30 all assembled in the parish hall where they enjoyed a box lunch. Drinks were provided by the Sr. W. A. of the Cathedral. Rally officers for the day were announced.

Wellington Branch was pleased as Susan Gray was the chairman.

The afternoon session started with a leaders' "get-together." They were privileged to hear an inspiring address by Miss Eleanor Rice, of Toronto, who is Dominion supervisor of children's work.

During this period, the children were supervised in games. This was followed by a period of worship lead by Susan Gray.

During the business session, it was announced that the total thankoffering was $135.35. The general offering was $21.26. The girls voted this later amount to be given to an orphanage in Japan.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP

The highlight of the rally was the presentation of life membership to Mrs. E. U. Payne of Kingston. This honor was bestowed by the Juniors in appreciation for her 11 years of devoted service as diocesan secretary-treasurer of Jr. Auxiliary. Mrs. Payne was deeply moved by this honor.

Presentations were also made in recognition of the years accomplishments. Christ Church, Gananoque won the "Shield". The "Banner" went to St. Mark's Barriefield. Among those receiving certificates of honorable mention was the church of St. Mary Magdalene, Picton. Bishop K. R. Evans visited the rally and after telling the children, a story pronounced the benediction.

A group picture was taken with Anne Spriggings representing Wellington. Mrs. Roger Cronk drove six out of the ten Wellington girls to the rally. They were Susan Gray, Anne Spriggings, Linda Spriggings, Betty Herrinton, Patti Hicks and Susan Collow. Mrs. Edgar Mathews attended the morning session and after helping Mrs. Cronk chaperone the girls down town in the noon hour, she spent the afternoon with Mrs. L. P. Keane.

Bethel Zion

BETHEL - ZION — The Easter meeting of Bethel - Zion WMS was held at the home of Mrs. John Ketcheson with a large attendance. The ladies of Halloway WMS were guests for the afternoon.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. R. Cranston presided and opened the meeting with a poem and prayer.

Business was dealt with.

It was decided to have the future meetings at 2.30 p.m.

Mrs. Bryant Casey prepared the devotional, assisted by Mrs. Lawson Ketcheson, Mrs. Roy Sills, and Mrs. C. Cronkrite.

Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson gave the Scripture reading.

GUEST SPEAKER

At this point, Mrs. F. Benton introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Grant, of West Huntington, who chose as her topic "Easter in Africa".

Mrs. Benton thanked Mrs. Grant for her fine address.

Mrs. Roth and Mrs. Townsend favored with a duet and the meeting closed with the Benediction, followed by a social half hour.

MADOC

Over 400 Guests Attend C. of C. Dinner Meeting

MADOC — On Wednesday several members of the Madoc Chamber of Commerce attended the annual dinner held at the R.C.A.F. Station, at Trenton. Over 400 guests were in attendance representing Kingston; Belleville; Picton; Madoc; Tweed, and Trenton Chamber of Commerce Units.

They were privileged to hear John Fisher, Ll. L. B. L. D., University Literature Executive Director of the Canadian Tourist Association.

Following his address, the Trenton officers were installed by an executive member assisted by his Worship Mayor Burtt, of Trenton.

Gordon Pigden, the president of Madoc Chamber was called upon and presented the president elect with a small cheese, to be used at his next dinner meeting.

Madocers attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pigden; Mr. and Mrs. George Devolin; Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner; Mr. and Mrs. H. Stickwood; Mrs. C. B. Farrow, and C. I. Ross.

OLD BARRIER

Romney Marsh, rich farm area in Kent, England, is protected from the sea by a centuries-old embankment.

Gardenville

GARDENVILLE — The service in the United Church at Carrying Place was well attended on Sunday afternoon. The Reverend E. V. Cook preached a helpful sermon based on Paul's words to the Romans, "Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing." (Romans 15: 13.)

Next Sunday the Communicants' class will be received into church membership.

Plans are also being made for the Sunday School pupils to assist in the Mother's Day Service, on May 12th, at 1.30 p.m. This should prove a most rewarding experience as families worship together.

The Women's Association held another successful bake sale on the Trenton market, Saturday morning, with $30 being realized. This money is being raised to buy material for the Church hall. Mrs. E. Hennessey, Mrs. Jack Yeder, and Mrs. Jack Baxter were the saleladies.

Mr. Leslie Walker has returned from a holiday in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rollins had their daughter Mrs. Murray, and her family, of Hamilton with them, during the Easter vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walker were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Grounds, on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Frank Wilson was home for the weekend from Kingston, where she is having treatments, at the hospital.

Many visited the new Dominion Store in Trenton, and were favorably impressed with the variety of merchandise offered, the spaciousness and attractiveness of the store, and perhaps, most of all, by the adequate provision that has been made for the parking of cars.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baxter this past week were; Mrs. Vernon Westfall and L/A/C. Robert Bird, R.C.A.F. of Stirling.

Miss Elizabeth Sundstrom enjoyed a holiday visit in Oshawa.

These warm, bright days have made everyone begin to think of what flower seeds to plant, which, later on will reward the labor expended on them, with their beautiful blossoms. And haven't you thought as you chose your favorites, of the power and mystery contained in each tiny seed, and of our Heavenly Father's great love, who planned so wisely, for us to be co-laborers with Him in the miracle of flower garden!

MAKARIOS HAS AN OMEN OF VICTORY

Archbishop Makarios, left, spiritual and political leader of Greek Cypriots, and Archbishop Dorotheus of Athens engage in the traditional Greek Easter egg-cracking ceremony in Athens. Pressure is applied by each until one egg breaks and this time that of Archbishop Dorotheus broke first, signifying good luck for Makarios. Makarios was recently freed from exile in the Seychelle Islands by Britain.

Dulles Assures NATO Meet U.S. Will Not Reduce Forces

BONN, Germany (CP) — The United States assured its Atlantic allies today that it intends to carry out 1957 defence plans in full.

State Secretary Dulles told the foreign ministers of North Atlantic Treaty Organization he was conveying to them the decision of President Eisenhower.

Dulles said the president instructed him to say no changes are contemplated in U.S. plans as disclosed to NATO last December. This means the United States will not follow the recent example of Britain which is cutting her forces in Europe and will reduce her armed forces by 50 per cent in the next five years.

The NATO ministers opened a three-day session with a brief public meeting at Bad Godesberg, followed by a closed session at the West German foreign ministry.

ASSURES PARTNERS

Dulles referred to fears that Britain's decision might touch off a chain reaction among the other NATO allies. He said this was not so in the case of the United States, although his country like Britain is placing increased reliance on the deterrent power of atomic weapons.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said he believes the West was right to base its defence on the nuclear deterrent.

Lloyd said the Communist bloc has mounted peaceful trends but there clearly is no time for Communism though on the other hand there is no need to "talk ourselves into a decline."

LIABILITY NOW

"The Soviet satellites are now a source of anxiety and a liability instead of being easily exploitable territories," Lloyd said.

Despite the efforts of the Communists, the Baghdad Pact (of Britain, Pakistan, Turkey, Iraq and Iran) has remained intact and one can see that the Communists have made no further headway in the Far East, he said.

Lloyd reasoned that the Soviet leaders are in the situation in which they must co-existence with other countries in order to mature their long-term plans, but intend that this co-existence should not involve any concessions from the Soviet bloc.

The speeches of Dulles and Lloyd were reported by a NATO spokesman.

The speaker at the opening session was West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who challenged Russia to match West Germany's pledges of 1954 not to produce atomic, bacteriological or chemical weapons, and to accept strict and permanent control of all armaments.

Thousands Ready To Flee as Flood Threatens Town

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A new Texas disaster area was declared today as the flooding Sabine River surged downstream at record heights, threatening to inundate for the second time in four years the small community of Deweyville.

The 1,000 residents of the town were standing by to evacuate if necessary. The town was hit by a flood in 1953.

Heavy cloudbursts soaked the Trinity River watershed in northcentral Texas, causing flooding in the Dallas area. A new flood warning was issued for the Trinity as it began a rapid rise.

The rains spread over much of the eastern half of Texas in varied amounts, but except for the Sabine and Trinity the threat was easing along other rivers.

On the Upper Sabine, several hundred oil wells in the Gladewater area have been flooded and shut down Officials today said they thought the peak crest had passed there.

16 DROWNINGS

Two drownings Wednesday were blamed on high waters, making a total of at least 16 since the heavy rains began causing flooding in Texas two weeks ago.

More than 9,000 persons have been forced to flee before rising waters since the floods started two weeks ago. State disaster headquarters estimate now that more than 35,000 acres of land are flooded.

RADIOACTIVE GIRDLE

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — A Dutch scientist said today the earth is ringed by a huge "peel" of radioactivity from the hydrogen bombs. Prof. H. P. Berlage, director of the Royal Meteorological Institute, said the peel radiates the equivalent energy of 100,000,000 grams (roughly 100 tons) of radium. He said the peel, about 12 to 18 miles up, is growing with each explosion.

Grandfather's Court Order Splits Canada-Bound Family at Shipside

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuters)—A young English family of five planning a new life in Canada split into two tearful groups Wednesday night at the gangplank of the liner Carinthia.

The father and two children sailed for Canada. The mother stayed behind with her eldest daughter, who was restrained from sailing by a court order obtained by her grandfather.

George Robinson, 43, was checking the family's baggage an hour before sailing time when he was handed a court order restraining his 16-year-old daughter Sandra from leaving the country. Sandra's grandfather, Walter Payne of Peterborough, England, recently applied for the order in the chancery division of the High Court.

The order—and the two detectives who stood by to see it carried out—stood the family by surprise. Finally, Robinson went aboard the Carinthia with two of his children, Sonia, 12, and Barry, 10. His 38-year-old wife, Monica, decided to stay behind with Sandra.

Mrs. Robinson said before leaving for London Wednesday night: "We are determined to contest this order with everything we have got. . . . We just can't understand Lord Payne's attitude and why the order was made."

When pressed to say why the order, Robinson said the only possible explanation he could think of was that grandfather might have believed Sandra was being taken to Canada against her wishes. He said Sandra said: "I want to go to Canada with my parents."

He added that she stayed at her grandparents' home during Easter week and had reasoned that she didn't like the idea of going to Canada because she would be leaving Nanny and Grandpa.

"But I've got over all that," she said. "I'm all right now, really."

Robinson, branch manager for a furniture firm in England, sold his home at Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire, when the family decided to emigrate last January. There is a farm job and a house for the family waiting for him near London, Ont.

Robinson emigrated to Canada as a 14-year-old boy and later did farm work there. He returned to England with the Canadian Army in 1939.

Labor Congress Leader Refuses Seat in Senate

Repeated Overtures Turned Down by Jodoin

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has been trying to get President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress to become a senator.

Jodoin has turned down repeated overtures from the prime minister, according to government officials. These started more than a year ago.

The 44-year-old labor leader, first chief of the 1,000,000-member congress formed last year, would have become the youngest member ever summoned to the Upper House had he accepted a senatorship.

Only a handful of persons, officials say, have rejected a Senate appointment since Confederation. The lifetime position pays $10,000 per year.

A former Quebec province Liberal politician who later split with that party, Jodoin was understood to have been proferred the Senate seat by former prime minister specifying that he would sit as an independent and that no political connotation of the appointment would make this clear.

Jodoin's refusal has seats as Liberals or Conservatives. In Jodoin's case, it was understood he was told he could operate strictly as a spokesman for the labor movement.

TWICE OFFERED

Jodoin, who has come up with a rush to the top spot in Canadian unionism in recent years, was offered the senatorship first while he was president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and the offer was renewed after he became first-head of the CLC. formed by merger of the TLC and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

The proposal evidently is part of what government informants have indicated as an inclination to give grass-roots labor representation from straight political appointments to the Senate and to bring the Senate more into the mainstream of the Canadian economy apart from politics.

Jodoin was brought up in a Liberal background, and once headed Quebec's Liberal Youth Council to the legislature at 29, he later was granted leave of his post and ran for the legislature as a labor man. He lost out in Montreal's St. James riding.

Maritimes Get Snow

HALIFAX (CP) — Maritimers today got a heavy helping of snow and high winds. Blizzards were reported eight inches of snow, Sydney 12 inches and Moncton nine inch. Halifax got a few flurries.

The weather office here said summer weather is well behind schedule. The last 1956 snowfall in Halifax was recorded May 8.

Temperature here early today was 36 degrees with a high of 46 forecast, considerably lower than last year when temperatures ranged to 86. The mercury reached 63 here Monday.

Professor William J. Fry, bioacoustics laboratory head at Illinois University, checks the new ultra sound device developed for brain surgery. He said: "Extensive studies on animals have been completed and this new tool now is available for the neurosurgeon to use on the human brain."

Claim Single Guided Bomb Could Wipe Out Task Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Force Secretary Donald Quarles says a single hydrogen-headed guided bomb launched by a plane could knock out a naval task force.

And an air force general, Nathan Twining, claims that high-level attack by a single squadron of heavy or medium jet bombers dropping nuclear bombs could produce the same result.

Publication today of testimony by United States defence leaders before a congressional appropriations sub-committee revealed that the committee questioning stirred the U.S. Air Force and Navy into renewed argument about the vulnerability of carrier task forces.

Charles Thomas, until recently secretary of the navy, and Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, testified that a carrier force would be difficult to locate in the open sea. Even if located, they said, the missile and counter-missile defences of the force would give it a high degree of protection.

The testimony was given in January and February—some time before Quarles' force high-level changes headed by Quarles and Twining for new jobs where they will be expected to be neutral in such arguments. Quarles is to become deputy secretary of defence. Twining chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Quarles, in his testimony, conceded that missiles and fighter planes would put up an effective defence for a carrier task force. But, he said, "if you project this into the era when bombers will approach such a force with an air-to-surface missile that might have, say, a 50- to 100-mile range, and give that missile either target-seeking qualities itself or control from mother plane I do not know of anything that could be done to prevent that missile, if it were armed with a megaton warhead, from knocking out a carrier task force, depending on how the force was deployed."

Thomas declared that in the Second World War Japan lost between 12,000 and 15,000 planes in attempts to sink American carriers, but succeeded in sending down only one.

Think Jordan, Saudi Arabia Will Link With Egypt, Syria

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials believe Saudi Arabia and Jordan will join Egypt and Syria soon in creating a new show of Arab unity, despite their recent political conflict over Jordan's fate.

This prospect was advanced here today as one reason why the United States has not directly policed a big finger of Israel's Egypt's President Nasser for his role in the Jordanian crisis.

U.S. policy and propaganda apparently are designed to take into account the desires and purposes of King Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Hussein of Jordan. American officials say they do not believe that real unity can in fact be restored among the four, but if Saudi Arabia and Hussein want to play politics that way the U.S. evidently will not interfere.

Furthermore, officials do not want to get American policy in a position where the two Arab rulers would cut the ground from under it That would happen if the kings showed outward friendship for Nasser and S y ria President Shukri al Kuwatly when Washington was blaming the Arab presidents for much of the trouble.

Another consideration in official thinking here is the conviction that any outright U.S. attack on Nasser tends to strengthen his internal position in Egypt. Also, with the control of the Suez Canal now completely in his hands, Nasser is in position to make trouble for the West.

Thus far the U.S. has put the blame for the crisis in Jordan on "international communism" under the control of the Soviet Union. At this time in doing this seems to be to say to the Arabs that Russia is responsible for the effort to reduce Jordan to virtual satellite status while the United States is not trying to. . . . , is in part responsible, along with King Saud, in helping shore up Jordan against its independence.

The Voice of America in its commentaries to the Middle East has developed this line along with two others: (1) That it is important to the U.S. to maintain the sovereignty of all the Middle Eastern states and (2) that the American grant of $10,000,000 to Hussein this week was in line with standard American policy of helping free countries to help themselves.

Israel Getting Immigrants at 300 Daily Rate

HAIFA (AP)—A new wave of Jewish immigration is bringing thousands to Israel at the rate of a rate of 300 a day.

The 1957 total is expected to reach 100,000, nearly double the total last year. Most come from Eastern Europe, North Africa and Egypt.

Their reasons are the old ones of oppression in their native land and hope of a better future in the new one.

Since Jan. 1, 8,000 Egyptian Jews have arrived in Israel. Jewish agitation authorities expect the flow to continue at the rate of 1,400 a month.

32 ARE KILLED AS CHARTER PLANE CRASHES IN U.K.

Plunges to Earth Shortly After Takeoff

BLACKBUSHE, England (Reuters) — Thirty-two persons, including a mother and her two children, died in a United charter plane when it crashed in flames in a pine forest Wednesday night just after taking off from Blackbushe airport 30 miles southwest of London.

Only four badly burned men were rescued from the burned-out wreckage. One died later. The others were in critical condition today.

The plane was carrying 25 soldiers from the Royal Army Service Corps, two stewardesses, civilians, the mother and her two children and a crew of five, including a stewardess. It was bound for Tripoli.

Two minutes after leaving the airport the twin-engined Viking radioed that it was having trouble and one engine had failed, and in the airport control tower an S O S message was received and then the mission to land. Then contact was lost.

TAKES FIRE ALOFT

The plane circled the airport perimeter, then a red flash shot into the night sky. Flames enveloped the aircraft as it crashed into the heavily wooded area of trees and setting others afire.

Airport crash wagons and rescue ambulances raced to the United States Navy repair squadron centre nearby for additional help and volunteers from surrounding towns.

Truck drivers on a nearby highway stopped their vehicles and ran to help. They saw two men running from the blaze, their clothes ablaze.

American servicemen struggled 20 minutes to get to the other rescued men.

A U.S. Navy pilot, who saw the disaster from his own plane, reported the Viking banking and then crashing. He saw it explode before it crashed.

The plane had been chartered by the war office. Three weeks ago another troop plane crashed at Drayton, England, in similar circumstances, killing 17 persons.

Bitten by Rattler Man Improving

TORONTO (CP)—A 62-year-old Florida man is recovering from a rattlesnake bite after being driven here by ambulance from his new home 140 miles away at Hepworth, on the Bruce Peninsula in Lake Huron's Georgian Bay.

Joseph Hutchinson was bitten by a snake he was trying to kill while working on a retaining wall at his cottage. He had moved in a month ago with his wife three weeks ago after selling his hotel business in Winter Haven.

Dr. P. M. Hellwell drove him to Toronto where he said the rattlesnake escorts because no snake bite serum was available in the Hepworth area. He said the man's wife woman died there before serum could be administered to her.

Prince Charles Proves Demon Bowler Butterfingers Fielder and Poor Bat

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Charles' debut as a cricket player on his first day at school at Easter vacation is portrayed in pictures spread across the front and feature pages of Britain's national newspapers.

The newspapers give lavish play to the eight-year-old prince, with photographs showing him swinging gaily at the bat with his arm but bowling underhand.

There are mixed comments on his future as an all-round cricketer, though critics agreed he is a demon bowler.

The heir to the throne "clean bowled" two batsmen and ran out a third in a single over. That would be like striking out two and tagging out a third for a baseball pitcher. Hundreds of fans lined the railings of the school playing field as the game progressed.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express comments that as a wicket-keeper Charles' style "will need a penchant for pocketing his hands."

The Daily Mirror said the prince how managed to scoop the ball up so that once it bounded off his bat. The Express agreed that "He is a butterfingers fielder. He uses his bat like a golf club. He is a holy terror of a bowler."

"Plenty of enthusiasm," The Daily Sketch says, choosing its words carefully. "Definitely an attacking bat . . . but so far lacking in polish. . . ."

The Daily Mirror fills nearly all its front page and middle pages with photographs of Charles at play, but refrains from any comment.

NATO Planners Want All Fitted For Nuclear Arms

Bonn Meet Will Consider Future Policy of Alliance

BONN (AP)—The NATO foreign ministers met today for the first time on German soil to wrestle with the emergence of heading their collective defence on nuclear weapons.

Before getting down to its closed-door discussions the Atlantic council held a brief public session in nearby Bad Godesberg to pay special tribute to NATO's retiring secretary-general, Lord Ismay of Britain.

Ismay will be succeeded May 21 by Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium.

Overall military policy—the old problem of the most efficient defence at the lowest cost—is one of the main issues facing the 15 North Atlantic ministers in their three-day session.

Political opposition at home has made it difficult for some of the NATO governments — Britain's and many's in particular—to agree to stock-pile arms which could be fitted with American atomic warheads in case of Communist attack.

ATOMIC ARMS VITAL

But Lord Ismay warned the ministers Wednesday night that the alliance in terms of sheer numbers could never successfully oppose those of the Soviet Union without the use of nuclear weapons."

Ismay told a press conference that NATO military planners, in a report to be made to the council in August, will recommend that the 14 NATO members with armed forces (Iceland has none) fit out for nuclear arms.

Ismay emphasized no country would be forced to accept the advice, but he said it would be "a very dangerous event" if any important NATO power refused the atomic equipment.

In West Germany, approaching a general election next September, the opposition Socialists are appealing to anti-war sentiments and fears of Russia by campaigning against nuclear equipment for the West German army. Chancellor Adenauer, who hopes to win another four-year term, has had to throw way attention of seeking such weapons for the immediate future.

U.S. Has Atomic Artillery Shells For 8-Inch Guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has reported two major weapons changes — the army's adoption of a new rifle, and an eight-inch atomic artillery shell.

The army said Wednesday it has formally adopted the new T-44 rifle, developed by army ordnance, to replace four shoulder weapons—the Garand M-1 rifle, the Browning automatic rifle, the carbine carbine and the M-3 sub-machine gun.

DISCLOSED AFTER PRODDING

The defence department disclosure that eight - inch atomic shells are in existence came in answers to inquiries by congressmen over the last several years.

The department also said the army has both eight-inch guns and eight-inch howitzers capable of firing the nuclear ammunition. Three years ago the army said it was regorded seeking a lighter weapon than the big 280-m.m. atomic cannon. This gun, like the eight-inch weapons, can fire either conventional or atomic shells.

The 280-m.m. cannon and howitzer weigh 85 tons, compared with 35 tons for the eight-inch cannon and the carriage. The eight-inch howitzer is expected to have a range nearly equal to the 20-mile range reported for the 280-m.m. piece.

NEW EMPHASIS

Thomas Murphy of the Atomic Energy Commission has called for a new evaluation of U.S. nuclear strategy with emphasis on producing more small, tactical nuclear weapons.

For security reasons, Murray said in a Life magazine article, he cannot say how fast crystallized into one of stockpiling huge ultimate thermonuclear.

Precisely because it is so absolute, he contended, the big H-bomb tends to be self-defeating. "We don't dare start an all-out war of anyone with them, he said, because they would inevitably destroy the U.S. as well; consequently, our political leaders have had the same thoughts. Thus, military arguments, wide ranges of atomic weapons is necessary, especially small, tactical bombs and missiles. Fighting is "limited" or "civilized" war.

Spring Banquet Of Brotherhood Much Enjoyed

The spring banquet of Christ Church Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen, was held in Christ Church Hall, on Tuesday night.

The proceedings were under the chairmanship of Mr. R. H. Livingston, president of the local organization. Grace was said by Rev. E. Loosmore, assistant rector of Christ Church and a very delicious dinner was served by the ladies of the Parish Guild.

After dinner Mr. E. Palmer, proposed a toast to the Church" and Rev. L. A. Page, S. Th., of St. Margaret's responded. Mr. J. W. Wright, welcomed the visitors and Mr. R. T. Davis of St. Margaret's responded. Mr. R. H. Goddes, thanked the ladies of the Guild for their efforts.

For the lighter part of the evening Mr. L. A. Blaker, led an enthusiastic group of singers at a rollicking sing-song, ably assisted by Mr. R. A. Lennox at the piano.

The speaker of the evening Mr. Fred M. Hails, president of Canadian Keepers, London, Ontario, was introduced by Mr. L. G. Lennox.

Mr. Hails spoke on "Personal Witness", and touched on the activities of the Brotherhood. Like many others, he started as a "nominal churchman" attending church only when he didn't have more important things to do. The main object in life being money and success. This is the pattern of all nominal churchmen but eventually he came to the conclusion the materials things and the almighty dollar were not enough and he turned to God. In making the decision however, Mr. Halls said he had to overcome many apprehensions — a falling off of economic progress, a failure to understand the worries and tensions of the every day world, disappearance of friends, a feeling of being hold and is allowed to work in the individual, a strange sense and peace and security seems to enter into a person's life when they put their trust and faith in Jesus Christ.

Referring to the Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen, founded in the Huron Diocese in 1951, Mr. Halls said that it was not just a club or organization but a "Way of Life", where the layman, not the clergyman carries on the message of Jesus to the Parish, Diocese, Church at large. Brotherhood is based on Be Bible and the Cross and it is bringing men back to the Church as a movement has done before. Its importance lies being first and foremost other denominations. Each member of the Brotherhood should pray daily for its continued growth and success.

Mr. C. W. Sloan thanked the speaker.

Mr. E. Watts, of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, gave a brief but interesting review of the sixth annual meeting of the Synod recently held in Brantford.

The Ven. Archdeacon J. B. Smith conducted the proceedings with the Benediction.

200 Rural Pupils Will Assist in Tree-Planting

Saturday is tree-planting day for close to 200 rural public school pupils and students from the Ontario School for the Deaf who will journey to Lindsay to plant trees on the Moira River Conservation Authority property there.

Thirteen different rural schools are expected to take part in the planting and will be organized into small groups supervised by teachers.

Michael Chubb, field officer for the Conservation Authority, noted that visitors to the planting day will be welcomed and says parents and friends may drop in at any time during the day to inspect the proceedings.

An exhibit and demonstration will be arranged if the weather permits.

Returns Medals Due Color Bar

LONDON (Reuters)—A Jamaican laborer has sent in five war medals back to the Queen because of racial discrimination which he says prevented him from working at housing development.

Richard Hinds, rounded by a shrapnel off the Anzio beachhead, was quoted in London newspapers as saying he and a Pakistani worker had to leave a job laying drainpipes after other workers threatened to strike if the colored men were kept in the work gang.

Infirmary Wing at County Home Cuts Operation Costs Materially

Net cost of $43,744.35 of operating the Hastings county home in 1956 would have been considerably greater without the home infirmary wing which materially reduced hospitalization costs.

This was emphasized to county councillors Wednesday morning when the annual report of the board of management of the home was read by board chairman Reeve A. G. Wilson.

Throughout the year there was an average of 48 patients per day in the home infirmary wing. Without the wing many of these patients would have had 4o go to hospital.

Approximately one-quarter of the patients in the county home are from the city.

Total home expenditures for the year amounted to $163,780, with revenue, including $82,321.93 from residents pensions, listed as $96,-078.55.

Average cost per patient was $4.39 per day with the provincial rate being 62 cents. One half of the county's net cost for operation of the home is paid by the province. The city receives the subsidy on its own patients.

As of April 1951 there were 207 residents in the home of which 49 were from Belleville.

Due to the fact that it was a poor year for vegetables and also to the fact that a new tractor was purchased and paid for in the one year the operation of the county home farm did not show its customary surplus but showed a profit of slightly over $2,500 last year.

Food consumed in the home and grown on the farm was valued at $10,368.73.

Home superintendent, Kenneth York, said there were better prospects for farm operation this year.

Deputy Reeve Charles Long of Tyendinaga, in seconding the motion for adoption of the home report, paid tribute to Mr. and Mrs. York for what he called their "personal interest in keeping costs down."

A vote was added to board chairman Reeve Wilson who said that Mr. and Mrs. York were "doing a wonderful job" and in comparison Reeve B. Harder of Sidney Township cited the cost of keeping patients at the home was but $127 per year as compared to well over $1,000 that is keeping costs down."

Mr. York was added to by board chairman Reeve Wilson who said that Mr. and Mrs. York were "doing a wonderful job" and in comparison Reeve B. Harder of Sidney Township cited the cost of keeping patients at the home was but $127 per year as compared to well over $1,000 that is keeping costs down."

Equalized Assessment of County Up Over Million From Last Year

An equalized assessment for 1958 of $30,529,000, up from the $29,323,000 of this year, is the probability will be adopted by Hastings County councillors at their current spring session.

The above equalized assessment for 1958 was recommended to council by county assessor Cecil Geen Wednesday in his report, which was approved and referred to by-laws.

The total assessment of the county as made by the local assessors in 1956 is $30,362,155.

There was a brief discussion on assessment matters following the reading of Mr. Geen's report with several of the reeves voicing complaint that their proposed equalized assessment was higher than their actual. They felt that with the county assessor system in operation assessments throughout the county should have been evened out and said actual assessments should be taken for the equalized figure.

Voicing this complaint were Reeve James Spry of Rawdon, James Kinlin of Huntingdon, James Sprackett of Tudor and Earl Sager of Madoc. These men pointed to the fact that fire losses had reduced their actual assessments, yet this had failed to reduce their equalized figure.

In reply county assessor Geen noted that the reason local assessments were not taken for the equalized figure was that in some cases local assessments were too low.

CONCUR IN RESOLUTION

Council concurred in a resolution from Norfolk county asking that local assessor be notified when county assessors would be making their spot assessments, and also asking for consultation by assessment commissioners and department officials on any extensive assessment changes in the assessment manual.

Reeves Sager and Bill Davis felt there was room for changes in the manual to bring it up to date with present trade.

Mr. Geen said that already department officials were setting up a program to allow their assessors to confer with local men, noting that regional offices were being set up from which their men would work more closely with local assessors.

The assessment report subjoined by the county assessor gave the county population as 44,760, not taking in the figures for Belleville and Trenton.

Biggest municipality, both 'n population and in assessment is Thurlow, with a population of 8,763 and an actual assessment as made last year of $8,174,009.

Smallest in population is Mayo with 650 people and an assessment of $130,250.

Fastest growing municipality is possibly that of Bancroft, whose population is now listed as 2,200.

A general rate of 10.16 mills, or about a one half mill increase over that of last year, will be set by Hastings county council for 1957.

The above mill rate figure, together with a debenture levy for the Hastings County Home of 433 mills and a levy of 8.9 mills for those municipalities paying the county road system levy, was approved at the Thursday morning session of council.

Expenditures for the year are estimated at $918,919.00.

Biggest factors in the one-half mill increase in the general rate levy are increased costs in law enforcement and in child welfare costs, according to Clerk-Treasurer Erle S. Denyes.

The roads by-law calls for an expenditure of $326,500; while administration, justice costs are set at $38,000; jail salaries at $37,-000; jail supplies and food, $13,000; jail supplies and food, $13,000; jail supplies and food, $13,000; indigent patients, $50,000; county home for the aged, $160,000.....

High schools will cost $69,188.72; debentures, $23,000; home for the aged, $12,425, and this year's payment on the county grant to the capital building fund $40,000. The county's grant to this fund will be paid in 1958, it was stated.

Under the heading of general government, county council and committee fees are expected to cost $15,000; officials' salaries $16,800 and miscellaneous $7,000.

On the revenue side the 10.16 mill general rate, including 1.364 mills for the hospital building fund, will raise $297,921.68. The education levy will realize the amount required for high schools; the road levy of 5.9 m ils will raise $154,225, which, with the provincial road subsidy of $173,276.95, will total the $326,500 road levy.

The city of Belleville will contribute $23,000 for law enforcement with Trenton's payment under the same heading being $14,000.

Revenue in connection with the county home is estimated at $118,000 and in connection with indigent patients, $25,500. The Dominion government grant in lieu of taxes is estimated at $10,-000.

Hon. W.M. Nickle To Officially Open Mill Area

A public opening of the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area in Madoc township will mark the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

The property will be officially opened by the authority on July 31st and Hon. W. M. Nickle, Ontario Minister of Planning and Development, will be asked to attend as the guest speaker.

Date for the opening was set at a recent executive meeting of the Authority held at Madoc. The problem of publishing a new O'Hara Mill booklet was discussed and the secretary instructed to prepare a draught copy and investigate the cost of publication.

Work of restoring the old O'Hara Mill has been underway for the past two years. The mill building has been rebuilt, the dam has been restored and the machinery put back into shape so as to be operative.

"The sawmill, well over a century old, is believed the only one of its type left in Ontario, is to be maintained as a historical attraction with the grounds about it to be used as a recreational and conservation area.

Welland Officer Denies Taking Part in Robbery

WELLAND (CP)—Earl Kirk, a 41-year-old former Welland policeman, denied Wednesday having any part in a $78,000 robbery at Welland post office last May and claimed his accuser had threatened to "get even" with him.

Kirk took the stand during his trial on charges of breaking and entering, theft and possession of stolen money arising out of the robbery May 4, 1956.

Harry Read, another former policeman serving a five-year sentence for possession of part of the loot, testified earlier he had given the money to Kirk.

Kirk testified he was performing his normal duties, patrolling on the perimeter of the community the night of the robbery.

TELLS OF TALK

Kirk said that before Read was scheduled to appear in court, "I received a phone call from Read asking me to see him." He said he went to Read's home.

Then, he testified, Read said: "You know what's been in the races five or six times and I won a considerable amount of money.

I have to account for it at my trial. I want you to say you were present when I won the money."

Kirk said he refused and Read pleaded with him, then swore at him and said, "I'll get even with you if it's the last thing I do."

The trial continues before Justice E. G. Moorhouse and a Supreme Court of Ontario jury.

Per Diem Rate For CAS Work Set at $1.41

An increase in the per diem rate for the Belleville Children's Aid Society to $1.41 per day will add about $9,000 to the county C.A.S. costs for this year, Hastings county councillors were told Wednesday.

Giving the report of the Juvenile and Family Court committee and Board of the C.A.S. representatives, Reeve James Spracklett said that the Belleville Society's rate had been increased 41 cents per day over that of last year.

Rates of all C.A.S. groups were increased without exception this year, Mr. Spracklett said. They range from a high of $2.46 per day in Toronto, to a low of $1.17 in Picton.

Mr. Spracklett also commented on the increase in the C.A.S. county council for a second preventative worker, quoting superintendent Bruce Kerr as saying there was too much work for the one worker in the county.

(Wednesday afternoon council voted that no action be taken on the C.A.S. request for the second preventative worker).

The county juvenile and family court cost a total of $4,963.29 during 1956. There was a total of 180 cases, 74 from the county and 32 from the city. The county's share of the cost was listed as $3,412.06, with the city cost being $1,551.23.

Kentucky Derby Will Have Field Of Ten Colts

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ten three - year - old colts, including Canadian-owned Mister Jive and the injured Gen. Duke from the Calumet Farm stable were entered for the 83rd Kentucky Derby which will be run over the 1¼ miles at Churchill Downs Saturday.

Bold Ruler, long-striding bay colt which moved into the favorite's role at 8-5 Wednesday when Gen. Duke turned up with his injured left front foot, was the first horse listed.

A couple of hours before entering the Calumet pair of Gen. Duke and, Iron Liege, trainer Jimmy Jones said "we still may not know whether we can run the General until right before post time." A horse can be scratched any time until 45 minutes before the 5:30 p.m. EDT post time.

WIRE ENTRY FEE

Probably for the first time in derby history, a horse was entered by telegraph when the $250 fee was wired by John L. Appelbaum of Toronto, owner of Mister Jive. The colt was flown in from New Jersey today.

Other entries: Round Table, Gallant Man, Federal Hill, Shan Pac, Indian Creek and Better Bee.

TORONTO (CP) — Three St. Bernard dogs were shot Sunday as they chewed at the bodies of nine of the 35 sheep they are believed to have killed Saturday night. The dead animals were found on the farm of Alf McKinnon, who shot the dogs after he and a neighbor had waited all night to see whether they would return.

Norman Case Made Issue in Election Campaign

MONTREAL (CP) — A French-language Progressive Conservative television broadcast Wednesday night indicated the party intends to make an election issue of the Norman case.

Speaking on a CBC TV network, Leon Balcer, a member for Trois - Rivieres, said Canadians are entitled to know whether their government employed a Communist ambassador" in one of the key world centres.

Mr. Balcer, president of his party's national organization, was introduced and later thanked in French by party leader John Diefenbaker. The 15-minute broadcast was on film.

The Trois-Rivieres member, referring briefly by name to Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Egypt who committed suicide in Cairo April 4, charged External Affairs Minister Pearson with having failed to give the country clear details of the case.

In a telephone interview from his Trois-Rivieres home after the broadcast, Mr. Balcer said he had devoted a radio broadcast Tuesday to the Norman case and Mr. Pearson's "contradictions" in statements about it to Parliament.

Asked whether the case would be a campaign issue, Mr. Balcer said while there was no intention of causing the Norman family unnecessary grief he felt there was reason to ask for full details and clarification.

Hunt Nine Men Adrift in Dories

HALIFAX (CP)—Search vessels nosed through rising seas off the Newfoundland south coast today looking for nine men believed to be huddled in two dories from the sunken fishing boat Joan Ellamae.

Gales, rain, fog and near-freezing temperatures hampered the search and would add to the discomfort of men on the Atlantic in open boats.

The 70-ton Joan Ellamae sank Wednesday night a few miles southeast of the French islands of St. Pierre et Miquelon and about 20 miles off the Newfoundland coast.

The Joan Ellamae's skipper, Capt. Edward Grandy of Halifax, radioed his craft was sinking and needed "immediate assistance." Two dories were put out.

Mildly Alcoholic Beer Will Be Available Soon

HAMILTON (CP) — The Retail Grocers' Association will have mildly alcoholic beer on sale in Hamilton and Toronto grocery stores within six or possibly three weeks, president S. J. Daly said Wednesday night.

The beer, to sell for $3.30 a case, will be imported by the association and supplied to members, he said. It will contain less than 4.4 per cent alcohol and thus will not be subject to provincial regulations governing the sale of beer, Mr. Daly said.

Heir to Millions Weds Family Cook

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An heir to cattle millions slipped quietly into a Roman Catholic church Wednesday and married a dark-eyed German girl who once was the family cook.

Then the two climbed by stepladders over backyard fences and hurried off for a short honeymoon.

In little more than a week, 21-year-old Wilhelmina Wallace Mein III must wind up a furlough from U.S. marine training. Thwarted before he became 21 last February from wedding 24 - year - old Isolde Constantini, Mein joined the marines three months ago with the blessings of his parents, who had hoped he would forget the brunette immigrant from Mannheim.

Mein's mother, Mrs. William Wallace Mein Jr., who once went to court and asked an annulment in the mistaken belief the pair already had married, is in Rome. Her husband was not too sure a second worker was needed.

"My idea would be to continue as we are," he said.

Several councillors wanted a report on the day to day activities of the preventative worker in order that they might determine if their own minds as to whether a second worker was required.

Mr. Kerr intimated that a detailed report would be impossible as too much time would be spent in the office. He said, however, that a report as to the number of calls and where they were made could be made available to council.

When the matter came up in ways and means during the afternoon session, Reeve Earl Sager agreed that preventing children coming into the care of the C.A.S. was important but he was still not certain that council was "not getting the run-around".

He said council should have the facts before it was asked to decide.

WOULD SAVE MILEAGE

Generally speaking councillors agreed that the present preventative worker was doing a good job, but many needed to be convinced that a second worker was actually required.

Reeve Clark Rollins and W. J. Davis, both from the north, were in accord with the request and urged that it be given careful consideration by council.

"This is an important question and one deserving full consideration of council," Reeve Rollins urged. "The present preventative office is doing a good job and a better job would be done if there were more help."

SOUND BUSINESS CLAIM

Reeve Davis declared spending money in preventative work was sound business and said many reeves did not realize the amount of service given by the C.A.S. in this field.

"I would like to see an officer full time in the north," he said. "It would be a benefit and would be money well spent."

Deputy Reeve Harold Varty of Huntingdon, and council representative on the C. A. S. board, said that he could be taken and his amendment carried.

No Action Taken on CAS Request For Second Preventative Worker

Hastings county councillors took no action Wednesday on a request from the Children's Aid Society for a second preventative worker to be based in the northern end of the county.

Cost of the second field preventative worker was estimated at $4,000 per year.

Outlining the reasons for the Society's request for the second worker were C. A. S. president B. Morgan and Superintendent Bruce Kerr. A brief was presented following which Mr. Kerr answered questions of the members.

One of the chief reasons for the request for the second preventative worker, according to Mr. Kerr, was to save travelling time between Belleville and the northern end of the county. The worker could be based at Bancroft, with the lower end of the county to be looked after by a worker travelling out of Belleville.

Generally speaking councillors agreed that the present preventative worker was doing a good job, but many needed to be convinced that a second worker was actually required.

Reeve Clark Rollins and W. J. Davis, both from the north, were in accord with the request and urged that it be given careful consideration by council.

"This is an important question and one deserving full consideration of council," Reeve Rollins urged. "The present preventative office is doing a good job and a better job would be done if there were more help."

SOUND BUSINESS CLAIM

Reeve Davis declared spending money in preventative work was sound business and said many reeves did not realize the amount of service given by the C.A.S. in this field.

"I would like to see an officer full time in the north," he said. "It would be a benefit and would be money well spent."

Deputy Reeve Harold Varty of Huntingdon, and council representative on the C. A. S. board, said that he could be taken and his amendment carried.

District Masons To Attend Church In This City

Prince Edward District masons will assemble in this city on Sunday, for their annual divine service and parade. This is an event that is eagerly looked forward to by all members of the Masonic craft. It is expected a large representation will be on hand from every lodge in the district.

REV. K. W. PACE

The members will assemble on the BCI campus at 2.30 in the afternoon and marchers will be placed for each lodge in the parade. When the parade is formed it will march off to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where the service will be conducted by the Brother K. W. Pace of the United Church at Tweed. The entire service will be under the direction of District Deputy Grand Master, Rt. Wor. Bro. J. L. Good of Prince Edward District and Rev. Brother W. H. Walker, District Chaplain.

The service in church will open promptly at three o'clock so that members of the distant points will be able to reach their homes before dark.

GERMANY'S DILEMMA

It one is able to think of nations as entities rather than as convenient groupings of individuals, or if one regards with approval the prospect of the sins of the fathers being visited upon the children, there is a certain justice in the plight which today faces West Germany.

Russia has been warning the various NATO countries of the dangers of reprisal by the Soviet Union if nuclear attacks on the USSR are launched from their soil. Most of the other nations have paid scant heed to these warnings—probably not so much because they do not recognize the peril but because it has long been self-evident and they have reconciled themselves to it. Their attitude is that what cannot be cured must be endured. The cure for the danger of being the target of Russian H-bombs is, in its own way, as bad as the disease, involving the acceptance of the danger of Communist domination whenever the Kremlin wished to impose it.

West Germany, however, has reacted nervously to the Russian warning—or threat, call it what you will.

The reaction, one suspects, is not so much that the Russians have called the Germans' attention to a danger which they have overlooked, as the fact that the Germans find themselves in a peculiarly dangerous situation, have long been aware of it, and in a reaction to the insane militarism of the Nazi regime have considered embracing pacifism.

The statements which officials of the Adenauer Government have issued in response to the Russian note have been aimed more at the German people than at Moscow. These statements have plainly been tailored to offset the effect which the Russian note may have on most Germans, especially the Socialists, Adenauer's chief opposition, have long taken the stand that West Germany should not seek to enter the atomic arms race. The Russian note may thus strengthen their hand.

For West Germans, the years since the end of the war have really increased, rather than alleviated, their peril. From the day when the anti-Hitler alliance started to break up, it was evident that if war did break out between the Western democracies, on the one hand, and Communist Russia and her satellites on the other, Germany would be the battleground. Many, in the West as well as in Russia, regarded this situation as providing a form of poetic justice in the international outlook. The Germans, in two world wars, had done most of their fighting on other people's soil. Now there was a distinct possibility that other armies would battle each other in Germany.

This danger has been largely eliminated, but only to be replaced by a greater. It now appears likely that any third world war will be mostly in the air, with comparatively little actual fighting on land forces. But Germany, lying between the West and the East, has no reason to expect that she would escape unscathed. Instead, it would appear almost certain that she would feel the weight of nuclear weapons, perhaps from both sides, if a land war does develop after all.

Those with long memories, those who recall the concentration camps and the gas chambers of the Gestapo, may see in this situation only a balancing of accounts. The difficulty is, though, that many of the Germans who live beneath the threat of the A-bomb's mushroom cloud were as innocent of wrong-doing in the Second Great War as babes unborn—were, indeed, babes unborn.

Innocent, though, have never found, in past wars, that their innocence was any protection.

TELEVISION TREATMENT

Dr. D. Ewen Cameron of the psychiatry department of McGill University at Montreal has described to a Dallas meeting a new technique for treating neurotic patients.

The patient is put to sleep for 15 to 60 days, is then given a week's treatment of listening for 15 hours a day to a record playing two or three statements over and over again. He is then put back to sleep for five or ten days—this time, we suspect, because he really needs the rest.

If there are any neurotics who fancy the do-it-yourself system they should be able to test Dr. Cameron's technique by tuning in some television programs we could mention.

Of course the programs do not really last 30 to 60 days—it just seems that way. As for the commercials, well they run unchanged for fifteen weeks or more.

It used to be that the horse and the bull and falls from the mow were the supreme dangers on the farm. Today the tractor has assumed that grim role. Every year young children, driving tractors, are hurt or killed because the machine capsized. The tractor ought to be considered quite as dangerous as a bull, or a horse, or a running creek. — London Free Press.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 2nd., 1907

The Belleville Rotary Club special edition of the Ontario Intelligencer was published May 1st. The edition was made up of forty eight pages and contained much interesting information with regard to the Rotary organization in general and especially concerning the activities of the Belleville Club in this city.

The club here was brought into being through the influence of the Toronto Rotary Club, an official of which came here and discussed the matter with E. Gus Porter, K. C., W. B. Deacon, Gordon Moffatt, Sandy Burnett and Bill Doyle. After several conferences at which the idea was explained a meeting was held at Hotel Quinte at which twenty four invited citizens expressed their desire to become charter members in an organization. Organization of a local club was immediately undertaken and on March 11th it became an established Rotary Club with the following charter members: Harry W. Ackerman, W. H. Adams, A. P. Allen, Gordon Bell, Wallace Bennett, Stanley E. Carman, Dr. Mason J. Clarke, W. B. Deacon, Percent Doyle, W. J. Downes, B. I. Hyman, J. V. Jenkins, Lieut. Col. Lazier, Dr. Marsh, J. A. McCreary, G. Moffatt, E. Gus Porter, Charles M. Reid, Macdonald Robertson, H. A. Scriver, Oswald H. Scott, Fred R. Smith, Dr. S. W. Tennent and P. H. Willis.

The following have been presidents since the organization of the club: 1920 — E. Gus Porter; 1921, Dr. Tennent; 1922, W. B. Deacon; 1923, Oswald H. Scott; 1924, Charles M. Reid; 1925, Donald Ramsay; 1926, Charles T. Dolan; 1927, J. Owen Gibbs; 1928, Mark Robinette; 1929, Al. Sullivan; 1930, Ed. Worth; 1931, Tom. Webster; 1932, Dr. W. J. Thompson; 1933, Bernstein; 1934, Jamieson Bone; 1935, J. Bert. Boyce. 1936 - 37 are: President, Bert Boyce; secretary, Ross Neal; treasurer, Irvin Hefner; directors, Archie Cameron, Fred Deacon, Fred Douglas, Charles Spalding and Jack Shortt.

The good work which has been done by the club in the way of helping crippled children was emphasized in an appeal which is made to the public for greater assistance in carrying on this humanitarian work. Many a deformed sick and crippled children have received treatment at the hands of the skilled specialists of Canada through the efforts of the Belleville Rotary Club. One child has been under treatment for over two years in Toronto and others for varying lengths of time.

Several supplies were written for the special edition by the president of the club, Jos. E. Bennett and Secretary Symons. A short history of the club's crippled children's committee by Oswald H. Scott, a past president, who gave the interesting history of the work since 1921 to 1927, and Dr. Baker.

The Belleville Rotary Club has fathered the organization of Rotary Clubs in Peterborough, Brockville and Cobourg and has assisted in the formation of the Lindsay Club.

Succulent New Suits

Chances are it's a man and he's wearing the latest fashion from France, the distinctive "new look" for men.

What Paris designers have in store for the men of the future and there's a lot of it, are pleated suits, layercaks - striped pants, tojet-shaded satin dinner jackets and red cowhide hats for use in fire the imagination of the more conservative Detroiter.

And, then again, if you're too timid to wear these clothes in public—why, you always can eat them!

Diefenbaker's School Chums

Windsor Star

Being a school boy chum of a political leader is no assurance of political success, as shown by what happened down in Invarea. There Mr. George Tustin, M.P., has just been named Returning Officer Conservation convention to Mayor A. D. Alkenbrack.

Mr. Tustin, party whip, was one of an unusual quartette of Conservative members of the Commons. These all attended the same school in York County, one taught at the time by William T. Diefenbaker, father o Mr. John G. Diefenbaker, present Conservative leader. The other two were Mr. Robert McGregor, M.P., East York, and the late Mr. Joseph Harris, M.P., Toronto Danforth.

Mr. Harris was first elected in 1925 and sat through until his death in 1953; Mr. McGregor entered the House in 1926; Mr. Tustin in 1935 and Mr. Diefenbaker in 1940 Thus the four school chums sat together in the Commons from 1940 to 1953, almost within arms' reach of one another. This strikes us as unique in the annals of Canadian politics.

Ideal Time for Cycling

New York Times

These are the days the bicyclist awaits for, the warm days, when clear skies and the burgeoning greenery welcome people of all ages to the outdoors again. They will be seen in greater number during the next few weeks, rolling over the highways, rasing through the parks, zigzagging lazily down country lanes. There are more cyclists than one might suppose in the United States now, upward of 20,000,000, adults as well as youngsters. Cycling is becoming as much a part of modern living as watching television, and it got a boost not long ago when President Eisenhower applauded cycling as a healthful sport that helps preserve the physical fitness of the nation's youth.

* * *

Today's bicycle of course is not what it used to be. The bicycle of the bicycle in this country came during the Gay Nineties, when the science of the safety. Although there weren't as many cars then as there are today, nearly every household that could afford it owned at least one, and that was a good one. Bicycles ranged in price from $100 to $150. Only the wealthy classes were filled with cyclists going to and from work. Every city and down had its bicycle club. Police men pedaled down city streets to warn pursuit of young "scorchers" exceeding the seven-mile-per-hour speed limit. When Lillian Russell rode her bicycle in pretty dress down New York's streets jams of people stopped to admire her.

* * *

Invention of the bicycle generally is credited to Baron von Drais, a Bavarian forest keeper, who designed a vehicle in 1816 by which he and his family could ride. His "Draisienne" was a crude affair, little more than two wheels attached to a wooden bar, which the rider straddled and propelled with his feet. Later a bicycle ward against the ground, A Parisian blacksmith, Pierre Lallement, developed the real ancestor of the modern bicycle with the "velocipede." Propelled by cranks attached to the front-wheel axle, it was the forerunner of the "high wheel" bicycle, popular in this country in the Eighteen Seventies, with its large front wheel and small rear wheel for steering. About 1884 an English farmer and manufacturer named J. K. Starley devised a practical two-wheeler, which is much the same as our present-day bicycle. The crank and pedals were placed between the front and rear wheels on a frame, and a chainwas used to drive the rear wheel. This was called the "safety" bicycle, and it entered everyday business and into the life of every household in the country during the Nineties.

* * *

Ironically, the bicycle paved the way for the automobile, which soon took over its role. Its eclipse, The men of the bicycle industry were the only ones who started advertising and mechanical facilities to be able to design and manufacture the early models of the great motor industry. Men as famous as Winton, Haynes, the Apperson Brothers, Duryea and Stearns were pioneers of the great motor industry. Then as the bicycle craze died out, it collapsed after World War I, and not until the end of World War II did it come into its own again. A trend on the part of Americans to improve themselves undoubtedly was in part responsible. Also, American tourists in Europe were riding bicycles in large numbers riding bicycles in British and on the Continent.

* * *

Inevitably the increase in bicycle riding led to a corresponding increase in problems of safety. The years 1955 and 1956 saw cycle accidents, about 400 of them fatal. Most of them involve youngsters. Several groups have instituted programs designed to promote bicycle safety, notably the National Safety Council, Johnson and Johnson and the Bicycle Institute of America. The movement is spreading. Today several thousand communities and a dozen states have started formal programs. But greater safety still is needed, too. Even those who wouldn't think of riding a bicycle themselves can contribute greatly to bicycle safety. Motorists in particular will be doing the community a service by bearing in mind that the cyclist, too, has a right to the highway.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Due to the hasty growth of our cities and some of our larger communities from the suburbs is being discussed in newspapers all across Canada.

Nowhere is not even those who work in them, wants to live near the factory. It is pretty obvious, also, when you choose a dear little bungalow in a pretty garden suburb, that there are many industrial developments in suburbs which are not unsightly. In fact, right promises that no industry would be permitted in the region that is being zoned for municipal enjoyment. Municipalities must have industry, but most industry looks like a little hungrily at handy population. It is a sad but amply demonstrated fact that the needs of the community override all sorts of other considerations. Thus we have increasing numbers of people who find out into the suburbs to escape the dirt and noise of crable fields, in order to escape the growing tendency of industry and business, and who now discover the incubus is pursuing them, and they only five blocks away. And it smells. If it doesn't smell, it is noisy. And even if it isn't noisy, it creates great explosions of traffic which make it harder than ever to get to and from your darling garden suburb with the children, and to live in the dirty city which you fled.

Three young friends of mine in the advertising business bought new homes in one of the prettiest of all our suburbs. They got about the same distance from the newspaper that no industries would ever be built there. Their neighborhood have been kept. But between the suburb and the city have pulled up. In the past few years, and more industrial developments that it is taken an hour and a half each way to fight in and out of town.

I live in an old, rather run-down neighborhood myself, in within seven minutes by bus from the heart of the city. It is full of old houses.

My three young friends have just sold their houses, until recently a genteel guest house. They have put up for bungalows. They are financing the alteration of the old house into a triplex with every modern convenience. There is a nursery school one block away and a grocery store two blocks. There is a large, placid tiled garden behind them.

"We'll be home," they said to us, "we will be glad to be home!"

Deadly Answer

T. D. F., In Ottawa Citizen

This week's "corkes" is from The Vancouver Province, the case of the clerk who phoned the Health Dept. to remove a dead mule from the street in front of his house. "I thought," said the smarty who answered, "that you churchmen took care of the dead yourselves." "Oh, we do," said the pastor, "but first we get in touch with the relatives!"

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Vitamin C, Iodin and Energy

Let's talk about nutritional anemia — what I call the "gray sickness", which occurs nowadays in women in the fourth decade, as chlorosis, the green sickness occurred in girls in their teens, in horse and buggy days.

Every girl with the green sickness eventually got over it, but somehow I was never quite convinced that it got over it, because the poor girls take was necessary. I had my patients build up on adequate diet, or what doctors in those days considered an adequate diet (it was before we knew anything about vitamins), including lots of milk, eggs, fresh green vegetables, and fresh fruit, would cure chlorosis if one could put the patient to bed, otherwise, if one couldn't do any such thing — at least I couldn't. What! No medicine!

Now comes Mrs. T.F., 46, reporting the wonderful results she has obtained by taking 250 milligrams of ascorbic acid (morphed vitamin C) and three iodin ration tablets daily. She raves:

"For the first time in my life my hemoglobin is 84. I have spent a small fortune on liver shots, B-12 shots, folic acid and iron tablets, to no avail. "I am never cold now, and my complexion has improved tremendously. I am sorry for women who spend a great deal of money on so-called miracle skin creams, the trouble in most cases is really lack of proper nutrition and good physical exercise."

I'm afraid the women who spend so much money on so-called skin creams won't get the message, Mrs. T.F. They'll wonder whether this proper nutrition is to be rubbed in before, after, or during cream or wrinkle remover.

Can't write more now — too much energy. I painted all the woodwork in our bedroom and enjoyed every minute of it. More next.

"For several years I suffered from those awful cravings in the forenoon and afternoon. Searches of my refrigerator for tidbits was common in your Adult Telary pamphlet. I began supplementing my diet with C and D, and for over a year now I have not had a craving. I am looking forward to painting again this summer and not just feeling around in a fog of water."

Mrs. T.F.'s enthusiastic use of the iodin ration, ascorbic acid (vitamin C) and, presumably, calcium pantothenate and B-12 after meals complicates the case.

Nutrition authorities estimate that the minimum daily requirement of vitamin C (ascorbic acid) to prevent every day symptoms, which would be supplied in a helping of fresh orange juice, a bowl of fresh orange juice, or a quarter of an orange, or a small serving of tomatoes (fresh or canned) tomato juice or a quarter of a head of lettuce.

Because of transportation and efficient domestic refrigeration, it is unlikely that the people in the United States get enough vitamin C from fresh fruits and vegetables. I doubt that the 250 milligrams of ascorbic acid prescribed by Mrs. T.F. twice daily had as much to do with the happy improvements she describes as the iodin ration and calcium and vitamin D. However, there is more to say about this another day.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

RULES FOR PRAYER

Today let us look at our Lord's counsel regarding prayer.

First of all, He said, let us pray with sincerity—not as those who try to make show of their piety but as those who pray in secret to the Father who seeth in secret may recompense them.

And pray, said Jesus, in a forgiving spirit. "If ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father also who is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses."

Pray with alertness, said Jesus. "Watch ye in every season, make supplication, that ye may prevail to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man." In our praying, let us always remember that God's will supreme. Our Lord's prayer in the Garden of the Last Night was "Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me; nevertheless not my will but thine be done." If we pray for the strength to do the will of God, we invite disaster.

Especially important is all of prayer is the necessity that we pray in faith. "All things what soever ye shall ask in prayer, believing," said Jesus, "ye shall receive." That is, our very belief that our petitions will be answered is a definite factor in causing them to come to pass. If we pray in doubt, half the potency of our prayer is destroyed; if we pray with the belief that our petitions will be answered, we shall receive.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

COMFORTABLE PEOPLE

There are few among us who do not have troubles, problems and discouragements. That is why we admire so much those people for whom I may term comfortable people — people who relax us, cheer us, who stand by us through thick and thin. Comfortable people, indeed!

Comfortable people overlook so much in us, for they see deeply, and are full of human understanding. I knew, and admired, Elbert Hubbard, who was a great boy in his wife on that tragic ship the Lusitania. His daughter-in-law told me of an incident in his home which ill. She loved horses and had her own pet which she rode daily. Hubbard went in to her hospital room, left a new saddle at the foot of her bed and went out without a single word. In telling me this Mrs. Hubbard, Jr., said: "It was always so understanding. He made everyone about him comfortable."

There are those of our friends whom just to be with is a joy. They are comfortable with us, and they make us comfortable. They know our faults and failings, and perhaps we know the same of them, but it makes no difference. The good in people, and in life, is all that matters, so far as our comfortable friends are concerned, and our attitude toward life.

We are never comfortable with those who are falsely critical, jealous, unkind and crude at times, and they bring out the worst in us. They hamper our happiness. They stir up bitterness. But those people are few in number as we bring to mind and warmth to our heart are those whom we call our friends. In June. They leave their own blessings for us to share.

If we are to learn to make others comfortable, they are sure to make us comfortable in their own, behind for us to share. It is impossible to make others comfortable without a rich return!

Johnny Meyers, Seriously Hurt In Car Mishap, Turns to Art

How many people would like to have the ability to brush some paint on a canvas and turn out a saleable product?

No doubt a great many people would like to be able to do just that.

But how many — in Belleville — are able to do it? Just a handful.

Hastings County has produced some fine artists, writers, painters, poets, lyricists and musicians.

Every day, almost, a new baby is born somewhere in the county. But it isn't everday that an artist is "born."

But a new painter was "born" recently.

His name is Johnny Meyers, a handsome, blond, 21-year-old man who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meyers at 18 Chatham St. in Belleville.

Over last September he has been painting scenes and portraits on a full-time basis. And he's selling his paintings, too.

Johnny has an interesting, if painful, life history.

He was born in Hamilton and received his high schooling at Belleville Collegiate Institute and Fisher Park High School in Ottawa.

Until a few years ago he was very active in sports in the city. But tragedy entered his life and put a stopper on most of his activities.

While returning home from Watertown, N.Y., one morning, he and a party of friends were involved in a serious car accident a few miles east of Belleville.

Johnny spent months in hospitals and underwent 22 operations on his legs.

Today although requiring the help of steel leg braces, Johnny manages to drive his own car safely and gets about almost as well as any other person.

Last year he tried operating a filling station near the Upper Bridge, but the incessant pain in his legs drove him to throw in the sponge. His thoughts turned to earning a livelihood in some other manner. Eventually after discarding one idea after another, Johnny settled upon painting as a career.

KEENLY INTERESTED IN ART

This wasn't his first attempt at painting. For as long as he can remember, Johnny has been keenly interested in art, in all its phases. In school he was an accomplished artist and passed his art exams with higher marks that those he got on his regular academic subjects.

But this was the first time he even considered going into painting as a full-time occupation.

Equipping himself with oil and watercolor paints, brushes and canvas, Johnny set himself up for business in the bedroom of his home. From his easel he turned out paintings which caught the eye of the celebrated painter, Paavo Airola. Mr. Airola has been a great help to Johnny and has given him constructive criticisms and guidance. Others, too, have helped Johnny.

During the winter months and when it isn't too cold, the young painter goes out into various sections of the county and records in oil some of nature's beauty.

When a storm hits, or when the temperature is too low for comfortable out-door work, he retires to his studio and resumes work on a portrait, or he may even begin a new one.

If he tires of painting, Johnny just picks up a pen-knife and begins whittling a tree branch and eventually turns out an attractive piece of work. The finished product may be a table lamp or some other object that will find a home in Belleville.

In the summer, when beautiful sunny days are common, he also in his back yard, busy finishing a painting, or idly whittling a stick.

Johnny's touch as a painter should assure him of a successful future. Already he has sold several paintings. Some of the offices in downtown Belleville are decorated with his paintings hanging on the walls.

Although a tyro at the painting business Johnny is holding his first public showing in the front windows of O'Connor's Jewel Box on Front St.

WOULD LIKE TO WRITE

But painting isn't his only interest. He also would like to write. He has made some attempts at writing short stories, but, as yet, hasn't worked up the confidence to send them to a publisher for appraisal.

He likes music, too. And he loves animals. One of his best pals is his dog "Prince," who can be seen wherever Johnny goes.

Courage, talent and the will to succeed are contributing toward a bright future for Johnny Meyers.

What are his plans for the future?

He would like to go to Mexico this coming winter and study art there. However, while living and working in Belleville, Johnny wants to gain experience. He isn't selling his paintings to make a huge profit. His price he asks for a painting just pays for the canvas, paint and frame, and gives him a few dollars spending money.

He values experience above money.

And one of the few people who can help him get experience is his mother, who also is a painter and who has been one of the driving forces urging Johnny on to success.

County Council Members May Raise Own Pay

Hastings county councillors are thinking of raising their own wages.

As a guide for the estimates committee which will present their report before the session closes, councillors briefly discussed the proposed pay hike Wednesday morning with $12 per day being suggested as the figure for councillors.

Pay for committee meetings is suggested as $8 per day, with 10 cents per mile mileage to be paid for both council committee meetings.

Reeve W. J. Davis, in presenting the motion as a guide for the estimates committee, suggested a figure of $10 for council pay but Reeve Irwin McCoy of Marmora thought it should be higher.

He contended that a man working in the public's interest should be well paid. "There is no reason why we should come down here and work for nothing," he said. "We get no thanks for it."

His suggestion of $12 per day brought the comment from Reeve C. Bustard that this would put councillors up in the same pay bracket as laborers.

Reeve J. Kinlin of Hungerford said a person in public service got no thanks for working for nothing. "They only get abuse," he said.

"Money can't pay for abuse, but at least we should get pay for our service," commented Reeve Davis as he noted a county councillor coming to session at Shire Hall was away from his business or other work for almost a full week.

County to Closely Study Proposed Annexation by City

Possible loss of approximately three million dollars in assessment in Sidney and Thurlow townships as result of proposed annexation by the city of Belleville, will receive close consideration by members of Hastings county council before their spring session ends on Friday.

This was indicated today when, after a preliminary round of discussion on the matter, a motion was passed to invite a delegation from the city to attend the session and explain annexation intentions and to outline the boundaries of the area proposed to be taken in.

Discussion was started by Reeve Charles Buskard of Deloro with the enquiry if there was any organized opposition to the annexation proposal.

He was told by the reeves of both Sidney and Thurlow that groups had organized and were getting facts and information as to how the annexation might affect them.

Reeve B. Harder of Sidney said there was opposition and referred to the irregular boundaries of the proposed annexation area. "It looks like an assessment and location grab," he said.

Reeve Alf Wickett of Thurlow said groups had also organized in his township and referred to the city's annexation proposal not only as an assessment grab, but also a potential assessment grab.

"We are not sure yet where the proposed boundary is," he said.

ANXIOUS TO KNOW BOUNDARIES

He said that not only was his municipality anxious to know where the boundary was, but also certain potential industry desirous of locating outside the city would like to know where the boundary would be.

He went on to say that the county as well as the townships should be concerned as approximately $3 million in assessment would be taken away.

"It's bad enough to lose present assessment but when potential assessment is also taken away, then it really hurts."

Reeve Buskard agreed that the county should be interested. "Three millions is one tenth of the total assessment in the county," he said.

To an earlier question by Reeve Buskard as to whether a vote would be required, Reeve Harder said this depended on the municipal board, while Reeve Wickett added that the board would be guided by the vote but the final decision rested with the board.

"Board hearing should not be sprung on us without us having the opportunity to get all the facts and figures," he stressed. "And we should obtain the best legal advice possible."

Just how annexation might affect the county home on the west is also a problem posed for county councillors.

Reeve Harder said the attitude of his council was that if residents to be taken in by the annexation wanted to be in the city, then his council would help get them in. But if they opposed the annexation, then council would also oppose.

Weddings

OLSSON — HUNTER

Rutger's Chapel, New Brunswick, New Jersey, was the setting on Saturday, April 27, at 8.00 p.m. for a pretty springtime wedding, when Nancy Jean Louise Hunter, of New York City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter, of Belleville, became the bride of Richard Keith Olsson, of Princeton, New Jersey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ragnar Olsson. The Reverend Doctor R. Abernathy, Chaplain of Rutgers University, officiated before a lovely background of white snapdragons, Easter lilies, gladioli and ferns.

The wedding music was provided by Dr. E. McClain, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. William Hunter, and escorted to the altar by her brother, Mr. R. J. Hunter, Montreal, was radiant in white embroidered organ lulle featuring a bodice and sleeves of shirred tulle with off-the-shoulder neckline, and hooped skirt over tiered nylon net. She wore a matching headdress with finger-tip veil, and carried a bouquet of white, majestic daisies and trailing ivy.

She was attended by Mrs. Robert Hunter, of Montreal, as matron of honor, and by Mrs. Murray B. Hunter, of Malone, Ohio, as bridesmaid, who were attired alike in ballerina-length gowns of pink organza over organdy embroidered in white. Both wore floral headbands and carried yellow majestic daisies.

Miss Cathy Fox, as flower girl was frocked in floor - length tiered dotted Swiss organdy with green sash, with floral headband, and carrying a Colonial bouquet of yellow daisies.

Master Tad Fox, as ring-bearer, was in a navy Eton suit.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Raymond Olsson, of Union, New Jersey, while Mr. Norman Olsson, a brother, Mr. Helgi Johnson, of New Brunswick, N.J., and Dr. John A. Taylor, of New York, cousins of the bride, and Dr. S. H. Fox, of Princeton, acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Professor and Mrs. Helgi Johnson.

For travelling to Bermuda, the bride chose a beige wool suit with navy blue accessories and yellow orchid corsage. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Olsson will reside in Rocky Hill, New Jersey.

Rebekahs Hold Attractive Garden Party Tea at Odd Fellows Hall

Pan, the god of woodlands and gardens, son of Hermes and Penelope, of a truth waved his magic wand about the precincts of the Odd Fellows Hall yesterday afternoon, for everywhere the eye turned blossoming trees, climbing roses, pretty flowers, and stately evergreens made a veritable garden of loveliness through which the perfume of wild blossoming plums was borne by every breath. Added to all this were the realistic garden umbrellas sheltering the guest tables beneath their green tops, while fringed, where groups of twos and fours sat and enjoyed the delightful garden party sponsored by the Rebekahs.

Mrs. Orriss Adams, Noble Grand, and Mrs. Eva Judge, Vice-Grand, welcomed the thronging guests into a reception room embowered with evergreens, trailing ferns and white bird fountains on which sims perched colorful, singing birds. Nearby, beneath a protecting umbrella, sat the treasurers Mrs. Lena McMillan, and Mrs. Florence Pollitt, who lessened the impact of dues by gracious smiles.

GARDEN TEA ROOM

The tea rooms, for there were two, one downstairs and one up, had been most appointed in similar manner with trellises of climbing roses, baskets of wild plum blossoms, tulips and daffodils, archways of sweetpea and pink apple trees in blossom, not to mention the rustic place with its green-clad logs, cozy chairs, and interesting aquarium with oriental fishes in colorful hues and gleaming shapes, while over all floated the strains of subdued music.

The hostesses were Mesdames Rhea Mitchell, Dorothy Webber, Helen Brenton, Eileen Storey, F. Collins, D. Harwood, R. Rushworth, M. Novenski, L. Downey, V. Gilroy, and B. Stubbert.

Those who served included Mesdames Flossie Bird, Hilda Mott, Ethel Ostrom, Gladys Brickman, Irene McMartin, Ila Cook, Addy, Alice Adams, Connie Wilkinson, Edna White, Verna Oliphant, Mrs. Simpson, Ruby Dunsberry, Winnifred Davidson, Stella Durette, Win Ross and Ellen Anderson.

Replenishing were Mesdames I. Muir, G. Charlton, W. Langridge, R. Way, Craig, Weeks, V. Summerhayes, Large, J. Carruthers and D. Clarke.

The guest tables were prettily appointed with white cloths, centred by little vases of spring flowers, tulips, and gypsophila, and daffodils, with places for four.

Little cups of salted nuts, and plates of delicious sandwiches and cakes, complimented by tiny serviettes in pink, yellow and green, added a pretty touch to an already alluring atmosphere.

As an added attraction there was an apron table, itself looking like a garden of flowers with its pretty colors. Some were in all-over patterns of floral designs, and some were plain. One especially pretty apron was in red organdy with three-tiered frills forming the skirt. This would become the prize of the holder of the lucky ticket, Miss Mary Harwood. Mrs. Emily Beslie was the convener here, assisted by M. Andrews, L. Smith and E. West.

The homecooking table, as usual, was replete with an assortment of fresh homemade buns, fresh rhubarb, nut-topped upside down cakes, tea biscuits, date loaves, jam-jams, chocolate cakes, a blue heart-shaped cake with pink roses and blue forget-me-nots drew the attention of many, jars of apple jelly, raisin squares, rose-centred cookies, honey-coated Chelsea buns, and bottles of vanilla extract substitute. Convening these were Mrs.

A "well-done" goes out to the decorating committee for its splendid work in the lovely decorations which changed a common assembly hall into an entrancing garden of dreams. This committee included Mesdames A. Webb, C. Ironside, O. Adams, E. Rushworth, D. Webber, D. Harwood, F. Pollitt, and B. Mitchell; also to the over-all conveners, R. Mitchell, D. Harwood, D. 'Emotionally Induced Illness' Topic at St. Andrew's Guild

Speaking to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Guild on Tuesday evening in the church parlor, Dr. Evelyn Williamson based her address on the subject of "Emotionally Induced Illness" by posing the question 'What is an Emotional' and defined it as a state of mind that affects itself with sensible changes in the body. Some common emotions are fear, worry, grief, hostility, joy, courage, and so on.

"There are external and internal manifestations of these emotions," said the speaker. "Tremendous emotions promote symptoms whose actual patterns differ in different people and even at different times in the same person. They are caused by acute nervous strain. Our bodies do not tolerate any interference by the mind.

"One outstanding symptom in all emotionally disturbed people is weakness and exhaustion out of all proportion to the patient's health. A patient's pessimistic outlook has a bad effect on his emotional factors.

PSYCHO-THERAPY

"Psycho-therapy is a process which aims to re-educate the emotions. Just as there is major and minor surgery, so there is major and minor psycho-therapy, and when minor means have failed only a qualified doctor can undertake major psycho-therapy."

In concluding her talk, Dr. Williamson emphasized that the cause of emotional origin is not imaginary any more than appendicitis is.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Elvidge and appreciation was expressed by Mrs. Geisbergen.

The meeting was opened with the president, Mrs. G. Shaw, in the chair. Following the opening hymn and prayer, the Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Lee Paterson. Roll call and minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. C. Sly, and the treasurer's report given by Mrs. F. Tounsley showed a satisfactory balance with the groups contributing from various activities.

Correspondence included an appeal from the Bables' Convalescent Home at Plainfield, and it was decided to make a contribution to this institution.

Announcement was made of a coffee party to be held at the home of Mrs. Jean Smoke on May 23.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Kennedy's group.

Refreshments served by Mrs. Ponton's group concluded the evening.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

JUST ASK HER FOR A DATE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a fellow of 19 and there is a girl I like very much who is of an entirely different faith from mine. Her friends say that she likes me, too.

I like to ask her out on a date, but I don't know how to go about it. If I do get a date with her, should religion be discussed at all? — David

Dear David:

The way I go about asking a girl for a date is simply to call her up and ask her. Don't assume that just because you and she are of very different faiths, she would automatically turn you down. Instead just assume that you are two young people who might like to know each other better, and call her up and invite her. It will be easier, too, if you have your plans all made as to where you propose to take her and how you would spend the evening, so you can be definite about the invitation.

I suggest, also, that you make a favorable impression on the girl's parents by telling the girl you ask her parents' approval for the proposed date and thus show yourself to be thoughtful and respectful toward them. If they disapprove, then tell the girl what time you'll call for her at her home, adding that you would like to meet her parents and have them tell you what time you should bring her home.

It would not be at all in good taste for you to discuss religion on your date. If the question should come up in any way, don't create a problem for you, write me again and tell me about it, and I'll try to advise you.

DON'T TRY TO REFORM ANYBODY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

There is a boy that I liked very much when I first met him, but I found out later that he didn't have a very good reputation. He was with the wrong kind of girls and I hear he does things that aren't right.

He keeps pestering me to go out with him, but I'm not sure I want to have anything to do with him.

What I want to know is, do you think I'm right, or do you think I should try to use my influence to make him change his ways and be a good Joe? — S.D.

Dear S.D.:

Trying to make anybody else good is not only foolish but generally quite useless. Robert Louis Stevenson once said: "There is just one person I have to make good—myself", and I think you would do well to follow that precept. If you bring your mind on making yourself good, you'll not be likely to get into any trouble. Also, any influence that you are going to have on anybody else will be through the way you act and not through anything you have to say.

If I were you, I would keep away from any boy who, you feel, needs reforming.

YOU NEEDN'T INSIST ON BEING CONVENTIONAL

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I lost my husband a couple of years ago, and since then many people use my given name when they write me. I prefer to use my husband's name with, of course, "Mrs." before it.

Which is correct? — Mrs. L.T.

Dear Mrs. L.T.:

Conventionally, a widow continues to use her husband's name, and you're quite correct in doing so. However, many widows do choose to ufe their own names, instead, and there is no reason why they shouldn't do so if they wish.

If I were you, I wouldn't make a point of insisting that people who have been using your given name in writing to you should change their way of addressing you, for, after all, what real difference does it make?

JEALOUSY TELLS TALES ABOUT YOU

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 17 and very much in love with a boy I know likes me.

The trouble is that, when I'm around, I'm always the big wheel with him, but when I'm not, he goes out with other girls. I've never seen him with anyone else myself, but some of my best friends have and have told me about it.

He's 21, and runs a place of business so he has to be friendly with everyone, but I'm the jealous type, and when he talks to other girls I get mad, although I never say anything.

Will you please give me some advice? — E.J.

Dear E.J.:

Yes, I'll give you some advice. My advice is to begin right now to realize how foolish and how childish jealousy is. If you let the habit of jealousy get a real hold on you while you're young, it can make a lot of trouble for you, and for anyone who cares seriously about you, when you're older.

Moreover, if you'll just realize that all jealousy really means is that you feel yourself inferior to other girls and so are afraid they will be able to take your boy friends away from you, perhaps you'll get a different idea about it. You don't want to give people the impression that you don't think you're as attractive as other girls, do you?

I'd like to add, too, that I don't think you'd better bank too much on your friendship with this young man of this age doesn't take a teenage girl very seriously.

THURLOW JR. FARMERS, JR. INSTITUTE

The 4th regular meeting of the Thurlow Junior Farmers and Junior Institute was held Monday in the Plainfield Orange Hall.

It was decided that the club would buy the coffee and make it at the hall. Also that the Thurlow Choir would sing at the County's annual church service at the Tweed United Church on May 26th.

The Scottish delegate is to be in Hastings County from May 21st to May 30th, and the year book, "Hasco Fans" will soon be put on sale. Gary Chambers led in a singsong. It was decided to hold both the May and September meetings in the Plainfield Hall. The project is at a standstill at the moment, but is to be brought up at a later meeting.

Kay Homan read the Thurlow Nursery Times.

Gytha Jostle led in recreation after which refreshments were served.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP

Your friends will like you more if you don't interrupt. You don't permit in thinking it is your duty and your responsibility to give them your unasked-for and unwanted advice. Mind your manners . . . mind your own business!

WEEK HOSTESS USES WHAT SHE HAS WITH TASTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I must give a dinner (similar to an) dinner soon for several men who are out-of-town official of the company. I haven't had to give this type of dinner beore, I have no help at all, and haven't complete table-equipment. So you see, Mrs. Beeckman, how much I need your help. I would appreciate it very much.

1. I had planned this menu: tomato juice, in crystal juice-glasses on small plates; roast of meat, potatoes, vegetables, dessert. (a) Should I have more courses for the meal? (b) Would it be right to serve a jellied salad on a small plate, to be eaten with the main course?

2. May I put a pad under my plates?

3. Is it necessary to have a large service plate under the small plate upon which the tomato juice glass? I don't have service plates, but could get them if important.

4. I have bread-and-butter plates, but I don't have individual butter knives. Is it permissible to use the place knife?

5. Because I don't have demitasse cups, would you say definitely that I serve tea at the dining room table after the dessert, or in the living room?

6. Is it correct for my husband to serve a cocktail in the living room while I place the foods for the main course on the table?

— Hostess

1. (a) Not necessary to serve three courses. (b) Not necessarily, not usually not all men, like jellied salad, particularly served with the roast course. Serve either a simple, mixed-green salad with meat, potatoes, vegetables, dessert, or a more elegant salad course—a lettuce-and-tomato salad perhaps (popular with most men), well-blended with crackers or French bread, one or two kinds of cheese.

2. Yes . . . but be sure that the doilies through the lace is attractive.

3. Not necessary to have large service plate under the small plate. The any plates, medium size or larger, under the plates.

4. Yes.

5. Hadn't worry about not having demitasse cups . . . I'm sure your men guests won't mind. You might tell them that they would like coffee or coffee with the meal . . . served in regular-size cups . . . served in regular-size cups . . . and that you would like to offer the dessert at table. Or, if your dining room is far and the men guests would like to "talk business" after dinner, it might be an excellent idea to serve the after-dinner coffee, in regular coffee cups, in the living room.

6. What's the hurry? Give your husband time to serve the cocktail in the living room with not too much of a rush. Since your first course is not a hot one, have it placed on the plates before you come to the living room to summon your guests. Then, after the tomato juice glasses and plates have been removed, bring in the main course.

New babies advance to solid foods

Gerber Cereals—Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal provide the ideal way to introduce cereal variety to your darling. All are precooked and ready to serve. When mixed with formula or milk they have the nice-on-the-tongue texture babies like. All four are enriched with iron, calcium and B-vitamins.

Regulating ideas. When your doctor feels baby is ready to move toward a regular, 3-meals-a-day schedule, you'll find a change of scene for a bit of play will help baby "wait out" a half hour or so. Tired of hunger soon cut early signals. Babies are adaptable and will often settle for attention if the wait isn't too long.

Early menu recipe. Doctors recommend fully ripe bananas for small fry, not only to provide energy-giving carbohydrate easy to digest form, but because most babies take to this palatable fruit almost instantly. Gerber Strained Bananas have a uniform, just-right degree of ripeness because of controlled processing. Special processing preserves the delicate banana flavor, appealing color and smooth texture. Bristol Native Sells Notions to Farm Families

EDMONTON (CP) — Dorothy M. Lusty says "the city's too busy."

Miss Lusty, who spends the summers riding a bicycle around the Alberta countryside, says "the country is the only place where I can get a good night's sleep."

A jaunty figure in riding breeches, rubber boots and gaily-colored tam, the 38-year-old native of Bristol, England, supports herself by selling notions to farm families.

Edmonton has been her headquarters for the annual summer travels since 1931. Each spring she loads her unique bicycle with her equipment—a testing outfit, home-made sleeping bag and suitcase on the back, tent poles, two small grips and a small suitcase on the handlebars — and heads for the outdoors.

"I tried working indoors at housekeeping and even worked on a dairy farm," she said, "but I can't stand being inside and I like to be my own boss. After each job I feel like I was just let out of jail."

Last year she put her bike into storage and travelled by horse democrat with her dog and a couple of cats. But keeping a horse had its problems such as ensuring a supply of fresh grass. "Shoeing is expensive too," she said, "and there aren't too many people who do it these days."

Usually when travelling she stays at farms or sometimes in a hotel.

This year, she's again using the bicycle.

Sentimental Accessories

By TRACY ADRIAN

New fashions have a soft, feminine look that even extends to accessories. In keeping with this mood, costume jewellers have designed baubles to give a charming touch to spring and summer costumes.

Here is an example. A necklace of opalescent moonstones with an underglow of golden flecks. Set into gold triangles, the delicately colored stones are a pale-and-pretty counterpart to the geometric design. Matching bracelets are paired off for double fashion at the wrist, while pastelled moonstones cast a milky glow.

National VON Headquarters Will Be Opened

OTTAWA (CP)—New national headquarters for the Victorian Order of Nurses will be officially opened here May 9 by Governor-General, Massey.

Christine Livingston, VON director in chief, said Tuesday some 300 VON officials and supporters across Canada are expected to attend the VON's 58th annual meeting, May 8-9.

More than 30 national staff members previously located downtown moved into the new offices in east central Ottawa Tuesday.

The house and property—worth an estimated $50,000—were bequeathed to the home-nursing order last year by the late Russell Blackburn, Ottawa businessman.

HELP FOR HOME

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — A Nanaimo serfice club (Kiwanis) shipped 22 bales of deer hides east for fabrication into leather goods, to raise funds for their senior citizens' housing development. More than $4,500 has been raised in this way during the last nine years.

Wedding Rehearsal Party

By Mary Moore

Sometimes you hit it right on the button and ask a question that I know the answer to because I am in the midst of doing it or having it done to me.

Imagine my glee on opening a letter from a reader who needed briefing on a wedding rehearsal party. I had just been to one given by Mary J. for her own Dave and Pat and their wedding party, and what was more I was to have dinner at Mary's and Cliff's that evening.

She is such a good sport, so generous and extraverted—even flattered to think anyone would want to know how she did what she did. Everything was done to perfection so I asked her to give me details. Smiling knowingly she leaned back in her chair and gave . . .

There were 16 present and the

BUFFET MENU

(for wedding rehearsal party) was: Roast Turkey, Stuffing, Cranberries, Casserole of Vegetables (nee notes), Moulded Salads on Platter (nee notes), Relishes; Thin-sliced White and Whole Wheat Bread and Butter, Two Angel Food Cakes (pink and green frosted), Raspberry Sherbert Vanilla Ice Cream, Coffee, Nuts, Mints.

Mary bought a 15-lb. frozen turkey when they were on special for 49c per lb. (She added that the food she prepared would have served 20, so if your party takes in 20 folks you are safe to follow this.) She used 1 loaf white bread for the stuffing and tossed it when cubed in a huge frying pan along with the butter, onion, celery, poultry dressing to "toast" it a bit because she thinks that makes a better type of stuffing when the bird is room temperature — not quite so "packy."

The feature on the table was her glass salad platter measuring about 14 x 20 inches. On it she arranged 3 jellied salad moulds:

Lime Jelly: 1 package lime jelly, 1¾ cups boiling water; let partially set; add ½ lb. cottage cheese, 1 2/3 cups drained canned fruit salad, 1 cup finely chopped upper celery stalks, shake of salt.

Apple Jelly: 1 package apple jelly, 1½ cups boiling water including 1 tablespoon vinegar, 2 each grapefruits and oranges sectioned (no membrane), ½ cup cucumber, seeded and cubed, 1 shredded raw carrot, ½ cup chopped celery, some salt.

Tomato Jelly: 1 package lemon jelly, 2 cups tomato juice including 1 tablespoon vinegar heated to boiling.

Note: I see I will have to continue this tomorrow. I will replace the Friday's readers' column with the second instalment of this Rehearsal Party menu tomorrow. You will have seen a readers' column yesterday (Wednesday) to make up for me usurping tomorrow's space.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

PROTECT SKIN AND HAIR DURING SPRING PAINTING SEASON

It's spring painting season again! Table and chairs about the barbecue in the backyard need touching up; the pretty wrought-iron furniture on the front lawn is beginning to show some wear and tear, too; and, even if you're an apartment dweller lucky enough to have a terrace, there'll have to be a bit of refurbishing done before you're ready to invite guests to share your "outdoor life." But it's a lot of fun — much more fun than indoor "spring cleaning" as any woman knows.

Paint jobs can be tough on skin, hair and hands, however, if you're not careful so, to emerge lovely and unsplotched after a session with the brush, take a few precautions.

First of all, cover your hair. That gay orange paint may brighten up your lawn or terrace furniture beautifully but it won't be the least bit becoming when spotted through your tresses—and getting it out is really a tough job. That's also true of glue, lacquer or any varnishes which you may use.

Also, before starting on your refurbishing job, be sure to cover your face and neck with a good cold cream. This will serve a double purpose. If your face happens to get freckled with paint, it will wipe right off and, all the time you're working, your skin will be absorbing the nourishing cream.

Cover your hands with gloves. Some women like to save old worn-out gloves for this purpose but, actually, rubber gloves are more practical. Paint has a way of seeping right through leather or cotton gloves, and, besides, the rubber gloves also protect wrists. Before you even attempt to open your can of paint, protect your finger nails by rubbing them over a bar of soap, so that the soap collects beneath them. Even one drop of paint beneath a nail can ruin a manicure because it's so difficult to remove.

If, after all these precautions, you still manage to find splotches on yourself, there are several ways of removing them. Tar turpentine which you probably use along with your paint is a good remover but better still is kerosene since it's not so drying.

Whichever you use, however, follow it up with a heavy application of cream to relieve or prevent drying. And, if you have gotten paint on your hands, you'll just have to have a manicure since paint removers also remove nail polish.

Spring painting's fun but it can be ruined if precautions aren't taken.

St. Margaret's Guild Sponsors Delightful Springtime Festival

"As sweet is the hawthorne buds that ope' in the month of May," and as colorful was the Springtime Festival held by St. Margaret's Guild yesterday afternoon in lower auditorium of the church. Graceful garlands of entwined pink and white cascaded from ceiling corners to meet in central knots, and simulated curtains of alternating stripes of pink and white divided the large tea room from the annex used for the overflow guests. In one corner stood the tall Maypole with streamers of pink and white, and on the walls, and peeping from every available crannie, were sprays of pastel-pink appleblossoms. Truly a Maytime symphony heralding the childhood poem of "Queen of the May," with its pressing lines: "You must wake and call me early, call me early, mother dear; . . . For I'm to be Queen of the May, mother, for I'm to be Queen o' the May." Little Miss Anne Bishop was a truly lovely "Queen of the May" with her silvery pearl studded crown, and bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Receiving the numerous guests were the rector's wife, Mrs. L. Arthur Peart, and Mrs. Arthur Watson, president of the Guild, while taking tickets at the door were Mrs. T. A. Collyer and Mrs. Mason.

In the centre of the quadrangle formed by the various booths, which occupied two sides, and the long tea table which held sway on the other, were the little quartet guest tables, each with its white cloth centred by a tiny cluster of pink Sweetheart roses and the invitation card bearing a picture of the new church with its attractive architecture.

LOVELY TEA TABLE

The tea table was most lovely with its hand-painted linen cloth bordered with deep pink roses, and centred by a little brass tea kettle filled with clusters of slender pink roses, and flanked by brass 'angel chimes' with four little white candles whose gently flickering flame kept the ang-e-lying and the chimes ringing. Mrs. G. Paradis was hostess of the tea room.

Presiding at the silver services were Mrs. R. I. Davies and Mrs. F. Ritchie, wives of the wardens; Mrs. D. Leeming and Mrs. William Collyer.

Those who served included Mesdames F. Bradley, E. White, R. G. Burns, F. C. Murray, William Knudson, M. J. Hunt, V. Windall, L. A. Coles, G. Meads, S. J. Dixon, D. Rendell, F. S. Woodcock and W. Fraser, while Mrs. G. Thompson, Mrs. F. Cotton and Mrs. M. Beresford replenished the cream and spread trays of good things.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. A. Watkins, Mrs. J. W. Elliott, Mrs. William Messer, Mrs. T. S. Hay, Mids Lois Rollins and Miss S. Bishop.

GOOD THINGS

The homecooking booth, which stretched across one entire end of the assembly room was filled to overflowing with all manner of good things to eat: pumpkin pie, cherry, cream and lemon pies; cup cakes with pink and green toppings; date and orange breads; white-iced angel cakes, nut sprinkled; cookies of all kinds; taffy tarts; raisin buns; Cream-filled cup cakes; cream puffs, chocolate touched; chocolate squares; maple-iced loaf cakes, and coffee rolls looking as if they would melt in the mouth. In charge of these daisies were Mrs. P. W. Pickering, convener, Mrs. R. Wood, Mrs. T. Collyer, senior, Mrs. A. Starr, and Mrs. William Gorham, all wearing corsages of pale pink Sweetheart roses.

Near to the home cooking was the booth of canned peaches, and slaw, fruit jellies, sausage rolls, meat pies, baked beans, potato salads, pear preserves, relishes . . . a well patronized delicatessen booth under the management of Mrs. William Todd, Mrs. A. W. Elliott, and Mrs. F. L. Jones.

As usual, the apron booth was filled with distinctive aprons as only St. Margaret's women known how to make them. There were aprons for both adults, and children, some in half apron style, and some in the all-over type; these were of pretty prints, and ginghams, with some plaids interspersed among them. Some were trimmed with different colored ric-rac braid, and some were in plain shades of yellow and blues, and others in floral backgrounds. Mrs. F. F. Moore, convener, assisted by Mrs. W. Roberts, and Mrs. A. F. Flint.

VARIETY BOOTH

The variety booth, which is always a drawing card for gift seekers, had some pretty stuffed toys, some were clowns, and others were of rag dolls, and the ordinary doll type, all nicely dressed; there were baby sets in wool in white, blue and pink; hat plate holders made from bottle caps crocheted over in mauves, blues and greens in the form of bunches of grapes; little sun suits in red and blues; and an adorable little pink dress with tiny embroidery frilling down the front and in the puff sleeve cuffs; tea cloths, place mats, and book marks for the Bible. Mrs. J. Rose, convened, assisted by Mrs. W. Bonlin.

The candy booth, convened by Mrs. R. Bailey and Mrs. P. Wills, was a 'sweet place' with its boxes of delicious homemade candies, maple creams, chocolate fudge, Turkish delight, strawberries, and cellophane bags of freshly popped corn.

Close by the candy booth was a booth devoted to plants of the tuberous begonia type, in all stages of growth from the freshly started bulb, to the fully grown plant with its two red blossoms.

There were also, as an afterthought, two tiny pots of young African violets, which were healthy looking and had promise of some pretty little flowers in the not too distant future. Mrs. B. Bishop was the convener of these.

In two rooms off the assembly room were the hot dogs and orange drinks for the small fry, under the convenorship of Mrs W. F. Ford, and Mrs. C. Miller.

Another pretty booth was a small table of occasional cards for all occasions, birthdays, get-well cards, 'anniversaries, and almost any kind one wished. These were under the convenorship of the junior auxiliary, with Mrs. D. Allan and Mrs. B. Balyx in charge.

FISH POND

A pretty fish pond in charge of the Girls' Auxiliary was convened by Mrs. William Stovin and Mrs. E. Kolb.

The nursery, in charge of Mrs. R. I. Davies, Mrs. D. A. Kays and Mrs. R. L. Hyett, was a playing place for the little ones to amuse themselves while the mothers sat and chatted and enjoyed their refreshing cups of tea.

A most interesting part of the Maytime Festival was the kindly showing of the new church auditorium by the rector, the Reverend L. Arthur Page, who is justly proud of this fine new church, and what it stands for. Though differing in architecture from the usual pattern, yet one is touched by its sacred peacefulness and the quiet beauty of its furnishings.

A Maytime Festival of loveliness, most successful, bringing appreciative commendation to the conveners, Mrs. G. E. Mountford, Mrs. J. Ritchie, for decorating, and to the many others participating.

COVER-UP JOB

By VERA WINSTON

A little cover-up jacket does a good job of making a day – time dress out of a short evening gown. Black lace is used for the bodice with black lace shoulder straps and empire effect waistband with black velvet back-bowed belt set above a scalloped line. The loose-swinging panel in back is nice when the wearer is in motion. The little jacket has a high-ground neckline and is back buttoned. Like the dress it is of black peau de soie.

POPULAR ATTRACTION

By VERA WINSTON

The girl in the gray flannel suit is going places these days. Seems that the gray flannel suit in various styles and versions emerges as a prime favorite, in many cases surpassing the popularity of navy. A dressmaker gray flannel is good for smart town wear especially when done with a light touch. The waist length jacket has a fairly wide collar and nicely detailed seaming with a centre bow. The pleated skirt is cut on the bias, each pleat stitched in the centre of the hip-line.

CHICAGO (AP)—George Weller, Chicago Daily News correspondent, reported Tuesday that he was seized in East Germany Sunday night and held until Tuesday morning. The Communists confiscated all his notebooks and $250 in foreign currency, Weller said in a dispatch to his paper.

2 Young Women Writing Exams to Be Embalmers

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Two young women from the Georgian Bay area are looking forward to an interesting career with their husbands.

Mrs. Vernon Emke of Chesley and Mrs. C. M. Alton of Meaford will write examinations in June to qualify as licensed embalmers. They will then assist their husbands as funeral directors.

In the 20 years the school of embalming has been in operation only 23 women have graduated in Ontario. There are three women in the current class of 36. Classes are held at the University of Toronto and the Medical Science Building. Banting Institute and Toronto General Hospital. Applicants must be 18 or over. Students must serve a 24-month apprentice-ship with a funeral director on a full-time basis.

Tall, dark-haired Lenore Emke is the mother of four children. Ruth Alton is also a busy woman, combining housekeeping, bookkeeping and private nursing with helping in the furniture store owned by her husband, as well as the funeral chapel.

Mrs. Alton, who graduated from the Collingwood General Hospital as a nurse in 1943, says she would never have attempted the embalming course without her nurse's training. She and Mrs. Emke both say that the most rewarding feature of funeral work is the appreciation shown by bereaved families.

SEASON'S OPENING PUTS FISH AND FISHERMEN ON ALERT

What would you rather do than go fishing? With the trout season open in most parts of Canada now, many citizens are answering that question in a way that leaves no room for disagreement. They've gone fishing and, as this scene on Ontario's Nottawasaga river shows, some are catching their elusive quarry.

Manitoba's Program of Alcohol Education Being Watched by Canadian, U.S. Authorities

BISHOP OF NEWFOUNDLAND

Most Rev. John Alfred Nesden of St. Johns, Nfld., is the Anglican bishop of Newfoundland. (CP Photo).

WINNIPEG (CP)—First of its kind in North America, Manitoba's program of alcohol education is being watched by authorities in other parts of Canada and in the United States as a way to combat the alcohol problem.

The Manitoba Committee on Alcohol Education is the pilot balloon - in a new approach which urges control in the use of alcoholic beverages.

Through an advertising and publicity campaign, the committee hits home the bare facts about alcohol and advocates moderation, rather than preaching prohibition.

Newspaper advertisements, radio plugs and street car displays use a tone of "friendly persuasion" in pleading for sane and sensible drinking in interpreting the province's new and more liberal liquor laws. The recently-enacted laws permit liquor sales in five new types of outlets.

GOOD RESPONSE

Professor R. N. Hallstead, committee chairman and a professor of English at United College, says public response to the campaign has been enthusiastic. Since it started last October requests for copies of the committee's advertisements have come from other provinces and from the United States.

He said in an interview that the campaign is designed to teach every one in the province, to inform the public that drinking is an act that requires responsible handling. Its object is to encourage a policy either of abstinence or of sane, responsible drinking.

"We don't feel that drinking is going to stop," he said. "But we feel that those who drink, if they are responsible citizens, will be interested in learning facts that will enable them to drink sensibly and without abusing alcohol."

Typical of the advertisements is one which appeared during the Christmas period. It advised those serving alcoholic beverages at parties to be considerate and serve non-alcoholic drinks with the alcoholic ones so that a person could make a choice; to avoid embarrassing the guest who declined an alcoholic drink; never urge a drink on anyone, never serve drinks to minors, always serve food with drinks, and never "offer one for the road."

Theme of most of the advertisements is: "Where there is drinking, moderation should be the rule."

Topics include: Why shouldn't adults drink?, Can you really afford to buy liquor?, How much do you know about the effects of Alcohol? and, Why shouldn't minors drink?. One sums up with "The decision to drink or not to drink is, of course, your own."

Other advertisements interpret the new liquor laws to the public, discussing how they affect the community, what new outlets are permitted under the Act and responsibility of the public in helping to enforce and enjoy the new laws.

Future topics will include one persuading non - drinkers to be more tolerant of those who do indulge.

The committee was appointed last May as a result of a recommendation by the Bracken liquor commission, and it works on a $20,000 annual grant. Professor Hallstead, who came from Cornell University, was a research consultant on the Bracken commission and on the committee for alcoholism for Manitoba.

The committee will not try to steer alcoholism education work in the schools, which is handled by the Manitoba Temperance Alliance and the Manitoba Alcohol Foundation, but it will co-ordinate its activities with all interested groups and hopes to give a boost to the work carried out in highway safety.

Professor Hallstead said some individual criticism of the campaign has been received, such as the advertisements being either "too dry" or "too wet," but that favorable reaction has far outweighed complaints.

Canada Council Work to Start In Late October

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Council expects to start its program to promote the arts, humanities and social sciences in October, and to meet with university heads by June to decide how it will make building grants to their institutions.

Hon. Brooke Claxton, council chairman, told reporters Wednesday—as the council ended its first two-day meeting — that council members will hold preliminary talks with university leaders during the National Conference of Canadian Universities in Ottawa June 7-8.

Parliament has armed the council with $100,000,000—$50,000,000 to aid university buildings over the next 10 years and $50,000,000 to be invested with the estimated $2,000,000 annual revenue to be used to promote the arts.

Mr. Claxton said the council cannot begin its culture aid program until the endowment fund starts earning revenue. Although he did not estimate how much money would be available this year, a start likely could be made on the program by October.

No decision had yet been made on how revenues would be apportioned. However, he anticipated direct assistance to artists would be an important part of the council's work and "quite a lot" of awards would be made as a result of competitions.

A staff of five officers and fewer than a dozen stenographers would begin operations in the office, Mr. Claxton said every effort will be made to keep overhead down.

The council Wednesday named three officers to help the permanent director, Dr. A. W. Trueman, and associate director Eugene Bussiere. They are Douglas H. Fullerton, Ottawa, treasurer; Lilian Breen, Ottawa, acting secretary, and Archibald Day of the external affairs department.

Hearings Adjourned

TORONTO (CP)—The hearing of Lord's Day Act charges against the three Toronto daily newspapers, the CBC and radio station CKEY was adjourned Wednesday by Magistrate T. S. Elmore to May 22.

The five are charged with violating the act by disseminating or gathering news on Sunday.

Wednesday, C. F. H. Carson, special prosecutor for the Attorney General's department, asked for the adjournment pending the result of an application by the CBC to the Ontario Supreme Court. The CBC has asked that the prosecution against it be quashed, claiming that as an agency of the Crown it isnotsubject to the Lord's Day Act.

Company and Union Settle Back to Verbal Sparring

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—Gaspe Copper Mines Limited and their 900 striking workers settled back to verbal sparring today at the deadlock which has paralyzed this company - owned community entered its 52nd day.

The company, a subsidiary of Noranda Mines Limited, broadcast a statement through the peninsula saying it is willing to negotiate with any certified union.

In the same statement it said there are approximately the same as those paid in northwestern Quebec.

The company has maintained that the strike has been illegal since it began March 11 because the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) has not been recognized as a legal bargaining agent.

Gaspe Copper obtained an injunction against restraining the Quebec labor relations board from hearing the USWA application for certification.

Two hundred and fifty union members met Wednesday night and heard union leaders counter the company remarks.

Emile Boudreau, a USWA representative, told the workers the company could show good faith and a willingness to negotiate by withdrawing its injunction. He said weekly wages here are approximately the same as those in northwestern Quebec but men here must work a 48-hour week while those in Noranda work a 40-hour week.

In Toronto, Richard V. Perritt, work in general manager, said more workers are returning to the plant every day and are putting the plant in order with a view of getting back in operation soon.

But union representative Roger Bedard said not a single miner is back at work. However, between 20 and 30 men, of whom only two are union members, have returned to work in certain shops while others are engaged in maintenance duties.

Army Promulgates New Order To Deal With Prisoners-of-War

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian armed forces have promulgated a new order dealing with conduct of prisoners-of-war.

The order reflected the result of a long study by the defence department of a new condition of warfare—brainwashing. The study was based on experiences of United Nations troops taken prisoner by the Communists during the Korean War.

The order does not alter basically long standing regulations that a prisoner should supply the enemy only with his name, rank, number and date of birth. But it spells out new hardships a prisoner might face if captured by the Communists and warns against giving in to them.

The order notes that any serviceman who acts traitorously while a prisoner-of-war may, on conviction, be shot or imprisoned for life or a shorter term.

It says:

"A prisoner-of-war, even under duress, will:

"1. Confer to the utmost of his ability answering any questions, whether oral or written, except as provided (name, rank, etc.);

"2. Not divulge any information which could incriminate a fellow prisoner; and

"3. Not engage in propaganda activities on behalf of the enemy or do anything which could weaken the cause of Canada and her allies."

One senior official said it might be inferred from the new order that a prisoner, when returned to his own side, would not necessarily be court-martialed if he had given information to the enemy as long as he had resisted brainwashing "to the utmost of his ability."

However each such case would have to be decided on its merits.

Officials found it impossible to write into the regulations any rule as long as when a prisoner had been maltreated enough to permit him to divulge information to the enemy.

Franchise Denied To About 900 Representatives

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada denies the franchise to about 900 official Canadian representatives abroad. But their complaints have brought no action in Ottawa.

The Commons elections committee, reviewing the Canada Elections Act in 1955, studied the problem. It involves diplomatic, consular, trade and immigration staffs scattered among 55 countries. The committee voted against such a franchise extension and the question never got to the floor of the Commons.

Main objection to the extension has been the complexity and cost of covering so many small and scattered groups. The proper constituency of each individual would have to be determined, the voting supervised and ballots collected and counted in time.

Canada's civilian representatives abroad argue that the vote is provided for the armed forces abroad.

However, the armed forces are in comparatively large units. The service vote for the June 10 election will cover 14,700 persons in 11 countries. It will be taken during the week preceding election day and the results will be messaged to Ottawa within the following week, to be added to the civilian vote.

There are anomalies, as in London where military personnel"on Canada's diplomatic staff will have a vote while Canadian civilians working beside them won't. But on small diplomatic staffs in most other capitals, both civilian and military personnel are ruled out.

Plane Forced Back

STORNOWAY, Scotland (AP)—An RAF transport plane reached safety in this remote island in the Outer Hebrides Wednesday night after being forced to turn back on a flight to Iceland.

The four-engined Hastings, with 14 persons aboard had radioed a distress signal that it was running short of fuel and might have to ditch in the Atlantic.It ad weather forced the transport to turn around.

Mary Day Parade Attracts 35,000 RCs at Windsor

WINDSOR (CP)—Southwestern Ontario and Michigan Roman Catholics Wednesday night demonstrated against communism's seizure of May 1 as an atheistic holiday instead of a day to honor the "queen of peace."

More than 35,000 Catholics paraded as the "Blue Army of Mary Immaculate" over a two - mile route through downtown Windsor to an open air service where Most Rev. John C. Cody, Bishop of London, called for "united prayer for the people behind the Iron Curtain."

The Mary Day parade, first held here in 1949 in defiance to the Communist May Day, attracted an additional 25,000 spectators, who lined the parade route.

CALLS FOR PRAYERS

Bishop Cody especially asked for prayers for the people of Hungary. He also asked prayers for labor and management in Canada, that they might gain inspiration to solve some of their problems.

The bishop along with minister of national health and welfare Martin and leading civic and church leaders, viewed the parade as it passed two hours before a reviewing-stand.

Featured were 21 floats, the majority based on prophecies of the Virgin when she appeared at Fatima, France, in 1917.

Three floats prepared by the Hungarian community here were highlighted by stark realism. One manned by freedom fighters from Budapest, portrayed the flight from their homeland. Another showed a battered house, two broken wooden wheels and a white cross, while the third depicted the imprisonment of Cardinal Joseph Mindszenty.

British People Ready to Face Facts and Act Accordingly Says Sir Saville Garner

TORONTO (CP) — Sir Saville Garner said Wednesday night the record of the British government in the last four months shows that the people of Britain "are ready to face facts, are tough enough to draw the conclusions from those facts and are willing to act accordingly."

Sir Saville, United Kingdom high commissioner in Canada, spoke at the 40th anniversary dinner of The Canadian Press, giving to his audience of newspaper men "a picture of the position of my country today as I see it."

Head Table guests included Sir Christopher Chancellor, general manager of Reuters news agency, and Robert McLean, president of The Associated Press.

Sir Saville said it would be an understatement to say that the last year was a difficult one for Britain. He paid tribute to Sir Anthony Eden, prime minister in a time of difficulty, saying that no one who knows Sir Anthony's character and record "can doubt his complete integrity and his earnest striving for the upholding of international law and order."

Harold Macmillan succeeded Sir Anthony four months ago and Sir Saville spoke of the "warm intimacy of personal relations" established at the Bermuda talks between Mr. Macmillan and President Eisenhower and Mr. Macmillan and Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Sir Saville described the United States, as the main support of the free world against the threat of Russian communism. Britain also wanted closest co-operation with the U.S., "but true friendship must rest on respect and mutual respect rests on recognition of strength in the other."

"We want to be partners and not satellites," he said.

Sir Saville said the British are facing "the reality of defence in the modern world." A white paper had told the people of Britain that "there is at present no means of providing adequate protection for the people of this country against the consequences of an attack with nuclear weapons."

Consequently, the over - riding consideration of the "new look" military policy was to prevent war rather than prepare for it.

Britain would take part in the collective defence of the free world "by our contribution to the nuclear deterrent and by a fair share of the armed forces needed by NATO."

Sir Saville spoke of Britain's plans to test her first hydrogen bomb and of the concern these tests have aroused in many countries.

"So long as Russia goes on with such tests," he said ,"we cannot afford to neglect to arm our side with this weapon."

Plans for scrapping battleships and anti-aircraft, for reduction of overseas garrisons and for economies in administration and manpower had come about because of two considerations: That recent scientific advances must fundamentally alter the whole basis of military planning, and that claims of military expenditure must be considered with the need to maintain the country's financial and economic strength.

Sir Saville said the British are not living in the past or on the glories of a past age but "are realists in the harsh world of today and are confident we can meet the challenge of the future."

The text of Sir Saville's address was issued to the press before delivery.

FIRE AT MAYOR'S HOME

On Friday afternoon about 3 p.m. the local fire department was called to the home of Mayor D. C. McVicker of Centre Street North. There was no one home at the time and Peter and Roger Dimmell had noticed the house was full of smoke. They informed a neighbor, Mrs. T. Jordan, who called the firemen. It was found a chesterfield in the living room was burning, presumably from an unextinguished cigaret, and fire had done some damage to an end table.

The chesterfield was removed from the house and the fire extinguished. The main damage was from smoke.

BOY HIT BY CAR

Four year old Glen Wager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wager, suffered injuries when struck by a car Thursday afternoon.

The accident happened about 3.35 p.m. on Fourth St. when young Glen was playing. Raymond Foster was driving north on Fourth St. on his way home from work. As he approached the intersection at Thomas, he glanced both ways to see if any traffic was coming. He says that as he returned his view to the road in front of him, Glen, who had been playing with a group of youngsters, darted right into the front of the car.

Glen suffered severe cuts to his face as well as bruises. After treatment by a doctor, he was removed to Kingston General Hospital.

Two French-Canadian girls, Therese and Cadie Desjardins from Rimouski, Que., were asked to leave a Masonic dance hall in Toronto after being asked to speak English, not French. Sponsor of the dance, S. G. County Squire Escorts Princess To Many Parties

LONDON (CP) — A handsome and wealthy county squire is causing a ripple of excitement among British newspaper columnists always alert for signs of a royal romance.

The squire is Christopher Lewis Loyd, 33 - year - old Berkshire farmer who has been seen escorting Princess Margaret with increasing frequency this year.

Both the 26-year-old princess and Loyd were guests of the Duke of Beaufort at the recent Badminton horse show and they spent much of their time laughing and chatting together. The Evening News says "there is no doubt in them there that Mr. Loyd has become one of Princess Margaret's very close friends."

Loyd, who isn't listed in Who's Who, first came into the public eye last June when he escorted the Queen's sister at Ascot for three days running. He hit the society columns again at the beginning of the year when he spent New Year's at Windsor Castle as guest of the Royal Family.

WEDDING A BALLROOM

On Easter Monday the princess visited Betterton House, Loyd's country mansion at Lockinge, where the bachelor farmer owns more than 10,000 acres of Berkshire's richest farmland. While there, she saw work progressing on a £5,000 ballroom-and-banquet-ing hall that Loyd is adding to his home.

A graduate of Eton and Cambridge, Loyd was a captain in the Coldstream Guards during the Second World War and won the Military Cross. He has dark hair and his lips curl down at the corners, giving him a scowling appearance when his face is in repose. A six-footer, he towers over the petite princess.

Loyd lives with his mother at Lockinge and the villagers and workers on his estate speak highly of him.

Future Stanley Cup Contenders

Hockey is so much part of Canadian life that it has also become a part of the national heritage. National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell smiles beside the symbol of World hockey supremacy, the Stanley Cup. The 65-year-old trophy has become one of the most famous objects in the international sports world.

The reflection of "team spirit" is clearly seen in face of finger-chewing youngster sitting out a penalty. "Will-to-win" is encouraged by thousands of coaches in Canada.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Gar Lunney

Sound hockey tactics are taught in Canada's multitude of organized leagues, often by coaches with professional experience. Hockey begins early in the lives of Canadian boys, and every town and hamlet has a league, usually supervised by Service Club, Civic or Church organization. While the value of fresh air and exercise is recognized, the building of character is the number one aim.

A hockey rink, shovelled out of the frozen surface of a river, has often been the cradle of a great hockey career. Divided into two groups, the players learn to stick-handle through a maze of opponents, mastering at the same time the difficult art of skating for hockey—sudden stops and bursts of great speed.

The average Canadian boy learns to play hockey at the age of six or seven and, in many cities, he can join an organized league when he is nine. A vigorous sport, well played hockey is a game of skill and intelligence.

Out of loyalty to their favorite professional hockey teams, Canadian boys wear junior duplicates of uniforms of teams in the National Hockey League. With rare exceptions, all National League professionals are Canadians, who learned the game on backyard rinks at home.

Scared Groom Fled to Mama Within the Hour

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A groom pecked his bride of only an hour on the cheek, whispered "I'm scared" and left for his mother's home. That was in 1954.

The bride, Mrs. Sherwyn Martinez, told Judge Ben Carter Tuesday that as far as she knows her husband still is on the solo honeymoon.

"I guess some men are just mama's boys," she said.

The judge granted an annulment.

Sugar Settles Two Accounts; Fight, Taxes

CHICAGO (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, again the middleweight champion, has settled all accounts —with Gene Fullmer and Uncle Sam.

He knocked out Fullmer in the fifth round Wednesday night. Then the government slapped a $23,000 lien on his purse to settle back income tax difficulties.

"I had no strategy," Robinson said in his dressing room. "I was just trying to manoeuvre him, using my right and letting him forget my left. I think God's got in the punch I wanted.

Robinson, who will be 36 or 37 Friday, was reluctant to take credit for the victory.

PRAISE FOR SUPPORTERS

"I owe much to millions of people who had faith in me and prayed for me," he said. "I owe much to Joe Louis for his moral support and knowledge. I owe much to Father Lang (The Rev. Jovian Lang of the St. Joseph Seminary in Westmont, Ill.) for spiritual guidance.

"And I owe so very much to my wife who suffered untold miseries as I prepared for my fight."

Fullmer said when he first heard of his decision he was asked: "What happened?"

"He never hurt me," Fullmer said, "because I didn't even know I got hit."

His manager, Marv Jenson said he thought Gene wanted to make a spectacular fight because he was champion. . . . "And it cost him his championship."

Fullmer elbowed his way into Robinson's quarters and shook his hand warmly.

"You are a gentleman, Gene," Robinson said.

Marlins Nip Leafs 8-6 Before Opening Crowd

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maybe the International Baseball League should play all their games in the daytime. A total of 67,808 turned out Wednesday afternoon for the four games played in Toronto, Rochester, Buffalo and Montreal.

The biggest turnout — 18,140 — watched at Toronto as Miami Marlins whipped the Maple Leafs 8-6 to tighten their hold on first place. An overflow 13,086 at Rochester saw the Red Wings nip the second-place Richmond Virginians 5-4. At Buffalo 14,458 saw the Bisons wallop Columbus 11-1 while 9,547 Montreal fans saw Royals defeat Havana 5-2.

A three-run homer by catcher Clyde McCullough in the sixth broke a 3-3 tie and put Miami ahead for good. Toronto came up with three runs in the ninth before Joe Sempreck, Miami's fourth pitcher, halted the rally.

TWO-RUN HOMER

Allie Clark's two-run homer in the seventh, his fourth straight hit, accounted for Rochester's triumph over Richmond. Lynn Lovenguth went the route for his first victory of the season.

Luke Easter's fourth homer of the season, a three-run blast in the third, helped Buffalo to its easy victory. Fred Hahn scattered seven hits in handing his second straight.

Montreal came up with four runs in the eighth to wipe out a Havana lead and beat the Sugar Kings. Joe Hatten pitched well for the Cubans until the eighth when two errors cost his own an bad throw to first, caused his downfall. Leo Cristante got credit for the victory in relief.

Feather Title Bout May Be Held in NY

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a good possibility that the featherweight championship fight between Nigeria's Hogan (Kid) Bassey and France's Cherif Hamia will be held in New York state.

That was the opinion expressed by George Biddle, manager of Bassey, before he and the tiny British Empire champion left by plane Wednesday for London.

"We don't want to fight in Paris and I don't think Hamia would get in England," said Biddle. "Therefore, I believe New York would rate top consideration on neutral grounds. I believe the International Boxing Club would like to hold it in New York City or Syracuse in late May or June."

Bassey retained the bout against Hamia for the vacant world title by outclassing Puerto Rico's Mc Gorl Beltran in Washington last Friday night.

Biddle said Nottingham, England, Paris and Montreal had made fine offers for the fight but added "I'll go along with the IBC if they come close to the other bids. They gave Hogan his chance."

Peace Reigns

Teams Accept Umpires' Offer to End Softball Loop's Battle of the Bucks

The "battle of the bucks" between the Belleville and District softball league teams and the Umpires' Association was settled last night in the form of a compromise.

The fee for officiating in a B and D game this season will be $4.35 per umpire during league games and $5.00 during all playoffs. Originally the Association asked for a straight $5.00 while the teams voted to pay the same as last year, $3.75.

Motions were made on both sides with the organizations holding several meetings to reach an agreement. The umpires met last week and voted down an offer of $3.75 for league and $5.00 for playoffs. They forwarded a motion of $4.25 and $5.00 through president "Red" Carson last night. Carson spent considerable time explaining the operation of the B.U.A. to the managers, answering numerous questions and then left the meeting with his fellow umpires. The managers tossed the offer around before voting it in by a narrow 4-3 count.

All teams were represented at last night's meeting with the exception of Trenton Juniors. They voted on the umpires' fee by proxy.

Don Lee, recently elected record vice-president of the OASA, chaired the meeting in the absence of league president Cy Partridge and vice-president Bill Bersehl. Mr. Lee thanked the boys after around before voting it in by a narrow 4-3 count.

All teams were represented at last night's meeting with the exception of Trenton Juniors. They voted on the umpires' fee by proxy.

Don Lee, recently elected record vice-president of the OASA, chaired the meeting in the absence of league president Cy Partridge and vice-president Bill Bersehl. Mr. Lee thanked the boys and the voting delegates for their confidence and backing in electing him to his position.

Much general business was discussed in preparation for the loop's opening games on Monday, May 20. The Belleville Merchants will play at Point Anne and the Belleville Seasons will play at Trenton to open the schedule. Other teams in the loop include the Frankford-Bata Shoemen, Belleville Bobcats and Madoc.

The schedule will run until late July.

Daylight games are scheduled for 7.00 p.m. A fifteen-minute grace period will be allowed, then a fine is imposed on the late team. Should a team not be ready to play by 7.30, the game will be forfeited to the other club and the fine will include all game expenses. The times are in effect until August 1st.

The teams are classified as follows: Point Anne, Intermediate "A"; the three Belleville teams, the Merchants, Bobcats and Bercons, are Intermediate "AA"; Frankford-Bata Shoemen, Intermediate "B"; Trenton Legion Junior "A" and Madoc Junior "C".

The four leg teams in the league will meet in the playoffs for the league championship and the Sun Oil Trophy, the first and fourth place finishers in one series, and second and third in another.

The city's intermediate "AA" teams will clash for the right to represent Belleville in the OASA playdowns and the winner will also receive the Mail Trophy.

In the past the league batting trophies have been awarded to the top batter among top teams and the top batter among the lower classification clubs. This rule was changed last night with the high average taking the "A" trophy and the runner-up getting the "B" trophy. Awarding the trophies in this manner gives all players an equal chance at the main prize.

The schedule will be published shortly.

Bold Ruler Now Favored For Derby Run

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Bold Ruler, the long-striding dark bay colt from Mrs. H. C. Phipps Wheatley Stable, today became the probable favorite for the $125,000 added Kentucky Derby Saturday. The question of whether his injured arch rival, Gen. Duke, will start remained unanswered.

As the names of the 10 and perhaps 11 finely tuned three-year-old colts were dropped into the entry box at Churchill Downs today, the big question was whether the sex of his Calumet Farm/ one-two punch of Gen. Duke and Iron Leigh would be in the starting lineup at 5:30 p.m. EDT Saturday.

After applying hot medications to Gen. Duke's injured left front foot all day Wednesday and Wednesday night, trainer Jimmy Jones said:

"I will enter him this morning but it may be an hour before post time Saturday before we know definitely if he'll be able to run."

Gen. Duke who broke even with Bold Ruler in four Florida races and set a world record for the mile and one-eighth in the Florida Derby, first showed signs of the injury after he finished second to Clifford Lunky's Federal Hill in Tuesday's Derby Trial.

An x-ray examination showed a bad bruise.

Meanwhile, Bold Ruler was installed the 8 to 5 choice, at least temporarily.

Within a few hours after Gen. Duke's injury became known here's what happened:

1. Jockey Johnny Choquette, scheduled to ride Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man, was suspended for 10 days in New York. Trainer Johnny Nerud put in a hurried telephone call to Willie Shoemaker and he accepted the job of piloting the speckled horse in the race.

2. Toronto owner John Appelbaum's Mister Jive, winner of the Gotham Stakes and fourth in the Wood Memorial (won by Bold Ruler) at Jamaica, was injured.

3. Trainer Woody Stephens said he would seek permission of Harry F. Guggenheim to enter his Calumet Stable's One-Eyed King, who finished second to Iron Leigh in the Liege and Gen. Duke in the special Keeneland race.

British Soccer Under Fire; Probe Asked

LONDON (AP)—A Labor member of Parliament has announced a move for a full-scale government investigation into British soccer.

J. P. W. Mallalieu said Wednesday he will ask Prime Minister Macmillan today to recommend the appointment of a royal commission to investigate the sport.

Other Labor MPs, supporting the proposal, have reported ready to suggest a government inquiry into the financial side of the game.

The MPs' move follows the $5,000 fine levied on first division Sunderland by a joint Football Association and Football League commission for making unauthorized payments to transferred players.

FIVE SUSPENDED

Five Sunderland players were found guilty of accepting under-the-counter payments and were suspended indefinitely. The suspensions led to the Players' Union saying that it is confident it can collect 1,000 signatures of players admitting they had received unauthorized payments.

The incidents have led to a campaign by British sports writers for a new deal for the players.

Under English soccer rules, players may receive a maximum weekly wage of only £15. Players also are allowed only £10 pounds when sold from one club to another, no matter what the transfer fee.

Score Sensational In Tribe's Third Straight; Spahn Marks 4th Victory

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Eastern Ontario senior "A" hockey league is naturally proud of the fact that its champion, the Whitby Dunlops, swept aside all opposition and created a senior "A" record by winning the famous Allan Cup in four straight games.

To Wren Blair and his doughty Dunlops goes the eastern loop's congratulatory pat on the back. They are worthy champions, a "Cinderella" team which found the silver slipper of national championship a perfect fit.

However there is one jarring note to the triumph. Manager and series coach Wren Blair whose vocal calisthenics both during the schedule and subsequent series did anything but increase his popularity, climaxed these hot-air antics by depreciating the fallen foemen and including "one or two teams" of the Eastern League in untimely and unwarranted remarks.

Blair likes publicity, especially the metropolitan brand, like a hungry wolf hates a fat rabbit. And his remarks to the Trenton press prior to the fourth game of the Allan Cup series will probably have repercussions down around the eastern neck of the woods.

A Canadian Press despatch prior to the fourth game stated "At the time the strength of the new league (eastern senior "A") was widely questioned and doubted, the Dunlops have proved to the most sceptical observers that they are worthy senior "A" contestants, Blair feels the other team's status may still be in doubt.

"Spokane" he said Monday night "is no better than two or three teams in the eastern league — Belleville McFarlands and Cornwall Chevies, for example"—end quotation.

No champion worthy of his salt kicks a foeman when he is down. Nor does he add anything to his own prowess by depreciating the ability of others who fell in defeat. Nor should Blair that Lady Luck did not exactly frown on the Dunlops at times and not a few of those gremlins of sport, the breaks, came their way.

Blair forgets that the Cornwall Chevies gave his powerpacked expensive hired help a hockey lesson on five different occasions. He did other members of the eastern circuit.

Perhaps if the other clubs of the circuit had had the finances or better still, the willingness to go into debt to purchase top-flight professionals, the race down this way would have been closer.

However, next year is another year. And if Blair wants to enter this "Senior "B"" league again, he might find the going a lot tougher when next season rolls around. The rest of the clubs in the eastern circuit were satisfied to crawl before they walked. And they did a fine job of toddling in their first year out. They were satisfied and so were the fans.

KINISKI HERE FRIDAY

Meet Mr. Kiniski.

No he's not the ambassador extraordinary from Lower Slobbovia nor a refugee from a Nebo Dame ballhook line. He's just about the roughest toughest hombre that ever came down the wrestling pike. Brother, he's rougher and tougher than a bull elephant at mating time. Gene, as he was baptised, clashes with a gent called Farmer Boy who mixes a nifty tenor voice with occupational grunts and groans. The Farmer Boy is no rube when it comes to wrestling and the tough Kiniski is going to have his hands full.

We saw the ferocious Gene on a television screen one night when he was being interviewed. He said he feared no one— and as for the fans, they'd..better lay off, too. And "That Means You" he growled pointing his finger at us. He's the kind of guy you want to have on your side. He weighs 270 pounds, stands six-five in his pinkies and is 25 years of age.

They call him the Edmonton Bulldozer—and that's compliment to the mechanical earth-removers. They tell us he is a college man, having majored in minor psychology. He's tough all right and Marse Walt Gerver had better have that ring nailed down tightly come Friday night.

COULD BE!

Wire despatches yesterday carried the story that Wren Blair will make an effort to send his champion Dunlops overseas in quest of the world hockey title next year. And he might just do that. Len (Kitchener Record) Taylor says he talked with CAHA secretary George Dudley the other day and that gentleman said there is a good chance that Canada will be represented next season.

Dudley said he thinks details can be worked out to have a representative at Stockholm next year but he agrees it isn't possible to pick an all-star team from across the country.

Says Taylor: "So if there is a Canadian team it will likely be an Allan Cup winner or something similar bolstered by a half dozen good players and sent across in time to get in a fair amount of pre-tournament training."

On Way to Strikeout Record With Average Nine Per Game; White Sox up American Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Young Herb Score, Cleveland's sensational strikeout artist, appears on his way to averaging at least nine strikeouts a game for the third consecutive season.

No other pitcher in the long history of baseball has been able to average that many in even one season . . . not Bob Feller, Walter Johnson, Cy Young, Christy Mathewson, Dazzy Vance, Dizzy Dean or any of the other pitching immortals.

Yet Score did it not only in his rookie year but repeated in his sophomore season. In 1951, he averaged 9.33 strikouts a game. In '56, it was 9.59. Now, in his third year, the fireballing batter at a faster rate than ever— are you ready? — 9.64 a game.

When Feller set his major league strikeout record of 348 in 1946, he averaged 8.45 whiffs a game.

ROUTED IN SEVENTH

The 23-year-old southpaw fanned a dozen in Wednesday's twilight game but before he was routed by Washington in the seventh, the Cleveland fought back to nip the Senators 7-6. It was the third consecutive victory for the Tribe Indians, who went over the .500 mark for the first time this season.

The high flying Chicago White Sox continued to fatten their rolling over Baltimore 9-3, and increasing their American League lead over runner-up Boston to two games. The Red Sox, who had won six of seven on the road, also dropped a 7-5 decision in Kansas City, the Athletics whipped Detroit 7-4 to even their two-game series with the Tigers.

COMEBACK WIN

A single by Vic Wertz, scoring two of Cleveland's three runs in the seventh, gave the Indians their come-from-behind victory. In the upper half of the inning, Washington routed Score after he had held the Senators to one hit. After getting his 12th strikeout, Score walked Eddie Yost, clouted a double to Ed Fitzgerald, a single to Roy Sievers and a double to Jim Lemon. Don Mossi relieved Herb and Mitt Bolling greeted him with a three-run homer to give the Senators a temporary 6-4 lead.

Ray Narleski, in relief, picked up his third victory without defeat.

Minnie Minoso paced the White Sox to their ninth victory in 11 games. The Cuban outfielder drove across four runs with a double, two singles and a sacrifice fly to help Jack Harshman gain his third triumph without a defeat. George Kell had four singles for the Orioles.

ROOKIE AND VET

Tony Kubek, the Yankees' brilliant rookie prospect, and Tommy Byrne, the veteran lefthander, teamed up to beat Detroit. Kubek hit his first major league home run, contributed two singles and scored twice. Byrne, an old Tiger nemesis, pitched but two hits in 4 2-3 runless relief innings to gain his first triumph. It was the 19th time Tommy had whipped Detroit in 28 decisions. Frank Lary, who beat the Yankees five times last year, was the loser.

Virgil Trucks, turned reliever at 38, earned his third success for Kansas City without a defeat, limiting the Red Sox to two hits in 6 2-3 scoreless innings. Gus Zernial and Harry Simpson drove in five runs between them for the winners. Each had a home run and a single. Ted Williams hit his fifth homer for Boston.

Moore Puffs Way to Win Over German

ESSEN, Germany (AP) — A pudgy Archie Moore today slipped inside a warning punch from the National Boxing Association which threatened to suspend the light-heavyweight champ unless he defends his crown by July 7, with a maybe-I-will-maybe-I-won't answer to the ultimatum.

"Look at me, man," said Moore. "I'm 30 pounds overweight. Who wants to see me in a title fight in this shape?"

Moore was a flabby and puffing champ as he pummelled over 10 rounds to outpoint Hans Kalbfell, Germany's third ranked heavyweight, Wednesday.

Moore was 206½ pounds, Kalbfell 210.

The NBA released its ultimatum to the press in Chicago at just about the same time Moore was wrapping up his fight here. The NBA told Moore he'll face suspension unless he defends against New Yorker Tony Anthony "as scheduled" in Detroit June 7, and the boxing authority will vacate the title if he doesn't get around to making a defence by July 7.

Soviet 'Baby' Cries on Papa's Shoulder

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Star Soviet athlete Vladimir Kuts Wednesday accused three British runners of lack of sportsmanship during the 5,000-metre race at the Melbourne Olympic Games last year.

Writing in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, Kuts named Gordie Pirie, Chris Chataway and Derek Ibbotson as the three English rivals who "amazed" him.

"I long ago noticed that the English are reasonable and very businesslike people. But what kind of unsportsmanlike and business-like methods were those of the English trio Pirie, Chataway and

They literally divided this distance into three parts, sacrificing each other to break me and not to give a Russian a chance of winning a gold medal."

Kuts, who won the race, added that when he stood on the winner's pedestal and the Russian national anthem was played "we recognized with pride that our duty to our homeland was fulfilled."

Pirie came second, Ibbotson third. Chataway was eleventh.

MAY BUILD STADIUM

MONTREAL (CP) — President Leo Dandurand of Montreal Alouettes said Wednesday club officials are studying plans of a stadium which the University of Montreal may construct and lease to the Big Four football team.

Alouettes now play their home games at the 25,000-seat park at McGill University.

The Sugar Was Sweet; Knocks Out Bulldozer Fullmer In Fifth Round

Robinson Marks Precedent In Winning Title 4 Times; Whistling Left Hook Did It

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, who pumps his own fountain of youth with two deadly fists, today was headed for the greatest pay off of his miraculous ring career — a mid-July bout with welterweight champ Carmen Basilio.

Robinson, celebrating his 37th birthday Friday, was the marvel of the title realm after his fifth round knockout Wednesday night of middleweight champion Gene Fullmer to become the first man ever to win the 160-pound title four times.

A 7-5-to-1 underdog, Robinson lured the 25-year-old Fullmer into false confidence at the Chicago Stadium and then paralyzed him with a sweet whistling left hook in 1:27 of the fifth round.

COULDN'T MATCH RAY

Fullmer, who had dethroned Robinson at New York in March, foolishly abandoned his rushing, brawling tactics of that fight and thought he could match Sugar Ray, flurry-for-flurry.

It didn't work.

It was like a bull trying to second-guess a toreador. The bull finally started in the fourth round. With less than a minute left, Robinson clashed Fullmer with a series of punches, climaxed with a left hook to the head. Instead of retreating, Fullmer tried to prove he wasn't hurt with a burst of his own.

The fifth started with Fullmer pressing, but missing. Robinson moved in with a stiff right to the body. Sugar Ray drove another right to the body. Fullmer's guard dropped way down. Then Robinson whistled the left hook to the jaw. It didn't travel far, but it caught Gene flush.

WHITHERED AND ROLLED

Fullmer crumpled to the floor. He writhed and rolled as referee Frank Sikora counted to 10. Gene finally struggled to his feet, but the fight was over.

The 160th victim—and his 121st knockout in 133 pro bouts since 1940 — pointed Robinson for a meeting with Basilio, probably at Yankee Stadium in mid - July, which could bring the biggest gate in ring history under the light heavy division.

Basilio now Robinson annihilator Fullmer.

"I thought Robinson fought a smart fight," he commented. "Naturally, I was pulling for Robinson to win. If I have a chance to fight the guy, it means a big pay day for me, too."

Fullmer's manager, Marv Jensen, blamed his fighter's defeat on his desire to fight a "spectacular" battle.

GET IN CLOSE

"We kept warning him in the corner to keep his hands high, especially after the fourth round," said Jensen. "I told him not to fight Robinson until he was in close."

The bewildered Fullmer said in his dressing room "that's the first time I ever got knocked out and I don't know how it happened. I wanted a knockout. Any time I can knock out a guy like that, I'll take it."

All three officials had Fullmer ahead by a close 19-18 margin, based on the "five-point must-system" in Illinois, after four rounds.

Robinson, who weighed 159½ against Fullmer's 159¾, explained he was "just manoeuvering" Fullmer.

"I used a right as a decoy," said Sugar Ray. "I wanted a clean shot with my left. I finally got it. I don't know how far it travelled, but I'm sure Mr. Fullmer got the message."

"I got a better chance of hitting it from here. I tried to push it put one over the plate if he tried!"

Goalie, Centre Named MVP's Western League

SEATTLE, Wash. (CP)—Brandon Regals' goalkeeper Lucien Dechene and Seattle American centreman Guyle Fielder have been chosen by sportswriters and sportscasters as the most valuable players in the prairie and coast divisions respectively of the Western Hockey League.

Dennis Riggin, Edmonton Flyers' goaltender, and Dennis Olson winger of the New Westminster Royals, were named best rookies in the respective divisions.

The selections were made by sports reporters in each of the eight WHL cities. All four winners will receive $100 and a trophy.

Dechene's MVP award is his second. He also won it when he was with New Westminster during the 1951-52 season. The same year, Fielder was named outstanding rookie, playing for the Royals.

LED BOTH DIVISIONS

Dechene led goalkeepers of both divisions during the past season with a goals against average of 2.65.

Fielder led the league scoring race by a wide margin, counting 33 goals and 39 assists for a total of 122 points in 69 games—the most points ever scored by a professional hockey player in one season.

Riggin played 67 games for the Flyers and had a goals against average of 2.96. He was born in Kincardine and played junior hockey with Hamilton Cubs. Riggin is the first goalie to win the award.

Olson scored 39 points in playing the entire 70-game schedule with New Westminster. He was born in Kenora, and played junior hockey with Port Arthur Flyers. In 1955-56 he was with Troy of the International League and led the league in scoring.

Brandon Evens Series With Aces

By TOM MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec-born goalie Lucien Dechene of the Western Hockey League champion Brandon Regals may not have pleased Quebec fans Wednesday night but he gave them lots to yell about.

The chunky netminer blocked 31 shots as the Regals produced a 2-1 photo-finish win over Quebec Aces to even their best-of-nine Edinburgh Trophy series at one game each. Right winger Ray Manson crowned Dechene's dogged work in the nets by scoring the winning goal at 19:35 of the final period—just 10 seconds after Quebec's Skip Teal tied the score at 1-1 in a six-man attack.

The clubs played more than 50 minutes of scoreless, hard-hitting hockey before Regals' Les Colwill scored to set the stage for the dramatic finish.

Dechene posted 26 of his stops in the first two periods as the contest but Al Millar also performed brilliantly for the Quebec Hockey League shieldsters.

FAST-PACED GAME

A crowd of 8,100 watched the teams stage the same sort of fast-paced game that kept excitement high until the last moment Sunday when Quebec took the first game 5-4.

The westerners showed strength early in the first period but slowed down after defenceman Howie Milford was put off for interference just after the six-minute mark as the Quebecers dominated play through the second stanza but were held off by Dechene's brilliant work.

Dick Gamble came close for Ace in the second when his partly screened shot bounced off the goal post. Dechene then outguessed centre Gene Achtymichuk who got the puck right in front of the Brandon net.

Millar, who recorded 19 saves for the losers, also turned in some fancy blocking during the period.

Colwill gave the winners the edge at 12:58 of the final. Len Haley dug the puck out from behind the Quebec net and passed it to Colwill who batted it in from just outside the crease.

USED SIX ATTACKERS

Teal produced the tying goal after Millar had been taken off for a sixth attacker with just over a minute to play. He spoiled a Regal shut-out at 19:45 by flipping the puck over Dechene who had sprawled in an attempt to put an end to a wild melee near his net.

The crowd was still cheering that marker when Regals snagged the puck after the face-off and rushed over the Quebec blueline, defenceman Bob Chrystal passed to Manson who steered the puck into the corner of the net.

Referee Len Corriveau handed out four penalties—including one misconduct to Vic Lynn of Brandon for arguing after the tying goal. Brandon also drew two minors.

Third game of the series will be played tonight in Montreal but all remaining games are set for Quebec ice. The clubs make their next appearance here Sunday afternoon.

Flin Flon Takes Habs' Hint Three in Third Good for Win

REGINA (CP) — Flin Flon Bombers took a hint from Ottawa Canadiens Wednesday night and came back with three goals in the third period for a 3-1 victory and a tie at two games each in the best-of-seven Memorial Cup junior hockey finals.

Ottawa had won the second game with three goals in the last four minutes of play and the third with four unassisted third period markers.

The balance of the series will be played in Regina with the fifth game Friday and the sixth Monday.

Bombers' top line of Teddy Hampson, Patty Glanell and Mel Pearson each scored once.

Billy Carter scored the lone Ottawa goal.

SCORELESS FIRST

The teams played a scoreless first period before a near-capacity crowd of 5,118. Ottawa moved ahead at 15:36 of the second.

Hampson set up the tying goal by stealing the puck from an Ottawa defender, Glinell, uncovered in front of the net, took Hampson's relay and sank a backhander behind goalie Claude Dufour.

Pearson scored the winner on a similar play. He took the puck away from Ottawa's Jean-Guy Asnable and fired a hard angle shot that appeared to glance off Dufour's short side.

Hampson, who also picked up two assists, scored the clincher into an open net after Canadiens' coach Sam Pollock had pulled Dufour for an extra forward.

Flin Flon coach Bob Kirk placed his regular netminder, Gerry Wood, back into the net. Wood played in the first two games of the final but sat out the third, which Ottawa won 5-2, because of a hand injury.

Dufour stopped 26 Flin Flon drives while Wood handled only 11. Referees Dutchie van Deelen and Curly Brasil of Edmonton handed out nine penalties, six to Ottawa.

Pirates Trade Long for Two Players

PITTSBURGH (AP)— First baseman Dale Long, the toast of Pittsburgh last spring when he broke home run records, has been traded with outfielder Lee Walls to Chicago Cubs for first baseman Dee Fondy and infielder Gene Baker.

The straight player deal between the seventh-place Pirates and the last-place Cubs was announced in Brooklynn and Pittsburgh after each club lost Wednesday.

Pirate manager Bobby Bragan said "the big man in the deal for us was Baker."

Charley Grimm, Chicago vice-president, said Walls gave the Cubs "a pretty good hitter, able to play centrefield," and that Long could furnish first base power.

"Long, who set a major league record last season by homering in eight consecutive games, has failed to hit a home run this year.

Will Televise 21 Hockey Games Next Season

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Hockey League and the Columbia Broadcasting system agreed Wednesday to televise 21 Saturday afternoon games next season.

Final approval of the plan rests on the league's ability to make up the necessary schedule.

Clarence S. Campbell, league president, said after a meeting of club owners: "Everybody is for it and our only problem is if we can acquire the physical facilities to televise."

Campbell said the problem will be the availability of stadiums.

He also announced that the 1957 season will open Oct. 8.

Campbell earlier in the day met with two representatives of the Players' Association, Ted Lindsay of Detroit and Doug Harvey of Montreal. Campbell said nothing came of the meeting since the representatives made no concrete requests or demands. He added that the players apparently are after a better pension plan and working conitions, but did not laborate.

Walter A. Brown, owner of the Boston Bruins, was elected chairman of the owners group. He succeeds Conn Smythe of Toronto.

Star game will be played at Montreal Campbell said the annual All-Star game Oct. 9.

Judge Thinks Picture Delicate And Refined

NEW YORK (AP)—A State Supreme Court justice told actress Arlene Dahl Wednesday he thought one of the promotional movie photographs to which she objects is "delicate and refined."

Miss Dahl has sued Columbia Pictures for $1,000,000 damages because, she said, composite pictures used in advertising her latest film, Wicked as They Come, were "lewd, lascivious and obscene."

Justice Henry Clay Greenberg asked Miss Dahl what she thought was wrong with a photograph showing a man kissing a shoulder which the picture portrays as hers.

Miss Dahl, who was dressed in a form-fitting black dress and wore a black hat trimmed with daisies, replied:

"Your honor, I am not a prude, but this picture looks like a den of iniquity. A double electric bulb is in it—a woman in a negligee. She looks as if she is enjoying the man kissing her shoulder. I never posed for such a picture."

Steaming the photograph, Justice Greenberg replied:

"A picture of a man kissing a woman's shoulder is in my opinion far from being obscene. I would say it was delicate and refined."

The trial is continuing.

DURANDO SUSPENDED

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Chairman James Crowley of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission Wednesday announced the suspension of Ernie Durando, Bayonne, N.J., middleweight who failed to appear here Tuesday night for a scheduled 10 - round bout with Rocky Castellani.

Durando and his manager sent word Tuesday that the fighter was retiring from the ring and would not appear against Castellani. Felix (Choo Choo) Bonson, Philadelphia, replaced Durando and lost by a decision to Castellani.

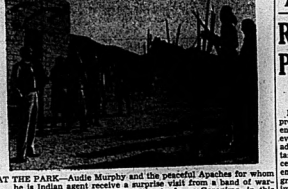
Whitby Hopes Of World Glory Depend on CAHA

TORONTO (CP)—George Dudley, secretary - manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Wednesday Whitby Dunlops' hopes of competing in the world hockey championships next year depend on the CAHA's annual meeting.

Dunlops, flushed by winning the Allan Cup in four straight games against Spokane Flyers, expressed hope of competing in the world championships at Oslo, Norway, next January.

After Whitby won the deciding game from Spokane Tuesday night team manager Wren Blair said: "I'm going to make a definite bid at the CAHA meeting at Edmonton May 23. The Dunlop company (Whitby backer) is interested and may possibly underwrite the trip."

"It will all depend on the annual meeting," said Dudley, "and the cost is always a big problem."



He estimated $30,000 would be the minimum required and the team or what was left of it would have to be overseas at least two weeks in advance.

A Dunlop executive drew a deep breath when he heard that figure, but hastily made it plain his company was "not disinterested in the project."

The CAHA passed up this year's world hockey championship.

Recent Cinderella Versions Pull Family Into Living Room

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's problem of attracting huge audiences to expensive shows is pretty evident in this season's fad for adult westerns and adapted fairy tales. Typical commercial success, a show must appeal to the entire family—from 3 to 93 grandmas, a large and frequently impossible age span.

In the newest tv westerns and in such special shows as the recent versions of Cinderella, the medium has done a fine job of pulling the whole family into the living room—as the big comedy and variety shows have been doing for years in and year out.

There's something for everybody in them. In the westerns, the kids still have horses, gunplay and fights. Their elders get a little sentiment from the lighter rancher's daughter and the stolen land in a building of psychological and psychopathic villains have been very big in all types of TV this year.

Fairy tales have been a different dish. Peter Pan was a television broadway show, written expressly and adroitly to hold an adult audience with sly humor to cut the whimsy-poo. Jack and the Beanstalk had elements of comedy and music and was, as they say, "motivated" to make some sense out of its story. For an original fairy tale, was not only a thief and murderer but apparently a dope as well.

Since the fabulous success of Rodgers and Hammerstein's Cinderella (it's too soon to get a report on the audience size of the Julie Andrews show), it's a cinch that plot-hungry producers are searching for classic fairy tales.

Mother Goose, source of Cinderella, has scarcely been touched yet. There's plenty of plot—not to mention action—in fairy tales like Little Red Riding Hood and Bluebeard.

While it was fairly easy to turn the cruel and wicked stepsisters of Cinderella into comic relief, it would be interesting to see what Mr. Rodgers and Mr. Hammerstein could do to make Goldilocks acceptable for the family circle the wolf determined to eat Little Red Riding Hood, or to explain away Bluebeard.

Both tales, given realistic presentations, would bring screams from the distraught parents and criticism from parents.

On the other hand there is an extra added attraction to fairy tales: Most of them are in public domain, and there's no expense author around looking for his cut.

ORFU Picture Said Bright

SARNIA (CP)—M. J. Chilton, newly-elected president of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, said Wednesday that the general picture for the senior ORFU this year is bright.

"I consider this to be a crucial year for the league," he added.

Speaking to members of the Sarnia Quarterback Club, Chilton said a crucial year for the ORFU because of the proposed television deal involving home games of the Toronto Beaches and the test game between the ORFU winner and one of the Big Four semi-finalists.

Chilton was empowered by the union to deal with Cass Kell Productions of Toronto in regard to a package TV deal concerning the six Beaches' home games at Varsity Stadium.

If the deal were approved, the games would be sent by microwave to a station in Buffalo and possibly to another in Detroit.

Chilton said plans for the post-season game between the ORFU winner and Big Four club should be completed at a Big Four meeting on June 8. He added that it will determine whether the ORFU will be ready to challenge for the Grey Cup in 1958.

AT THE McCARTHY — Noted criminal lawyer Jeff Chandler introduces his wife, Jeanne Crain, to Elaine Stewart and her husband Philip Reed, who faces a trial for murder, in this scene from Universal-International's "The Tattered Dress' filmed in Cinema-Scope with Chandler, Miss Crain, Jack Carson, Gail Russell and Miss Stewart as its stars opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE — Ray Milland doffs his broadcaster hat for starring role in "Lisbon" and Debra Paget is "Queen of Outer Mongolia" in special scene from "The Rivers Edge", Twentieth Century-Fox's CinemaScope hit now playing at the Belle Theatre.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was up in my room on the floor on my stomnick reeding my new lyberry book called 'The Ferst Ship to the Moon, and all of a sudd I thought, G, heck.

Meening I just remembered that I has had not to go around to Mrs. Selder's Old Fashion Cake Shop and order a lemmon meringue pie for tomorrow on account of Mr. and Mrs. Hews coming for dinner, and I had really only went up to my room to get my last 2 lyberlys out of my desk and I thought, Heck, G.

And I quick smuck downstairs and my ma would be safe out of the way back in the kitchin. While I was in the hall I took the front hall shining the glass in the mirror, and I said, Oh, hello, ma, I forgot to tell you something just going out on general principals and in four straight sessions like ordering a lemmon marrang pie, and ma said, What did Mrs. Selder say?

Mam? About the pie? I said, and ma said, Yes, I suppose there was no question about being able to fill the order.

What kind of a question, ma? I said, and she said, Oh dear, Mrs. Snider is so snooty, if I call up now and cancel the order, she wont make me one at all next time. I said, I remembered both the Hewses are on a semmy diet and don't eat much dessert, excepts for a pie that I dont need, that's terrible, she said.

Oh well, and a worry, ma, maybe Mrs. Snider isn't a mind reader, I said, and ma said, Now what's that got to do with it?

It means I forgot to go, so she would have to be a mind reader to know anything about it, I said. The result being ma was half relieved and half mad, just balancing perfect.

Sandra Dee at 15 Earning At Rate of $78,000 a Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Sandra Dee turned 15 last week she got a mink stole for her birthday.

This may give you the impression she is not a typical teen-ager. You're so right.

She's about as pretty a 15-year-old as you'll ever find, with wavy blonde hair and features that can only be described as perfect.

As for the other differences, she has:

Earned as much as $78,000 in one year.

Never had a date.

Only been kissed once—and then in the line of duty.

Sandra's perfect face naturally led to a modelling career in New York. She started out at $25 an hour posing for magazine covers. Out of her first job was posing as the mother of a baby—and she in her early teens!

She has the kind of a face that can be photographed to appear any age. Soon she was posing for all kinds of ads and mag covers. Filmed 7V commercials could raise her take to as much as $1,500 weekly. She's done many of them, and each time they appear she earns another $50.

But Sandra had the yen to be an actress, so when the call came for a test with Universal-International studios, she jumped at it. Her test turned out well, and she signed a contract. But she had to take a drop in earnings. She only gets $1,000 a week from the movies.

The screen test accounted for her first kiss. She had to go into a clinch with actor John Saxon. "I was scared to death," she recalled. "But once I got into it. It was easy, I liked it."

But still she has had no dates in her young life. How come?

"It can't be easy," she replied. "For one thing, I've been too busy. My mother and I were always dashing from one modelling date to another, eating lunch in the taxicabs. I didn't have time to think about boys.

"At school, I didn't think much of the boys my age. They were too young and immature. As for the older boys, they thought I was too young!"

Sandra is starring in a lonnot to MGM with Jean Simmons, Joan Fontaine, Paul Newman and Piper Laurie in Until They Sail. The picture called for her to do her first dancing. She can't even rock 'n' roll.

"I don't like it," she commented. "And Elvis Presley is not my type."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The bridge player s rated as masters are so apart in their bidding ideas they cannot see each other for the dust in their eyes. As in the world championship deal number 86 you see here:

	NORTH
	♠ 9 7 6 2
	♥ K 6 4
	♦ Q 10 5
	♣ A 9 3
WEST		EAST
♠ A		♠ Q J 5 4
♥ Q 9 7 3		♥ A J 5
♦ J 8 7 2		♦ A 9 4 3
♣ 6 5 4		♣ J 2
	SOUTH
	♠ K 10 8 3
	♥ 10 8 3
	♣ K Q 10 8 7

In room one all the players passed. Not one of them found a bid in the four hands. But what happened with their teammates in the other room? They found six kids before stopping.

Here is the room two bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 S	2 C	2 D	3 C
Pass	Pass	3 H	Pass
4 D	Pass	4 S	Pass

East did not have a sound opening bid. When it started all the others on a bidding spree he was sorry he ever opened his yap. But just when he was ready to quit his partner refused to.

When west showed a second suit, east had to tell him he liked the diamond suit best. To this it took the bidding to the four level with a hand he would have gladly settled for one.

Ordinarily, the result would be against the weak opening side. But for some unknown reason, the south opponent decided to play the part of "sacrificial" and made west a gift of the contract.

North took the first club trick. South took the second and made the amazing return lead of spades king that lost to the west lone ace. After this, declarer lost only another for the dub in the end.

The silliest of errors that defers make in play, by masters are deductions that somehow went astray.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Friday, May 2, 1967

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You need to keep your feet in your mouth" if you make up your mind to be at ease with dissenters, take upsets and obstacles philosophically, and tone down exuberance.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You may be tempted with wrong leads, may misuse energies and talents. Be careful from the hour you arise until you retire. Keep temper, emotions under control; don't criticize destructively.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — This is no time for regretting, looking backwards, wishing things were different. Everyone has had hardships, trials. It is how you push forward that counts.

Some folks may argue, dissent, and be just plain disagreeable now. YOU can offset this with a spirited and healthy enthusiasm for action and for good work.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Pleasing, expeditious, non-controversial tendencies prevail now. Avoid them yourself and do your best to help others strive onward with faith, courage, cheer.

August 24 to September 22 (Virgo) — Don't worry about what "might" happen, on what occurred yesteryear. TODAY is what counts, and today's deeds will bolster (or tear down) tomorrow's. Use common sense!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — you may have to cope with some who seem to have "got out of bed on the wrong side." You can do it; just maintain your sense of humor and be reasonable in the face of temper and antipathy.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Don't give in to irritation, annoyances; don't be too to do more than necessary.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — While your major planet, Jupiter, is somewhat negative in aspect, you can reverse less, accomplish more than may seen possible. Don't waste time, energy; be alert.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Bright prospects for some ging in well-planned and cleverly executed endeavors. Routine matters should be handled systematically, efficiently.

January 21 to February 18 (Aquarius) — Don't be caught in other people's hassles. You will deplete the energy needed for the things you should be doing; don't strain nerves, too. Be a good listener; remain calm within.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Spend some thought on the gracious and artistic sides of life, oil of which you appreciate. This is no time for misgivings doubts. Forget others' foibles; smile your way through.

You born today: Loyalty and practicality are strong in your Sign, Taurus. You are not always demonstrative, but are affectionate and friendly; can be gentle or rather short in manner, if not on guard. Don't abuse good health; avoid overindulgences. Employ workaday matters. Being Bohemian in associations isn't necessarily democratic. Birthdate of: Machiavelli, Florentine statesman.

SEEK PARALYSIS CAUSE

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Doctors are still diagnosing the affliction of six-year-old Susan Gillis of Alwood whose legs became suddenly paralyzed Monday and who also developed difficulty in breathing. SHARPENING

ALL TYPES SAWS, SCISSORS and KNIVES sharpened by a high school auditorium that could seat 2,400.
At several points he was interrupted by two Brekkers. He dealt them caustic words, at first suggesting they could learn something if they paid attention. Later he got his blandly cold back on the tracks June 1 last, after he had allowed a debate the evening before on some letters to the editor criticizing his conduct. The Speaker had ruled that anything which happened the evening before "had not happened."
MILLIONS WITHOUT ANY RISK

Mr. Diefenbaker said the pipeline bill, passed by the use of debate-limiting, was a case where "that a few of the anointed of the government could risk the millions without any risk." That fact would have been found if the bill had been studied in committee, but Trade Minister Howe had not wanted any study.

Three people and three American companies have been permitted to buy specified numbers of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines shares at $8.

"With the Canadian people taking the risk, and Parliament destroyed in the process, they were also to get the profits."

The Conservative leader spoke in a high school auditorium at Bible Hill, north of this town of some 14,000 persons. More than 1,000 were in the hall, the crowd around a door at the rear, or listening to loudspeaker in the principal's office.

TIGHT MONEY RAPPED

Mr. Diefenbaker's speech also attacked the government's tight-money policy. He said it is unsound and discriminatory against small business and certain parts of Canada—especially the Maritimes and the West.

One of the main causes of inflation was heavy government spending, based on overtaxation.

Mr. Diefenbaker had prepared a pamphlet on the subject, issued to the press before delivery, dealing with the Liberal government's program for farm surpluses, with Commonwealth trade and with the possibility of reviving the procedure in the United Nations General Assembly.

But he omitted those subjects in his hour-long speech, switching his emphasis to the pipeline.

TO SEE POPE

ROME (Reuters) — Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary-general, arrived here Monday night for an audience with Pope Pius and talks with Italian government leaders. Informed sources said he intended to speak to the Pope about United Nations disarmament efforts in general and the possibility of banning atomic tests.

Election Campaign

St. Laurent Says U.S. Capital No Threat to Canada

CALGARY (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says he is "often amused" by Canadian political concern over the flow of foreign capital into Canada.

This capital flow, mostly from the United States, posed no danger to Canadian sovereignty, he argued Wednesday night. Instead it helped quicken prosperity, and helped increase industrial production.

Those who viewed these capital imports with alarm should remember that foreign investment growth had not kept pace with other aspects of Canadian expansion.

"Our foreign indebtedness actually imposes a relatively smaller burden on the economy than in pre-war days."

THE 75-year-old Liberal leader, confining his fire largely to Social Credit Alberta to turn Liberal, hammered away at a high school auditorium that could seat 2,400.

Diefenbaker Makes Pipeline Major Issue

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — John Diefenbaker has indicated he is prepared to remain long and hard on the issue of last year's Commons pipeline battle.

The Progressive Conservative party leader has spoken regularly on the topic during his week-old campaign, but added new emphasis here Wednesday night when he referred to Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement in Winnipeg Monday that such speeches are "hot air."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Parliament will be destroyed if the election result June 10 makes Liberals feel they have a vote of confidence in their actions.

FREEDOMS ENDANGERED

"The word will still be a Parliament after the election "but the soul of it and the very essential spirit of freedom will have been wrenched from it."

Against sight had happened to Parliament, the Liberals had put the premier of "a little extra old age pension."

They think Canadians will forget.

"The prime minister says it's all right. It's the eternal spirit of freedom that we have to defend."

Against sight had happened to Parliament, the Liberals had put the premier of "a little extra old age pension."

They think Canadians will forget.

"The prime minister says it's all right. It's the eternal spirit of freedom that we have to defend our sons and daughters. If these people (the Liberal government) continue back with arrogance as the days ahead: 'You say we violated Parliament; what did the people say?'"

If the Liberals were returned to power, there will be little reason for opposition members to stand up to "these little contemptuous shrieks" which faced them in the pipeline debate.

Former Rene Beaudoin had acted under instructions in putting the pipeline debate back on the track June 1 last, after he had allowed a debate the evening before on some letters to the editor criticizing his conduct. The Speaker had ruled that anything which happened the evening before "had not happened."

Unknown Donor Honors Singer With Jewelry

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Jane Morgan turned over to police Wednesday more than $2,000 worth of jewelry she received from an anonymous admirer.

"I'm a simple girl who rides in subways and buys her own mink coats," was her explanation for not keeping the gift.

The platinum blonde said a shy little man, stooped, and with blondish hair, approached her in the hotel lobby Tuesday night and handed her a rectangular cardboard box.

"This is for you," he said. Possibly acting as a messenger for the real donor, he asked her to sign a receipt.

Miss Morgan found in the box a diamond wrist watch with 146 stones, a bracelet with 48 emeralds and diamond chips, and a 16-karat white gold chain.

Police said if the jewelry isn't claimed within 90 days Miss Morgan will be entitled to keep it—with no strings attached.

ANTI-SLAVERY PACT

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) A new international agreement against slavery came into force Tuesday. Thirty-two countries, including Russia, have signed the convention, adopted in Geneva last Sept. 7. The United States is not among them, as its policy is not to sign international conventions on subjects of domestic legislation.

British Paper Highly Praises American Action

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Telegraph warmly welcomes what it calls American "gunboat diplomacy" in the Middle East.

It says the whole theory of the Britannica (the peace kept by Britain) "affords no example of naval force used calculatedly for diplomatic ends which can compare with the Eisenhower Administration's movements in the eastern Mediterranean."

The Daily Telegraph comments: "We welcome this long overdue display of determination. It is the kind of action Sir Anthony Eden urged the president (Eisenhower) to prepare when he rallied Washington early in 1956, in an effort to put teeth into the tripartite declaration."

Colors of Cars Have Lot to Do With Mishaps

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Set. Wilfred Henrich, head of the Kitchener police traffic squad, believes some drivers may be risking trouble even if their cars are the latest models with every safety device in the book.

Since Jan. 1 a record has been kept of the colors of cars involved in accidents involving right-of-way violations. During the one month 57 per cent of cars hit at intersections were light or grey.

Black cars or ones with lightcolored tops were almost as often reported. By contrast, only one red car was involved in an accident during a month while other statistics showed that light green cars figured in 12 per cent of accidents in crashes and light blue cars in accidents at dusk.

"These colors seem to blend into the surroundings, making the cars difficult for other motorists to see," the police officer said.

The study being made by Sgt. Henrich is being watched with interest by the Ontario Attorney-General's Department, which is in charge of police affairs in the province.

The officer, by the way, drives a bright red car.

Was Rundown; Suffered Stomach Gas, Indigestion

Tells How Syntona built her up; helped appetite; "Scarcely dared believe how much better I feel."

Thousands of men and women suffering from faulty digestion, nervous rundown condition, constipation or rheumatic aches and pains tell of the good results obtained by taking Syntona Herbal Compound. For example, Mrs. Margaret Kelly, R.R. 8, London Ontario, said recently:

Thankful For Relief

"I was rundown and my nerves were so on edge I was irritable and often couldn't get to sleep at night. I often thought I just would get sore pains in my shoulders, arms and legs. My complexion was very sallow, I didn't enjoy my meals and food that I did eat gave me many pains, sour acid rising, and indigestion.

Even from the very first bottle of Syntona I noticed that my food was digesting better and my appetite had improved. Soon I noticed my nerves were more relaxed and I was enjoying sound, restful sleep. Now I do not always tired as I was before, the aches and soreness are relieved and I am surprised how much better I feel. If you suffer as Mrs. Kelly did why not try Syntona today? See how much better you feel in only a short time.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

DANES SIMPLIFY OYSTER FARMING

This unique method of oyster farming is bringing surprising results, according to the Danish oyster company which employs it. With the aid of cement the oysters are "fastened" to a nylon line and put out in the water as shown here. One month later when the oysters are big enough they are taken up as easily as they are set down. With the company's methods it is also easier to keep the many oysters from the line as are needed for the home market and export.

Atlantic Provinces Hit by Wind, Snow, Rain

HALIFAX (CP) — A British steamer churning into the Gulf of St. Lawrence's ice pack battled nine fishermen from rough, fogcovered water, after they had been missing since Wednesday night in a late-season blizzard.

The nine men—seven of them Newfoundlanders — took to their dories Wednesday after their fishing vessel, the John Shamas, sprung a leak and sank while the Atlantic Venture were being hammered by high winds, snow and rain. Five vessels and aircraft, searching since 10 hours after the sinking, by low visibility, rough seas and rain.

The nine men, identified from Cape St. Mary's, Nfld., were picked up about 15 miles south of St. Pierre et Miquelon when she spotted the survivors. They were hungry but well.

The crew members were identified as George Lovelace, Halifax; Bayr. Hughes, Halifax; Burris Churchill, Salmonier; and Robert Jensen, Garnish; and Richard Skinner and Edward Strickland, whose home towns were not known.

ICE STOPS SHIPS

Winds churned up the seas and caused havoc with other shipping Thursday.

Ice was driven in on the Sydney harbor and Cape Breton Lighthouse ships in a tight grip. The government ferry Scotia was also one of the victims. The CNR ferry William Carson, which gained experience this spring for its ice-breaking feats, was unable to crack through the barrier.

Elsewhere in the Maritimes the blizzard caused disruptions and some property loss. Lobster fishermen in Pictou County said traps had been carried away and bays Ferry service between Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia was disrupted for a time.

Snow was still falling at Charlottetown and Summerside to eight inches already on the ground.

Nine Fishermen Taken From Sea After Tug Sinks

Gambling Czar Wins Again, Assassin's Bullet Goes Wide

NEW YORK (AP) — Gambler Frank Costello was shot and slightly wounded Thursday night in what police described as "an apparent attempt at assassination."

The 65-year-old underworld figure was fired on almost point-blank by a gunman as he entered the lobby of his Central Park West apartment house.

After the gunshot nicked his scalp, Costello—often called the "No. 1 mystery man" of the American underworld and political scene — cried in his raspy voice:

"Somebody tried to get me."

The bullet struck him near the left ear, furrowed across the scalp part way around the back of the head, and emerged close to the right ear. In the apartment house lobby police found what appeared to be a flattened 25-calibre bullet.

Costello was taken by taxi to nearby Roosevelt Hospital, where X-rays disclosed no damage to the skull. He was treated, then escorted to a police station for questioning.

The shooting occurred about 11 p.m. shortly after Costello had arrived by car at his apartment residence accompanied by William J. Kennedy, a theatrical agent.

Pete Keith, doorman of the Costello was just leaving Kennedy and entering the building when black sedan stopped at the curb. Keith said a heavy-set man about six feet tall rushed by him and into the lobby.

The gunman fired while about 15 feet from Costello, the doorman said, then dashed back past him to the sedan, which raced from the scene.

Costello testified in 1951 during televised hearings of the Kefauver crime committee headed by Senator Estes Kefauver. He admitted in his gravelly voice that he had been a gambler and bootlegger, but said that in recent years he had been a retired "investor."

The only conviction on the Skillman - born Costello's record had been 40 years ago—for illegally possessing gun—but after the Kefauver hearings he was convicted of contempt of the crime committee and served a year in federal prison.

In 1954 he was convicted of evading $28,532 in federal income taxes. He began a five-year prison term last May, but was released on $25,000 bail last March pending appeal on a higher tax conviction which he was convicted provides a maximum sentence of only one year.

Stormy Career of Sen. McCarthy Closed by Death

Succumbs to Acute Liver Inflammation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A turbulent chapter in American history has closed with the death at 47 of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin—admired by some as an anti-Communist patriot, denounced by others as a witchhunter.

McCarthy died late Thursday of an acute liver inflammation five days after he entered the naval hospital in Bethesda, Md.

His death reduces to 46 the number of Republican senators. There are 49 Democrats and 1 Independent. His successor probably will be chosen in a special election this fall.

For a time in the early 1950s McCarthy's searches for Communists in government and elsewhere aroused bitter controversy. His influence was felt far and wide.

ARMY ROW BITTER

There reached its height when he reached his peak in a battle with the United States Army, which he said was trying to hinder his Red-hunting adversives. The army accused McCarthy of browbeating some of its officers called before his Senate investigations sub-committee.

Millions of persons watched a Senate investigation of the army-McCarthy row into investigation of his own conduct, resulting in a censure resolution. The censure was the beginning of his eclipse. By the time of his death he had practically been forgotten.

But in his heyday he tangled with other senators and with two presidents—Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman.

Both of the feuds went unmentioned today as erstwhile foes and friends alike voiced regret at McCarthy's passing and praised him as a "fighting patriot . . . courageous . . . a man of strong convictions . . . fine fellow."

REMEMBERED

Eisenhower, who had omitted McCarthy from the White House guest list in recent years, expressed his "profound sympathy" for the senator's widow.

Acute hepatitis, the illness that killed McCarthy, was the last of a series of ailments that have dogged him during the last few years. He had been in hospital at Bethesda for piles, bursitis, an old knee injury and hernia.

Council Of Europe Wants A-Weapons For All Forces

Common Military Service Period for Members Urged

STRASBOURG, France (Reuters)—Delegates to the consultative assembly of the Council of Europe prepared today for a debate on the integration of the continent as discussions entered the second day of a three-day meeting.

The assembly discussed disarmament and atomic bomb tests Thursday after a report by a committee of the Western European Union defence organization had called for tactical atomic weapons for all Western forces.

The report also said Western forces were still "too weak." And reduction was not acceptable.

The report, by the seven-country body's committee on defence and armaments, will be debated by the Western European Union assembly next week.

ASK 30 DIVISIONS

The report called for an atomic-armed force of 30 divisions for "forward strategy" in western Europe, and a common period of military service for the member states.

The report pointed out that British spent more on defence in 1955 than any of her European partners, and noted Britain's Commonwealth colonial wars and commitments.

But it asked what Britain is doing to enable her partners to participate in plans to equip British forces with guided missiles and other weapons. Britain was the only power likely to have atomic bombs and bombers to use them, but "this inequality must not be extended to tactical atomic weapons or guided missiles."

It concluded that the shield formed by the 15 NATO divisions apparently available to the West in Europe "is manifestly insufficient" and the position on tactical atomic weapons obscure and unsatisfactory.

Nicaragua Says Border Town Is Recaptured

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Luis Somoza told a cheering throng Thursday night a Nicaraguan force has wrested the border town of Mocoron from a Honduran garrison five times its size.

As the crowd exulted, the president-to-be, shouted that the Nicaraguan flag was flying over the Indian settlement on Central America's Caribbean coast. The two countries have disputed the border for years.

Nicaraguan and Honduran accounts of the border dispute varied. Each country insisted that Mocoron was traditionally its. A Nicaraguan national guard unit occupied the town two weeks ago and Honduran troops took it back Thursday.

NEWS BLACKOUT

In Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital, the military junta ordered a blackout of any dispatches about military operations except official announcements. Ground and air clashes between Honduran and Nicaraguan forces were reported Thursday.

The Honduran government ordered all men between 18 and 33 to register for possible military service.

In Washington, the council of the Organization of American States voted unanimously to hold a fact-finding mission to the area. It also called on the two governments to refer the dispute to the United Nations Security Council.

Gen. Somoza said 42 Nicaraguan soldiers defeated 250 Honduras in the battle for Mocoron, a town of 1,000. The Honduran number, who is chief of the armed forces said 28 of the 40-man Nicaraguan garrison which held the town until Wednesday were missing after the Honduran attack.

Atlantic Treaty Allies Back U.S. Policies in Middle East

BONN, Germany (AP) — The Atlantic allies let it be known today that they are backing the United States in its efforts to block further Soviet penetration in Middle East.

Disclosure of the joint stand on the Middle East came as the NATO council, meeting in Germany for the first time, turned its attention to the related problems of German unification and an East-West European security system.

Informants said State Secretary Dulles emphasized at Thursday's closed-door foreign ministers' session American determination to prevent further spread of Soviet influence in the Near East. Dulles also claimed that the show of force by the 15th Fleet in the Eastern Mediterranean saved restive Jordan from falling into Moscow's grip. He warned that more pacts may face the little Arab kingdom.

NOT FULL-FLEDGED

The foreign ministers studied a political assessment drawn up by NATO political experts. One conclusion was said to be that the Soviet Union as yet has no Middle Eastern ally which can be classified as a full-fledged satellite.

But informants said Turkish delegate Mukerrem Nuri Birgi dissented from the experts' view, expressing the opinion that both Egypt and Syria are following the Soviet line so closely that in effect they satellites.

The 15 NATO foreign ministers agreed that the alliance must have its defence against potential communist attack on a balance between conventional and nuclear weapons. Even such advocates of atomic deterrent as Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd stressed the continued need for conventional arms.

NOT INTIMIDATED

The pattern running through the foreign ministers' talks Thursday showed that the Allies intend to stand firm against Russia's latest diplomatic offensive in Europe. The Kremlin in recent weeks has threatened several Allied countries, including West Germany, with the direct consequences if they dare to equip themselves with nuclear weapons.

The council is expected to endorse plans of the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany to reappraise their policies on both German reunification and East-West European security. Informants have stressed that no basic policy shifts are likely to emerge.

Today's Chuckle

There must be a lot of good in some people, when you consider little has ever come out of them.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Unseasonably cold weather throughout Ontario produced night - time temperatures ranging from 14 at Windsor to 22 at Kapuskasing. Extensive cloud cover in the north prevented temperatures from falling even lower. Freezing temperatures will occur again tonight in most of Ontario.

Little change is indicated for the next few days. Moister air is spreading through the province and by Saturday, skies will be mostly cloudy in all except southwestern sections where afternoon cloudiness is expected.

Churchill Hits UN Stand on Suez Question

LONDON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill, in one of his rare public speeches, today criticized the United Nations for its stand on the Anglo - French invasion of Egypt last autumn.

The 82-year-old elder statesman told the Primrose League that "I do not think that the course then adopted by the United Nations has been helpful either to the free world or to the cause of peace and prosperity in the Middle East."

The Primrose League is primarily made up of Conservative party supporters. Churchill is its grand master.

His speech today in Royal Albert hall was his first public address in a year.

DEBT TO EDEN

The former prime minister said Britain and the Conservative party owe gratitude to Sir Anthony Eden for a lifetime of work upon the causes they all served.

"Indeed, those who at home and abroad attacked the resolute action which, in company with our French allies, he took last autumn may now perhaps have reason to reconsider their opinions.

"I do not think that the attitude then adopted by the United Nations has been helpful either to the free world or to the cause of peace and prosperity in the Middle East, and that I cannot be helped. Events have moved on since those days, and we must not be discouraged from continuing to take our full share of leadership in world affairs."

Toronto Reports Third Bomb Hoax

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto had its third false-bomb hoax in five days when an anonymous caller told police Thursday that two bombs had been hidden in the paint - spraying section of a Massey - Harris - Ferguson plant in west-central Toronto.

The bombs were supposed to explode at 8:30 p.m. and police cleared all employees from the building before a search team searched the building.

Police say the calls are the work of a person probably influenced by earlier hoax plays about planted time-bombs.

Granddaughter's Coming-Out Dance Sees Sir Winston in Fine Fettle

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill had a high old time until at least 1:30 this morning at his granddaughter's coming-out dinner dance.

The 82-year-old soldier-politician-orator-author-historian-war strategist-artist-home owner-novelist-and-list-farmer-newspaper man-elder statesman went to Claridge's to see Miss Sandra Sandys make her society.

"This is most enjoyable — I haven't been to a dance for such a long time," said Sir Winston, as he sat at a floodlit table watching 300 young bloods of British society dancing. Edwina is Churchill's first grandchild to bow to society.

Sir Winston's prescription for a long and happy life—"a lot of drinking, a lot of eating and light or nine hours sleep, most of it in the daytime" — seemed operative.

Churchill fired up several of his oversized cigars and quaffed champagne and his favorite brandy with other oldsters. It was simple orange juice for many of the youngsters.

At midnight Sir Winston and his wife, along with five others of the older generation, retired to the ambassador's suite for a quiet lingering over brandy and cigars, said "I am very happy to be here and very proud of it." Five minutes later he sent congratulations to band leader Ian Stewart for a jazzy rendition of Singing The Blues.

The Churchills slipped away later and missed a group of people waiting outside to cheer them.

Lady Churchill gave the party for her 17-year-old grandchild, eldest daughter of Defence Minister Duncan Sandys and the former Diana Churchill.

The Sandys separated in January, and Lawson Dry was invited to the cabinet of Prime Minister Macmillan. They met by cocktails Thursday at Churchill's London house and stood together in the receiving line at the party, but there was no hint of reconciliation.

Sir Winston, meanwhile, is making no secret of what he thinks of the Suez invasion. Speaking to the Royal Academy's summer exhibition, he said in his maiden speech:

"The painting, by Ruskin Spear, shows his bald head bent toward a puppy as he feeds it chocolate down his nose and his mouth open and retired to one side.

An artist and academician himself, Churchill let it be known at the academy banquet the other night that he didn't like what he saw.

Artist Spear explained: "What I did was paint a sound. You might hear a benighted Churchill saying 'N-a-r-c-i-.'"

Dave Beck Faces 2 Charges Of Evading U.S. Income Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters' Union president Dave Beck surrendered today to face indictment accusing him of income tax evasion.

The U.S. marshal's office said Beck came in voluntarily for the technical surrender, which is not necessary for marshals to seek him out on telegraphed word from Tacoma, Wash., that he had been indicted.

Beck was taken to the cell block in the basement of the federal courthouse and fingerprinted in the routine given all persons under indictment.

After this, Beck was to be taken before Judge Edward Curran for the setting of bond for trial anywhere in Tacoma to answer to the indictment.

The indictment returned against Beck at Tacoma accused him of evading more than $60,000 in income taxes in 1950.

The first count in the newest trouble to beset the pudgy president of one of the continent's largest union accused him of failing to pay $56,420 in taxes on $88,-823 of unreported 1950 income.

It says Beck and his wife declared a taxable income of $46,206 and paid $15,784 taxes. Instead, it said, they should have paid $71,-940 on $135,226 income.

Ironically, a delay by Beck in filing his income tax return that year made it possible for the first indictment within the time allowed by the statute of limitations. The time would have expired March 15 if he had not filed a return before the regulation deadline in 1951.

The second indictment accused Beck of assisting in the preparation of a false return which said the teamsters' Joint Council 28 building association in Seattle had expended $16,712 in 1950 for building payments and alterations.

The amount expended was fictitious, the indictment charges, actually was known by Beck to be substantially less.

Each count carries a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. Judge George H. Boldt ordered a bench warrant issued after setting the $5,000.

The warrant was telegraphed to Washington, where Beck currently is awaiting a second appearance before the Senate rackets investigating committee.

Charles S. Burchell, Beck's Seattle lawyer, said he had advised the teamster chief to report to authorities in Washington today. He will be allowed to post bail and return to his capital for the hearings by the Senate committee, which opens Wednesday.

200 Persons Rob Barrie Police

BARRIE (CP)—About 200 persons have robbed the Barrie police.

The force disclosed Thursday that although only 400 tickets to the first annual ball were sold, cold plates, included in the price of the tickets, were served to 600 guests.

Police believe 200 gatecrashers sneaked by the doorman to mingle with dozens of off-duty policemen at the dance.

The ball raised $400 to finance sports programs.

McCarthy's Death Revives Tirades Against Methods

LONDON (AP) — The death of Senator Joseph McCarthy in Washington has renewed in European capitals here at least the bitter resentment passions that once surged around his name.

Nearly all British papers gave the story both prominent front-page play, along with bitter editorial moratoriums on "McCarthyism."

In France, all papers referred to McCarthy as "the witch hunter." Communist daily L'Humanite declared he "was famous for his provocations and for methods worthy of the inquisitions against communism."

The same word "inquisition" was used in the London Conservative paper, Daily Telegraph.

Austrian papers announced the death with such headlines as "Senator McCarthy Suddenly Dies."

Typical of British comment is an editorial in the Liberal paper News Chronicle: "He built a monstrous myth and made millions believe it, but like a fool he overreached himself and destroyed the myth and himself. America was the cleaner by his fall, and is cleaner by his death."

Other British comment:

The Times (Conservative): "His name became synonymous with a form of demagogy which outrageously resuscitated the victim's early discarded beliefs and reconciled them with the citizen's loyalty and integrity."

The Daily Mail (Conservative): "He became the world's most hated man."

The Herald (Labor): "He used his position to hound men whose views were a love of freedom or thought."

Daily Express (Independent): "He was a man obsessed with the guilty—that might be his epitaph. Whatever his motives he died like this for he had nothing to look forward to but oblivion."

The Manchester Guardian: "His career indicates the great if transient power which can be obtained in the life of a democratic country by loud and persistent repetition of the big lie."

Swedes Admit Seals Were Tested To Hunt Down Foreign Submarines

STOCKHOLM (AP) — One of Sweden's most controversial stories has leaked out, a story of using seals to hunt down foreign submarines.

Now, we tried it," a naval spokesman said Thursday, "and we couldn't get flip about it. The seals co-operated but we couldn't handle the fish."

The brief test of efforts by the Swedish naval staff to train seals to hunt down foreign subs in action against enemy subs was told in a newspaper by Petrus Nordlund, a Swedish naval officer. The account was confirmed by the navy staff.

Nordlund said he travelled by air all over the Swedish coast during the 1956 outbreak of war to capture young seals and train them alive to Stockholm naval headquarters.

The seals were put in training at one of Sweden's naval bases, where submarines were sent down with bundles of fresh herring tied on. The seals were fed for the herring joyfully and with magnificent appetite.

There were two snags in the project, as the Swedes saw it. They had to be overcome to make it workable.

One was to supply the seal is with "warheads," explosive charges to destroy a submarine. Silence in a sub is accumulated and slippery, a secret order went from the Royal Institute of Animal Medicine to devise a suitable plastic operation to take care of the explosives.

Several operations were performed before this idea was discarded in favor of an "explosive harness" which met the requirements.

The project foundered on the second snag. Despite all the training, the seals looked with perfect disdain upon any enemy marine not suited up with herring.

OIL FIRED BOILER TO BE PLACED IN COUNTY HOME

Installation of a new higher capacity oil fired boiler at the Hastings county home for use during the summer months and during the tag ends of the heating season, will result in a saving of money, county councillors were told yesterday.

The new boiler is of 75-horsepower capacity and its automatic operation will result in a saving of about $800 a year in labor and engineering costs. There will also be a saving in fuel costs as the heavy coal fired boilers will be operated for shorter time during the year.

Rev. R. Sherwin Accepts Call To City Church

PICTON — Rev Robert Sherwin, B.A., B.D., announced to the Officials Board of Asbury United of the United Church of Canada, Monday night, that he will be leaving the charge at the end of June.

Mr. Sherwin has accepted an invitation to become assistant minister at Bridge Street United Church in Belleville, where Rev. H. M. Davis is the minister. This church has 2700 families on the roll and Mr. Sherwin's work will enable him to engage in a wider sphere of activity.

While Athol residents sincere'y regret losing a talented and popular preacher, they will be happy that their minister shou'd receive an opportunity for wider service.

Mr. Sherwin, a native of Cobourg, came to Asbury Valley three years ago following ordination. Increased memberships in both Sunday School and Asbury Valley churches, a stronger financial position as a result of increased offerings, improvement in church property, greater attendance and interest in Sunday School, organization of new, active groups, are evidence of his activating and organizational ability. A gifted pianist, he has been a great help in many activities.

Mr. Sherwin has also been active in the direction of Quin-Mohr-Lee Camp for Young People's activities in the county. Milford charge has also been under his pastoral supervision as an ordained minister.

County Councillors Make Tour of Hospital and Hear Plans for Future Expansion

Future plans of the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors, together with a recapitulation of finances for past operations, were outlined to county of the hospital board.

County reeves were taken on a tour of the hospital by hospital Administrator Kenneth Box; then enjoyed luncheon in the bright and spacious new dining room, and were addressed by board chairman, Frank Domenico and Mayor Jane Forrester.

In his first official duty since being named board chairman last week, Mr. Domenico referred to the many changes which had taken place at the hospital during the past three years.

"You have seen the beautiful new hospital wing; the north building operating room and have visited older parts of the hospital," the chairman said. "You have also seen changes that have taken place in third south and second south wing, of which are now a credit to the hospital."

He noted that extensive repairs are now underway in first south for general offices, doctors rooms, administrator's office and a new board room.

Mr. Domenico said this would entail an expenditure of approximately $50,000 and very shortly the hospital board hopes to have plans and specifications for a new laboratory which would cost $100,000.

Money was available for these projects but soon the board would have to give consideration to a new nurses' residence.

FREE SERVICES HURT

The board chairman referred the 1956 operation of Hastings county as close to a million dollar business and to its year's surplus of $30,000. He explained that the hospital operation which he said also was a million dollar business.

He noted that last year there were 3,190 patients from the county admitted to the hospital, while 2,945 were admitted from Hastings. In the same period Belleville had 3,019 indigent days while the county had 2,600 days for which they had already paid.

"The question is often asked: why can't the hospital make money?" noted Mr. Domenico.

One good reason is that free services and rebates last year amounted to $47,426; and provision for doubtful accounts amounted to $15,923.

These figures amount to $63,349, while the hospital's surplus was only over $30,000 annually in interest on debentures.

"That's over $30,000 which is a lity sum and makes the difference between a deficit and a surplus."

LOAD GETTING HEAVIER

Rising operational costs were also making the load heavier each year, the increase last year amounting to $42,000 with continual increases being faced. Operating expenses in 1953 amounted $823,507 and in 1956 were $1,000,235, an increase of $171,028 during a four-year period.

NO INCREASE SINCE '51

"Revenue in the same period increased only $183,664", Mr. Domenico said.

"And while on this point I might add that there has not been a room increase since 1951."

Mr. Domenico said the board wanted everyone to benefit from and in Hastings county to be proud of the hospital which they said, was one of the finest equipped anywhere in the province.

"Nothing has been spared to make this a fine and up-to-date hospital," he said. "We have 40 of the best-qualified of these being specialists in all medical departments.

He said there was a permanent staff of 297 and a part time staff of 63. There are 18 student nurses.

Total assets of the hospital today are $2,653,081, Mr. Domenico said.

In closing Mr. Domenico paid tribute to ex-reeve of Thurlow Cecil Ketcheson, who was also warden Elmer Wood, represented the county on the hospital board last year. Both men were said understanding of hospital needs and were co-operative at all times. He was certain also that the two present members from the county, Warden Leslie McLaren and Reeve T. C. Graham would be equally as helpful and would be able to give county council members any information required.

Mayor Forrester noted that while the former board called Belleville General Hospital, it actually served the district.

She noted that the city of Belleville and Hastings county had worked together for the hospital in the past and she trusted that the good relations would continue. She referred briefly to the need for a new nurses' residence and noted that this project would have to be financed.

Thanks of the county council to the hospital board was expressed by Warden Leslie McLaren who said he was sure the Belleville hospital was one of the best in the province.

Mrs. Ade Lesser, 49 Campbell St., mother of Mrs. Ena Safer, said today that her son, Ludwig Safer, is employed by operates a construction company in Houston, Texas, is believed to be out of danger of the floods which are ravishing the state.

Although she has not heard from him in recent weeks, Mrs. Lesser's daughter just received a letter from her brother telling of him. Mrs. Safe arrived in Texas just after a tornado ripped through the area.

Mrs. Lesser said that most of the section of Houston in which her son lives is about 100 miles northwest of Houston around Dallas and Corpus Christi.

"Houston," she said, "has had a heavy deluge of rain recently although there is no danger at present of flood waters endangering the residents of the city."

Mrs. Lesser is the mother-in-law of Alderman Benjamin Safer.

New Location For Curling Rink Is Finalized

A site on the fair grounds has been approved for the location of the New Quinte Curling Club rink at the Exhibition Park on Fair Board for the location of two and possibly three new ice surfaces for curling was set at a meeting of the Parks Board in the City Hall on Thursday evening. Jack Gow, chairman of the board, chaired the meeting and present were Secretary-Manager Forrester and commissioners, Orland Pinkston, Hugh Murray, Harry Smith, James Cowan and Aldermen Grandoma and Whalen.

The location of the rink has been the medium of lengthy discussion for some time and the pros and cons were argued before a recorded vote was taken on the motion proposed by Commissioner Murray and seconded by Alderman Whalen that a maximum of 96-foot depth and 240-foot length with frontage on West Bridge Street be made available to the Quinte Curling Club, the location to be south of the existing grandstand, with any event there must be a distance of 47 feet maintained at the closest between the grandstand and the rink".

After Ald. Whalen had requested a recorded vote on the recommendation those voting in favor were Aldermen Whalen and Grandoma, commissioners Murray, Pinkston and Mayor Forrester. Opposed were commissioners Smith and Cowan. A meeting of the Parks Board and directors of the Curling Club will be held next Tuesday evening at which time details of the agreement between the two bodies will be finalized. It is expected construction of the new rink will be started almost immediately and all will be in readiness for next year's play early in October.

Annexation Plans by City Outlined to County Council

Annexation plans by the city of Belleville which has made application to the Ontario Municipal Board to take in approximately 1000 acres in Sidney and Thurlow townships, were outlined yesterday to members of city council.

Attending the morning session were Mayor Jane Forrester, acting City Manager Dennis Fering and Treasurer Drury Denike.

Displaying a map on which the boundaries of the proposed annexation area were outlined, Mr. Herring said the proposed boundaries are the east was 800 feet east of the Purdy sideroad, west along the C.N.R. right of way and then north through lot 11, then west at a point from 600 to 800 feet north of this highway and following an irregular line back to the bay at a point at the west of the Belleville cemetery. What is known as the "Irishtown" school west of the city would be left in Sidney.

Mr. Herring noted that generally speaking the desire to follow the lines of serviceability was the reason for the irregular boundary line above west.

Mayor Jane Buskard wanted to know whether the purpose of the proposed annexation was for assessment or to get land for building. Mr. Herring replied that annexation was a blending of the pros and cons of the annexation.

QUESTIONS ASKED

Reeve W. J. Davis of McClure township wanted to know the purpose of having the annexation area extended as far as 401 highway when the highways department's purpose was to by-pass the city. "Is it wise to put 401 highway back in the city?" he asked.

Reeve Ronald Vanluven followed the same question, the reply being that the boundaries of 401 had been suggested as a means of controlling building along both sides of the highway.

Several councillors wanted to know how annexation would affect the county home. They were assured that as long as the county farm remained a farm that it would be assessed as a farm and the farm operation would continue at present. The fact that the farm would be in the city would make no bearing on the keeping of livestock on the farm.

Reeve Ronald Vanluven also wanted to know why the city wanted to go so far west. There is land available farther east, he said.

"What's opening up a field of discussion that would take hours" replied Mr. Herring, inferring that he did not consider it wise to discuss this matter.

Reeve H. Varty referred to the possible advantage of a property owner remaining in the rural area, referring to the special commutation in Sidney that taxes the proposed area will increase as much as 120, per cent when taken into the city.

DID NOT AGREE

"They didn't get the figures from the city and I don't agree with them," returned Mr. Herring, suggesting that the increase tax increase would not be over 25 per cent and then only in some cases.

Reeve Buskard stressed that the county could not overlook the fact that the county would be losing three or more million dollars in assessment.

"The county will still have to levy so much because I do not feel our expense will be lowered by one single cent and they will have to be raised by the taxpayers remaining in the county. It will not benefit the county," she said.

Reeve Alfred Wickett agreed that the city had its problems and that also the city and the townships had mutual problems which he felt would be solved, although he very much may not be happy.

"We have to go ahead as an area" he said, as he expressed a wish for co-operation by the city dele tion. Reeve B. Harder of Sidney and Warden J. McLaren added their word of thanks.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers, heifers and fed yearlings were reported 50 cents a hundredweight lower at the Ontario public stockyards this week. Bulls were actively firm.

Top grades of veal calves were steady with lower grades selling fully $1 a hundredweight lower. Hogs were steady with sheep and lambs generally unchanged.

Replacement cattle met a broad demand at fully steady prices.

Cattle receipts were about 300 head more than last week and 1,000 less than the same week in 1956. Western receipts totalled 301 head, 175 under last week's figure. Western slaughter steers cut in half from last week's number at 44 head, but shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers doubled from last week at four carloads. There were no exports reported to the United States.

Increased receipts and a narrow demand were the main contributings to Monday's reduced prices. Receipts at "nearly double" set-up." Action improved as the week progressed at prices firm by the day's decline.

Young heifers were numerous and difficult to sell. Cow receipts increased by five per cent from last week and the class showed sharp losses. Bulls were actively firm throughout the week.

Allan Smith Again Heads Wing Association

Members of 418 (Belleville) Wing of the R.C.A.F. Association turned out in force last night at the lower lounge of the officers' mess at RCAF Station, Trenton, and elected a slate of officers for the forthcoming year.

Returned as president, secretary and treasurer were Al Smith, George Mayhew and Lorne Foley, respectively. Russell Dorland and Ernie Holt, former committee chairmen, were elected first and second vice-presidents, respectively.

Five committee chairmen were also elected but Dolph McFadden, Bill Phillips, Charlie Powell, Vic Belleveau and Jimmy Lynch have not yet been delegated to head specific committees.

Eight new members were inducted last night, to bring the Wing's membership to 37, an increase of over 100 per cent within four months.

On May 17 members will entertain their wives and friends at a dance to be held in the Social Centre at the air station.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, June 6, at the station, when the Wing will tour Operations Flight.

FISHING HERESY

The fishing season is now officially open.

The important word in that sentence is "officially" and it has no business being there. It is an interloper, a horse in the wrong stall, a thistle in the lettuce patch.

Officially, (and the word belongs in this sentence), the fishing season is always open. There is no season of the year at which it is not legal to take some fish from some waters in this district.

The way the word "officially" strayed into the tail-end of our opening sentence is a tribute to the propaganda-dist skill, if not the piscatorial taste, of a relative small coterie which delights in hauling smelt-sized charr from ditch-sized creeks and calling the catch speckled trout.

Let's give the chicken-pored charr its due. It makes good eating. So do all the other trout, including the lake trout which, if memory serves us right, shares with the speckled trout the distinction of not being a trout at all.

There are even some trout which are distinguish themselves before they reach the pan. A five-pound rainbow hooked on a flatfish on a long line in rough water, with rocks inshore so that you cannot cut the motor, will make you swallow your heart a dozen times before you bring him to the net. A German brown of similar size, rising to the fly, must produce a thrill comparable to a muskie swallowing a surface mouse and departing for the other side of the lake.

We will even grant that a charr grown fat in a lake may provide some solid reasons for pride when he is finally boated. The majority of speckles, though, are definitely in the Mickey Mouse class.

How have they built up their reputation? That May 1 opening date has been a help. That's two weeks before a man is permitted to fish for pickerel and a full two months before one is permitted to tussle with a man-sized bass or a lordly muskie. A man has to have some excuse to get outdoors, and even a seven-inch fish is a better excuse than none.

For the rest, the trout fisherman's guilty conscience must probably bear a large share of the responsibility. With the storm windows still on, the lawn uncut and the garden undug, it would not promote better domestic understanding to explain to the lady of the house that one of the best places to catch a fish is standing on an old wooden bridge with cars shaking gravel into the stream beneath every five or ten minutes. Nor would it do to confess that the quickest and surest way to land a trout is to lift the pole and flip the instant he takes a hold. Neither would it promote that appreciation of a fisherman's skill which every man yearns to receive from his son if we were to admit that hooking a nibbling perch is ten times more difficult than snaring a trout, which often tries to see whether he can swallow the sinker as well as the hook.

Just to keep things partially honest, trout fishermen have handicapped themselves as heavily as possible, by fishing with gossamer tackle, in thick underbrush, using flies instead of worms.

Fly fishing can be a beautiful thing to watch—and can often fill the refrigerator with astounding speed - - - if tried out on bass on a July evening.

Around this district, one might think that distance has a lot to do with enchantment of trout fishing. With some of the biggest pickerel in the province poking their fins right up to our doorsteps every spring, going north for speckleds would appear a strange performance to anybody but a fisherman. The truth is, though, that the speckled is held in the highest esteem even in those districts where he inhabits only the yard-wide streams wending their way across the back fifty.

These districts, though, do not have the Quinte jam-packed with pickerel, bass, muskies and pike. (Daring to mention pike, of course, makes this editorial definitely subversive and even the pickerel fishermen who may have been reading with sympathy now turn their backs on us.)

GOOD NERVES

The other night RAF fighters scrambled from south coast bases to chase an unidentified object spotted by radar over the English Channel. They did not intercept it. It was doing 600 miles per hour.

The following morning it was said that the object might have been a manufacturer's test plane.

This nonchalant attitude struck us as providing a revealing contrast to the probable reaction by the U.S. air force, or the RCAF for that matter, if an unidentified object travelling 900 miles an hour was dashing around a few miles off our coast.

There is, of course, a distinct difference in the circumstances. A plane flying near our coasts could not just have wandered a few miles off course on a flight from a base in another country. If it visited us, it would not be by accident. But, by the same token, the difference in circumstances provides an insight into the problems facing Britain's defence planners. They have no DEW line many hundreds of miles distant from vital targets.

GARDEN FAITH

The label on the package says the blossoms will be white;
And for that I trust the merchant, but I don't know that he's right.
But if seeds without a label to us were given to be shared,
I couldn't tell the yellow from the pink flower and the red.

Every gardener discovers there is much he must believe;
From the labels put upon them, and the many must receive,
We must trust the man who tells us that the blossoms will be red,
But there's not a sign upon these that can prove what he has said.

Still, the red rose gives its beauty to the garden in its time
And the little plant stays little, and the vine begins to climb
And the gardener lingers upon them with a thrilling sense of pride
When every colored petal shows his faith was justified.

Automation's Implications

By Gulliver in Ottawa Features

What are the implications of automation in the social and labor field? Some of the main features of the question which has arisen with labour are extracted from a comprehensive report on the subject by Mr. David A. Morse, Director-General of the International Labor Organization. This report, which is required reading for government, worker and employer delegates of 77 nations meeting in Geneva next June for the 40th session of the International Labor Conference.

Perhaps the most significant novel feature of automation is that it makes it possible to do many things and to produce many goods and services which were simply not feasible in the past. Electronic computers could never have reached its present stage without automatic devices and controls. The huge oil refineries, chemical plants and integrated works of today could not be operated without automatic devices which measure the ingredients formerly too toxic to be handled safely can now be used. Many things and goods become on the market as a result of refinements of precision work made possible by automation, and, with advanced computer technology, automation is making it possible ultimately expensive to collect can now be assembled and analyzed.

At present, in the most highly industrialized countries, and typically in the United States and Canada, only a relatively restricted area of the economy has been touched by some form of automation and related technological developments.

Fourteen glass-blowing machines, each operated by one worker, can produce 1,000 bulbs of the glass light bulbs used in the United States. Most of these themselves used in radio and television sets (except picture valves).

Another example is the automatic machine which is designed for attaching standard electronic components to printed circuit boards. Components are placed in etch or stencil on a board what before were hand-connected circuits, soldered at all contact points; machines make the components; machines put them in the printed circuit boards; machines make the parts; machines assemble them. Once the components are fed into the machine for example, complete radio sets can be produced; and on one body radio assembly line in Indiana, 1,000 sets a day, two workers now produce more than 200 workers did only a few years ago.

In a plant in Karlsruhe, Germany, a tube filling and packing machine is in use which automatically fills cellophane tubes and packs them in individual cartons. The machine puts out 60 packages per minute and is operated by two workers — one feeding in the tubes, the other replenishing the machine.

The machine of engine blocks, pistons, ring-gears and crankshafts from rough castings. Most of operations is performed automatically today in line transfer machines, and this is typical of many automobile plants in the world.

In the U.S.S.R., a fully automatic plant makes aluminium pistons for motor car engines. No human hands intervene throughout the process, which is made metal is removed from machines automatically.

In the U.S.A. the automobile industry, the non-automated engine plant is typical of many of the most practical purposes. At the Ford plant in Cleveland, for example, machines run a transfer machine performing more than 500 machine operations, where-as conventional methods required 35 to 70 men. Formerly, engineers took 21 months to turn out one engine block; now, under automated methods it is worked complete a block in less than half that time.

Automation is also applied in fertilizer plants, in the handling of bulk materials, and in the "continuous flow" industries — all refining and piping, chemicals (including atomic energy), plastics, paint, beverages, rubber, flour milling, cement, electrical power, telegraph and telephones, sheet steel and steel castings, and printing. A modern oil refinery is almost completely automatic; the few workers in the plant watch instruments.

* * *

All these developments and many others pouring into the main stream of technological change are transforming the whole process of industrial production and call for a redefinition of skill. The classical concept of unskilled, semi-skilled and skilled workers, largely based on ever from a static mediaeval society of guilds, no longer corresponds to the need of the dynamic, fast-changing industrial society of today. The skill of one technological era is dead and the skill of a new era in just coming in.

As automation develops, the content of work in industry will change beyond recognition and the need for skilled workers, technicians and engineers is likely to expand considerably. Young people will need better and longer basic schooling. A greater percentage of the population will attend universities and technological institutes, and vocational training facilities will have to be expanded and, most important, constantly modernized.

But while technological changes will create new opportunities, they will also create problems in the labor and social field. They are likely, for instance, to accentuate some of the problems of transition to industrialization, particularly in countries with chronic underemployment and heavy population pressure. Yet past experience has shown that most of the industries which have gone furthest with advanced mechanization and automation have been those in which employment has been expanding considerably.

* * *

Technological progress holds out great savings in labor which may be taken in form of (1) higher output, (2) shorter hours, (3) unemployment, or (4) a combination of the three. The problem is therefore to strike a satisfactory combination of the first two to avoid the third.

This requires careful advance planning on the part of management, with full consultation with the human problems of technological changeovers; full consultation of workers and their representatives before plans are finalized; careful timing and adequate safeguards to prevent or minimize displacement and individual hardship.

As far as the impact on salaries is concerned, there is a widespread agreement that technological progress will lead, in the future as in the past, to a increase in wages. In other words, higher productivity will lead to a better pay. If its benefits are distributed equitably to all sections of the population it should also lead to a general lowering of the price of consumer goods. There is a danger, however, that technological progress may tend to increase the differentials between wage rates, so that the pay of certain groups of workers lag behind the rest, out touch with the general development of industry. To avoid hardship and injustice of this kind, governments and trade unions will have to work together to extend social protection to all groups of workers, in some cases providing minimum rates of pay.

Mechanization of industry has led in the past to a progressive decrease in the number of working hours, and there seems no reason why this trend should not continue as automation develops. But shorter working hours are one way of sharing the fruits that a worker spends at his job. Longer and more frequent holidays could be facilitated as well as special leave after a long period of service. Such "sabbaticals" may also be necessary as a result of new forms of occupational fatigue.

In summing up, Mr. Morse concludes that new automation and other technological developments will accentuate the long-term trend towards fewer hours and shorter working hours, but there is a danger that, in some instances, they create specific transitional problem. While there is no cause for alarm, there is management and labor must renew their efforts to improve human planning, introducing and carrying through technological changes in the best interests of all sections of the community.

"Nationally as well as internationally," concludes ILO's Director-General, "we have a special responsibility in this broad area of social policy. It is my intention that the ILO and its members should be shaped with this responsibility clearly in mind. In doing this, they will contribute to the peoples of every nation, large and small, will be essential."

Travel Fast To Stay Young

Messons are high-speed particles developed in nuclear rays; they are also generated in powerful man-made machines, says Dr. Frank S. Crawford, physicist of the University of California, is one of many scientists who have been checking their behavior in search of the "twin paradox" in Einstein's theory of relativity. This principle declares that motion causes changes in time to contract.

Applied to humans, this would mean that aging would be slowed when travelling at the fantastic speeds required for space travel. The idea is a fascinating one, as science fiction writers have long appreciated. However, space travel will have to become an everyday thing before it can be tested.

It is doubtful if this would ever become a popular method of evading Father Time. Youth is a wonderful thing but it would be difficult to enjoy at 25,000 miles an hour.

Released trapped deer: Trapped in a wire fence on No. 7 Highway just west of Marmora this week, a small red deer fawn was rescued by fish and game overseer J. A. Shannon of Marmora. Mr. Shannon was informed of the deer's plight by a travelling salesman, who was the first to notice the captive deer. Mr. Shannon went immediately to the rescue of the deer and it is now being cared for on the farm of Mr. Joseph Shannon. Front legs and shoulders were badly injured in its attempts to get free.

The sum of $1,000 was received by the St. Julien Chapter of the IODE at a result of the chapter's tag day on Saturday. This is more than was received last year.

CRACKPOT

The crackpot is a pathetic figure. Usually he has last hold of a good idea, but the idea is twisted in his mind, and he is twisted in his personality. A hundred years ago Abraham Lincoln was a people who believed that the slaves should be freed. Some of these were crackpots. They had a good idea. Their moral reasoning was sound. But their convictions got twisted up in their twisted minds and the result was fanaticism.

There was a lawyer in Springfield, Illinois, however, who, along with millions of his fellow countrymen, believed that slavery should be abolished. But he had a well-balanced mind and thought along a straight line. His name was Abraham Lincoln. All through his years of struggle the crackpots kept after him, urging abolition before the country was ready for it. After Lincoln's death, these people set themselves to punishing the Southerners and have wrote a tragic and disgraceful page of American history.

So we come back to where we started. The crackpot has a twisted mind. Usually he has a twisted personality. His ideas finally have to be implemented by lewd-headed people who have a profound respect for truth and who have honestly in fulfill its requirements.

The crackpot is often a good man with a good idea but with a twisted mind also. He hurts the cause he tries to serve.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

It's The Same Ol' Doc Brady

"Surely after all these years there must be a new Dr. Brady — or do you follow your own advice?" (Mrs. A. W.)

"My grandfather used to quote what a Dr. Wm. Brady said in the Brooklyn Eagle away back about the time of the first World War. We think that must have been your father. Grandfather said that Dr. Brady used to advise people to roll somersaults daily." — (E. J. G.)

"Are you the Dr. Brady who used to write the health column in the Portland Oregonian? I enjoyed it so much and still have a scrapbook bulging with those articles of yours." (Mrs. L. W.)

My pa wasn't a doctor but he had a lot of ideas — one of his favorites being: All disease begins in the stomach.

After all, I'm not exactly what any old geezer can call doddering or senile. I turn out as much copy seven days a week as I did away back in the Dirty Thirties when a doctor could tell the truth in print without getting a lot of organizations on his neck. And we are just waiting until I pass on to the great mysteries or the great pill, please be patient — don't rush me. While you are waiting, tell me this: Did you do any somersaults this morning? If not, why not? Too decrepit?

In reply to Mrs. A. G., yes, there is a new Dr. Brady conducting Personal Health Service, and he feels the advice given by Ol' Doc Brady.

In reply to E. J. G., yes, I'm the guy who was privileged to conduct the health column in the late, lamented Daily Eagle — and I'd like to know whether your grampa adopted the morning rolls as a living habit or conducted the idea silly and slipped away premature-ly.

In reply to Mrs. L. W., one of the notions of the Dr. Brady who used to write the health column in the Portland Oregonian is that those who read, frankly cracked or ground in your own mill, is a boon for everybody's nutrition and white, if not Dr. Brady doesn't write there any more.

Before I go on, quietly, of course, I'd like to get millions of Americans in the habit of doing six formal rolls in any fighting days I called 'em somersaults, but I can't be sure, and maybe my memory has been playing tricks. Just to be sure, I'll consult my breakfast every morning.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It must be thirty years ago that, as a young man, I saw rock 'n roll being enthusiastically practiced and performed, not by performers, but by the customers at the Cotton Club in New York. They were colored. The Cotton Club was a negro club, catering to the Harlem community, and whose customers came as spectators, until in due time the novelty of it and the music of the orchestra churned it up into the fashion.

It was not called rock 'n roll in those days. It was just the exuberant dancing and uninhibited physical hoop-de-do of the Charleston which has been familiar in America since the eighteen-nineties, but back and wing dancing of the Mississippi and the show boats was purely African. I am told the man did was 'throw pennies and shake dice.'

Jazz, originating in New Orleans was merely the music natural to this exuberant and uninhibited spirit of the African. One by one, over the years, the various forms have come north, such as the Cake Walk, which was a feature of the minstrel shows, and started the colored culture on its travels, up through the Charleston to the congo, mambo and other recent forms, are all negro in origin and modification.

During the minstrel show days, the performers were white men made up as negroes. But the trend towards the acceptance of Afro-American culture inside mainsic and the dance are concerned was established in the days and which our most popular singing quartets strive to be negro in their music, their enunciation of words and the warbling sound which is a negro falsetto African voice. And much of the so-called modern dance to be seen on TV and the music of the Calypso singers would pass as negro clubs thirty or forty years ago, and many of the Mississippi levees a hundred years ago.

According to the psychologists, a guilt complex is a powerful force in the subconscious minds of white people. And all unconsciously America may be accepting the negro idiom and dance as a subtle tribute to that guilt.

Certainly the kids who are so-gulfed in rock 'n roll would hardly confess to any such idea. But if the white man wishes the negro to see so many white performers making so hard to catch the negro idiom. Presley's sideburns may be a slight gesture towards the black-face days of the minstrel shows. His wriggles you could have seen in the Congo any time in the past thousand years.

Smoke Aids Plant Growth

Manchester Guardian

It is reported from the Crimea that experiments in the feeding of plants on smoke produced by burning wood phosphorus have increased the yield of tomatoes by nearly a third and beans by two-fifths.

The experimenters also claim that the application of the smoke treatment to grapes has raised their sugar content by as much as 16 per cent and, in addition, has reduced their acidity.

Wine made from smoked grapes, they claim, is of much better quality than that made from unsmoked grapes of the same variety. By subjecting the vines to smoke treatment for the half hour periods when the fruit is beginning to form, higher yields as well as better quality can be obtained.

It was while experiments were being conducted into new methods of protecting lemon groves from frost that the effect of the new smoke treatment were discovered. The dense smoke not only cuts heat losses but gives the plant a good meal in the form of phosphorus, said, which is assimilated through the leaves.

TODAY'S TALK

MAN UNKNOWN

No matter how much we think we know, the more we learn, the less we seem to know. And yet, what capacity to know most of us have! We are the man unknown. Deep within us is a mine of untapped treasures. Looking into the face of a smiling child, I often speculate as to its capacity for good in life.

No one else knows us so well as we know ourselves, and yet how little that is! The capacity is there in us and in others. It is the task for each of us, and others, to discover that capacity and mold it to worthy ends. Those who have flowered into greatness didn't spend any time in wondering whether they could be. They just hitched their wagon to a star and went on their way.

There is a common expression that says: "You never know what you have tried." That is true. People strive, dream, suffer and fire about defeats, not knowing themselves what their destination is to be, but they know that something great or worth while is in the offing. That is the secret of greatness, the knowing that it is great.

It has often been stated that there is an interesting story in every human life. There is no reason why that should not apply for greatness does not fulfil its promise, the efforts expended are not in vain. It could conceivably, or question, especially if one has done his best. Just to constantly strive is to triumph!

Socrates said many words that have passed put into universal language. "Know Thyself," he said. Look into your own job. From the mountain top the cry can be: "Know yourself" others may ar-or think, do thy best. Angels could do no more!

Male Jail Employees Given $150 Across-Board Increase

Across-the-board salary increase of $150 per year for male employees of the Belleville jail was approved by Hastings county councillors Thursday afternoon.

The raise, the second one within a year, will become effective June 1st of this year. Last September jail employees received a raise of $15 per month.

Councillors discussed salaries of jail employees for a considerable time before coming up with the above decision. The original request from employees was for a $700 increase per year.

Owing to the fact that jail employees had received an increase only last September caused a number of councillors to feel there should be no further increase until at least the year was out. However, an amendment to this effect failed to carry by a narrow margin and the June 1st date was approved.

The afternoon session was taken up principally with presentation of the road committee's quarterly report read by Reeve Earl Sager of Madoc township, together with discussion on the report and its ultimate approval.

Reeve Sager noted that tenders for the construction of a new bridge on the county development road at Moira Lake would be called this summer, the price expected to be in the neighborhood of $70,000.

COST $222,000

The contract price for construction of the two-and-a-half miles of the northern end of the Marmo road which is now underway was for $212,000, with this having been increased by another $10,000.

Cost of the Halloway cut-off which was started last fall will be $32,000, the reeve said.

Reeve Irwin McCoy of Marmora referred to the fact that a request for some permanent paving this year on the Marmora-Cordova road had been turned down by the road committee and asked why the request had been refused.

Reeve Sager, as roads committee chairman, replied there were many requests for permanent paving but there simply was not sufficient money. He hoped that two short stretches of permanent paving on other roads would be done this year.

Deputy Reeve Charles Long said Hastings was fortunate in having two provincial members of parliament who had been successful in getting much money for road development work in the county and suggested county forces might more efficiently prepare road surfaces before priming or other permanent top was placed.

Deputy Reeve Harold Varty of Huntingdon referred to the poor condition of the Tweedside Road and asked if the present washboard effect would be remedied before a prime coat was applied. He was assured this would be the case.

ROAD NEEDS REBUILDING

"The road needs rebuilding and this would possibly cost $100,000" replied county engineer Larry Langdon. He said the county did not want to spend too much maintenance money on this road when it would have to be covered up when the road was rebuilt.

A grant of $500 was approved for the Tyendinaga Community Centre, the grant request being presented by Deputy Reeve Charles Long who said the building was getting much community use.

Warden Leslie McLaren noted that Tyendinaga was proud of its hall. "This is the first time that Tyendinaga has asked for a grant" he said.

The report of the Administration of Justice board was read by Reeve C. T. Rollins. The report noted that under new provincial legislature there would be no refunds made to the county for any administration of justice costs this year.

To offset this, $1 per capita would be paid direct to the local municipalities. Refunds to the county last year amounted to $13,500; it was stated.

The finance and public property report submitted by chairman of finance Reeve B. Harder, showed that indigent hospital accounts to the amount of $11,629.85 had been paid during the first quarter of 1957, this being about $2,000 less than the previous quarter. C.A.S. and training school accounts to the amount of $17,610.60 had been authorized for payment covering the first quarter.

RED CROSS GIVEN $500

This included the cost of the preventative worker in the Belleville C.A.S. society.

A grant of $500 to the Red Cross had been authorized and included in the annual campaign.

A new mastic floor had been laid in the kitchen of the jail, this resulting in a great improvement at a reasonable cost.

At the close of the afternoon session Reeve W. J. Davis of McClure regretted that he would be unable to be present for the final session on Friday and referred to a by-law to be considered at that time which would call for the rescinding of the tree cutting by-law passed at the January session.

He regretted that some very bad propaganda with respect to the tree by-law had been circulated in the North Hastings area and said some residents had even been told that under the terms of the by-law they would be unable even to cut stovewood on their own properties.

He said he had talked to many lumbermen who said that the by-law had not hindered their operations.

"On the whole the hardships under the by-law would be very little and the benefits would be many," he said, referring to a large Ottawa Valley district lumber company who claimed restrictive cutting of limits would enable them to operate for 100 years on their present limits.

However, he would respect the decision of the majority of council. "That is democracy", he said.

Reeve James Kinlin of Huntingdon referred to a letter to the editor which had appeared last winter in some of the county papers condemning Hastings county council for what the letter termed its dictatorial action in passing the tree cutting by-law.

"I didn't support the by-law, but there was no dictatorship about it," he said.

"I sincerely concur in what the reeve of Huntingdon has said," noted Reeve James Holt of Sidney. "There is a no more democratic body than a county council. Everything is discussed thoroughly. I also resented the letter which appeared in the press."

Sunflowers are jaunty, tall background plants for informal gardens. The large, familiar flowers actually turn east to west with sun. Seeds attract birds; and, toasted and buttered, are delicious tidbits. Plant seeds half inch deep in rich soil, full sun, and give strong support. Try miniatures for cutting.

Belle Haven Rehabilitation Club Meets

The general meeting of the Belle Haven Rehabilitation Club for handicapped and disabled people was held on Tuesday evening in the Kiwanis Centre with Mrs. R. Milligan, vice-president, presiding.

The president, Mrs. W. R Mc-Murray, greeted the mothers of the handicapped children who meet every second Saturday in the Kiwanis Centre. She also expressed pleasure on seeing Mrs. B. Draycott of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, present.

Reports were given and the minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Frank Moore and treasurer, Mr. T. Meuse, also read his report.

The president of the shut-ins spoke briefly, and it was suggested that a letter be written to the Council for Belleville to have a Shut-in Day, to be held on the 2nd Sunday in June, which is an international day. The president also spoke of the impromptu meeting in hospital and at home, mentioning those children who left for the Smiths Falls school and those who are yet to go. This school provides modern, happy surroundings.

A bedspread with matching drapes, worked by Mrs. Scott, will be raffled off at a future date.

Members were thanked for their donations in material and money, and their very kind and considerate remarked upon as was their initiative.

Everyone acknowledged his appreciation to Dr. R. Scott, president of the Belleville Rehabilitation Society, for the invitation to the forthcoming fair; also to Mrs. E. M. Clarke for the use of the invitation for the club's celebration of its fourth birthday as well as summer outings, and to Mrs. C. F. Moore, for her lawn tea offer. The club has more than awaited the next year's assistance given by Miss Kay Homan of the Red Cross Recreation Committee. Also remembered was Miss Olive Delaney who kindly loaned the club a projector and grateful thanks go to Harriet Stevens for having the club on her program.

Delegates for the coming united handicapped groups of Ontario's fifth convention to be held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, include: Miss P. Lloyd and Miss Jan Kortan.

Miss McMurray reminded the members of the advantages of the Opportunity Shop, sponsored by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, whereby they may help their hospital and make pensions go a long way by buying there.

Next winter it would be rewarding to have members join the art classes to help them fit into hobbies which will appeal.

Convening the refreshments were Miss M. Gerow, Mrs. M. Cassibo and Miss J. Kortan.

Membership has increased during the year. Already, acquisitions have ripened at the many laughs with Mr. Earle Vandewater, executive for entertainment, proved.

Everyone left on the happy note that the year's business was well that it's well with Belleville handicapped."

Women Want Free, Open Market With No Gimmicks

VANCOUVER (CP) — More prodding and constructive criticism from housewives would be helpful to businessmen, says a well-known consumer leader.

Mme. Henri Vautelet of Montreal said here: "Consumers who know what they are talking about often have a better idea of what is good for sale and industry than businessmen themselves.

"What women want is the realm of buying and selling is a free and open competitive market, with a maximum of price freedom and a minimum of protection, subsidization and restriction."

WANT NO GIMMICKS

Mme. Vautelet retired as president of the Canadian Association of Consumers this year, but is still active in the organization. Under her leadership, the CAC has opposed such developments as resale price maintenance, loss leaders, trading stamps, price controls and similar angles of the general marketing industry.

"In each case we are fighting for a free competitive system with no strings and no gimmicks," she said. "What women want is simply high quality goods at fair prices.

"Merchants or business men who find women getting under their skins now will find them much more irritating in future. Women are beginning possibly the greatest of all their emancipations—the right to full economic citizenship."

But, she said, women are not trying to take over business. "Selling is the man's world. Buying is the women's. We just want to see we are prepared to do our part in the economy properly—even if it means stepping on a few toes."

COURTESY HELPS

Mme. Vautelet suggests, however, that merchants can increase goodwill and profits among their women consumers by inexpensive and simple measures.

"Department stores spend thousands of dollars getting women to shop downtown.

"Attracted by advertisements, the housewife makes out her shopping list. But when she gets to the store she very often finds the service working against her rather than for her comfort.

"Why don't merchants put a few chairs around the store? It's an inexpensive matter. Then they could pay more attention to the layout, to service and special consideration and courtesies."

She said women are not attracted by price as much as men think. The merchant who is also a gallant will pull them in every time.

Alliance Adult Fellowship Group Visits Trenton

Wednesday evening a happy get-together was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Simmons, McLellan Avenue, Trenton, when 45 members and friends of the Adult Fellowship of the Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville, met for its monthly social time.

The singing of a few favorite hymns, and the chorus, "This One Thing I Know," led by the pastor, the Reverend Sackville Palmer, was enjoyed. Mr. Roy Atyeo gave the consecration prayer which was followed by a devotional under the guidance of the president, Mrs. J. Palmer, who read "Purposing to Go A-Fleet" taken from "Streams in the Valley."

Miss Lois Wright also favored with a humorous reading, "Mrs. Candy and Her Help," which was much appreciated. This was followed by a beat-guessing contest, under the direction of the convener of the program activities, Mrs. R. Vassellin, in which the winner, Mr. Arthur Breach, came within three of the correct number which was narrowed down finally to 1337 beans. Mr. Breach was presented with the jar of beans as a reward for his prowess, instead of the cash which were used in relays by four contestants who removed five from a saucer by means of two tooth picks. Later, the four winners were pitted against each other with the laurels going to "Doc" Dougherty, who was first to remove all ten teeth from the saucer. He was presented with a suitable gadget which would be of assistance in kitchen duties.

The highlight of the evening, according to the host, was the serving of refreshments by the men who were in charge under the supervision of Mr. Simmons, in which "Doc", as a tea pourer again displayed his aptitude. Other men were designated as "overseers" who kept a constant visit that no one should be overlooked and go hungry.

Following the refreshments came the clean-up time with Mr. Roy Atyeo in charge of the dishwashing committee. However, the ladies decided that discretion being the better part of valor, the men were relieved of that task.

During this period, Mr. Biers, radio technician who had his tape recorder discreetly concealed, played back some previous recordings, occasioning much merriment. Mr. Vasselin also read a laugh-provoking article on "Mary's Essay on Husbands," and the outstanding part they play in the scheme of things.

Mr. Wilbur Wright moved a vote of appreciation to the host and hostess for their hospitality, to which the group added its endorsement by hearty applause.

Mr. Roy Anderson closed the meeting with prayer.

The next meeting will be a turkey dinner held at the YMCA.

Rev. H.C. Secker Honored on 25th Anniv.

The Rev. Canon John Hutchison of Brockville was the special preacher at Trinity Church in Frankford on Sunday, in connection with the 25th anniversary of the ordination to the priesthood of the rector, Rev. H. C. Secker.

Canon Hutchinson preached an inspiring sermon on the text. "As My Father hath sent me, So send I you."

The choir sang the anthem, "The Magdalene" and the junior choir sang "Good Joseph Had a Garden," by A. M. Milner-Barry, to the Cherry Tree Carol tune.

After the service, the congregation assembled in the parish hall where a shadow skit, "This is Your Life," was presented. Squadron Leader C. G. Smith, people's warden, was the chairman for the occasion and an address of appreciation and loyalty to the rector was read by Mr. A. E. Caskey, rector's warden.

The chairman, on behalf of the congregation, presented a beautiful Maternal plate fan and purse, set, to Mr. Secker as a small token of esteem on this anniversary.

The ladies served refreshments.

Club Activities

BETHEL-ZION HAPPY HOERS

The first meeting of the Bethel-Zion "Happy Hoers" was held at the home of the leader, Mrs. Elmer Tufts.

The officers elected were as follows: president, Jean McMullen; secretary, Maureen Kennedy; press reporter, Carol Denyes.

The girls discussed the planning, preparation, planting and care of a garden. Home assignments were: read colorful directions; start record books, and plant gardens.

The Utals said reindeer skins also make warm clothes and sleeping bags. A British upholstering firm ordered as much as 10,000 pounds of reindeer hair to stuff furniture.

The Alaskan herd was imported from Alaska 23 years ago. But it wasn't Canada's first reindeer herd.

In 1908 Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, a famous Labrador doctor, imported 200 reindeer from Lapland to provide milk for persons living in a rugged climate.

Before his death in 1940, Dr. Grenfell spent 40 years as a medical missionary among Labrador and northern Newfoundland deep-fishermen.

He pastured his reindeer near Battle Harbour on a northern tip of Newfoundland jutting out into the Atlantic.

The herd thrived, and Dr. Grenfell once wrote that reindeer were not only economical to keep, but that nearly every part of a reindeer could be used for something.

But Newfoundland's reindeer lacked protection from hunters. And after Dr. Grenfell returned from overseas service during the First World War, the herd was moved to Anticosti Island in the mouth of the St. Lawrence, where experts say a few reindeer may still remain.

The Experts Say Reindeer Tongue May Soon Become Canadian Delicacy

OTTAWA (CP) — One never knows. Someday reindeer tongue may become a Canadian delicacy. And the well-dressed Canadian woman may wear reindeer skin gloves.

In Europe, reindeer tongue has long been regarded as an aristocratic . and high - priced - treat. two reindeer experts from England told a press conference here.

And reindeer hides can be tanned to produce a leather almost as thin and supple for gloves that have a real appeal, said Dr. Ethel Lindgren.

Dr. Lindgren, a tall, auburn-haired American-born anthropologist, has studied reindeer in northwest Manchuria and Scandinavia.

Her husband, Mikel Utsi, is a Laplander who owns a reindeer herd in Sweden and who has introduced reindeer experimentally on the northern Highlands of Scotland.

BIG CANADIAN HERD

The Utsis recently visited Canada's government-owned reindeer herd at Aklavik at the mouth of the Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories.

In Ottawa on their way home to Cambridge, England, these experts said that reindeer raising could become part of the commercial development of the north.

At present, 6,500 reindeer in five herds on 17,900 square miles of preserves on the Mackenzie river delta provide food, clothing and a livelihood for Eskimos living in the area.

"I've never had so much good reindeer meat in my life," Dr. Lindgren told reporters.

In Scandinavian reindeer meat is a staple food and reindeer cheese a costly dish for European tables.

The Utsis said reindeer skins and sleeping bags. A British upholstering firm ordered as much as 10,000 pounds of reindeer hair to stuff furniture.

The Alaskan herd was imported from Alaska 23 years ago. But it wasn't Canada's first reindeer herd.

In St. Joseph's school hall on Thursday evening an enjoyable event took place. It was another successful euchre sponsored by the C.W.L. of that parish. Mrs. E. Hopkins, treasurer, presided at the door. There were 15 tables in play. Prize winners were: ladies—Mrs. Arnold Forestell, Mrs. Geurin Seaman, Jr., consolation, Mrs. F. McGrath; men — H. O'Neill, Albert Evers; consolation, James Smith. Lone hand winner, Mrs. Briand. The door prize was won by Clifford Champaign and the raffle on a 21-pound turkey convened by Mrs. Anton, was won by MacDonnel.

Refreshments were served after the presentation of prizes. The convener of this well-conducted euchre was Mrs. J. Pardoe, who was assisted by Mrs. J. Hanley, Mrs. Anton, Mrs. J. SWIMMING — THE PERFECT EXERCISE

Don't wait until midsummer for swimming sessions. Use the pools all year 'round.

It doesn't matter if you have a perfect figure and want to keep it that way, or if your mirror tells you there's plenty of room for fun. Swimming is the perfect exercise for you. It won't be long now before all of us are traipsing off to the beaches and diving into the brine, but why not start swimming now? Especially if your figure's one that doesn't stack up quite the way it should in a bathing suit. Pools are everywhere—both indoor and outdoor numbers—and it's never too early to get in the swim.* In fact, swimming is a perfect all-year-'round exercise. And a good one that will get you in shape for the summer beach patrol.

It doesn't matter what stroke you use. All are beneficial. Even the girl who works at a desk most of the time, however, the back stroke is particularly good. It counteracts forward bending, gently coaxes the shoulders into line, and gives a girl a lovely bust as it develops and tones the pectoral muscles, beautifies upper arms and makes for a slim, willowy midriff.

The very act of forcing the body through the water is helpful since it strengthens the muscles of the back and abdomen and restores lost tone. In fact, swimming reaches most of the difficult-to-tone areas—the backs of the upper arms as well as the muscles in the throat and chest. Where the chest is concerned, the old-fashioned breast stroke is a real developer. It is especially recommended for underweight girls.

The side-stroke and the crawl are good for toning the abdominal and hip muscles. In fact, even hanging on to the edge of the pool and practising the flutter kick is a hip slimmer.

It's the water that makes swimming such a perfect exercise. Circulation is stimulated, you're buoyed up, have freedom of movement—and, without tiring, every muscle is given its allotted share of work as you push against the resistance of the water itself. Paradoxically, swimming changes bulges to curves and rounds out hollows, so it's good exercise for the overweight and the underweight, too. So come on, girls, let's get going! See you at the pool!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

MAY BEST MAN ALSO BE MASTER OF CEREMONIES?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our only daughter is to be married soon, and we are planning to invite approximately 150 guests. There is one special problem about which we have a dispute, and we would like your advice. I had invited a very dear friend of many years to act as master of ceremonies. The prospective groom has asked his brother to be best man and also to act as master of ceremonies. It may be a very small and petty matter, but who is right? And how do we settle this? (It is to be a Canadian wedding.) — Mother

If, as is quite customary in a wedding reception in Canada, a formal pattern is to be followed for the toasts and the responses to-the-toasts, this traditional ceremonial is presided over by a master of ceremonies who is usually an intimate and long-time friend of the bride's family. This is a practical arrangement, for then the bride's parents and the master of ceremonies can easily make the decisions about the procedure, the sequence of the toasts, who is to be called on, and so forth.

If the toasts-procedure is not to be such a formally-planned ceremonial . . . if, for example, there are only a few simple toasts or toasts proposed at the bride's table . . . then the best man is usually the toastmaster. However, if the best man is also to take on the responsibility of being both best man and master of ceremonies, there is no reason why he shouldn't be given this double-duty. And since the groom has already invited him to do this, I do think that probably that choice should stand. I am sure it will be easier for you to explain the change-of-plan to your long-time family friend.

BRIDE AND GROOM SHOULD HAVE A WEDDING CAKE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My sister is to be married again, after an unhappy first marriage and eight lonely years since her divorce. She has come to me for advice, and after talking it over together, we decided to write to you to ask for your advice. She is forty-one, and her fiance, who is fifty, has not been married before. He lives quite a distance from here. She and our family have not lived here very long, we have no relatives here and only a few friends, but we have many relatives and friends in other parts of the country.

My advice is that the couple have a quiet wedding in the manse of her church, and then leave immediately on their wedding trip. A couple who are very dear to all of us will come to the manse with us. I think a second wedding should be as quiet and dignified as possible, and so I have advised her against having a wedding supper here in our home, where we have six lively youngsters ranging in ages from two to fourteen. Don't you agree that this plan is sensible?

2. My sister of course wants to let the relatives and friends of both know about the marriage, but doesn't want to send wedding invitations. So wouldn't she send announcements, to be mailed to arrive after the ceremony? How should they be worded? I don't think my name need appear on them at all, as they are adults. But she thought maybe my name should be on them.

Two Puzzled Women

1. A second wedding should be as you say, quiet and dignified . . . but still I do so very much wish that you could in some way plan to have, after the ceremony in the manse, an hour or so for the couple to remember happily—the joyous cutting of the Wedding Cake, and a high-hearted toast or two proposed to "To the Happiest of the Bride and Groom!" Every bride and groom should, I believe, have these two memory-making ceremonies.

I'm sure you and or she could make a festive Wedding Cake and could provide some gingerale or sparkling white grape-juice. . . and promise the children a piece of the cake if they will "behave prettily." Or would it be entirely out-of-order to ask the couple you mention to have The Cake and the beverage served in their home, you and the bride providing them?

2. Yes, announcements are the answer to this circumstance, and as you suggest, in the names of the principals themselves:

Mrs. Clark Allen and
Mr. Thomas Hill announce their marriage on (date)
Nineteen hundred and fifty-seven
(place)

These formal announcements should be all ready to be mailed as soon as possible after the ceremony has been performed.

Wedding Rehearsal Party

By Mary Moore

CONT'D. FROM THURS. MAY 2

The three moulded salads that Mary J. made for her rehearsal party, and ingredients for each, I gave you yesterday, were tastefully arranged, as only Mary J. can do it, on cupped pale lettuce leaves. These were accentuated with green pepper rings. A small bowl of mayonnaise was nested on this platter too. Then she made decorative groupings of the celery and radish roses. It was a picture worthy of an artist, which indeed Mary is.

WHY SO MANY JELLIED SALADS?

When I asked her quite forthrightly why she made three jellied salads she explained: "Because you can do them the day before. After they are turned out and chilled they glaze and reset". She arranged the whole salad platter in midafternoon of the party day, covered it with a huge sheet of foil ("thank goodness for foil"), cleared off a whole shelf in the refrigerator and pushed it in.

As the guests came up the drive Mary took it from the refrigerator, removed it at one end of the cut-linen-clothed table to start the show rolling. She is a master showman too.

VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

The casserole of vegetables were large and consisted of diced cooked potatoes and mixed colored vegetables in a rich cream sauce. Each was topped with a sprinkling of raw celery and onion and buttered crumbs. These were the only items that were served piping hot, except the coffee.

RELISH PREPARATION

Mary prepared the celery hearts, radish roses and carrot strips and curls the day before, put them in a plastic bag with some ice cubes, clipped it shut, and stored them in the refrigerator until serving time. They were snapping crisp and the ice cubes were still frozen when she opened the bag just before the party.

The white bread and the whole wheat bread were sliced thin and buttered and foil wrapped the day before too and refrigerated.

DESSERT

The two angel food cakes were from package mixes made up the day before. One was frosted pink, the other pale green. To keep the dessert plates colorful Mary put one scoop of raspberry sherbet and vanilla ice cream on each along with a great wedge of angel food.

After coffee, nuts and mints everybody felt so happy and in a party mood for the excitement yet to come on the following wedding day.

ELDORADO—MADOC W.M.S.

ELDORADO—The Madoc and Eldorado Missionary Society held its April meeting in The Standard Church, Madoc, with a good attendance. The president, Mr. Post, opened the meeting.

The scripture reading was taken from Mathew 24.32-36.

Mrs. Harry Green, of Belleville, took charge.

It was a pleasure to have brother and sister Bixby, returned missionaries present. Sister Bixby gave a few of the highlights of the missionary work in Egypt, telling of a beautiful girl who was converted from the Moslem faith, and of the hardships with which she had to contend.

Mrs. Green asked for a special season of prayer for the missionary.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrother Bigby, who gave an interesting talk on the work in Egypt. He also showed a number of slides, which he had taken while in Egypt. These were much enjoyed by all.

Service was dismissed by the Rev. J. Dunning.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PERHAPS DIVORCE ISN'T THE WISEST THING FOR YOU

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've reached the end of my rope. There's no end of things to raise and all my husband cares about is running around with someone else. I don't know what to do or where to turn.

I'd like you to tell me how to go about getting a divorce. I know nothing about the law or anything concerning such things. . . .

I wouldn't want to lose my children and I don't want them separated, either. Is it possible for me to go away or something and make my husband support the children? I have no income, because I can't work, since the children are still small.

Please tell me what to do.

— Mrs. R.R.

Dear Mrs. R.R.:

Divorce is a very serious, complicated and costly thing and before you decide on this step you should first talk to someone to whom you could tell all the details of your problem and who could help you in arriving at a wise decision. There may be some better way to handle your problem than by divorcing your husband, and I feel sure you would like to find it if possible.

What I suggest is that you think over the people with whom you might talk, as, for example, your minister or priest, some relative of either yourself or your husband, who can be depended upon to take the matter seriously and who will give you wise guidance, or someone in your local social welfare organization. If you don't know where to find the latter, call this newspaper and ask for the name and address of the organization which helps people with family problems.

It may be that the best thing you could do would be to get a legal separation from your husband, rather than a divorce, and, if so, whoever you consult will tell you exactly how to go about this.

Will you follow this suggestion and then write again and let me know how you make out?

BETTER GO SLOW ON THAT WEDDING DATE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've been engaged to a fellow 26 for nearly two years. I'm 23. Several times I've tried to get him to set a definite wedding date but each time he's made an excuse to postpone a decision. What he says most often is that he wants to have a certain amount of money saved before we get married.

I think the trouble is that his mother tells him what to do and that he takes what she says more seriously than anything I say. She's told him several times that she thinks he's too young to marry and perhaps she's made him think so, too.

For myself, I'm beginning to wonder just what gives. What do you think is the matter?

— Priscilla W.

Dear Priscilla W.:

I'm afraid I'm more than a little doubtful that a young man who either keeps postponing his wedding or lets his mother dictate to him is very anxious to get married. Your fiance is quite right that it's wise to have money in the bank before getting married, but you don't say anything to indicate that he's working hard to achieve that end. Moreover, if, even before you marry, his mother has more influence over him than you do, I don't think that anybody who marries him will have too easy a time.

My advice to you is to take your turn at being in no hurry to set a wedding date. Have a frank talk with the chap and let him know that you have your own ideas about things that must be done before you marry, one of which is for him to decide whether you or his mother is going to come first in his life.

BRINGING NEW HOUSES TO LIFE

This man's job is to bring new houses to life with electricity. Long before this new house was finished, Ontario Hydro and your local Hydro Utility had planned ahead for it; this house and many more like it. Increased power requirements were analyzed. Lines were constructed and, if necessary, new transformer facilities installed.

For the occupants the flick of a switch will bring electric power surging to their bidding, to do a multiplicity of chores faster and more economically by electricity.

Colors Play Big Part In Modernization Jobs

Good color is as important to a remodeled house as it is to a new house.

"Real modernization of a house without an attractive job of color styling the exterior is impossible," says Beatrice West, color consultant to professional builders. "The planned use of color is an essential part of all home design today," she says.

Here is Miss West's basic color guide for the two main exterior areas of a house—the roof and sidewalls:

"The roof is generally the largest unbroken area visible. The color is the key to colors you may use elsewhere on the house. You have a wide range of selection in modern asphalt shingles. But make that selection with care. Be sure your liking for the roof color will last as long as the roof itself. A house may need painting every four or five years, but its roof is expected to last 15 to 20 years.

"A light, bright roof will make a house appear taller than it really is. A dark roof makes a house seem shorter, use light colored roofs on one-storey houses, darker roofs on two-storey or three-storey houses.

"Sidewalls should be colored to harmonize with the roof. If the roof is light in color, keep the sidewalls light. If the roof is medium to dark in color, the wall may be in those ranges.

"In general, contrasts between a roof and siding should be subtle. To give a house bigness, choose a light, bright asphalt roof and bright siding. To make a big house appear smaller, use subdued colors.

"Choose siding with horizontal lines to make a house look longer. Vertical siding lines add to the appearance of height.

"Paint gable ends on small houses to match the sidewall colors. Don't use many different siding materials on one house. A combination of colors, patterns and textures can be unpleasant. Don't try to achieve glamor with brick and stone on the same house. Use one or the other.

A SAFETY PAINT

Non-skid paint, containing an abrasive such as pumice stone, can be used to prevent slips on steps and cellar stairs. It was developed to prevent crewman from slipping inside military tanks and is now widely used in industrial plants.

New Switches Have Lights in Handles

New mercury switches that operate silently without the usual on and off clicks are now being equipped with lighted handles clearly visible in the dark. A tiny neon light in the toggle handle glows when the switch is off.

This is a handy idea for bedrooms, bathrooms and children's rooms. The glowing handle also serves as a reverse pilot light for basement circuits, indicating when the basement lights are off.

The neon handle is supposed to be good for 10 to 15 years and its current cost is figured at about 2 cents per year average rates.

SPRAY PAINTING TIP

A distorted spray from a paint gun is a sign of a dirty air cap. Take off the cap and wash it carefully in clean solvent. If the air holes need reaming, use a broom straw or a matchstick splinter. Never use a metal instrument.

Most Cellar Water Comes From Roof

More cellar dampness is caused by roof water than by underground water sources. Tests have shown that in most cases the ground water level is well below a cellar floor.

Cellar walls can normally keep out the amount of rain water that falls on the ground next to the foundation. But when the greatly increased drainage of a roof is allowed to seep into the small areas next to the house, cellar walls are subjected to a task for which they were not designed.

SECRET PANELS FOR RADIATOR

To get rid of an old fashioned radiator in the living room, the Hal Carlsons of Westchester County, N. Y., put in a convector type hidden in a window seat.

But they didn't like any of the conventional methods of putting in removable panels for getting at the radiator valves. The Carlsons thought they didn't fit right and they rattled.

So the do-it-yourself fans solved the problem by edging openings with quarter-inch thick molding, backed by plywood panels hinged at the bottom with spring hinges. They took like solid panels, and only need to be pushed inward for access to the radiator valves.

A cabinet maker friend who saw the arrangement said: "It would take an amateur to think of an idea like that."

Check Electric Wiring

Portable electric heaters are becoming so popular in supplementing heat for extra rooms that overloads are being placed on many house circuits.

The current consumption of portable electric heaters ranges from 250 watts for a single heat lamp, to 1,650 watts for larger room heating units.

If a large capacity electric heater is plugged into a single 15-ampere circuit, common in most homes, no other appliance can be connected without blowing a fuse or tripping a circuit breaker.

According to one of the largest wire manufacturers, Kennecott Copper Corp., about 34 million homes have the minimum 15-ampere circuits. Wiring authorities consider this inadequate to handle many of the new electric appliances now on the market. They recommend that such houses be rewired with 20-ampere circuits, allowing up to 2,400 watts per circuit.

When It's Tile, It's Clay Tile

Canadian Garden Service

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

MOST FROM VEGETABLES

With a little planning and research with a good Canadian seed catalogue it is amazing the volume and variety of vegetables one can get out of even a tiny plot of land, and of course any vegetable from the garden, right at the door, tastes entirely different from any that we can buy.

For the very earliest crops we depend on permanent perennial types, things like asparagus, perennial onions, parsnips left in the ground all winter and so on. These will be ready for the table almost within a few weeks after the snow has gone.

As soon as the soil is fit to work we plant lettuce and radish and onion sets which only take a fortnight or so to be ready for salads. Also sown early but not ready for eating culls as soon will be carrots, beets, peas, then a little later, after danger of frost is over, beans, corn, tomatoes, cucumbers, melons and what ever we fancy.

Most of this stuff, if necessary, can be crowded together in rows 12 to 18 inches apart. Space can also be saved by growing the big things like corn and staked tomatoes along the fence rows. Then to make sure the vegetable garden keeps on producing we make two or three sowings of each vegetable from time to time, weeks apart and we also use early, medium and late sorts.

In most parts of Canada one can go on sowing carrots, beets, lettuce, beans and corn right up to the first part of July and still be sure of getting a crop. By using different varieties and sowing a little and often rather than all at once, the smart gardener will have something ready for use at all times from early spring until late fall.

WILL ADD BEAUTY

Only a very few birds are really destructive in the gardens. Most of them do far more good than harm. They will help keep down bugs and eat weed seeds, and they are beautiful and interesting to have around. Shrubs and trees, bird houses, feeding stations and even bird baths or pools, all will help to bring scenes and colors into the garden. But we can do more than this. There are certain bright flowers that have a special appeal for humming birds. There are all sorts of shrubs with bright and edible fruit or seeds that will invite cardinals. There are others that are particularly attractive for the goldfinch. It pays well to study the special likes of the birds, to plant things that will produce food and shelter in winter as well as in summer.

NO HURRY

Do not fret if the spring is late in your part of Canada this year. In the first place fretting will not help bring the warm days any faster and secondly there is still plenty of time anywhere in Canada, to have a fine garden even if we can't get a spade in the ground until late May. Indeed there are several quick growing things which will make abundant bloom or fine meals for the table even if planted in June. The experts, incidently, always warn the beginner to take it easy, to prepare the soil well, and wait until spring weather has really arrived. Of course, one should get nursery stock and some of the later sorts of flowers and vegetables planted as soon as possible, but the main sowings are best postponed until around this time or even later.

Spreading the plantings, too, over a fairly long period, right up to early July in the warmer parts of Canada, is always advisable. In this way the harvest of flowers and vegetables is spread out too.

NEXT WEEK

Big showy annuals for background planting.

Aluminum Foil Foils Hot Sun On Back of Neck

Aluminum foil is getting more and more jobs in home building. In addition to its wide use as insulation, it makes a good vapor barrier. A dry house can be assured over a crawl space when foil is properly installed.

The ground in the crawl space is smoothed. Foil 36 inches wide is carefully unrolled and lapped three inches. A little dry sand is scattered over it to hold down the overlaps and a vermin-proof, fireproof moisture barrier is created. But don't puncture it.

One builder found his roofers working under a blazing sun using foil for a sunshade while mer sun. They used pieces about 18 inches square, put them on their heads, replaced their hats and let the foil hang down over their ears and back of the neck. Good protection against sun stroke.

A Pennsylvania roofer uses foil to recap built-up roofs. Reporting in Practical Builder, trade publication, he said the foil bonded the best with hot asphalt over the dried oxidized old roofing. The reflection surface adds noticeable insulation against the summer sun.

Crumpled foil is handy for plugging crevices in a caulking job. It doesn't draw out the oils from the caulking compound the way oakum, rags or paper wads often do.

Corners Where Panels Meet Can Be Finished Attractively

CORNERS WHERE Six methods of finishing inside and outside corners when panelling a room are illustrated here. Corners, when panelling with fir plywood, are not a problem but effectiveness of the job can be enhanced by well finished corners.

One corner finish (illustrated in outside corner 4 and inside corner 6, above) is not common but can be very striking. This method involves leaving a gap between the panels. Before the panels are applied, the stud or studs behind are prepainted in a solid color. With panels stained or wiped-down so that natural grain of the wood is featured, the solid paint on the studs shows through the gap in distinctive manner.

Most corners illustrated are finished with a moulding. Many varieties of moulding are available from your lumber pamphlets and hints on how to paint or stain the fir plywood panels.

If panels are applied to butt at the corners, it is generally best to ease the edges of the panels so that the joint is emphasized. Most panels are of the ¼ inch thickness and to bevel the edges so that the corners meet in a neat flush joint is sometimes difficult.

New Clothes Tree Boosts Closet Use

The efficiency of a storage closet can be increased from 50 to 100 per cent by lining the walls with peg-board, perforated hardboard. Mounting such panels on furring strips places them out from the wall a fraction of an inch to accommodate various metal hooks and fixtures.

A new fixture is the closet tree. This comprises a vertical metal pole reaching from floor to ceiling with adjustable side arms extending out toward the walls. It makes the hanging of garments easy for children as well as adults.

The height of the arms can be changed at 3-inch intervals with a screwdriver. They swing in arcs to allow access to the walls.

Plastic Film Cuts Greenhouse Cost

If gardening is one of your hobbies, you may have wished you had a greenhouse—large or small—someplace to grow tomatoes and lettuce in the winter, perhaps with orchids and other tropical flowers.

The University of Kentucky has found that out-of-season crops can be grown much more cheaply in a plastic greenhouse than in an expensive glass structure. Prof. E. M. Emmert has made tests with plastic greenhouses for 10 years at the university's agricultural experiment station.

You may not need a greenhouse as large as the one he built at Lexington, Ky., but it will give you a rough idea of the cost. It measures 18 by 84 feet. Bids for its framing varied from $150 to $250. For $39 a year, this long structure is covered with polyethylene film—a heavier grade on the outside of the frame costing $24 and a lighter lining $15.

This comparatively cheap plastic covering is put on in September and it lasts until the following June. The ultra-violet light and heat of the sun deteriorates it.

"The heat build-up from the sun is not so great under plastic as under glass", Prof. Emmert says. "But the heat loss at night is less. This is good for plants. With the double layer of plastic, the heat loss is less than half that with glass. Moisture retention is greater. This lessens the amount of watering needed. Ventilation and fungicides are important to prevent plant disease."

For heating a small greenhouse, automatic gas heaters are rated as satisfactory, if combustion is complete. Propane gas was found to give off only carbon-dioxide—good for plants—and water. But complete combustion and tight vents are vital when using natural gas in order to prevent aldehydes from harming the plants.

A tough greenhouse of polyethylene film. Dr. E. M. Emmert, professor of horticulture at the University of Kentucky, watches as Brown Beasley, agronomist for Spencer Chemical, punches the film.

Table Measures Dry Mortar Mix For Brick Work

For small masonry jobs around a home dry mortar mix, sold in bags at building supply houses and quickly mixed with water, is gaining wide popularity. You don't have a lot of cement and sand left over with a problem of how to get rid of it.

For the most efficient use of this dry sack mortar, however, it is a good idea to know exactly how much you are going to need. Any that is left over will keep indefinitely if you protect it from moisture, but sometimes storage is a problem.

Here is a table showing the approximate number of 80-pound bags needed to lay certain numbers of bricks:

Bricks	¾" Joint	½" Joint
65	1 Bag	1½ Bags
100	1½ Bags	2 Bags
150	2½ Bags	3 Bags
250	4 Bags	5 Bags

To lay concrete blocks your can use this table:

Blocks	¾" Joint	½" Joint
27	1 Bag	1½ Bags
40	1½ Bags	2 Bags
100	3½ Bags	5 Bags
300	11 Bags	15 Bags

SALMON TAGGED

Three Quebec maritime fisheries biologists tag an Atlantic salmon on the shore of the St. Lawrence River. Robert Bourassa (centre), chief of the fisheries protection service, takes a sample of the specimen's scales with long-armed pliers as Maurice Imis ite ages. Adolphe Mi d (right) notes the length and other characteristics of the fish while Pierre Paulbus helps hold it down on the measuring board. The delicate job is all in a day's work for the biologists. Later, if the tagged fish is caught, the tagging will be sent to the fisheries department laboratory for examination. Findings will help biologists determine some of the causes of the depletion of salmon in Quebec waters. (CP Photo).

Quebec Will Adopt Severe Laws, Raise Thousands of Fish to Protect Atlantic Salmon

By GUY RONDEAU
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—The provincial government is preparing to adopt severe regulations and raise thousands of fish to protect one of Quebec's most precious natural resources—the Atlantic salmon.

Atlantic salmon have also become scarcer in the other eastern Canadian provinces. The fish, which lives most of its life in the sea but must return to freshwater lakes and rivers to spawn, is worth about $2,500,000 annually to this province.

Because of the drop government officials state all regulations concerning salmon, both present and future, will be enforced.

PROPOSE RESTRICTIONS

"At all costs," declares Charles Fremont, superintendent of the game and fisheries department, "we must protect this species which enriches the rivers of the province."

Mr. Fremont feels the first step is a government request that both commercial and sport fishermen restrict catches so a sufficient number of salmon will reach the spawning beds.

Another prime need is for understanding of the year-round movements of Atlantic salmon so they can be taken at the most favorable times, and the enactment of regulations for their protection.

Robert Bourassa, a biologist in the fisheries department, says the natural conditions of Quebec's Gaspe region and along the North Shore of the lower St. Lawrence are favorable to salmon propagation, but that conservation steps must be taken if the salmon are not to disappear.

Prime causes of depleted runs are water pollution and destruction of natural habitats. Another is heavy catches of the fish northeast of Newfoundland, an area where they seem to gather before heading up the St. Lawrence to the spawning rivers.

The fish is also prey to natural enemies — whales and seals and seals which gobble salmon eggs.

The provincial government has been working on salmon protection for years. In 1949 Quebec and Ottawa (federal government) and three other provinces—New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland—signed a convention whereby research and management program.

The province set up a marine biology station at Grande-Riviere in Gaspe. There migrations, production capacity of individual rivers, effects of commercial fishing, depletion by predators and water conditions were studied.

The government has said the complete study will be finished and will complete a detailed inventory of Quebec's salmon rivers. It will serve as the basis for all future work.

A study of salmon netting will also be completed this summer. The results will be used to determine whether too many nets are concentrated in one area and the effect heavy netting has on the number of fish reaching the spawning grounds.

Dr. Camille Pouliot, minister of game and fisheries, is personally interested in the salmon situation. He has directed that a large section of the Gaspe fish hatchery be used to raise hardy young salmon for planting in the rivers.

This year some 50,000 smolts—as the young salmon is known after about three years in fresh water —will be raised. They will be put into rivers to acclimatize themselves before their trip to the ocean. They stay in the sea for from one to three years before returning to the spawning beds.

Proof that a good management program can bring results is seen in the comeback made in the Matane River on the south shore of the St. Lawrence in Gaspe. Since 1939, when not one salmon was taken there, it has become one of the best producers in the province.

VALUABLE ASSET

Georges Maheux, zoology professor at Laval University, made a study of the economic value of the Atlantic salmon to the province. About 80 per cent of the annual $2,500,000 brought in by the fish is transferred into personal revenue for residents, he estimates.

Sports fishing makes up $1,900,000 of the total, although the sporting season lasts about a week one-fifth of the commercial fisherman's take. The average sportsman may pay $150 for each salmon he catches. They can run up to 40 or 50 pounds.

Commercial salmon fishing brings in $450,000 annually. The province leases between 350 and 600 commercial licences each year. But the number of fathoms —six-foot lengths—of nets in use has dropped from 53,126 in 1951 to 37,170 in 1956.

This indication of diminishing interest in commercial fishing is explained by the lower catches and other job opportunities now available through industrial and mining expansion in the Gaspe and north shore regions.

Sport fishing clubs also pay commercial fishermen to stop netting near the mouths of rivers where their clubs are located.

Mr. Maheux believes these changes have not diminished the available catch but merely distributed it among fewer fishermen.

Socred Leader Gives 14-Point Party Program

OTTAWA (CP)—Solon Low, Social Credit party leader, has accused the Liberal government of playing up feeling against the United States to cover up its bungling of the Norman case.

Mr. Low said in a radio broadcast Thursday night that the government could and should have been much more frank with Parliament and the Canadian people in the Norman case.

Herbert Norman, former ambassador to Egypt, committed suicide in Cairo April 4 after a U.S. Senate sub-committee released charges that he was a Communist.

Mr. Low said the government "seriously mishandled the Norman case."

SOCRED SCHEME SEEN

The Canadian people could come to only one conclusion, "namely, that some members of the government deliberately threw a smoke screen over this whole unfortunate business right from 1951, and they will find a whole lot more to the affair than has as yet appeared on the surface."

The statements were included in the 14-point platform of recorded speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Low, who is in Edmonton, outlined in his broadcast a 14-point Social Credit program:

1. A federal old age pension of $50 a month with provision for splitting with the provinces the cost of a supplementary $40, making the total pension a figure of $100. (The Liberal government has announced a $6 increase in the current $40 old age pension, effective July 1. The CCF is advocating a $75 pension. The Conservatives, while saying the $6 increase is too small, have not campaigned on a specific figure.)

2. Financial policies to balance purchasing power with production.

3. A national health insurance program.

4. Reduced taxation to match revenues with carefully controlled expenditures.

5. Low-interest mortgage funds to every Canadian family wanting a home.

6. A two-price system for wheat barter deals and acceptance of local currencies in export sales of farm surpluses.

7. Low-interest loans for small businesses and farms.

8. Federal assistance for construction of arterial highways.

9. A new foreign policy "based on the highest moral principles and the broadest human sympathies and understandings" including Anglo-Canada-American solidarity.

10. Elimination of inefficiency and waste in defence policy.

11. Senate reform.

12. A co-ordinated program of selective immigration.

13. A vigorous, well-conceived policy of northern development.

14. A national transferable pension plan for workers so that if they changed jobs they would not lose pension benefits already acquired.

VOLCANO ACTIVE

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP) — Lamonai volcano, off the eastern tip of New Guinea, is showing signs it is ready to blow. A swamp near the crater disappeared overnight. Tremors, rumblings, heat and steam clouds have intensified. Plans are being made to move 7,000 islanders living within 10 miles of the crater.

Appeal Made to Canadians To Be Tolerant, Understanding In Judgment of Immigrants

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal immigration authorities have appealed to Canadians to use tolerance and understanding in their judgment of Hungarian refugees.

Canadians who come in contact with these newcomers are asked to remember that these men, women and children will go through a difficult period of readjustment before they can feel at home in their new country.

The appeal is made in an article entitled Understanding the Refugee Immigrant which appears in Citizen, a publication of the citizenship and immigration department.

The article says an immigrant may be compared with a plant that has been removed from its native soil and transplanted elsewhere.

The average immigrant transplants himself with hope and careful planning. Even under the most favorable circumstances the process is difficult and is accompanied by some pain and confusion.

But when the immigrant is a refugee the adjustment is almost always far more difficult.

The Hungarian refugees fled from their homes, many of them in the face of great danger. They had to leave their country and possessions and many of them suffered the shock of losing next-of-kin. Others are worried about the possible fate of relatives and friends still in Hungary.

The article says that Hungarians will go through an initial period of adjustment lasting about two months. During this time the refugee experiences a feeling of exaltation at being in a new and free country.

After this period the refugee begins to appreciate language difficulties, differences in customs and values and problems facing him in the future. He now begins to experience worry and strain, sometimes accompanied by depression and nostalgia caused by a desire to return to familiar surroundings.

But this feeling of frustration and helplessness can be reduced by the refugee quickly acquiring knowledge of English or French.

"This facilitates the procedure in getting a job, and it may help the immigrant to find a better job later," the article says. "Finally, a knowledge of the language is essential for communication with Canadians and for an understanding of the Canadian scene."

Surveys show that the first wish of immigrants is for close contact with Canadians. The people of Canada could help immigrants "become happily adjusted to life in Canada by trying to understand their problems and by helping to interpret Canadian ways to them in a spirit of friendliness."

Election Campaign

Diefenbaker Goes To New Brunswick In Maritime Tour

AMHERST, N.S. (CP) John Diefenbaker headed into New Brunswick today on the last leg of his one-week Maritime tour. He said here that the Liberals are giving a "wrong turn" to the Conservatives in the Maritimes.

Thursday night, in a speech to about 300 persons in this town of 10,300 he said a "strictly confidential" document by the Liberals reports that: "There are significant shifts in the Atlantic provinces and the West. In all provinces provinces there is a clear trend favoring the Progressive Conservative party."

He said the document was lustfed several weeks ago by M. E. Kidd, secretary of the National Liberal Federation of Canada.

At 11 p.m. Mr. Diefenbaker climbed on the stage with Premier R. B. Bennett, Sackville, who spoke with him on three nights.

WANTS GUARANTEES

Mr. Stanfield said this province will immediately agree to the federal government's plan to construct three power projects in Nova Scotia, but it wants Ottawa to guarantee a reduced price for power as part of Nova Scotia coal.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Liberal cabinet ministers are "strewing promises" across the country. Last Tuesday the prime minister had "indirectly promised" a 400-mile railroad.

A spring blizzard was swirling through Nova Scotia as Mr. Diefenbaker toured. In Springhill he heard the story of the explosion that took 88 lives last year.

The three Maritime provinces, where the Conservatives are in spending this week, have 26 seats in Parliament of which the Progressive Conservatives had six at dissolution.

Mr. Diefenbaker travels next week in Quebec and Ontario and a week later heads west. He is expected to make another quick swing through the Maritimes near the end of his campaign for the June 10 election.

Prime Minister Opens B.C. Tour At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent opens a 16-hour round of political activity in this bustling city today, heartened by public response in Saturday's appeal for the British Columbia vote.

A Social Credit government has ruled in this province since 1952. Of B.C.'s 22 federal seats, the Liberals hold seven, the same number as the CCF. Social Credit have now four and the Progressive Conservatives three. One seat is vacant.

So far, Mr. St. Laurent is reported to be satisfied with the response. At Revelstoke Thursday as he moved by train towards Vancouver, about one-third of the town's 3,000 population turned out in showery weather to give him a resounding station welcome.

Dozens of children swarmed around him so tightly that police had to form a small cordon to hold them back.

Earlier as the train crawled through the majestic sweep of the Rockies, he met enthusiastic response at the little communities of Field and Golden.

Children greeted him particularly when he asked school authorities to declare a holiday for the day off from classes.

Mr. St. Laurent made it clear that schools were provincial responsibilities and he had no authority in the matter, nevertheless. He merely asked school authorities if they would agree to time off and they did.

IDEA COULD SPREAD

Some political observers aboard his train suggested Canadian students may get a lot of time off if Mr. St. Laurent's idea spreads.

Mr. St. Laurent's lead.

Today Mr. St. Laurent swings from a morning station reception to the new Vancouver port office, the Shaughnessy Military Hospital, North Vancouver City Hall, a luncheon community centre reception, a trip to suburban Burnaby and then to a big evening rally.

Saturday he will head for Nanaimo and Victoria.

Officer Freed In Welland Theft Of $78,000

WELLAND (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury Thursday acquitted Earl Kirk, 41, former Welland policeman, on charges of breaking and entering the Welland post office and of being in possession of stolen money.

The charges arose out of the $78,000 robbery May 4, 1955, of the payroll of Atlas Steel Limited. Kirk, on the police force at the time, testified he was performing his normal duties on the perimeter of the community the night of the robbery.

Mr. Justice E. G. Moorehouse said he "entirely concurred in the verdict."

"Your luck at gambling still holds," Justice Moorehouse said. "The court's advice to you is to stay away from liquor and gambling, seek gainful employment and associate yourself with the church."

Defence witnesses had testified Kirk, a frequent prize winner in dice games and had also won a considerable amount of money at the racetrack.

During the trial, Harry Readman, Welland policeman serving a five year term for possession of part of the loot—identified Kirk had given him a package of money. He said Kirk told him it was post office money. Kirk denied this.

Coldwell Says CCF Party Would Like to Introduce Many Social Welfare Measures

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The CCF would like a chance to do it itself.

That in essence was the radio-television message delivered Thursday night by CCF leader M. J. Coldwell as he joined the three other national party leaders in their bid for the June 10 federal election.

"We, as a political movement, take pride in the contribution we have made in pressuring reluctant governments to enact progressive (social welfare) measures," he said. But the CCF party was not satisfied with the few steps taken so far.

Canada's great wealth would not be shared by all Canadians "as long as we have governments dedicated to the serving of specially-privileged groups."

SPEECHES INCREASE

Meanwhile, the campaign voices were turning toward symphonic proportions. The handshakes were vigorous; the head-patting jubilant; the charm turned to full blast—except where opposing parties were concerned.

Example: While John Diefenbaker braved snow and cold for the Progressive Conservatives in Nova Scotia, Social Credit Leader Low to the air waves to say he sees "no sense in jumping out of the frying pan into the fire." The Conservatives were appealing to the people, to unseat the Liberal government, but had no effective alternative policies to offer.

"And if the only choice the Canadian people have is to be shot or to be boiled in oil, there is much to look forward to is there?"

As for the Liberal government, said Mr. Low, who was in Edmonton, it "long ago departed from the principles on which it was founded."

He had seen the Liberals "debasely attempt to steal the thunder of any other party if they thought it might possibly end up a bankruptcy of ideas within their own set of principles."

WHISTLE-STOP TRIP

Prime Minister St. Laurent was aboard his train rolling toward Vancouver overnight. He didn't have time for much speech-making. But his host, Premier Lloyd Jr. role, he did some whistle-stopping along the way.

At the resort—town of Banff, Alta., he told a knot of people at the railway station he visited the Spring hill mine where 39 lives were lost last Nov. 1 and chatted with miners on the surface while snow and smoke swirled around him.

Twice he crossed paths with Works Minister Winters. They shook hands warmly at Parrsboro but didn't meet at the Springhill mine.

LISTS SOCIALIST STEP

Mr. Coldwell, nearing the end of a stay in his Saskatchewan constituency of Rosetown-Biggar said some CCF objectives implemented so far include unemployment insurance, farm marketing boards, a publicly-owned central bank, family allowances and a halting step toward health insurance.

"All these things have been introduced by a reluctant government largely because of pressure which the CCF has brought to bear over the years."

CCF wing Stanley Knowles told a Winnipeg meeting his party will make an increase in old age pensions to $75 from $46 monthly a major issue.

Meanwhile, Conservative Gordon Churchill, MP for Winnipeg South Centre in the last Parliament told a Beauejour, Man., audience that parliamentary freedom is the No. 1 issue in the election.

ATTACKS TWO PARTIES

But in Hamilton, CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald said if Mr. Diefenbaker champions Parliamentary rights in any Ontario speech, his words "should choke his throat." Ontario's Conservative government would trample the traditional rights of Parliament into the ground, he callously told the Ontario CCF annual convention.

Speaking from Mr. Diefenbaker's Andover platform, Nova Scotia Premier Stanfield said the federal government's $600,000,000 hospital insurance program. The Liberals "want an election insurance program."

Finance Minister Harris predicted Thursday night Canada's economy will expand faster than that of the U.S. And, he added, individual taxes to the federal government will drop as the country develops.

In Montreal, Mrs. Therese Casgrain, leader of the Social Democratic party of Quebec CCF armwald the Liberals and Conservatives of "joining in a conspiracy" despite their opposition to each other: "To make the rich always richer ... and the ones who put them in power."

Three skiers managed to free themselves. A fourth was dug out by Austrian mountain rescuers, but died en route to hospital. The accident raised this season's Austrian avalanche death toll to 17.

Aston Villa's Merry Mudlarks Meet Manchester for 'T' Coop'

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Villa Fighters meet the Busby Babes Saturday in the Football Association Cup final, traditional finale to Britain's soccer season.

A Canadian in Wembley stadium might be forgiven for feeling he had suddenly been caught up in the annual Grey Cup merry-go-round back home.

A few things are different besides the type of game played: Edmonton Eskimos and Montreal Alouettes are missing. Instead, the cup final pits Aston Villa against manager Matt Busby's powerful Manchester United eleven, league champions for the second straight year and anxious to add the cup for the first "double" in 60 years.

SAME ATMOSPHERE

But in many respects the two football classics are remarkably similar. Both possess the same merry, zany atmosphere that makes each its country's top single sporting attraction. There is the same bewildering profusion of "experts" pre-game forecasts and the same mad scramble for tickets.

Regular admission charges, ranging from 3s 6d to 30s, are bargains by Canadian standards but scalpers' prices at £10 and up are just as high.

Not even Vancouver's Empire Stadium can hope to match spacious Wembley's 99,000 attendance figure, but the traffic jams are much the same.

EAR-SHATTERING DIN

As in Canada, the fans 'treat the cup final as a gala occasion, wearing rosettes and streamers in the colors of their favorite team and raising an ear-shattering din with rattles and noisemakers.

Manchester United already rated one of the all-time great teams of British soccer, are favorites to walk off with the laurels they last captured in 1948. United paced the 22-club first division all last season, ending up with a lofty 64 points—eight more than runner-up Tottenham Hotspur, while the Villa could do no better than 10th-place finish and 43 points.

YOUNG TEAM

United's youthful lineup — average age 24—is studded with International stars from goalkeeper Ray Wood to centre-forward Tom Taylor.

United has Duncan Edwards, who was only 18 when he won a full England International cap and is considered the outstanding left half in Britain. Another stalwart is Manchester-born Roger Byrne, team captain and one of the fastest and most accomplished backs in the game.

Villa's gallant fight to regain its old soccer glories has been almost overlooked this season as interest centred on United's spectacular bid for both the league and cup titles. The Birmingham club dominated the soccer scene until the turn of the century, but last year barely missed relegation to the second division.

USE BRUTE FORCE

British soccer fans call Villa the "mudlarkers" of the Midlands, a disparaging term denoting a team that relies on brute force rather than skill. Villa players tackle hard and play a robust game, but forwards like Jackie Sewell and Irish International Peter MacParland are both fast and skilful.

Villa has more than the honor of a cup victory at stake. They want to prevent United achieving the league-cup double. The last time the feat was accomplished was in 1896-97 and the team that brought it off was Aston Villa.

Tessier Gets Three Goals in Quebec Victory

By JOHN YORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Orval Tessier has a sore shin today but he isn't complaining.

A puck that bounded widely out of a scramble struck Tessier on the chin Thursday night and the high-scoring Quebec Aces' forward knocked it down, controlled it with a stick, and rifled a shot that gave the Aces a 7-6 victory over Brandon Regals and a 2-1 lead in their best-of-nine series for the Edinburgh Trophy.

Tessier's goal, his third of the game, came after 6:10 of sudden-death overtime and climaxed an uphill see-saw battle that saw the Aces come from behind four times before they finally won out. It was the third straight game of the series to be decided by one goal.

FROM 15 FEET OUT

Tessier, Quebec Hockey League scoring champion during the regular season, banged home the winning goal from 15 feet in front of the net. It came when Elliot Bentley of the Regals had only two seconds left to serve on a hooking penalty.

Other Quebec scorers were Dick Gamble, Marcel Bonin, Michel Labadie and Stan Maxwell.

The game contrasted sharply with the tight defensive play of the two previous meetings in Quebec City. The teams return there for the next game Sunday and all remaining games.

Brandon goal getters were Les Lilley with three and Ernie Raleigh, Len Haley and Ray Manson with one each. Playing coach Raleigh also assisted three times.

The western champions, a smooth mixture of veterans and newcomers, jumped into the lead at 10:50 of the first period when right wing Lilley got the first of his three goals.

ACES TIED IT

Quebec fought back, catching up every time Regals went ahead. The first stanza ended in a 2-2 tie. The teams were never separated by more than a goal.

The crowd of 5,250 watched Brandon go briefly ahead and then saw Tessier get his second marker followed by Maxwell's at 8:56. Each team scored once more and the second period ended 5-4 for the Aces.

Two goals by Lilley within the first two minutes of the third gave Brandon the lead again, but they couldn't hold it. Marcel Bonin knotted the score at 6-6 at 3:19 of the third and the teams went into overtime.

Quebec's strong power play, which includes three of the top five scorers in the league this season, payed off three times—including the winner. Regals scored one when Aces were short. 11 minor penalties, six against the westerners.

Lucien Dechene, Regal goalie and most valuable player in the WHL, blocked 38 shots compared with-31 by Al Millar.

RACE SPILL KILLS TWO

ALBURY, Australia (AP)—One of the worst horse race accidents in Australian turf history brought death to two jockeys and serious injuries to a third.

Three horses in the Albury Cup race, Wednesday jammed together in a move for the trail and sent their riders spilling head first onto the track.

Doug Barclay, 26, died in hospital shortly after the accident. Maurie Gray, 34, died Thursday. The third rider, Ivan Spaling, 22, is in critical condition with a fractured skull.

Baby Canadiens Flin Flon Resume Series Tonight

REGINA (CP)—The Memorial Cup series has developed into a best-of-three event as Flin Flon Bombers and Ottawa Canadiens meet tonight in the fifth game. Their best-of-seven series is tied at two games each.

Bombers won the first game in Flin Flon 3-1 and then took the fourth in Regina Wednesday by the same score. Ottawa took 4-3 and 5-2 victories in the second and third contests.

All but the first game were decided by third-period rallies. The eastern champion Canadiens scored three times in the last four minutes and twice in the last 33 seconds to win the second contest. Four unassisted final period goals by Ottawa won the third. Flin Flon, western champions, scored three times in the third stanza for their win Wednesday.

The sixth game of the Canadian Junior hockey championship series will be played here Monday.

The series to date has featured only one individual star. Murray Balfour scored three of the four third-period goals by Canadiens in the third game. Bill Carter also has netted three goals for Canadiens.

Flin Flon's big line of Patty Gin-nel, Ron Hampson and Mel Pearson holds the lion's share of the Bomber scoring. The trio, with Ginnell getting three, Hampson two and Pearson one, has accounted for six of the eleven Flin Flon goals.

Defenseman George Konik has three of the remaining five goals.

Both clubs are in good physical condition. Bombers' winger Barry Beatty injured his back in the second game but has played in all contests to date. Regular goalie George Wood suffered a slight hand injury in the first battle and missed the third game but is expected to be in the nets for the western champions tonight.

KINISKI TONIGHT

A tip to you wrestling fans.

Tonight before you take off for the arena where Cronor Farmer Boy will be thrown in the one-man pride of lions, one Gene Kiniski, by sun and wear your padded girdles, shoulder pads and shin guards, just in case Ole Lee Kiniski gets meat-hungry and has a yen for home sapiens steaks or chops.

Not that the Edmonton bulldozer has cannibalistic urges —he just don't like folks butting in on his business. And he makes no bones about it, He'll take on anything in the pews regardless of race, color or creed. He will merely take you apart, re-assemble you and if there are any pieces left over, that is your hard luck.

And if any of you have the idea of taking Kiniski on in a sideline outside-the-ring bout, don't have any qualms about picking on somebody your own size. Gene won't worry. After all, he tips the scales at a measly 370 pounds and rears six feet five inches off his haunches. He admits to a quarter century of years.

Despite his rough rugged exterior and bull-dozing ring methods, Kiniski holds an imposing wrestling and educational record. He has been dabbling at his favorite sport for the past decade and if you could get a peek at his mantlepiece you would see trophies emblematic of the western Canadian heavyweight amateur title; the Alberta State heavy crown and the Border Conference gunfalon.

Professionally he is the bigger half of the international tagteam titular duo. His Podner is Lord Blears, of the Brooklyn peerage, who is well known to Belleville fandom through his association in a tag-team capacity with the popular Lord Athol Layton.

And of further interest to district fans is the fact that the Kiniski-Blears combo snatched the tag-team title from guess who? None other than the popular Sharpe brothers, Mike and Ben.

In solo Kiniski has taken on the world champion, Lou Thesz, no less nine times. Lou won the first and third. The second bout was a draw after one hour and 33 minutes of rugged brawling.

Now let's take a look at His Majesty Kiniski's loyal opposition. He's Farmer Boy, a resident hunky who supposedly is a graduate of the knife-and-fiddle choir. And this guy can sing. In fact he is more than interested in a singing career. And he has ambitions to be an actor.

In fact he just barely missed an important role in the current Broadway musical hit "Fiddler on the Roof". Farmer Boy was "rushed" his way to New York where casting for the show was going on. Farmer Boy tarried too long in the hinterlands and just missed the setting job.

However he warbles a sweet tune, his favorite being "He." And it is quite likely he will dispense a melody or two in his debut here tonight. Meanwhile he is no panty-waist when it comes to wrestling. He is big and tough and has ideas of his twain clash in the main bout tonight.

Baron Gattoni, presumably an Italiano, and Jack Pesek also will make their Belleville debut in the semi-finals while Familier Flanagan pops up with that old roughie Lee (The Leer) Henning in the opener.

Manager Turk Barclay has Doug Bone, Paul Payette, Floyd Crawford, Gordie Bell, among others, loosened up . . . Jean Paul says "I do" to pretty Phyllis Favreau early tomorrow and the couple will honeymoon in Montreal . . . Bill Spafford is also jumping off the deep end sometime this summer . . . Perverse Perverse will be heard cheering the Beaconi on to brilliance this season . . . Gerry Goyer is in town and has finished his stint of Junior "A" hockey with the Guelph Biltmores . . . He is the property of Montreal Canadiens and will likely report to their training camp come fall. His hockey future is in the Habs hands. He'll play softball with the Beacons this summer . . . Bobby Hull is also home from the Junior wars after a successful season with the St. Catherines Teepees. Bobby was one of the Teeps shining lights in the playoff series. He will do his softballing with the Point Anne Cementmen . . . Tis rumored the Point Anne pitcher Clarke Seal has fallen through. The negro hurler will do his chucking with a Toronto club. That means Ole Rubber Arm, Pat Marcele, will again be the Pointers mound mainstay . . . Whip Senators for 10th Win As Bombers Cage Tigers 7-4; Robin Has 3-Hitter, Whiffs 13

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don't hang the crepe out yet for Robin Roberts. He's the healthiest looing "washed up" pitcher you ever saw.k

The big Philadelphia righthander scolchhed talk that he is through as a top flight hurler with a brilliant 13-strikeout performance Thursday night as the Phillies defeated Chicago Cubs 4-2.

Roberts gave up only three hits and may have had the first no-hitter of his career but for a trade engineered by the Cubs the day before. The three Chicago hits were made by Dale Long and Lee Walls, whom Chicago acquired from Pittsburgh in the deal for Gene Baker and Dee Fondy. Long smashed a home run and single while Walls hit a three bagger.

LIVE FAST BALL

Displaying a real live fast ball for the first time this season, Roberts rolled up the highest strikeout total of his nine-year major league career in winning his first game after three losses. He walked one and faced only 31 batters, three over the minimum.

Milwaukee Braves, the National League pace - setters, continued their winning ways as the Braves won their 11th game in 13 starts, defeating Pittsburgh 8-5 on Del Crandall's three-run outburst in the 10th The triumph coupled with St. Louis' belaboring 3-2 triumph over Brooklyn, increased the Braves' league lead over the Cards to three games. Cincinnati moved into fourth place, one game behind the Cardinals, with a 7-7 victory over New York Giants.

10-HIT ATTACK

The Braves pounded three Pittsburgh pitchers for 18 hits but it took an error by third baseman Baer in the 10th to set up Kiebit winning tallies. After Kiebit had led Del Crandall's grounder, Dick Cole sacrificed and Danny O'Connell broke the 5-5 tie with a single. Henry Aaron followed with his fifth hit, scoring O'Connell and crossed the plate later on an error and an infield out.

Lew Burdette, who won his third game against one defeat, had victory in his grasp in regulation time, but a three run homer by pinch hitter John Powers in the ninth forced the game into extra innings.

FANNED 13 DODGERS

Don Blasingame's fourth hit, a single with two out in the top of the 16th, scored Eddie Miksis with the second run and gave the Cardinals their 4-hour, 53-minute decision over the Dodgers. Miksis opened the inning by beating out a scratch single against loser Don Bessent and had advanced on a sacrifice. Larry Jackson, relieving starter Glen Wilmerlot, who had fanned 13 Dodgers in the first 12 innings, was credited with his sixth and overtime victory in three nights.

Cincinnati's Don Hoak rapped four hits, including a home run, and drove in five runs to lead the Redlegs' 14-hit attack against five Giant pitchers. The third baseman's last hit, a single with the bases full in the ninth, snapped the Giants' four-game winning streak at 7-7 deadlock. Exactly a year ago to the day—May 2, 1956, Hoak tied a major league record with six strikeouts. That was against the Giants, too. The Giants lost despite executing six double plays, which tied the league record.

Ed. Bouchee, rookie first baseman, climaxed Philadelphia's winning three-run rally in the sixth inning with a bases-loaded double. It was the third straight defeat for Cub freshman righthander Dick Drott.

ALDERSHOT BLANKED

LONDON (Reuters) — Newport County defeated Aldershot 3-0 in an English League Third Division South soccer game at Newport Thursday night.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tony Kubek was tabbed by many baseball pundits as the hottest rookie prospect in the major leagues while the teams were in spring training.

Kubek is not letting the experts down.

Wednesday he hit his first major league homer, added two singles and scored twice as New York Yankees beat Detroit Tigers 7-4.

Then, as if to prove he was more than a one-day wonder, he ignited a Yankee rally against Kansas City Thursday as he hit a triple and scored what turned out to be the winning run as the Yanks edged the Athletics 3-1.

SOX WIN AGAIN

Meanwhile Chicago White Sox held a 2½-game edge over the Yanks as they downed Washington 6-1 for their 10th win in 12 starts.

In the only other American League game, Boston Red Sox dropped into third place when game behind New York as they lost 7-5 to Detroit.

After Kubek's third inning triple Mickey Mantle walked and then stole second. Yogi Berra brought Kubek home with a sacrifice fly and Bill Skowron drove in Mantle with a single.

Tom Sturdivant, with a seventh-inning relief triumph, and righthander Rivey Duren was charged with the loss.

Pinch hitter Wally Dropo hit a grand slam home run to pace the White Sox to victory. Dropo's blow in the sixth broke up a duel between Chuck Stobbs and Dick Donovan who had finally notched his first victory in three starts with a five-hitter.

Roy Sievers's homer, his fifth of the season, scored Senators' only run.

Rookie righthander Don Lee registered his first major league triumph when the Tigers scored five runs in the fourth inning against Boston's Tom Brewer on just two hits. The son of former major league pitcher Thornton Lee less than a year off the University of Arizona campus, yielded four runs and eight hits before he was lifted in the eighth when the Sox threatened. Charley Maxwell's three-run homer was the key blow.

Gene Stephens, who lived in a left field wide for Williams, was bedded with a cold, rapped three of Boston's hits and drove in three runs.

Robinson Gets $200,000 Offer From Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lawyer Samuel Rose, a Philadelphia city councilman, said Thursday he has a weekend appointment to offer Sugar Ray Robinson a guarantee of $200,000 to defend his middleweight championship against welterweight champion Carmen Basilio in Philadelphia sometime in June or July.

Rose, whose only previous connection with boxing was a black eye he received as an amateur, says he will meet in New York with Robinson and one of the champion's managers, George Gainford to discuss the proposition. He says Gainford already has expressed interest in the Philadelphia deal.

Odds Go up on Derby Horses Juleps Show Downward Trend

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—This Ohio River City, steeped in the lore of the thoroughbred, went on its annual pre-Kentucky Derby binge today with one ear tuned toward Churchill Downs where 10 finely tuned three-year-old horses awaited the call to boots and saddles.

Nine of the 10 were as ready as man could make them for the 1¼-mile race starting at 5:30 p.m. EDT Saturday before some 100,000 fans and a television audience.

But the other, Calumet Farm's graceful Iron Duke, was the talk of the town.

Will Gen. Duke start against the greatest field ever to contest this race? Not even trainer Jimmy Jones could give the answer.

HAS BRUISED FOOT

"We may not know until an hour before post time," said Jones of his colt who was sidelined with a bruised left front foot Tuesday after finishing second to Clem Lussky's Federal Hill in the Derby Trial.

He would say that he has something less than a 50-50 chance o starting," Jones added.

Absence of the General from the classic would tend to take the edge off the intense rivalry with Wheatley Stable's long striding Bold Ruler.

The two met four times in Florida and each won twice. Between them they have figured in four of the world and track records either beaten or tied by a horse in the field.

With Gen. -Duke a doubtful starter, Bold Ruler has been made the 8-to-5 choice to win the second richest Derby. Based on 10 starters, the race will have a gross value of $125,300 with a net of $109,300 going to the winner. Only last year's renewal, won by Needles, ran richer.

AFTER SIXTH WIN

Ruler, will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, after his sixth Derby win.

With or without Gen. Duke, it wouldn't be surprising to see the winner go under the record of 2:01 2-5 hung up by Whirlaway in 1941.

Federal Hill is rated the No. 1 speed horse of the field. But Round Table, Iron Liege and even Bold Ruler are capable of taking command early in the race, should their jockeys so desire.

Buddy Carter said he'll equip John Applebaum's Toronto-owned Mister Jive with a special ring bit in order to help jockey Hedley Woodhouse keep the colt from running with the early pace.

Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man is considered the best come-from-behind performer. He'll be ridden by Willie Shoemaker.

The prospect is for partly cloudy skies and a fast track. But should it come up rain and mud, look out for Federal Hill. He revels in it.

'The Lip' Loosens, Reminisces Of Good Old Baseball Days

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Leo Durocher chain-smoked cigarets and sipped non - alcoholic beverages in his hotel suite, spinning yarns of his major league baseball days with all the charm and poise of a regular fellow.

The Lip was so affable, in fact, that somebody wondered aloud why he popped off with that now-famous "nice guys finish last" quote of his a few years ago. To hear him tell of his days with the St. Louis gashouse gang, the daffy Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants, you would think he was a sadly misunderstood fellow.

"Say, I'm glad you brought that matter up," said the natilly - dressed Durocher, now in a cushy $32,000-a-year job with the National Broadcasting Company.

WRONG INFERENCE

"I wasn't misquoted," he said. "It was misinterpreted."

It happened this way. I was managing Brooklyn and this day was to be my first game at the Giants. We were having batting practice and Freddie Stanky was on first. There was a cut at a few. Some of the newspaper boys were sitting on the bench with me and one asked what I thought of Stanky.

"I said: 'The guy can't field and he can't hit, but he's one helluva ball player. He's always figuring ways to clobber the other guys. He'll fight you down to the ground to beat you. He's my kind of guy.'

"Just then the Giants are coming out of their dugout and I say: 'Take a look at the guy (Mel) Ott, for instance. He's one of the nicest guys in baseball. And look at those guys he's got playing for him. They're making $40,000 and $50,000 a year, but they don't give a thought about Mel.'

"I didn't mean they weren't nice guys. I just meant that they weren't my kind of players—the kind of a team I would lose a game and take it real bad. They didn't have the desire, the fight, that's all.

"The sports writers wrote it that way, just as I said it. But you know how these things happen. The story was misinterpreted, that's all. No sir, I wasn't misquoted."

SAYS MAYS TOPS

Durocher, who gave up baseball in 1955, still believes that Willie Mays, New York Giant centre-fielder, is the best player he has ever seen.

"I kept hearing about this fellow Willie Mays," he said. "It was while I was managing the Giants and Minneapolis was our farm club. I had a big hankering to take a look. Mr. Stoneham (Horace Stoneham, owner of the

"I see you've been playing doubles, dear!"

Giants) and others kept telling me he isn't ready.

"So, one day, in spring training, I'm told that Minneapolis is going to play Ottawa (formerly of the international league) at 9:30 the next morning. Willie's first time up he strikes out. The next time he triples and in the meantime he has thrown those big-high balls that get guys out at the plate and third base. Next time up, he hits a homer. He's my boy.

"The season starts and I still don't get him. We win and opener and lose 11 straight. Willie is hitting .477 for Minneapolis, but I'm told he's still not ready.

"Well, eventually, I get him, so what does he do? He doesn't get a hit the first 22 or 24 times he's up. One day he's sobbing in the clubhouse so I go up to him and tell him he's my centre - fielder tomorrow, next week, next month as long as I'm in the Polo Grounds.

"The next day against Boston Braves he hits a homer first time up and he's in. I found the best way to treat Willie is to play him up."

Durocher was in Toronto as guest speaker for the annual meet-the-ball-club dinner prior to opening of the International League.

Manager Tabs Catcher $200 for Insubordination

CHICAGO (AP)—Catcher Clint Courtney has been fined $200 for insubordination by manager Chuck Dressen of Washington Senators, it was disclosed Thursday.

The fine came as an aftermath of a verbal exchange between Dressen and Courtney in the dugout during Wednesday's game at Cleveland.

Courtney, it was reported, had been steamed up for not being allowed to catch regularly. He was used as a pinch hitter in the Cleveland game and went in to catch in the 7th inning. He had to leave when a foul tip split his finger.

Back in the dugout, it was reported, Courtney would not allow the trainer to look at the injury and exchanged some words indicating that it didn't matter anyway if he were hurt because he never got a chance to catch regularly.

Courtney and Dressen got in a heated exchange, reports said, and the $200 fine followed.

Surkont Goes To Minneapolis

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants today announced the outright release of veteran right-hander Max Surkont to their Minneapolis farm club of the American Association.

The 35-year-old veteran of eight years service in both majors, was purchased from San Francisco last Aug. 20 and appeared in eight games, winning two and losing two.

This season, used exclusively in relief, he hurled three scoreless innings against Brooklyn but was hit hard in his next two appearances.

Sugar Robinson in No Hurry For Big Payday With Basilio

CHICAGO (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson is sitting on top of the world again, but he doesn't want to be rushed into a potential $1,000,000-match with welterweight champion Carmen Basilio after his stunning knockout of Gene Fullmer.

The re-crowned middleweight champion and his numerous handlers presided at a press conference Thursday in his hotel room.

Earlier surmisal that Robinson and Basilio would meet in a mid-July bout, possibly at Yankee Stadium, got a dash of cold water from Robinson.

"It's no good in July," said Robinson, without conceding he was anxious to make this big money bout. "Everybody is out of town. You draw better in September."

That there will be prolonged wrangling over terms is obvious.

HOLDS "ROYAL FLUSH"

Said Joe Glaser, Robinson's "financial" manager: "Basilio must be made to realize that Robinson is holding a royal flush."

George Gainford said Sugar Ray's just plain "adviser," pointed at Robinson and said "this is the world's greatest attraction in boxing."

Robinson plans a party in Harlem tonight to celebrate what he says is his 36th birthday, but which the record book says is his 37th.

"We'll take nothing worse than a 50-30 percentage split right down the middle," chorused Johnny De John and Joe Mirco, co-managers of Basilio.

"My fellow is the champion, too," said Netro.

BIG MONEY BOUT

About a Robinson-Basilio bout, International Boxing Club president Jim Norris said: "It should be the biggest money fight in many years outside Rocky Marciano's fight with Archie Moore. It could equal or even exceed the Robinson-Randy Turpin rematch in 1951 that drew $767,000."

Fullmer never knew what hit him Wednesday night. While a crowd of 14,757 that paid $158,643 roared, he grovelled on the canvas trying desperately to beat the count of referee Frank Sikora.

Ring history was set as Robinson won the middleweight title for the fourth time. He has dethroned Jake Lamotta, Randy Turpin, Bobo Olson and now Fullmer.

Britain Looks For Better Cricket Season

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—With a revised set of rules, an attractive visiting side and promises of good weather, a new county cricket season gets under way Saturday. Almost everyone agrees that it's bound to be a better year than 1956.

Although last year's consistently appalling weather may well have been the chief cause of a drastic drop in attendance at county championship matches, there were also some complaints that the dullness of the cricket was largely at fault. It was alleged that county captains had become excessively defence-minded.

The Marylebone Cricket Club, the game's governing body, has changed the rules to make things more difficult for the bowler. Boundaries have been shortened and there are new restrictions on where he may place his fielders.

POINT-BONUS

Another new rule gives a point-bonus to the side scoring its runs more quickly in the first innings—the object being to cut down the number of draws and force more matches to a decision.

Pre-season speculation viewed the new rules as having little effect on the counties that topped last year's 17-team table. Second-place Lancashire already has a reputation as a strong batting side while Surrey, with the greatest bowling lineup in English cricket, remains the favorite to win its sixth straight title.

Surrey's bowling is headlined by the fabulous Jim Laker, who took 19 Australian wickets in a single test last summer. Working with Laker are Peter Loader, Tony Lock, and Alec and Eric Bedser.

Lancashire, beaten only twice last year, and Yorkshire, despite its disappointing seventh-place finish in 1956, are Surrey's most strongly fancied challengers.

Huge Pike Wins Biggest Fish Award

NEW YORK (CP)—A 32¼-pound northern pike from Flint Lake in Northwestern Ontario was the biggest recorded fish to be captured on spinning tackle in Canada last year.

Field and Stream Magazine listed it among the awards in the spinning division, released Thursday by the authoritative fishing and hunting publication as part of the third and last instalment of results in its annual fishing competition.

The beauty was nailed on a Heddon tadpolly spook lure by Sam Vinikour of Tavernier, Fla. Flint Lake is just north of a wilderness stretch of Highway 11 about 50 miles east of Geraldton.

Other Canadian winners included:

Brook trout: Russ Hosmer of Pontiac, Mich., nine pounds, 3½ ounces at Chimbner Lodge, on an Ziginger dardevle.

Eastern rainbow trout: Earl J. Klein of Toronto, 10 pounds, two ounces at Stayner, on a half wave.

Freshman Tops Royals Hitting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's no family relationship, but the name's the same. Montreal's Bill Lajoie is making like famous oldtimer Nap Lajoie—leading the International League with a .429 batting average.

Nap Lajoie, a hall of famer, played 21 years in the majors early in the century with Cleveland and Philadelphia Athletics and holds a lifetime batting average of .339.

Bill Lajoie, playing his freshman year at Montreal, has gotten 18 hits in 41 at bats to take a .39 point lead over Richmond's John Jacklo, who holds second place at .409.

Lajoie, who was signed by Baltimore Orioles in 1955 while at Western Michigan College, has made a quick rise to Triple A ball in just two years. At that rate he may go on to the majors in short order.

There were no league games Thursday night.

Sarni Likes His Baseball

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bill Sarni admits he has two strikes on him but he refuses to call himself out of baseball.

The New York Giant catcher, stricken with a heart attack the first day of spring training, is taking the doctors' word that his playing days are over and has begun to think about another job around the ball park.

"Maybe I can't catch anymore" he said Thursday, "but I feel there still is something I can do in baseball."

Sarni, 29, is taking it all philosophically at his suburban home here where he is recuperating. He hopes he can rejoin the Giants as a coach in July or August.

He needs one more season to qualify for the five-year player pension fund and Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, put him on the payroll as a coach after his heart attack to make him eligible for it.

Machen Favored Over Joey Maxim

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A change of pace in sports—at least for this Derby town—takes place tonight when young Eddie Machen takes on aging Joey Maxim in a nationally televised heavyweight fight.

The 10-round match, first to be held on Derby Eve since 1940, isn't expected, however, to draw many of the thousands here for the Kentucky Derby away from their favorite topic.

Machen, an undefeated 24-year-old, is a 3-to-1 choice to stop the comeback try of Maxim. A slugger he enters the ring with 20 straight victories, 14 by knockouts.

Maxim, who's listed as 35, is a former light heavyweight champion. He was virtually idle for two years after losing the light-heavy title.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Even the experts must realize there are 12 aces and 12 kings and 12 queens in a pack. Whichever of these high cards are not in the two hands of a bidding pair will be found in the opponent pair.

There is a tendency to overlook or forget this by players who give jacks a count to determine no-trump bids. You find it in each no-trump contract they struggle with.

Here is world championship deal number 6071:

	NORTH
	♠K 10
	♥K 8
	♦K 9 7	10 9 5 3
	♣A K 2
WEST		EAST
♠5 4 3		♠A Q 9 8 6 2
♥Q 9 6 3 2		♥10 7
♦8 6 4		♦A Q 2
♣Q 9		♣10 7 4
	SOUTH
	♠J 9 7
	♥A J 5 4
	♦J 7
	♣J 10 7 6 3

The bidding in room one went like this:

South	North
Pass	1 NT
2 NT	3 NT

The bidding in room two went like this:

South	North
Pass	1 NT
2 C	2 NT
3 NT	Pass

Thus did each room land in three no-trump. They found themselves needing nine tricks after spotting their opponents half of the 12 high cards. No wonder each room went down two tricks.

Playing who get their neck bowed in no-trump seem to ignore the safer suit bids. Neither room made an attempt to show the diamonds in north. And room two north ignored the south hint of clubs.

South has a biddable club suit and has adequate support for it. So, the correct contract should be in clubs, with playing tricks enough in the pair to reach three clubs. This can make.

Why do such players gamble with no-trump bids? When they attain master ratings they believe it is due to their own brilliance. So, they like to deny that bridge is a science.

Old Woodbine Opens Saturday

TORONTO (CP) — The second phase of the Canadian thoroughbred horse racing season begins Monday with the opening of Old Woodbine in Toronto. It is the only three-quarter-mile track left in Canada.

Old Woodbine has been the most famous name in Canadian racing for 75 years. The one-mile track nestling beneath the stately elms on the shores of Lake Ontario, was regarded as the show-case for the thoroughbred sport until the Ontario Jockey Club built the $13,000,000 New Woodbine on the western outskirts of Toronto last year.

Immediately New Woodbine was opened, directors of the OJC began an extensive reconstruction program at Old Woodbine. The one-mile racing strip was relocated and reduced to six furlongs.

Before the 1958 season the track will undergo a big face-lifting. A combined double - decked grand stand and club house will be built to replace the present stands and clubhouse which seat more than 10,000.

Old Woodbine will have two thoroughbred meetings this year. The first continues through Saturday, June 1. A second meeting of 24 racing days will open Monday, Sept. 2. A 30-day harness racing meeting will open July 15.

Hartney, which holds the Canadian record for seven furlongs, scored his first win of the year as he beat Glyndorrissey by one length in the featured race. He handled the journey in one and ran the six furlongs in 1.11 2-5.

JAVELIN STYLE BANNED

NEW YORK (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union has banned the so-called "modified Spanish style" javelin throw, originated by Miguel Salcedo of the University of Puerto Rico, until a final decision on its legality is reached. The problem is being taken up by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which barred the original "Spanish style" just before the 1956 Olympics.

Rip Cord Could Change Name To Tide, Van Winkle, Snorter

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The vastly independent Ella Kazan must make another film for a major studio before continuing with his own company.

The director has one more picture to make under an old contract he has with Century-Fox. Now called Mud on the Stars, it will get another title. Kazan, who will do the picture this year, says he has no plans for his next project as an independent.

Kazan, who has a film contract with Rip Torn, entered the controversy over the latter's casting. "Hasn't he changed it yet?" the director snapped. "It's got to go. Rip Torn sounds like Marlon Brando's tattered T-shirt. It's a name that has outlandish names for leading men."

The caffeine spree suggests that Rip change his last name to Tide or Cord or his first name to Snorter. Classy, wise guys, I still think he ought to keep Rip Torn.

Thought while listening to Dorothy Kirsten's singing at the Jack Benay concert: Why does opera have to be sung in its original tongue? Seems to me opera fans would double or triple if folks could understand what the artists were singing about.

Oscar Hammerstein II proved Nelson Carmen Jones that a good librettist could translate an opera into the American idiom without losing musical values. You say it's illogical for foreign operas to be sung in English? Why could be more illogical than a Japanese girl (Madame Butterfly) singing to an American navy man in Italian?

If there had been any doubts about Marilyn Monroe's ability as an actress, they are dispelled with her latest film, The Prince and the Showgirl. All the trouble laurence Olivier had with her on the picture—and there was reported to be considerable—appears to be worth it.

Like Jean Harlow before her, MM has made the transition from sex queen to comedienne of top ability. . . .

AT THE BELLE — Debra Paget is co-starred with Anthony Quinn, Academy Award winner and Ray Milland in the Twentieth Century-Fox romantic adventure drama "The River's Edge", in color and CinemaScope, playing tonight and Saturday at the Belle Theatre.

TV—Radio Column

You Saw It on Video Before Now You Can See It Again

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Now approaches summer, the season when television viewers move into a world crowded with reruns and repeats.

By casual count—it has to be casual, for the plans of two of the three major American networks are still in a state of mind-changing—at least 33 popular shows from Sir Lancelot to Sergeant Preston, from Rin-Tin-Tin to the Mickey Mouse Club, from This Is Your Life to You Bet Your Life, will serve up repetition of the past season's programs as entertainment.

Those who feel strongly that there is enough must rely on a score or so of the stalwarts to provide relief from the heat. These include the three top big-money quiz shows, a continuation of the Sullivan-Godfrey casting war, Meet The Press, I've Got A Secret, To Tell The Truth, What's My Line and Talent Scouts.

PLAYS CONTINUE

For theatre-type entertainment there remains Studio One, NBC's Sunday night hour-long drama and 60-minute shows Saturday night on both NBC and CBS.

Replacements for shows disappearing for the season are not always less than stimulating. That mysterious perennial pantomime quiz (where does it winter?) pops up to give Person to Person a summer vacation. Those Whiting girls come into I Love Lucy's popular spot; Julius Caesar Ross takes over for Jerry Como and Vic Damone slips into Godfrey's Wednesday night niche.

Into Jack Benny's time come reruns of the My Favorite Husband series. Just about the only thing really new will be Richard Diamond, Private Detective, replacing December Bride.

Replacements here must be two schools of thought about summer television. Ed Sullivan, for one, has been running a successful highly-rated show for years. And now, 10 pounds with the loss of the Steve Allen show feel it unwise to give their hard-core viewers an opportunity to switch allegiance.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Every day need not be a highly successful one. Many periods are for thinking, planning, calculating, and today could be one of these—to your advantage.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Bright, enthusiastic Leoites are now under fine Sun, Moon, Venus and Mercury rays. In your desire for attainment remember the service you can do aloft the way for others not as gifted.

August 24 to September 22 (Virgo) — Notes to Gemini could be helpful to you now. Sound planning and forethought could very well turn unpromising conditions into really productive situations. TRY!

September 24 to October 22 (Libra) — There's no need to fret or worry. Things generally take on a glowing hue or become drab as YOU direct. You alone can often change a mediocre period into one of brilliance. Care, forethought urged.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A hint is all you need to make the most of opportunities, prospects. Well, today is rich in the things you need to advance; bright ideas, promotion, fresh knowledge.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Remain your dependable, trustworthy self; you have a big job to handle and the odds are in your favor. Don't hesitate to ask help if needed. You can move than just succeed.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Big returns can be had for all well-managed activities. Don't remain in the background and don't be perverse. So much can be attained now; don't fail to get your share.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — You can make things very attractive now with your cleverness and your gift for building projects, even small affairs, into bigger and better ones. Many fresh advantages.

You born today are practical-minded but also artistic and skillful; can improve upon, add artistry to anything you undertake. You thoroughly study and decide how to handle a project before going into action. If living true to your finer qualities, you are dependable, trustworthy, capable of high achievement; have inborn knowledge of people and their ways. Don't be easily fooled through sympathy; you cannot be cajoled by flattery. Control any desire for luxury beyond what is good for you and yours. Avoid worry. Birthate: Horace Mann, American educator; Thos. H. Huxley, English scientist.

TRAIN ROPED TOGETHER

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — A piece of rope literally held together a three-car New Haven Railroad train Wednesday as it limped from Providence to New London, Conn., 55 minutes late. A broen power cable between the second and third cars disabled the train. Fireman Russell R. Hanson rode between the cars holding the ends of the cable together for several miles but in East Greenwich some heavy cord was obtained and the cable was tied together until the train reached New London.

Friendly Forger Will Pay Back Loyal Victims

MONTREAL (CP) — Faith in Montreal's friendly forger paid off today when the charming, middle-aged man announced he would pay back the $1,009 he has bilked from loyal victims.

Normal pressed charges, although he always informed them and the police he was available.

The man, who was not identified, said in a newspaper interview today he started passing bad cheques after repeatedly wrangling with his boss made him walk off his job.

SO LONG,JAE FRAUSTRATED

Since then he has found another well-paying job and is no longer "frustrated and angry," he said.

In between jobs, he cashed about a dozen worthless cheques averaging $80 each, getting the money from stores and dealers who knew him well.

After each one, he would telephone the victim, apologize and offer to sign papers acknowledging the fraud so the victim's books would be in order.

VICTIMS HAD FAITH

His victims all considered him too likeable to be jailed and had faith he would straighten out sooner or later.

The worst thing about passing bum cheques, he said, is that it's so easy.

"You start 'passing them because you're depressed about something and when your conscience starts to bother you about treating your friends that way, you take a couple of slugs of liquor and try to get mad enough to keep it up.

"NASTY MEMORIES"

"But of course it just doesn't work. You realize you shouldn't do it and that you can't do it."

He said he is still willing to face charges if someone wants more than just repayment.

"Luckily, it looks as if I might get away with just a collection of rather nasty memories."

SKELTON IN HOSPITAL

SANTA MONICA Calif. (AP)—Comedian Red Skelton has been admitted to hospital with what his physician calls an "uncomplicated virus infection superimposed on fatigue." Skelton cancelled his live television show Tuesday night because of the virus and entered the hospital Wednesday. He should be ready to go back to work before next week's show, his doctor said.

NEW POST FOR SOLANDT

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. O. M. Solandt, 48, former chairman of the national defence board, has been appointed CNR vice-president of research and development, succeeding Starr W. Fairweather who has retired.

STORMY CAREER

A naval hospital statement Thursday night said McCarthy had been ill at home for several weeks before he was admitted last Sunday.

McCarthy, sinking rapidly, was given the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church an hour before his death at 6:02 p.m. EDT.

Mrs. McCarthy was at his bedside when he died. The senator also leaves a son and daughter adopted early this year.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Wisconsin state law does not permit the governor to name a successor to fill out the remaining 20 months of McCarthy's term. Thus a special, or by-election, contest is probable.

WISCONSIN NATIVE

McCarthy, one of seven children, was born in Grande Chute, Wis., Nov. 14, 1908. Soon after finishing law school at Marquette University he made his first try for public office—as a Democrat. He ran in 1936 for district attorney of Shawano County, and lost.

Three years later he won election as a circuit judge, running as a non-partisan. In 1941 the Wisconsin Supreme Court criticized him for what it called "abuse of judicial power" in ordering destruction of part of the record in a marketing case.

In the Second World War McCarthy entered the U.S. Marine Corps with a commission, serving in the Pacific. He left the service before the war ended to resume his political career.

After an unsuccessful try at unseating Senator Alexander Wiley in 1944, McCarthy was elected to the Senate in 1946.

HOW IT STARTED

On Feb. 9, 1950, he said during a speech in Wheeling, W. Va., that he held in his hand the names of card-carrying Communists in the state department. That put him into the spotlight, and he became the Senate's leading Red-hunter—and the target for many charges.

In the Senate, the reaction was uniformly one of regret at McCarthy's passing.

Senator Karl Mundt (Rep. S.D.), who succeeded to the late McCarthy hearings, said McCarthy's Red-hunting was part of the American political arena a courageous fighter against communism and a stalwart advocate of "our traditional American concepts."

PLANE EXPLODES

PITTSBURG, Tex. (AP)—Three of four airmen aboard a B-54 bomber parachuted to safety after the plane exploded in the air and crashed in an open field near here Wednesday night. The explosion was seen 200 miles away. The fourth airman also was believed to have bailed out before the plane crashed. It missed smashing into a farm house by about 100 yards.

Sunday School Lesson

Our God Does Not Give Up

By ROY L. SMITH

There is something very modern in the ancient story of Noah. As the author looked out over the earth and viewed the life about him, he decided that man represented a hopeless case.

The spirit of evil was in him from his youth. This was another way of saying that he was defective from the beginning. And then the author leaped to the conclusion that the only hope of any remedy lay in choosing the most righteous man from among all mankind, destroying the rest, and beginning again.

SAVE GOOD FROM BAD

There was a social theory almost universally accepted in England about the time of the American Revolution, which said that the one hope of lifting the level of life lay in draining off the undesirable elements of society leaving the good and the righteous in possession of the field.

Pursuant of this theory, thousands of lawbreakers and other prisoners were exported to America. It was assumed that those left behind would prosper in their kind, and in time the English would be the superior race of all the earth.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 5 "GOD'S PLAN AND MAN'S RESPONSE." Genesis 1:27-28; 3 through 9.

Then came the American Revolution and the gates to the colonies were closed. Thereupon the English turned their attention to Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand, and bezan shipping their prison population to those far off lands.

Within the space of a few decades, however, the clearest English thinkers began to raise serious questions concerning their theory, for both in America and in Australia a very excellent manner of life was appearing. There are those historians who declare that the general level of art, culture, and education in the two lands was as high in 1825 as it was in England itself.

Then someone came to a magnificent conclusion. "There is something intrinsically good, even in bad men," they began to say. Evil men could be redeemed, because there was something essentially good in every man if it could be brought to the surface, and put in control.

NOT ENTIRELY BAD

It is easy enough to paint a dark picture of today's world and this present-day race of mankind. The pessimists, cynics, and apostles of despair find the current scene exactly to their liking.

No honest thinker can afford to be blind to the evils that are rampant in this world. Slave-labor camps, refugees, a world cursed by militarism and impoverished by the costs of war — all this makes a sorry picture. But such a picture is not complete.

There are other details in the picture that are highly deserving of attention and approval. In all the lands of Asia, for example, new universities are springing up like blossoms in the desert in springtime. Hundreds of new hospitals are being built in areas where there has never been anything resembling scientific care of the sick. Lands that have wallowed in ignorance for hundreds of years are adopting laws making school attendance compulsory.

Never within the range of recorded history have as many millions of people found new opportunities being opened to them as is true today.

The race is pretty bad, but it is not all bad by any means.

The great message of good religion to the world of today is one of hope. Our God does not give up easily!

Like a father who goes on believing in an obstinate and foolish son, in spite of his stupidities, God goes on believing in the race. "He'll come out all right some day," said the father who would not give up his son. "He has good stuff in him."

"I cannot give up such a race," how much good material I put into God seems to be saying. "I know man."

Tags Discarded, Parents Cannot Distinguish Twins

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) Jane and Joan Furton, a couple of mixed - up identical twins, celebrated their first birthday today amid some confusion.

They slipped off their wooden identification tags and their parents can't tell them apart.

"One is Jane and one is Joan but I can't tell which one is which," said their mother, Mrs. Athlone Furton, 36.

"The twins' father, Clayton, 44, is in the dark. So are the daughters' nine brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Furton said her only hope is the hospital where the twins were born. "Maybe they have fingerprint or some other records," she said.

Hundreds View McCarthy Body In Funeral Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 500 persons filed through a funeral home here Friday night to view the body of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy.

A folded American flag lay on a pew at the foot of the casket, which was flanked by two marines.

Some wept as they viewed the body of the controversial Wisconsin Republican who died Thursday of a liver ailment.

McCarthy's body will lie in state at the funeral home through Sunday. After a service in the Senate chamber Monday at 11 a.m. EDT the remains will be flown to Appleton, Wis., for services and burial Tuesday.

Preceding the Senate service, a high mass will be celebrated at St. Matthew's Cathedral at 9 a.m. Monday.

FOUNDLINGS BENEFIT

Mrs. McCarthy has asked that, in lieu of flowers, contributions be sent to the New York foundling home. She was from this home that Mrs. McCarthy's adopted a little girl in January.

John J. Hopkins Dies of Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Jay Hopkins, described as "one of the great builders" in American industry, died Friday night of cancer. He was 63.

Hopkins was chairman of the board of General Dynamics Corp., one of the country's largest industrial complexes, which last year had net sales of more than $1,000,000,000.

"You low-grade idiot," snarled the wife at the gawk of a long fuse. "I'm sick to death of you. I'm going to get a divorce!"

"You're just saying that," replied the husband, "to make me feel good."

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—One of four men contaminated when two radioactive pellets disintegrated in a Houston laboratory says friends no longer visit his family and that his five-year-old son has no playmates.

"It has gotten so no one will come and visit us," said Harold Northway, 31, former technician manager at the plant of the M. W. Kellogg Company, a general construction firm.

Northway also said Friday he and two of the three other employees involved were discharged after the March 13 accident. He said he fears he may have trouble selling his home if he leaves Houston "because no one is midious to purchase a house which might have traces of radioactivity."

DENIES FIRING

Willard Converse, manager of Kellogg's nuclear division, denied that Northway, Jerry Yoder Jr., and Jack Hawkins had been fired.

Converse said Yoder, Hawkins and the fourth man contaminated, Jackson McVey, were told their jobs were being terminated because the company intended to close its Houston laboratory for economic reasons. He said they were told other jobs might be found in other parts of the company.

"We had just moved into a new home," Mrs. McVey said. "They found radioactivity there. I lost all of my linens and all of my clothes. They had been wrapped in a bag and are going to be shipped away to be burned."

A medical expert on radiation says he does not think any of four men will suffer ill effects.

The expert, who would not allow his name to be used, said: "The magnitude of the danger depends on the amount of radioactive material involved, the exposure time and the distance from the source of radiation.

"One might be exposed to a great deal of radiation for a very short time without any danger. If there were no immediate effects from a short-term exposure, any long-term effects would be very unlikely."

One Dead, 9 Hurt After Car Crash

HAMILTON (CP)—One woman was killed and nine persons were injured in a two-car crash near Freelton early today.

Police said the injured people were taken from their cars after the impact threw the auto doors open.

Miss Lillian Routledge, 50, of Galt was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital here. She was thrown from a car and crushed beneath the vehicle as it rolled on top of her.

She was riding in a car driven by Rev. Soren Frederiksen, 34, of Ancaster, who collided with a car driven by William Westoby, 38, of suburban Dundas.

Council to Renew Efforts To Have Causeway Constructed

Hastings county council will renew its efforts to have the proposed Deseronto - Prince Edward causeway constructed.

A motion to this effect was passed by the county body Friday morning during the closing minutes of the annual spring session. The recommendation, tabled by Deputy Reeve Ross Long of Tyendinaga, was supported unanimously by county councillors.

In presenting the motion for a special effort to be made to get the causeway constructed Deputy Reeve Long said that construction of the new cement plant on the high shore road in Prince Edward made the causeway more important than ever.

He said construction workers at the plant only lived in Hastings were forced to pay ferry charges at Deseronto twice daily. Also heavy trucks could not use the causeway. It was necessary to proceed either around by Belleville or the Glenora ferry.

Ferry charges for transportation of canning factory products to Deseronto amounted to considerable, it was stated by Deseronto Reeve D. Waddy.

Reeve Tracey Adams, last year's county roads and bridges committee chairman, said he was not in sight of the proposed project. The provincial government had agreed to pay 80 per cent of the cost while the Federal government would enter the picture in the cost of the bridge span over the ship channel.

He said the big holdup was the number of acres of channels to be left in the causeway to take care of currents in the bay of Quinte.

ATLANTIC PACT BASES DEFENCE ON ATOM BOMBS

Will Meet Aggression With Nuclear Weapons

BONN (AP)—The Atlantic allies' declaration that they will meet any aggression with nuclear-backed might is expected to bring new onslaughts from Russia and from its political opponents.

The NATO stand was reaffirmed Friday night in a communique which served notice that pact members stand ready to use "all available means"—including their devastating nuclear weapons against any aggressor. The statement came at the end of a two-day session of foreign ministers of the 15-nation alliance.

In a clear-cut answer to the Kremlin's recent threats against the atomic armed forces of West Germany, Scandinavia, West Germany, Greece and Turkey, the communique said:

"Pending an acceptable agreement on disarmament, no power can claim the right to deny to the free nations the possession of modern arms needed for its defence."

If Russia really fears Western defence preparations, the communique said, it need only "accept the open and constructive approach embodying effective measures of control and inspection within the framework of the proposals made on numerous occasions by the Western powers."

Touching on the explosive German question, the declaration said "normalized division of Germany and the anamalous situation of Berlin" constitutes a continuing threat to world peace. It called for early reunification of the former Reich.

The NATO council delayed a decision on the balance of NATO armament between conventional and nuclear-weapons pending a report from its military authorities. The ministers said the final decision on this question should be taken by all NATO members together.

10,000 Caribou Pick Route Through Town

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—More than 10,000 caribou pick a route for their northern migration, it takes more than a passing motorist's town to stop them.

Arthur Towell, the province's northern district supervisor, returned here from Uranium City to report that caribou had swept through the town last weekend for the second time since 1953. He said the animals were at the time showed there were from 10,000 to 20,000 caribou in the herd, he said.

At one time, a solid line of caribou were moving across Lake Athabaska to the north shore, Towell said. Others were forced three to seven." Lake Athabaska is roughly 10 miles wide near Uranium City.

Once across the lake, the caribou began moving through the community of 2,000 persons "in small groups of three to nine," Mr. Towell said.

P.M. and Diefenbaker Both Discuss Power Development

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The role of the federal government in the fields of power development and navigation has become an issue in the federal election campaign.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said in Vancouver Friday night that the federal government is ready to help finance power development on the Columbia River provided the British Columbia government finds federal action "appropriate" and perhaps even necessary." Such aid would be available only in the event of public development of the huge river's power resources.

In Saint John, N.B., John Diefenbaker promised that if a Progressive Conservative government is elected June 1 there will be an investigation of the feasibility of a Chignecto canal—a similar to the Bay of Fundy and Northumberland Strait.

The Conservative leader said he considers the long-talked-of canal part of the St. Lawrence Seaway system.

Speaking at a political rally, Mr. St. Laurent invited British Columbia to vote Liberal June 10 to increase his province's influence in shaping Canadian progress. He extended a similar invitation to Alberta when he was in Edmonton and Calgary.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in Saint John he had found in his Maritime campaign "an attitude not of defeatism but one of resounding anticipation of victory in the days ahead."

But in Vancouver Mr. St. Laurent indicated he hopes there will be leader after June 1—and leader in the next campaign in 1961 or 1962.

He told members of the North Shore Liberal Club that at the start of his campaign he had sent out his battered grey hat to be cleaned. He wore it during the 1953 campaign which resulted in a huge Liberal majority.

"And after this campaign I want to use it the next one too and I think I will be doing that," the 75-year-old prime minister said.

But another party leader hinted this would be his final election campaign. Speaking in Saskatoon, M. J. Coldwell said he will probably not seek re-election as national leader of the CCF party. Mr. Coldwell, 68, declined to name any possible candidates for his office on his retirement. He has been national leader since 1960.

Mr. Coldwell said a tour he made this week of his riding of Rosetown-Biggar showed public sentiment now is being expressed for cash than they had been in the 1930s. He made the statement in a television broadcast.

Mr. Coldwell said farm prices have fallen across Canada in the last two years and have continued to rise. A few years ago farmers received 12 per cent of the national income; now they got seven per cent.

He criticized the proposed federal hospital insurance plan as the most important legislation to be put before Parliament. But, he said, it was a feeble step when it is remembered that the Liberals promised a national health plan as long ago as 1919.

The federal candidate for Prince Albert, Dr. R. E. Partridge, offered a health plan which he said would increase farmers' returns from wheat by 29 cents to 50 cents a bushel.

At Shelbrook, Sask., Dr. Partridge said the present two-price system for wheat. Setting the domestic price at 80 cents would add 29 cents average return by six cents a bushel, he said.

Another eight cents could be gained, he added, by making up from federal funds the loss the farmer takes because of the premium of the Canadian dollar over the U.S. dollar. The two-price ernment should pay carrying charges on grain held at the end of the year, he said.

It would cost seven cents to the farmer. And the Liberal Lawrence Seaway should cut two cents from freight costs, he added.

Motion to Repeal Tree-Cutting By-Law Lost on Standing Vote

A motion to repeal the tree-cutting by-law passed by Hastings county at its last session went down to defeat on the last day of the spring session.

The motion, brought up under by-laws saw sharp discussion on the matter before it was defeated by a standing vote.

Reeve Tracey Adams opened discussion declaring that since the last session of council he had been visited by residents in 12 different townships in the north, who had asked to have the tree by-law repealed.

He said that the residents resented the dictatorship of having to have permits to go into the woods to cut timber on their own properties and also to townsfolk on the possibility of being told what timber they could not cut.

He urged that the by-law be repealed. Then if the south townships wanted a tree cutting by-law this, could be passed covering only the municipalities in that section of the county.

Reeves Ray Hannah and James Sprackett had the same thoughts on the matter with latter member saying residents in his township "gave me quite a time" over the last session."

Reeve C. T. Rollins said residents in his township also had a resentful feeling and threatened to make a test case on the tree by-law if it came into effect. He said the by-law in question was yet to be approved by the department.

Reeve Jack Brown of Bancroft said he favored the tree-cutting by-law but was sorry to see so many northern reeves were saying, the majority of the people in the north were not opposed to it.

"Our water table is dropping and several sites have dried up which never before have gone dry went dry last summer," he said.

Sawmill operators in the north to whom he had talked favored the by-law, he said.

This was doubted by Reeve Adams and Rollins, who named several such operators who they said were opposed.

"I haven't spoken to one operator in Dungannon township who is in favor," said Reeve Adams. "Apparently you haven't been talking to the men who actually operate the logs."

Deputy Reeve Charles Long of Sidney township pointed out that sawmill operators, in his township who, he said, had been doing a fine job. So effective cutting without policing. "The policing is the whicker of it and the people object to," he said.

Reeve Sprackett said that as a sawmill operator, he would be better off if the farmers did not cut their trees. He also declared many farmers have to cut the small logs to make a living.

"Have you talked to anyone else?" asked Reeve Brown.

"No," was the reply, "but all I have talked to were opposed."

Reeve Irwin McCoy of Marmora township pointed out that some of the aspect of the matter which apparently was being forgotten.

"There is now a market for stuff which formerly was left in the woods. I went into a timber lot last winter where there was considerable left in the bush."

Support for the by-law calling for repeal of the tree cutting by-law passed last winter came from all parts of the county but the by-law was eventually defeated by approximately six votes.

Earlier reports were that Loveless was employed by Hector Goulard Lumber Company of Sturgeon Falls.

GASPE STRIKE SETTLEMENT HOPES BLASTED

Will Not Negotiate With Steel Workers

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—Hope of an early settlement between the striking United Steel workers of America (CLC) and Gaspe Copper Mine sagged today after the company reiterated that it will not negotiate with a non-certified union.

The statement was made Friday night by H. Berube, assistant manager of Gaspe Copper, during a press conference. Mr. Berube's statement reaffirmed what has been company policy throughout the strike which started March 11.

Mr. Berube's position goes back to last June when a company-labor relations provincial legislature which provided the Quebec labor relations board from hearing the union's application for certification.

INJUNCTION TO STAND

Gaspe Copper is not opposed basically to the USWA, Mr. Berube said, but it will not negotiate with a non-certified union.

He says that the union will be certified are false, he said. The union can not be certified until the company withdraws its injunction. The company did not plan to do this.

Asked whether the company is trying to attract out-of-the-area men to work in the mine, Mr. Berube replied, "Unfortunately I cannot answer the question."

DISPUTES FIGURES

The company assistant manager said more men are at work than the union claims. Friday, he said, 250 showed up for work, of whom 100 were company office personnel.

The union said 102 persons, including office help, worked Friday.

Mr. Berube said the mine is not in operation but preliminary work is being done and the smelter is being carried out.

Roger Bedard, spokesman for the union, said earlier this week the 850 men will not return to work without a contract.

Faraday Makes First Shipment Of Precipitate

TORONTO (CP) — Faraday Uranium Mines, where uranium ore was discovered in 1955 at Bancroft, 55 miles northeast of Peterborough, has made its first shipment of uranium precipitate, president Bryan W. Newkirk said Friday.

The precipitate was produced this week Friday 11 days after ore from the mine left the 1,000-ton mill at Bancroft, he said, and the production spell is the best in that.

The borough council met Friday night and introduced a bill repealing the milking ordinance and other obsolete laws.

Hedge-Hopping Navy Attack Bomber Crashes on San Francisco Appliances

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hundreds of washing-machine, dryer and refrigerator motors were burned out in San Francisco peninsula homes Friday in a freak power failure.

A navy attack bomber, hedge-hopping through a canyon, cut two 220,000-volt power lines strung 500 feet above it, and caused the immediately power sagged or failed in 12 cities and towns from San Jose miles to San Jose through an area of 1,100,000 people.

Lt. Commander Yoberg, on a routine low-level practice mission, said there was a explosion when his plane cut the lines. The collision bent the right propeller out of line and knifed a few inches into the right wing but the pilot was able to land at a nearby naval air station.

Motors stopped or slowed. Radio stations broadcast slow - motion gibberish as record turntables slowed. TV stations went off the air after their picture transmission failed.

Elevators stopped between floors, but enough power came through to get them to floor levels.

Dentists' drills slowed, then the motors started smoking. So did motors in hundreds of home electrical appliances.

Traffic signals blinked off, and police rushed to strategic intersections to handle traffic.

Street cars and trolley buses were immobilized. Newspaper stop-clocks stalled. At international airport the radio tower was out and planes were landed by hand-operated light signals.

Hospitals switched on emergency power.

A Pacific Gas and Electric Co. spokesman explained that many motors burned out: "When voltage drops amperage (current strength) kicks higher than normal. This produces heat that burns out an appliance."

Teen-Agers Kick Boy Unconscious At Church Dance

Priest Stops Fight in Hall But It Is Resumed Outside

OTTAWA (CP) — Rene Jodoin, 17, died in hospital early today from injuries suffered in a gang attack by a group of teen-agers on a west-central street.

Police are seeking at least 10 youths believed to have taken part in the attack on Jodoin, his two brothers and two other boys.

One 16-year-old was picked up early today but later released.

Police said the fatal attack occurred on the sidewalk in front of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church on Lebreton Street.

The trouble began in the church's basement hall where a youth organization dance was in progress. The row began inside when Jodoin, his brother David, 19, and Maurice, 16, and two friends, all strangers to the neighborhood, arrived.

Rev. John Kuehl, who was helping supervise the dance, put a stop to the row. Jodoin, his brothers and friends left the hall but were followed by about a dozen youths. The fight broke out again on the street and Rene Jodoin went down on the sidewalk where he was kicked until unconscious.

Beaten Husband Builds Wall Through House

MILAN, Italy (Reuters)—A Milan court had ruled that a husband is not guilty of abandoning his wife if he builds a wall through the middle of his home and lives on the other side of it.

The court rejected charges brought by a wife that her husband had abandoned her.

"I still live here entirely," she said. "He built a wall in our apartment and lived behind it."

The husband told the court that his wife terrorized him. "She insulted me and beat me."

Milking Cows Is No Longer Police Chore

EAST PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—The official burdens of Police Chief Ralph Shoor are getting lighter—he won't have to milk any stray cows in line of duty.

Under an old ordinance, the chief was required to do just that.

The borough council met Friday night and introduced a bill repealing the milking ordinance and other obsolete laws.

Rhode Island Brides Now 'Prospective'

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — From now on marriage licences in Rhode Island will carry the wording "prospective bride." Up to now, it has been "expectant bride."

Mrs. E. Louise Stoddard, only woman member of the state legislature, introduced the bill making the change. Friday the Senate gave the measure final passage.

Mrs. Stoddard said she was happy.

Windsor Jobless Called Problem Of Federal Govt.

TORONTO (CP)—Welfare Minister Goodfellow said Friday it is up to the federal government to do something about 1,300 unemployed men and women in Windsor.

He criticized the federal unemployment insurance commission in a letter replying to a Windsor city council request for federal and provincial aid. He said unemployment insurance should be paid for at least a year with regular benefits available for another 12 months.

The Unemployment Insurance Act sets a maximum of $30 a week for each unemployed person and limits regular benefits to 36 weeks.

Mr. Goodfellow said Canadian workers have helped build up a $1,000,000,000 unemployment insurance fund and have every right to expect more generous treatment.

Ottawa's proposal to share with the provinces and municipalities one-half the cost of relief when unemployment in a province exceeds 4.5 per cent of the population has been rejected by Ontario as a return to the dole, Mr. Ceelie said.

Kinettes Hosts at Delightful Inter-Club Turkey Dinner

One of the finest springtime events took place last evening at Hotel Quinte when approximately 70 members of the Kinette Club met for its inter-club dinner. Representatives were present from Tweed, Trenton, Campbellford, Napanee, Kingston and Cornwall, with Mrs. Jean Smith, president of Belleville Kinettes, presiding.

Those at the head table included: Helga Wilbur, Sergeant-at-arms; Ruth Anderson, Tweed president; Doris Barnett, Napanee president; Beulah Peters, president of the Kingston Kinettes; Mary Lang, past president of the Belleville club; Jean Smith, the president; Mrs. Lilla Tillson, guest speaker for the evening; Ruth Follwell, past president of the Belleville club; Gwen McDougall, convenor, of Kinettes for the national convention; Audrey Chase, president of the Trenton club; Frances Hall, past president of the Campbellford club; and Helen Lenning, convener of the inter-club dinner.

Previous to the dinner and the delightful program which followed, was the cocktail hour in the cocktail room, resplendent with a table centred by tall sprays of rose and pink snapdragons, multi-petalled tulips, yellow Michelmas chrysanthemums, sprays of British Columbia huckleberry, and sumptuously appointed with a variety of hors d'oeuvres. Here the visiting Kenettes enjoyed a social get-together with those of Belleville, after which all proceeded to the dining room to partake of the turkey dinner.

MEMBERS INTRODUCED

Following the repast, the members at the head table were introduced by president Jean Smith, several of whom spoke briefly, acknowledging their pleasure in being present on this memorable occasion, and telling of the work accomplished in their individual clubs.

Mrs. Mary Gould, of Number 6 district gave an outline of the coming convention to be held in Montreal, and of the activities for each of the days, including an evening tea at Expo, with dinner at the Chalet; a birthday supper at Lachine, and a Chinese night, with dinner on Saturday afternoon, and a Sunday breakfast at Cornwall. A special speaker, the Rev. Norman Rowson, would address the convention.

The highlight of the program, which began with Kinette songs, led by the song leader, Mrs. R. Stolins and Mrs. M. Hallam, with Mrs. F. Ward at the piano, was the intensely interesting talk by the guest speaker, Mrs. Lilla Tillson, representative of the Canadian Wallpaper Manufacturers Association, on an interior decorating by the use of wall paper and accenting drapes.

HOME INTEREST

Mrs. Tillson, who was introduced by Mrs. Ruth Follwell, began her descriptive talk, by stating that "home is the big interest in life; a place where we live every day to day, with furnishings which, in many cases, have been assembled through the years. It is clever to incorporate the antiques with modern articles, making of it a complete whole." Many home owners are afraid of bright colors, but these have an elevating effect, and unlike the dark colors of older days, are not depressing. The trend now is towards pastel colors, with drapes bringing out some color used in the paper, and the getting from the patterned fabrics to the solid colors.

Papers are bright, with silver and gold tones for effect, which may also be used for walls, which include the plain, as well as the scenic types, which are splendid for halls and dining rooms. In fact, one may use papers for any room, if he so desires.

Fabrics include the tulle, which gives a very gaying almost airy shirrings, are delightful. Corduroy is also being brought into the limelight, as is felt. Orange tints for drapes, and cushions are always good.

The speaker was thanked for her splendid and instructive talk, by Mrs. M. Colling, and presented with a small gift in remembrance of her visit to the Kinette dinner.

ENTERTAINERS

During the program, Master Allan Martin entertained with some superb magician tricks; and Mrs. Ralph Plumpton favored with two lovely solos: "Be the Best of Whatever You Are," and "This Day". Both of whom were presented with a token of appreciation by Mrs. Barbara Farquharson.

Another interesting part was the drawing of the lucky number for the hand-tooled purse, and the accompanying one hundred dollars, which was drawn by the guest speaker, and won by Mrs. O. Parkhurst, 91½ Road.

A lovely gesture by the Kinette host club was the pretty favors at each table for the guests, which were much appreciated by all.

Following the program, further enjoyments were prepared in the cocktail room where moving pictures were shown, concluding a most delightful evening.

Equalized Assessment Higher Than Actual in Some Twps. Causes Lengthy Discussion

Discussion of the equalization by-law with several of the Centre Hastings reeves calling for adoption of actual assessments made by local assessors to be used as the equalized figure, sparked the May 1st day morning session of Hastings county council.

Following a debate of nearly a full hour on the matter, the equalization figures as suggested by County Assessor Cecil Geen were finally adopted.

The equalized assessment for the county for 1958 will be $30,529,000, a figure slightly over and $200,000 greater than the actual assessment used for the 1957 tax rate.

Main objector to the equalization figures as finally adopted was Reeve James Kinlin of Hungerford who, for the second or third time since the session began complained that the equalized figure for his township was much higher than the actual.

And to the explanation previously given by the county assessor that the reason for the higher equalized figure was a low assessment in the township, Reeve Kinlin said "I can't always find out what you set out to look for."

"If the county assessor sets out to find a low assessment he'll find it," he objected. "No assessor is perfect. I think we should adopt the actual figures."

Reeve Lloyd Tree of Elzevir said if the county had faith in its county assessor the actual figures should be adopted.

NOT SATISFIED

Reeve James Spry of Rawdon said he was not satisfied with the equalization noting that the figures for his township were much higher than the actual assessment.

"The county assessor says our assessment is too low but admits that it is okay for the part of the township that he knows. If it were the other way around I might think differently."

Reeve Ali Wickett of Thurlow said he felt that his township was over-assessed, especially on the standpoint of land.

He said the assessment on Thurlow had gone up a million in the last year and if any township had their equalized figure raised the blow would have to be assumed by the others.

Reeve Harder of Sidney felt it was the duty of the county assessor to get equal assessment throughout the county and then actual figures could be used for the equalization.

Although Reeve J. Holt of Stirling as chairman of the publicity committee was authorized to attend the Mayors' and Reeves convention at Chatham, the matter will not join with the city of Belleville in any invitation for the convention to be held in the city next year. Feeling of Council was, it would be better to wait to see if the city's invitation was accepted before any plans were made to take part in any entertainment program for the delegates.

Bravo!!

A request from Marmora township Reeve Irwin McCoy for railway wig-wag signals to be placed by the Ontario Highways Department on crossing east of Marmora village on No. 7 and Bridge St. in the village on No. 14 highway was approved and passed along by council.

Reeve McCoy stated that there were both bad crushings and shearings which resulted in train-car collisions in recent months. He felt that a request coming from the county council had more weight than from only the township.

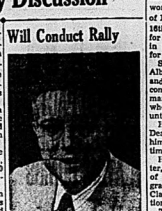
County Warden L. McLaren and chairman of finance Reeve Ross Wannamaker of the committee of two to assist the sheriff in securing annual help to relieve guards at the county jail.

Sheriff T. Solmes told council it was getting almost impossible to hire extra guards at the pay of $7 per day, in naming the committee to work with the sheriff, council authorized that the pay of extra guards be raised up to $8 per day.

The same committee named to attend Thursday night's joint civil defence meeting at Belleville, reported no definite action had been taken and another later meeting was necessary.

Reeve C. Buskard noted the meeting had been told by Mayor Ellis Wannamaker of Belleville and the, county area would be a reception area rather than a target area.

NO ACTION TAKEN



No action was taken on a request from the Plainfield Babies' Convalescent Home for financial assistance to provide a supervised playground for retarded children at the home. The cost of the playground would be $1,500, of which $500 had been subscribed, it was stated.

As the session closed Reeve Murray Smith of Madoc expressed appreciation to Warden McLaren for the capable manner in which he had conducted the session.

In reply Warden McLaren thanked councillors for their cooperation during the session.

"Since becoming warden I have had many pleasant duties to perform. But I have a great county to work for and to work with," he said.

Will Conduct Rally

Jack Wyrtzen, internationally known youth leader, radio and TV evangelist, and world traveler, will conduct a rally at Bridge Street United Church here on Tuesday, May 7th at 7.45 p.m.

When Irumboristi Jack Wyrtzen led his own dance orchestra in his late teens, he would have promptly repudiated any prediction that he would be "beating the drums" for the gospel in the next 25 years. But that is exactly what happened to this Brooklyn-born spiritual leader, radio broadcaster. His claim that Jesus Christ and the Word of God change men's lives was his own experience when he met the Saviour.

After his conversion, he soon met other young men who had vitalized Christianity; they banded together and by 1939 this group became known throughout the country as the Word of Life Fellowship.

Council Names Committee to Protect Interests

A special committee of Warden Leslie McLaren and village Reeves T. C. Graham of Tweed and William Shannon of Marmora, has been named by Hastings county council to look after the county's interest with respect to the proposed annexation in Sidney and Thurlow townships by the city of Belleville.

Council, in naming the committee, gave it power to act in the hiring of legal advice in the matter.

In asking for information of the committee Reeve Irwin McCoy of Marmora said that possible loss of three millions in assessment means something.

"They are taking the cream off the front two townships and the county should be prepared to protect a united front at the municipal board hearing," he said.

Reeve Byron Harder of Sidney noted that these reeves may county interest to be considered, such as debenture payments, administration of justice costs, Children's Aid Society costs and others.

He said Reeve James Sprackett said pressure should be brought to bear on the matter to have it left in the county.

Calling for the whole picture to be carefully analyzed, Reeve Charles Buskard of Deloro said the county assessment means $30,000 to the county in taxes.

Reeve Ali Wickett of Thurlow said municipality was hiring a specialist to look after their interests. He felt annexation was a specialized field and as such called for specialized counsel.

Mrs. W. J. Roberts Wins New Range

If anyone should notice a giant-sized smile on the face of Mrs. W. J. Roberts, 27 Reid St., it's because yesterday afternoon she won the 30-inch Gurney range, valued at $388, in a province-wide "Tell-a-Time" contest sponsored by Gurney Foundry Sales Ltd. and Gurney Products Ltd.

Mrs. Roberts was one of thousands of Ontario contestants and gave 180 seconds as her estimate of the correct solution: "How long does it take to bake a cake in a Gurney electronic range?" She was correct to the last second.

On hand at R. E. Kuntze and Sons Ltd., where the prize was awarded, were Mr. M. Collins, divisional representative of Gurney Products Ltd., and Mr. Aubrey Kuntze, district representative of Robin Hood Flour Mills Ltd.

Obituary

THOMAS B. W. EGGLETON

MADOC JUNCTION — Relatives at Madoc Junction received word that Thomas S. W. Eggleton of Leslie, Sask., had died on April 18th. He had been in failing health for the past year, and a patient in Foam Lake General Hospital for the past six months.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Eggleton, his childhood and youth had been spent in the community here. Then, as a young man, he went to western Canada where he was a successful farmer until his retirement.

His wife, the former Margaret Deane, of Saskatoon, predeceased him 19 years ago, and since that time he has resided in Leslie.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Andrew (Helen) Fulton, of Transcona, Manitoba; two granddaughters; one sister, Mrs. Clarence Pitchett of Madoc Junction.

The funeral service was held at Leslie United Church where his minister, the Rev. Lacey, conducted the service.

Interment was in Leslie Cemetery.

MRS. JENNIE ARBUCKLE

The funeral of Mrs. Jennie Arbuckle was held from the John H. Bush Funeral Home on Friday afternoon. Canon A. S. McConnell conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites in Victoria cemetery at Tweed.

Pall bearers were Cyril Latta, Harold; Ray and Cyril Coulson, Jack Arbuckle and Donald Freeman.

MRS. EDWARD GILLESPIE

A resident of Belleville since 1907, Mrs. Mary Jane Gillespie, 33 East Moira St., died at her home on Friday evening, in her 93rd year, after being ill for some time. At home with her when she died was her daughter, Miss Mabel Gillespie.

Others surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Albert (May) Elliott of Belleville, two sons, Ralph Edward Gillespie of Belleville and Percy Harry Gillespie of Toronto, three granddaughters, four great-grandchildren and one nephew, Gordon Anderson of Belleville.

Mrs. Gillespie was the widow of Edward Gillespie and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson. She was born at Kingsford, Ont., and before moving to Belleville she resided at Colborne.

She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Resting at the Campbell Funeral Home on North Front St., funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Ltd.

A keenly interested onlooker was Dick Kuntze. He had just reason to look as proud because his store has had the exclusive Belleville dealership of Gurney products for only six months.

When asked how it felt to win such a fine prize, Mrs. Roberts replied: "I don't really know. I guess I'm too excited. But I do know, though, that my cooking will be made so much easier and I'll be able to get meals on the table much faster with this new and revolutionary-type range."

IN MEMORIAM

GOODFELLOW. — In loving memory of dear mother, Mrs. Harriet Goodfellow, who passed away May 4th, 1952.
The smiling dream of life goes on,
But still the vacant chair.
And as the time, the voice, the smile
Of my dear mother, who once sat
there.
—Ever remembered by daughter Connie and family.

CROSSLEY. — In loving memory of our dear father, Thomas Crossley, who passed away May 4th, 1949.
Sweet is the light eyes and cheerful face
Are so pleasant to recall,
But dearer is the memory of her each and died beloved by all.
—Lovingly remembered by Harold, Dorothy and family.

JOHNS. — In loving memory of Thomas Johns,
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Gone is the voice we loved to hear;
Gone from our home, but not from our hearts,
But not too far for thoughts to reach,
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who though absent, is just as dear.
—Ever remembered by Norm, Lettie and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to all my friends and neighbors for their cards, calls, flowers and treats while I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital and since I came home. A special thanks to Dr. Robert Beattie, Mr. Sam Crook and all the nurses and staff in Ward "E".

Safe-Crackers Blow Two Safes At Bancroft

Safe-crackers at Mullett's Hardware in Bancroft went to double work Friday night, to smash open two safes in the store.

The door of one of the safes was closed but unlocked. But the safecrackers smashed it open anyway.

Store employees opening the premises for business this morning discovered the break-in and the safe job. Provincial Constables Hawkins and Phillips of Bancroft are investigating with the assistance of Cpl. Reg Backham, of the O.P.P. Identification branch in Belleville.

The amount stolen by the safe-crackers was not learned.

Asparagus First Time on Market

Succulent asparagus tips fresh from the garden and crisp rhubarb piled with a profusion of flowers and bulbs for attention on market square, Tuesday morning, asparagus at 25c a half pound bunch was under imported varieties. Rhubarb was also a bargain at five bunches for 25c.

Vendors were also encouraged by another rise in the lagging price of eggs which edged up another cent to 48c for extras, 43 for large, and 41 for medium.

Butter maintained the long set price of 60c for cqaon, 55 for chicken and 45 for fowl.

Potatoes were firm at 75c a peck.

Delicious apples were a little haughty stepping out of line at 30c a six quart basket, while Macs, Sweets, Roman Beauties and Spys hired the party line at 85, 75, and 75c respectively.

Newer Spanish onions for transplanting offered quick results from the garden at 25c a box.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

IN HEAVENLY LOVE ABIDING

In heavenly love abiding
No change my heart shall fear;
And safe is such confiding,
For nothing changes here.
The storm may roar without me,
My heart may low be laid,
But God is round about me,
And can I be dismayed?

Wherever He may guide me,
No want shall turn me back;
My Shepherd is beside me,
And nothing can I lack.
His wisdom ever waketh,
His sight is never dim,
He knows the way He taketh,
And I will walk with Him.

Green pastures are before me,
Which yet I have not seen;
Bright skies will soon be o'er me,
Where darkest clouds have been.
My hope I cannot measure,
My path to life is free,
My Saviour has my treasure,
And He will walk with me.

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me. . . ."

Anna Laetitia Waring, a young Welsh girl, used that Bible verse, the fourth in the famous Twenty-third Psalm, as a basis for her hymn, "In Heavenly Love Abiding", to which when she wrote it about 1850 she gave the title, "Safety In God".

The rich spiritual note that runs through the song is typical of that to be found in all of her hymn-poems. Her ancestors must, have been Bible lovers before her, for her father was named Elijah after the great Bible prophet and her uncle, Samuel Waring, was known for his religious poems and songs.

Miss Waring was born at Neath, in southern Wales, in 1820. In later life she lived at Clifton, near Bristol, England. Her best writings, 32 pieces in all, were published in London in 1853 in a volume called "Hymns and Meditations".

The music to which Miss Waring's hymn, cited above, is usually sung was written by James William Elliott, English composer, organist, and choirmaster, who served for a good while as organist and director of music in St. Mark's church in London. The tune is popularly known in church musical circles as "Day Of Rest" because it was written originally for Bishop Christopher Wordsworth's hymn, "O Day Of Rest And Gladness"

Armistice, death took another son. Then was shown Armistice night in London, with its scenes of triumph and rejoicing. The grief-stricken mother watched from the window as the shouting marchers went by, and then turned away tearfully to say, "But my world's a very small world."

Viewed from one angle, that mother's words might seem a stultifying remark. It is ignoble to live in a small world when we should be concerned with the struggles of society. And it must be confessed that some mothers do make their homes little circles walled in with selfishness. Some mothers do tether their sons with the silver chord of maternal devotion so that they delay the making of new homes or disrupt their sons' homes when made.

Yet, saying all this, we must also say that unless we learn to live in the small world immediately around us, we shall not live successfully in the realm of large affairs. The home is the training ground whereon we drill ourselves in those attitudes of personal adjustment which are necessary for effective social readjustment.

It is in the home that we best learn the habits of mutual consideration which make for tolerance and cooperation in the community. It is in the home that we must form the habit of keeping our word as individuals if we are to keep contracts inviolate in business.

FAMILY CIRCLE

The family circle is our first drill ground of Christian character. The family is not only, as has often been said, the unit of civilization; it is the test of civilization. The stability and endurance of any nation are in proportion to the integrity and coherence of its family group.

When a society neglects the mother's law of concentration on the family, nothing can make up for its loss. Schools cannot discipline the youth that parents do not train. Churches cannot develop character when homes dodge their responsibility. Courts and laws cannot control the wildness which family circles fail to tame. We multiply our policemen to keep people straight. We multiply government bureaus to keep business straight. We multiply officials to keep governments straight. Thus we go on increasing social overseers and social overhead. And still our lives will be twisted and broken.

When Oklahoma planned to erect a statue symbolizing the pioneer woman, many models were submitted. But the one selected is that of a mother carrying a Bible under one arm and with the other leading her young son, with whom she is walking briskly and buoyantly forward. She was at the time for the culture of America and Canada has been shaped by the mothers who have taken the Book of Life and transmitted it into the characters of their children, with whom they have faced the future, unashamed and unafraid.

A Lift for Living

'Forsake Not Law of Mother'

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Although Mother's Day is still a week away, these intervening days are usually designated as a National Family Week. As a preparation, therefore, for this week and for Mother's Day which it leads, should like to think with you about a word of wisdom uttered by the writer of Proverbs in the first chapter, the eighth verse: "My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother."

It would almost seem that the proverb has its words mixed. It would sound more appropriate to say, "My son, hear the instruction of thy mother, and forsake not the law of thy father."

Traditionally is it not the fathers who lay down the law? Mother was often the refuge to whom we fled when we had broken Father's laws. Mothers do not talk in terms of law, but in terms of love. When, therefore, we read "forsake not the law of thy mother," we mean not the laws which mothers laid down for others but rather the laws which they manifested in their own lives.

LAW OF CONCENTRATION

There is one law manifested by our mothers which we as a society must not forsake. It is the mother's law of concentration. In Noel Coward's motion picture "Cavalcade," which was produced a number of years ago, he depicted the vicissitudes of an English family during the first two decades of the 20th century.

First was shown the young husband leaving his wife and two boys for the Boer War, about 1900. Then came the tragedy of the elder son's death in 1912 on the Titanic when that great new ship struck an iceberg and sank. Then in World War I, just before the Armistice, death took another son. Then was shown Armistice night in London, with its scenes of triumph and rejoicing. The grief-stricken mother watched from the window as the shouting marchers went by, and then turned away tearfully to say, "But my world's a very small world."

Viewed from one angle, that mother's words might seem a stultifying remark. It is ignoble to live in a small world when we should be concerned with the struggles of society. IN THE STRATOSPHERE

The U.S. Air Force has cut by nearly two thirds the funds earmarked for development work next year on an atomic plane.

That may not be startling news — not until one gets a glimpse at the expenditure originally planned. It was $600,000,000. This is one seventh of the total amount spent by the Canadian Government, for all purposes, during the fiscal year 1955-56.

Rockets are not the only things which are climbing up into the stratosphere in this atomic age.

Although the U.S. Air Force has cut its planned expenditures on developing an atomic plane to a mere $213,-000,000 in the coming fiscal year, an amount little more than half the cost of the entire Canadian Army, this does not mean that it is abandoning the project.

A report just released on testimony given some time ago before a congressional military appropriations subcommittee shows that Donald Quarles, then air force secretary, testified the $600,000,000 program was cut "on the ground that it was a luxury we could not afford." The reason it was a luxury, though, was not the cost but the fact that "it would not contribute to our military potential." Rushing the plan through might have produced a simple "flying reactor without too much regard to its military usefulness." It would not, though, have provided the air force with what it wants, which is a nuclear-powered bomber of "unlimited range, high altitude and supersonic speed over the target."

Everything, in spite of "economy" waves like the present, the U.S. air force will get what it wants. So, too, we suspect, will Russia.

What advantages would a nuclear-powered plane have over present jets? To the layman, the main asset would appear to be the ability to stay aloft for lengthy periods, without refueling. The recent round-the-world flight by three jet-powered U. S. B-52s, without touching down, graphically illustrates the efficiency of present mid-air refueling techniques. Nevertheless, the need for refueling does, in one sense, tie planes to their bases, though the apron-string is a long one. A nuclear-powered plane could roam at will, safe in the knowledge that it could not run short of fuel for days, and perhaps not for months.

Since the only defence against the H-bomb is effective retaliation, a prime objective in any future war would be the destruction of the bases from which these retaliatory attacks could be launched.

Equipped with nuclear-powered planes, though, a nation could have its retaliatory force permanently airborne, virtually impossible to locate and destroy. These planes could roam the skies for days at a time, robbing any aggressor of even the slimmest hope that his initial attacks might destroy the ability of his victim to retaliate.

Eventually, if the world manages to escape suicide, atom-powered planes may make air travel faster, safer and more economical. It may well be, therefore, that even that $600,000,000 expenditure originally planned would have been money well spent. Here we have an impressive evidence of another atomic-age development. Research is becoming much too costly for private firms to undertake. Not even the richest private corporation in the world could afford to gamble $600,000,000 in a single year on the off-chance that its expenditure would result in the development of a practical nuclear engine for a plane. Research is thus becoming more and more the business of governments. Small nations are ill-equipped to meet this challenge. The United States, the modern world, the United States and the Soviet Union, will thus be ensured of widening the gap between them and their competitors unless the results of their research are shared with other nations.

SENTIMENT AND BUSINESS

Some readers may have noted the frequency with which ships in the news are reported to be registered under the flags of Panama, or Liberia, or some other small nation.

The reason, of course, is to escape some of the regulations which larger countries impose.

Recently a salvaged freighter went back into service. It was the former Italian-flag Strauss, which was driven ashore at Scituate, Mass., on March 16, 1956, by a blizzard. The owners abandoned the vessel to her marine insurance underwriters, who then sold her to a group of New York shipping men who gambled she could be refloated. They won their gamble.

In appreciation of the co-operation given by the people of the area where she was aground, the ship has been named the Scituate.

But there is a limit to sentiment. A name — yes; registration — no. She sails under the Liberian flag.

He was young and bewildered a little, I know,
Since he came in to ask
The way to succeed. I said:
"How did you do
Your very first task?"

"Did you think it too simple to give it your best?
It you did, it's too bad.

Or you and your character that was a test—
The first one you've had.

Be it fact'ry or store,
Do well with the first task that's given, you must,

Freedom or Secrecy?

By James Wiggins, preface to Freedom or Secrecy, Oxford University Press

During a period of more than 300 years, starting with the early years of the 17th Century and extending into the 20th Century, the people steadily expanded the area about which government touched they had a right to know.

There were some rebuffs and short-run reverses from time to time; but everything that happened in England and America seemed generally to work together to enlarge the access of all citizens to information about government itself and to establish in law, custom, and tradition the principle that the people have a right to knowledge and the free use thereof.

In the early years of the 17th Century, Englishmen commenced to dismantle the vast system of suppression and restriction started by Henry VIII in 1538 with the promulgation of the first list of proscribed books. This system was soon 80 years in the making.

It included licensed printing, the granting of monopolies, made politics, the use of religious injunctions, the power to star chamber proceedings, the employment of general warrants, the secrecy of legislation, the enforcement of savage reprisal for seditious libel and contempt.

Parts of the system were exported to the American colonies, but a 100-year period most of the bad work of the preceding 60 years was undone. The basic work of this heritage remained at the start of the 20th century. Generally speaking, however, the people have established, by law and by custom and unanswerable judgement of public men, the theory that the people had a right to know their own government.

Since the U.S., the struggle against the 16th Century restrictions proceeded along the same lines. Laws of libel, and the licensing of the press was abandoned. Doors of legislatures and of courts were opened. Court proceedings were made public. Laws of seditious libel were moderated and the defences against libel made available.

At local, state, and federal levels it was conceded that the people had a right to information.

After three centuries of progress, events seem now to be moving in another direction. There is abroad in this country (U.S.), and in the rest of the world, an impulse to secrecy. It is an impulse which will alter and curb our government institutions if it is not itself altered and curbed.

This retrogression has been caused by military crisis, by changes in the structure of government, by expansion in the powers of government, by increases in the size of government, and by declining faith in the theories that made it possible for democracy to grow in knowledge from the 17th to the 20th Century.

The legislative, executive, and judicial establishments of local, state, federal governments challenge the right of citizens to scrutinize their transactions and records. Records are sealed. Information is denied.

These actions, if pursued, will change the character of our governments. To prevent what this may do to free government, we need to read again John Stuart Mill's paragraph:

"As between one form of popular government and another, the advantage . . . lies with that which most widely diffuses the exercise of public functions; on one hand by excluding fewest persons from sharing in the offices, by opening to all classes of private citizens, so far as consistent with the proper performance of important objects, the widest participation in details of administration, and the most public business; as by jury trial, admission to municipal offices, and, where the full participation of individuals in succession, but the whole public, are made to a certain degree the depositaries of the government and sharers in the instruction of mental exercise derivable from it."

We began the century with a free government — as free as any devised and operated by men. The more that government becomes secret, the less it remains free.

To diminish the people's participation in government. The consequences of secrecy are not less because the reasons for secrecy are more. The ill effects are the same whether the reasons for secrecy are good or bad.

The arguments for more secrecy may be good arguments which, in a world is menaced by communist imperialism, we cannot altogether refute. They are nevertheless, arguments for less freedom.

There is danger that we may choose between them under the illusion that secrecy is safe, and freedom is dangerous. Or we may deceive ourselves into believing that the two are not incompatible, and into thinking that we can have freedom and secrecy.

We can have a little of each, but we can also get a little of the freedom without surrendering all of it. We can have little secrecy without having a government that is altogether secret.

We unbelieve by

Each added measure of secrecy, however, measurably diminishes our freedom. If we proceed with more and more secrecy we shall one day reach a place where we have made the choice.

We shall pass a point beyond which we cannot go without abandoning free institutions and accepting secret institutions. No one can say with assurance where this point is, but we move toward it.

Three Huge Firms Unite

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Daimler-Benz, Curtiss-Wright and Studebaker-Packard are big names in industry. What is more they are among the oldest names in the motor industry. Gottlieb Daimler designed the first automotive engine just about as we know it today. He also built the first patent for a motor vehicle. They combined in Germany to make motors and trucks.

Glenn Curtiss was an aviation pioneer who made the motor field, while the airplane itself was brought to practical usefulness by the Wright brothers. The Studebaker family was in the auto business since 1852 and was the wagon industry since 1825, while Packard started production in 1899.

From now on, the three concerns will combine their world-wide operations in the automobile field at least the merged companies will be interested in each other's products, with particular emphasis on distribution of Mercedes-Benz vehicles by Studebaker dealers in North America. According to the joint announcement, the aircraft side of the enterprise has not yet been worked out.

For the ordinary citizen not involved or interested in the financial side of the deal, the important matter is that pooling of efforts should help these diversified companies to survive. There is an almost overwhelming trend to-ward bigness in industries that manufacture products of high unit cost such as automobiles.

The alternative is to seek a new lease on life by joining forces with other concerns, expanding production and diversifying the line of goods offered for sale. The three old companies have decided to do this, and almost everyone will wish them every success.

Proved He Was Real Magician

Wall Street Journal

A banking tycoon, hunting in Africa, strayed away from his party and was captured by hostile natives. They took the banker chief the banker pantomimed that he was about to produce a miracle. He reached into his pocket, extracted a cigaret lighter and with a flick of the wrist triumphantly held aloft the burning flame.

The chief shook his head in amazement and, speaking in English, said, "If you can be a magician, I've never before seen a lighter work the first time."

Bay bridge advocated. From our file copy at this time in 1917. The scheme for bridging the Bay of Quinte is progressing satisfactorily and is meeting with approval of all parties interested. At a meeting of the city council the scheme was endorsed in the following motion: Moved by Ald. N. Baldwin Falkiner and seconded by Ald. William Smeaton and carried unanimously, that the municipal council of the City of Belleville recognize the need of greater facilities for communication between the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, and do hereby recommend the bridging of the Bay of Quinte at or near Belleville; that in the public interest urge that the Dominion Parliament grant a subsidy to grant the necessary powers to a company called the Bay of Quinte Bridge Company, now applying for the same.

Mayor Ellis, Ald. Nathaniel Baldwin Falkiner referred to above was an Irishman direct from the Old Land. He was a lawyer and possessed great wit and was a popular after dinner speaker and a powerful orator at the elections for the Cooperative party. His home was the house on Highland Avenue, now owned by the Shrine Club. In the glass above the main door entrance was the name of the house and was pronounced Bally-Rick-Ard. The glass was removed by a member of the family and replaced with plain glass. Mr. Smeaton, mentioned above, was a druggonds merchant and lived in a fine house on Alexander Street, near Charles street.

THROUGH THE NEEDLE'S EYE

Jesus once said that it was easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. His disciples were astounded at his saying, and no wonder. They asked, in complete bewilderment, "Who then can be saved?"

With his usual divine penetration, Jesus was able to perceive that money is one of the most deceptive, destroying moral character. This does not mean that poor people are all virtuous and that high moral qualities are never found among the rich. Some of the finest people in every nation are wealthy people. Possession of adequate financial means can be a real blessing to a person if the person sets himself to make it so. But, by and large through the centuries, money, the desire for money, and the means taken to get it have probably ruined more souls than any other factor in this wicked world.

The Biblical ideal is not poverty. The Biblical Ideal is stewardship. It is a part of St. Thomas' Parish.

Eskimos Go Modern

Windsor Daily Star

In most Canadian minds the Eskimo is pictured chiefly as a well bundled up person sitting stolidly in an igloo with rifles, harpoons, photographers or other things in that modern manner or phenomenon. Perhaps refrigerators, although sale of those appliances to Eskimos used to top the outsider's list of impossibilities.

You Can't Teach Grandparents

How can I convince four persistently nagging grandparents that that our three children do not get colds from sitting on the living-room floor with their shoes and socks off in cold weather? (Mrs. C. H. Milwaukee)

Now, wait a minute. If they were my children they'd leave off everything they didn't want to wear, in any weather.

I take it the grandparents are 55 to 60. When any one has lived so far 50 years that a draft, change of weather, dampness, insufficient clothing, inadequately heated house, or "exposure" to cold causes illness, it's not easy to get over such ideas.

A remarkable front-page story recently told about the prescription Niann's "cold" in Morocco, which he said he believed he caught in Washington (he didn't imply he caught it from the President). It was remarkable. I thought, because the reporter who filed the story did not explain that the Vice-president had sat in a draft, gone about without his hat or something. American readers are accustomed to an explanation of the disposition or illness of prominent persons, when American newsmen generally provide the explanation right off the bat.

American newspaper readers are not all grandparents, you may argue. But too many of them are thick-skulled, hide-bound and unteachable concerning colds, flu and cause of the crit.

In the Malvern days on Collingwood Street in Canandaigs, most families in the neighborhood were of the opinion that their kids changed from heavy to light underwear about the first of June and went in swimming not long afterward. A few families were of lower I.Q. and their kids had to wear heavy fleece - lined armor until the Fourth of July. If their parents found out they had been in swimming before the Fourth they got whaled for it. Those kids were not martyrs really, for despite their experience, which indicated that exposure to cold water before summer arrived was harmless, how could they have known that it would not give them rheumatism years or decades later?

Not just grandparents but a good many parents and as many Americans as you like think that "exposure" to cold or damp will bring on rheumatism "sooner or later." Nothing could be further from the truth. Rheumatism comes from other causes, not from exposure to cold or damp. Nor will it bring on rheumatism "sooner or later" or ever. Nothing to worry about, it is not contagious, and it won't get you.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When the great fruit orchards, of Canada are in bloom shortly, an odd thing will happen. Millions of honey bees will be brought by the professional beekeepers and packed in a short visit to attend the honeymoon of apple, peach, plum and pear.

A good healthy colony of bees consists of about 75,000 insects. In the instance, the Niagara Peninsula's famed orchards will be covered several thousand colonies of bees from all over the country many miles' distance from Niagara.

One colony is said to be about the right number to pollenize each acre of orchard in bloom. The orchard owners rent the bees from the beekeepers. A regular part of the fruit industry consists of signing up honey producers to move their hives into the orchards at exactly the right time, just after the blossoms have started. Part of the beekeeping industry now consists of transporting the bees by truck and setting them up in the right locations in the orchards. It is likely to become more important part of the income from bees, in addition to the honey.

The bees can only stay in the orchards during the brief blooming season. This means that the pests start to fall, the bees are taken back home to their native fields.

No other insect does as good a job of cross-fertilizing as the bee. But apart from that, modern agriculture with its insecticides has greatly reduced the number of other pollinaters. The orchard insecticides have been the best controls that would be fatal to bees. Now the bees are taken to visiting bees have to be taken to safety before the spraying begins, which is usually in the middle fall.

It is not only fruit orchards that now rent bees for pollination. Large growers of alfalfa, red clover and other legumes have the bees brought on just as the plants flower. And even greenhouse men rent bees for brief seasons in the spring, and the hives are set up right in the greenhouses.

When we bulldoze nature in one direction, with scientific sprays, we have to bow to her in another, such as in hiring bees.

PICTURE YOUR TRIP

I am amazed at the strides made in the manufacture of cameras, and the many accessories that go with them. Now we can take flashlights and colored pictures that are a joy, and at the same time a hobby that grows and grows.

Now that the vacation days are nearly at hand, to possess a camera is to invest in personal pleasure and a lasting joy. Not only can be made a permanent record of that trip, no matter where that may be.

It is fun to study the best way to focus and "shoot" a picture. Too many just take a picture without any knowledge as to how it may come out. Care should be taken to get a picture that will be good in composition as well as perspective. An inexpensive camera often gives a better picture than a more expensive on. Try to get the best out of the camera you own.

All of my trips are made with a camera. They become a record that tells an interesting story, from the time I leave until I return. If you use colored films, learn all you can about this art, for it is an art, one that can give you great pleasure.

Learn to see a picture before you focus it. Study every successful picture you take, and that you admire. Then duplicate your pictures. Read all you can about taking pictures with your special camera. You have begun a hobby by little, you will grow more expert and your pleasure will mount.

Keep you camera clean and give it the care it will repay you beyond your dreams. Lenses are little miracles and demand our respect and understanding. Picture all your trips. Years from now you can enjoy the results of your hobby. So, happy picturing!

Students Given Information on Hospital Career

Miss Margaret Peart, Reg. N., director of nursing, Dr. A. N. Rota, pathologist of Belleville General Hospital represented this city at the Hospital Career Program recently held at Queen's University.

High school students from this district obtaining information about future hospital careers were Kate Mundy, Bryan Jay, Evangeline Reilly, Albert Jay, of Belleville; Connie Brown, Lynn Barr, Gail Scriven and Marilyn St. Hillaire, of Trenton; and Carole McMullen, Elizabeth Kaiser, Ethel Murray and Faye Baker of Picton.

This hospital careers program for high school students in grades 11 and 12 was held by the Ontario Hospital Association Regional Council No. 9 which embodies hospitals in Brockville, Kingston, Picton, Trenton, Belleville and Campbellford.

The objective of this program was to outline various hospital careers to the students making them aware of the opportunities that are available.

A number of hospital personnel gave outlines of the work, responsibilities, opportunities and why they chose the career that they did.

The careers covered were aspects of nursing such as registered nurse, preliminary student, senior student and certified nurse assistant, laboratory technician, dietitian, medical records librarian, radiological technician, pharmacist, physio and occupational therapists.

After the talks by each person there was a question and answer period. The students were served dinner and then taken on a tour of the hospitals in Kingston. The program was under the direction of Werner Dachsel of Kingston General Hospital.

16-Piece Silver Band Presents Musical Program

TWEED — A musical program was presented at the citadel of The Salvation Army on Tuesday evening with a good attendance present.

The 16 piece silver band, under the leadership of Archie Sinclair (Gr.), gave a number of selections before the meeting was called to order by Captain Ethel Moore, who extended a welcome to all and called on the Rev. W. K. Pace, of St. John's United Church to act as chairman.

In his opening remarks, he said how pleased he was to act as chairman on this occasion, and to have the pleasure once again of meeting Captain William Brown of Bowmanville, a former officer in charge of Tweed corps.

A prayer was offered by Mrs. Archie Sinclair, Sr., and scripture was read by Lieut. Joan Vaughan.

A march selection by the band was much enjoyed, and Mr. Pace paid a tribute to Conductor Archie Sinclair, Jr. He said, "It would be hard to find a better band in any town the size of Tweed".

During the program, Captain Brown contributed two vocal solos, "From His Glory" and "The Holy City", request, accompanied by Mrs. Pace at the piano. He also contributed two delightful euphonium solos, "What a Saviour", and "Glory Throned Among The Gold".

An instrument quartet by Joyce Sinclair, Margaret Price, Captain Brown and Cecil Fox was much enjoyed.

Envoy Archie Sinclair thanked all those who took part in the program.

The meeting closed with a march selection by the band "Hoist the Flag".

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS F. LIGGAT

The ladies of St. Thomas' deserve the credit for the outstanding father-son banquet held by the Boy Scout banquet. Over 100 people enjoyed a piping hot meal served at tables gay with flowers and decorations.

"Spring Break" was performed by Scouts Jack McMahon and Jim Morton, followed by the toast to the Queen and grace by Cannon McConnell.

Chairman A. Athey in his welcome speech said it was gratifying to see so many fathers present. He expressed the appreciation of the group committee to Akela Betty Smith and Scoutmaster Austin Gonin and their assistants for their good work with the Pack and Troop, the sponsors, the Brotherhood of Anglican Church men, for their faithfulness to the Boy Scout Movement and their willingness to help when called on. Thomas are proud of the members they are sending to the Jamboree, Scouts Dick Fake, D.S.M., Harry Smith, and Cubmaster Betty Smith. The chairman then introduced the guests, H. Murray, T. Smith, Rev. W. Robinson, Cub T. Robinson, Akela Betty Outingykee, Assistant A. D. C. Les Boyle, Canon A. S. McConnell, Cub Barry Athey, D.C. O.C. Owen, C. F. Leggat, F. Lancaster, D.S.M., Harry Smith, R. Ward, S.M., Austin Gonin, S. Longus and B. Punchard.

PLEASURE TO ATTEND

D.C., Oliver Owen in his remarks said that it was a real pleasure to attend Boy Scout banquets. In the pattern is the same, the individual differences made them all the more enjoyable. He said, scouting is like cards, perfect replicas of Boy Scout hats, Fathers should identify themselves with Scouts and get to know the fuller meaning of scouting. Leaders and boys always welcome visits from dads. Scouting is one of the greatest Christian movements in Canada. The Commissioner concluded that he, with all other Scouts and Scouters, was proud to wear the uniform that commands world wide respect.

Padre McConnell welcomed Rev. W. Robinson and his son who is a Cub Scout. Mr. Robinson is now Rector of St. John's, Ottawa. He expressed regret at the absence of Mr. A. S. Lewis and Mr. N. E. Edwards, who are on the sick list. He welcomed the Scouts that they could depend upon him and Doris Parish when required. Canon McConnell is a keen supporter of the Scout Movement and gives freely of his time and talents. He is well known to Scouts throughout the Kingston Region. We are grateful to him for services beyond the call of duty.

Mr. Robinson, who is also very active in Scouting, thanked Canon McConnell as chairman for the invitation. He said he was always glad of the opportunity to visit Belleville.

Scout David Smith giving the toast to the fathers thanked Scouts for attending the banquet and for the interest they take in Scouting. Mr. Robert Tanner replying remarked that when he looked around at all the healthy happy boys he felt sorry for those who only had daughters. The toast to the boys was given by Mr. Gordon Chalmers who has two sons in Scouting. Cub Stephen Forrester responded very nicely. Mr. R. Ward thanked the ladies for providing and serving a dinner that was enjoyed and appreciated by everybody present, particularly Cubs Barry and know something of the work and effort involved. Inventor of the Cotton Gin

By Nicholas Mika

Did you know that cotton grows on nearly one fourth of American soil and that it produces the most important crop of the country? It is not only the king of textile fibres and gives up the cheapest material for clothing, but its story is one of the most breathtaking in the development of a colossal economy.

The boom of cotton, one hundred and sixty years ago, began with the invention of a simply mechanical device that combed the cotton fibres fifty times as fast as a slave had been able to do it. Within a few years America's cotton production increased two hundred times and rose to over sixty million pounds a year.

The man who invented this marvellous machine had never seen cotton grow on the fields before. Neither did he make any money out of his invention that brought untold wealth and prosperity to the planters of the South and to the whole world. After years of lawsuits, he ended up in such debts that he decided to forget all about his invention and try his luck on something new.

Born in Massachusetts, he came to the South to take a job as a teacher. One evening he heard some planters discuss the difficulties of cleaning cotton from its seeds. If there only was a faster way of doing it, they said, there was a fortune to be made with cotton. Someone ought to invent a machine.

SUDDEN INTEREST

Well, the young stranger was all ears. Suddenly cotton seemed to fascinate him tremendously. Besides he liked these planters. They were interesting people and he felt school he had a reputation for being able to fix anything in the village from furniture and fiddles to plows and clocks.

That night, sitting among the planters, an idea struck him. Supposing he could invent such a cotton cleaning machine, what a revolutionizing thing that would be! The next day he went out on the fields and watched the negroes at their endless job of picking the seeds from the cotton. The more he thought about his idea, the more enthusiastic he became. Before the end of the week, he had finished the first model of a cotton gin. And what was even more astonishing, it worked perfectly and was so simple that a child could understand its principle.

PLANTERS HAPPY

It "Marvellous!" the planters said. With the cotton gin a man was able to turn out fifty pounds of cotton a day compared to barely one single pound before. The invention with the invention of the cotton gin cotton began to boon and filled the pockets of planters and manufacturers.

But to the inventor himself his "marvellous" cotton gin brought nothing but bitter disappointment. Before he thought of taking out a patent on his machine, his model was stolen. While he fought for his right, he could not even afford to buy a suit that was combed out of one of his cotton gins, hundreds of which were now in useven the fields. When he finally won, the sum he was awarded was not even enough to pay his debts.

Disappointed, he might have been, but discouraged he was not. He turned to another project and made a fortune out of it. His plan was to produce machine made nails instead of hand-made ones and he invented a metal-milling machine. Manufacturing arms, he established mass production for the first time and once again made a great and ever-lasting contribution to America's gigantic industry.

But he was old and tired before his years. Success and fame came to late for him to enjoy it very long. At the age of sixty he died.

His name is written in the annals of American industrial development. He is called the father of mass production, but most of all, the world remembers him as the inventor of the cotton gin.

Driver Can Save Wear and Tear On Transmission

By EUGENE MILMOE

On standard transmissions (which still outnumber automatics here in this neck of the woods) first and second gears shoulder most of the hard usage. Drivers can minimize wear and tear on them by completing the shifts to high without racing in the lower gears.

You can also stretch gear life by shifting directly from low to high (e.g., bypassing second) when the car is on smooth level ground and not pulling much weight.

Transmission troubles are often announced by noise. That's why your mechanic listens carefully when he road-tests. A growling or humming sound indicates gear trouble, while a thumping noise from the transmission generally means worn bearings.

Clattering can be caused by vibration at the shifter ball and socket joint. If transmission oil is too thin, he may hear a rattling noise at some speeds because gears are not being cushioned as they move in their clearances.

M.A. writes: "At the service station I patronize, the owner recommends that too many cars today are heavily penalized by bad exhausts. Is it true that when an exhaust system is clogged, engine performance can actually be affected to a noticeable degree?"

(A) It is. An obstructed exhaust system can cause missing and lack of pep. As a matter of fact, it can prevent the engine from developing enough power to pull the car.

K.N. asks: "Whenever my car is moving, particularly if the road is second grade, I can hear a rattle coming from the rear. It will occur whether the engine is running or not. The rear wheels, axle, shock absorbers and springs were examined twice, but the noiseamaker can't be found."

(A) Check again for slight looseness at such spots as the muffler and tail pipe brackets, trunk hinges and latch, license plateholder, rear bumper and bumper guard bolts.

From Mrs. T.N.: "We own a 1955 model which gave us a good 18½ miles per gallon of gas until just two weeks ago. Now, we are lucky to average 12 or 13 miles to the gallon. We use the same brand of gas and we have not had any work done on the car recently. Why this sudden change?"

(A) A fuel leak must have developed. Ask your mechanic to check for signs of seepage, particularly at the carburetor, fuel pump, sediment bowl and flexible fuel hose.

Mrs. B.B. writes: "I'm a fairly new driver. Very often I accidentally flood the engine of our 1953 car when trying to start up in the morning. What is the right thing to do when this happens?"

(A) The same treatment doesn't bold true or all cars. On yours, however, holding the gas pedal all the way to the floor will open the choke valve. Y ou crank the engine at the same time, the extra gas will be worked out and the engine soon starts.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Should Face Fact We All Must Die And Here's Way to Do It Sensibly

By THOMAS COLLINS

This is about a subject that may be a little heavy for you to read right now. If it is, turn the page—there are other things more entertaining.

But you might tear this out and save it. Eventually you should read it.

It's an effort to tell you how to die sensibly. I write it because many of you have asked me to.

There are five steps that would take care of most of it:

1. Accept the fact that you will die. This is a big order, because few people except 19-year-old poetry writers and suicides believe they will die. You may be in the last stages of cancer, you may be 98 years old, and five people on your street may have been killed this year in auto accidents. But you don't believe you will die. You know you must. You never get around to believing you will.

Accept-the fact that you will, and that to you—no matter when it is — it will be unexpected.

MECHANICS OF DYING

2. Make arrangements, after you pass 50, to provide for the mechanics of dying. These mechanics are complex, can be horrible—some gravediggers won't dig your grave unless paid in advance—and they are expensive.

You can badly dim whatever glory your life has been if you allow an ugly exit.

Write down, and leave where they can be found, instructions on the type of funeral you want. Specify the expense you think appropriate, whether you want a vault or not, what type of service, what pastor, what music, and what cemetery. Either you decide these things sensibly now, or your survivors will decide them emotionally in their grief.

Go on and buy a cemetery lot, and set aside in a bank vault or a savings account—in somebody else's name—the money the funeral will cost.

3. Make provisions now for those you are leaving behind. Recheck your insurance, if they depend on your income, and arrange it so that it will give them the greatest possible security for the longest possible time.

Go to your nearest Social Security office in the United States and find out what death benefits your survivors will get, and what $90 out of what they own to pay the gravediggers. Public officials and tax men will move in, and after due process of law—which may be overdue—the estate will be settled.

Along with these financial considerations, give some attention to the welfare and happiness of those you leave behind. Quietly, gradually, without making a scene, start indoctrinating them into the life they must live without you.

Sell the house? Invest the insurance in a farm? Move to a different state? Move..in with the children? Go to work? Discuss these things now. Be open-minded to anybody, you must have some wisdom. Pass it along, a little at a time.

4. Make a will. Most people in the United States die in 1957 don't have much formal education. Maybe they got through high school, or the sixth grade. Few of them went to college. So many of them don't like lawyers. I don't know why, and I think the legal profession, which is a fine one, has done little to change your attitude along the line or they would.

Anyway you should have a lawyer to help you make a will. Your County Bar Association can recommend one to you. And the one it recommends won't cheat you, no matter what you think.

A will can guarantee that whatever you own will go where you want it to go. It can guarantee, if you are wise, that what you own won't throw your survivors at each other's throats and wreck your family with bitter law suits.

5. Make the acquaintance of God. I would not suggest how. But I would suggest that He who dominated the thoughts of man since history was written must have something. And if not God, what?

Weddings

VESTERFELT—CARLETON

Christ Church, Thomasburg, was the scene of a recent pretty, double-ring wedding when the Reverend Dalton Woodward, of Bonita, united in marriage Miss Irene Carleton, of Thomasburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Carleton, to William Henry Vesterfelt, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vesterfelt. White and pink tulips adorned the sanctuary, and white satin bows designated the pews.

Mrs. Annie Bates of Roslin presided at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Boyd Moorcroft, of Belleville, who sang "Because" and "Wedding Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Percy Carleton, the bride was lovely in her waist-length bridal gown of white, slipper satin, Chantilly lace and ruffles, featuring matching jacket of having a Peter Pan collar, trimmed with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil of Chantilly lace and tulle was held by a Juliet cap studded with pearls and sequins, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses mingled with white, hyacinth bells.

Miss Joan Martin, of Belleville, as maid of honor, was attired in yellow net over taffeta with matching jacket; while Miss Marilyn Carleton, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore turquoise blue net over taffeta with matching jacket. Both were attired in tiered headdresses, and carried nosegays of 'mums, the former's white, and the latter's yellow.

Mr. Gary Purdy, of Belleville, was groomsman, while the bride's brother of the bride, was usher.

The reception was held at the home of the bride, which was adorned with potted ferns and tulips for the occasion. The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake decorated with pink and white roses and topped by a spray of pink Sweetheart roses, and lily-of-the-valley, and misted about the base with pastel pink tulle. White candles in silver holders added a pretty accent.

A buffet luncheon was served the guests, while the two grandmothers presided at the silver service.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Percy Carleton, chose for the mother of the's wedding, a turquoise blue gown with white accessories and corsage of red roses, while Mrs. Henry Vesterfelt, the bridegroom's mother, wore a gown of navy blue crepe with white accessories, and corsage of red roses.

Guests attended from Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, Roslin and Ottawa.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was the honored guest at two miscellaneous showers, one held at the home of Mrs. Frank Brough, of Thomasburg, and the other at the home of Miss Joan Martin, of Belleville.

SEEMUNGAL—McCABE

An attractive spring wedding was solemnized on Monday, April 22nd., at 9 a.m., in St. Joseph's Church, Belleville, when Mary Margaret Beverley McCabe, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Stanley Marsh Scott, and the late Mr. John Philip McCabe, became the bride of Frank Seemungal, son of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seemungal, Trinidad, British West Indies. The Reverend J. J. Buckley, assisted by Rev. Father Martin, officiated before a setting of mixed spring flowers.

The soloist, Miss Shirley McCabe, of Toronto, sister of the bride, sang "Ave Maria," "O Lord I am Not Worthy," and, during the signing of the register, "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother." She was accompanied by the Reverend Sister Mary Wilhelmina.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John McCabe, the bride was radiant in a floor-length strapless gown of tulle with an embroidered front panel, over which was worn a redingote made of imported Swiss embroidered

Going Places

Here Is How Some Americans See Western Canada's Cities

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

This isn't very far north, they'll tell you when you run out a map showing good-sized towns edging up close to the Arctic Circle. And the temperature gets up into the 90's during the summer. Great farming country, too, what with the sun shining most of the 16 hours in some parts during the summer.

But we once got caught in a blizzard in Edmonton in the middle of September.

Yes, well, of course we can get snow any month of the year, but it melts as it does any place else. Now down here at Whiskey Gap, on the border, is where the American rumrunners started all the trouble that first brought the Northwest Mounted Police out here. Then there was Astor and Gould and Vanderbilt—fur traders and trouble with the Indians.

So much for the weather in the only region we've ever been where it's taken completely for granted no matter how bad it gets.

BEAUTIFUL CITIES

These cities have a long way from Lower Slobovia. Edmonton boasts one of the largest and certainly the most modern hotel in Canada, Calgary is the home of a roaring rodeo and the jumping-off place to Banff and Lake Louise, the showplaces of the Rockies and probably North America's most majestic scenic wonders. Winnipeg is graced by broad tree-lined boulevards and has more than its share of stately public buildings, museums and libraries.

Two hours flying time across the Rockies are anachronisms—Victoria and modern Vancouver, the San Francisco of Canada, with its hill-climbing streets, bays and inlets framed by the towering Rockies.

The trip across is an adventure in itself, the greatest mountain panorama on the continent. The view of the snow-covered Rockies can only be compared, inside, with looking down on an ocean of giant white waves, stretching as far as you can see.

The scene bears out the claims of those who maintain you haven't seen the Rockies until you've seen the Canadian Rockies.

It must surely be cold down there in the winter, but let's not get started on that kick again.

Golf Club Ladies' Section Holds Pot-Luck Supper

The Ladies section of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club opened in the 1957 season with an enjoyable pot-luck supper Thursday evening. Over 50 members turned out for this event, which was held in the new dining room, which was most attractive with the lovely spring bouquet and flickering yellow candles at the tables, and the cheery fire in the fireplace.

Miss Helen Lee, president for the 1957 season, chaired the business meeting after the supper and called on the various conveners to outline their plans for the season. Many members remained for an enjoyable bridge game, with the first prize being won by Mrs. Lucieta Sitzland.

Contact Club Plans Future Activities

Christ Church Contact Club's regular Monday meeting was held recently with the president, Alice Wesnousky, presiding.

Correspondence, was read by secretary Doris Stewart and an interesting letter were also brought to the girls attention by President Alice: One from the Rt. Rev. C. R. Wilkinson, Bishop of Amritsar, India, and another from Parkash Samuels, principal of the St. Paul's high school, Punjab, India.

These worthy gentlemen gave clear descriptions of the daily life led by the people connected with their respective work in these far away places.

They were both appreciative of the great interest and help from the people of Canada.

NOVELTIES DISPLAYED

A nice display of novelties made by various club members was on view for all to view. These will be put on sale at the "Coffe Delight Night and Bazaar."

This booth promises to be a point of interest on the big evening. It was announced that Trudy Sands would like all articles being made for the event turned in to her not later than the club meeting of May 13.

An effort to finalize all the merchandise to be shown will occupy the next regular meeting after this date.

An appeal for bags and boxes to be used for the bazaar goods was made by Helen McCormick. "It would be appreciated," Helen said, "if the girls would save them for this use."

Parcel post letter were distributed by Doris Stewart. These will be mailed to various friends of the club, and help to add to the fun of the bazaar.

Joan Taylor, on behalf of her group, extended a welcome to all the girls and the husbands to come to the Bowl-O-Drome for the next club meeting, where the Contact bowling party will take place. This will be followed by refreshments at the parish hall.

The meeting promises to be a non-bowlers delight and fun for all to enjoy.

The meeting closed with a social half hour enjoyed with refreshments served by the hostesses, Rosemary Selkirk, Doris Stewart, and Greta Mouit.

LIKES FIRE ENGINES

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP)—Police said a 10-year-old boy Wednesday confessed to setting a fire that caused an estimated $30,000 damages here and resulted in injuries to three firemen. They said the boy told them he ran out of the house after setting the blaze and watched the fire engines arrive at the scene because he liked the sound of fire engines.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

More than one new soul is gained with every tick of the clock; every day another is born and week out, month in and month out, 100,000 more people are born into the world than die. This staggering fact is seldom given sufficient consideration, as we struggle for peace, human dignity, and basic standards of decent living throughout the world, yet it has immense impact on everything we do.

During the single year of 1955, more than 40,000,000 people were added to the world's population. If such growth continues, the world must find food, clothing and shelter during the next ten years for at least 450,000,000 people, which is to say more than the number of people now living in all North, South, and Central America combined.

But already, even before this incredible increase, two out of every three people in the world are living at little above mere subsistence level, with inadequate food, housing, and, of course, no say nothing of education.

A weekend thought:

T.H. Huxley wrote "Becky Sharp's acute remark that it is not difficult to be very virtuous on ten thousand a year has its application to nations as well as to men. A nation hungry and squalid population to be anything but violent and disorderly. Mary Sharp was one of Thackeray's characters who thought could be a fine woman" if only she had five thousand a year.

Recently Belleville was privileged to have the chief of the Canadian Colombo Plan speak to the Women's Canadian Club and Rotary C.I.B.G. Hunter Tweed T and T has received from the Ceylon Embassy in Washington an article describing Colombo work by Canada at the source. It is titled "The Canada Colombo program, a Canadian firm is conducting a survey and study of the island based on aerial photography. Also Canadian foresters are busy working on an air-photo classification of the tropical forest in the Kandyan area in the Wet Zone. While tension and strife pile up about us, the Colombo plan carries on unostentatiously and unheralded the basic task of peace by helping to meet the challenge referred to at the beginning of today's column.

When school opens in September, the women of Belleville and district find themselves in a whirl of activity organizing and operating a new season's program offering high gear. We have mentioned before that it is a fact that our community is one of the busiest in all Canada as far as women are concerned. Now we find ourselves in the midst of the whirl to wind up a full autumn, winter and spring preparatory to summer recess. Belleville's calendar is always full these days and it is little wonder that we are amazed at the amount of work accomplished in every direction by local women.

A few weeks ago, the local S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. members gave a delightful display of their talents at a Quinte Secondary School at a meeting. At that time, T and T wished for more information about the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. There was a social hour after the concert mentioned. We were all invited and always enjoy fellowship in the school cafeteria when the Belleville group broke out in quiet harmony. It was a pleasant surprise making everybody feel better. It was as spontaneous as it was pleasing.

There are more than 650 chapters of the society in North America and over 30,000 members. The first requirement for membership is to love singing for the fun of it. They have fun just singing. You do not need musical training, although musical training does help. You need a voice and the gift of carrying a tune. The Society has "standards", "harmonies", and "technical knowledge of music" references, but the interested are told not to let this scare them because a "good ear" is the thing. You are asked to look at such a group of men such as our local S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., and then to ask yourself if you ever saw such a group of happy faces. Also "did you ever sit with a finer looking aggregation of men? Not a sour look amongst them, and why?—because they are your friends, your neighbors, and — they sing. One cannot have both a mean spirit, and a heart that sings — that's why our kind of music and the kind of men who sing it, will appeal to you, and always live in affectionate memory.

You are advised not to attempt to make a word out of the long list of initials. They were not intended to make a word. After seeing the Belleville Belleville group, whose members sing because they love to sing and for fun, we are beginning to how well they live up to the happy motto of the International organization. Good luck to the Belleville S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.

'Stress of Life' Discussed at Study Guild

The Women's Study Guild April meeting took place with Mrs. Beresford, Bridge St. E., as hostess.

A short business session was held, with Mrs. Buchanan in the worship service reading from Philippians 4 urging all to the lovely things of Christian life. Good habits of thought which should be exercised by sincerely open-mindedness to others, and the power of love to enable us to cultivate these good things.

The service closed with a prayer for an open mind on the way of Christian life.

This set the proper feeling to a study of the recent book, "The Stress of Life," by Dr. Hans Selye.

Miss Elson and Mrs. Tooth presented the study and Mrs. Sine operated a projector to show a National Film Board picture which is illustrating this theory of stress to students of medicine.

Dr. Selye's guest for the reasons for non-specific diseases led to the technique of finding him, through chemical and structural changes, to measure the amount of stress.

In his book, he shows the many injurious steps that precede a new discovery in the field of medicine.

He explains his modern stress concept and shows how a known edge of what is taking place during mental or physical stress helps you adapt to the challenge. His final chapters deal 'with the philosophic implications of stress in every day way of life to lessen the damage of too much stress, a life that favors short-range, long-range, and ultimate aims.

The presentation of so much material for thought provoked discussion among the members.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Stanton.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Captain of the Heavenly Host

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

THE BIRTH OF A NATION

Monday, May 6 — In the Jewish calendar today is the fifth of Iyyar. In 1948 it was the 14th of May: That was the day on which the new nation of Israel was established. Israel Independence Day has since then been observed according to the Jewish rather than the more familiar Gregorian calendar.

Not all Jews celebrate the day; indeed many have little or no interest in it. But for those who are identified with or concerned about the Zionist movement (the re-establishment of the Jews in their homeland of Palestine), it commemorates the greatest event in the last 19 centuries of Jewish history.

On that day in 1948, at 4 P.M. in the city of Tel Aviv, David Ben-Gurion read the Declaration of Israel's Independence and then stated: "We hereby proclaim the establishment of the Jewish state in Palestine, to be called Israel." After only a few little years, this vigorous, dedicated population of 700,000 souls, was born.

Wednesday, May 8 — St. Michael

The Archangel is known through the references to him in Daniel, chapters 10 and 12, and Revelation, chapter 12) as the captain of the heavenly host. He led his armies to victory over the rebellious archangel Satan (Satan) which of course established him as champion and protector of Heaven and, by extension, of the Church.

From there it was only a short step to the tradition that says he has power to rescue the souls of men from the devil, especially at the hour of death. Michael thus came to be associated with the Judgment. In art he is shown holding a pair of scales, on which presumably the merits and shortcomings of each man are weighed.

As this idea of his importance to the human race developed, it was only natural a cult of St. Michael should grow up and men should begin to find him more closely associated with the earth than had been supposed. Many appearances of this archangel have been recorded, the most famous of which took place near Naples on May 8, in a year late in the fifth century. A church in his honor was built there at once, as has been done in the case of every one of his subsequent appearances.

Mostly St. Michael has been seen on or near the tops of mountains. This is why he is the patron of mountains and why so many St. Michael's churches are on mountains or hilltops.

CAR CRASHES FENCE

Last week Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Frink completed the erection of a new picket fence in front of their home on Centre street, and while they were having it painted. However, about 6.45 Saturday night an Austin car owned by Mr. McNish, crashed into it, wrecking part of it.

It seems Mr. McNish car was parked on the hill in front of their home on Friday night. For no apparent reason it took off, crossed the highway, smashed into the steps in front of Sid Brown's home, and then swerved across the road into the fence.

Some damage was done to the car as well as to the fence. Police investigated.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Reflection of the Jubilation of the Whitby Dunlops in their rags-to-riches spectacular in winning the Allan Cup was noted in statements emanating from the managements of Belleville, Cornwall and Kingston clubs — but each and all sounded a warning note to the new champions, that, so to speak "next year is another year."

Drury Denyes, Belleville; Ray Miron, Cornwall, and Reg. Walton, Kingston, all expressed their pleasure at the Dunlops success. While the management of the Belleville Lumber Kings did not come out with any congratulatory statement, Al Sheehan, local sports editor, who picked the Northern champions to "chase the Dunlops out of the arena" solemnizes the large chunks of crow he had admitted he had been all wrong in his pre-championship predictions.

Said Denyes: "It goes without saying, we are happy to see a team from our league win the Allan Cup. But we are out to beat Whitby next year and have started making plans now.

"We are looking for five forwards and two defencemen. With what we have this should be enough to give Whitby a battle next season.

"Last year, if we had had one more good line and hadn't suffered a run of injuries in the playoffs we would have pushed Whitby to the limit.

"Coach Bep Guidolin will be back and so will Floyd Crawford, Lionel Botley and Moe Benoit. Up front we have Minnie Menard, Keith MacDonald, Paul Payette, Ike Hildebrand and John Muretich.

"We had a great year in Belleville last season—but are looking for on even better one coming up."

"Whitby's win is the best thing in the world that could have happened for Eastern Ontario," commented Reg Walton, president of the Kingston club, "for now it should be easier to get players of senior A calibre.

"Last year players were reticent to come to Eastern Ontario, feeling the calibre wasn't true senior A.

"Whitby's win will certainly make Kingston strengthen for if Whitby can do it so can we. We know what we need and have already started dickering with a few players.

"For next year we require a goaltender, three defencemen and four forwards. Netminder Bert Brooks has taken a job in Fort William and won't be back.

"If we are going to stay in senior A hockey we must improve. That's what we intend to do. We are planning a meeting next week and might even have some news then."

"Easter Ontario hockey fans owe a vote of thanks to Wren Blair, Bus Gagnon and the rest of the Whitby crew," Cornwall Manager Ray Miron shouted — by telephone —

"Blair helped move the circuit into senior A and now Whitby's win should do a lot more to improve the calibre of play in our league. The team will have new and better players next season and the fans should reap the benefit.

"Whitby will be making some changes too — they may lose Ted O'Connor to Cleveland — so we will have to be on our toes to match Blair.

"Here in Cornwall, we had the best season, financially, that we have had in the past five years. We made money for the first time and I think it supports the argument proposed by Blair and myself that senior A hockey is what the fans want.

"It's too early yet to outline our plans, but I can say we are attempting to complete a working agreement with a professional club."

Commenting on Wren Blair's suggestion that Whitby should represent Canada at the next world tournament, Miron stated "Whitby has the type of team that could win and I think their chances of going are good.

"Participation wouldn't hurt our league, for Whitby would play a full schedule of games but not take part in the playoffs."

Due to Whitby's busy schedule over the past month the regular post-season meeting of the Eastern loop has been held up. It is expected that the meeting will be scheduling for next week.

Do 11-6 Chore on Washington As Bombers Down Kansas 8-5; Hammerin' Hank Plate Potent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hank Aaron, Milwaukee's gifted outfielder, is off to a flying start in his bid to become the first player since Stan Musial and the fifth in modern National League history to capture the batting championship two consecutive seasons.

Hammering Henry — probably doesn't know and cares less that Honus Wagner, Rogers Hornsby and Jake Daubert, besides Musial, are the only senior circuit batsmen to win the batting crown two or more years in succession. All he cares about is who is pitching and whether the ball is over the plate or not.

The Braves' 23-year-old slugger, who rapped five hits in six tries Thursday night, followed it up with a home run, triple and double Friday night to drive in four runs in Milwaukee's 6-3 decision over Philadelphia and raised his batting average to a gaudy .391. Only Cincinnati's Don Hoak (.396) and St. Louis Musial (.392) are higher. Aaron paced the league last year with .328.

WIN HALF BY ONE RUN

It was Aaron's triple followed by Bobby Thomson's single in the 11th inning that gave the Braves their third straight overtime victory and their sixth triumph in seven — one on decisions. The league leading Braves, who have lost only two games, have taken half their 12 victories by one run.

Brooklyn's second-place Dodgers remained four games behind the Braves as Don Newcombe shut out St. Louis 6-0 for his ninth straight over the Cardinals. They haven't beaten the big righthander since August 25, 1955. Cincinnati defeated the New York Giants in an 11-10 slugfest with pinch hitter Pete Whisenant drilling a three-run homer to win it in the ninth. Philadelphia won a 9-6 three-for-all from Chicago, picking up three unearned runs on five Cub errors, four by rookie second baseman Casey Wyse. That tied a league record held by three other second basemen. The major league record is five.

Fifty the poor Pirates. Three times in one week they rallied in the ninth to overcome huge deficits but each time they lost in overtime. Friday night they scored three in the ninth, but lost in the 11th. Red Murf, Milwaukee's third pitcher, was credited with the victory although Warren Spahn had to dispose of the last batter—Pittsburgh's 23rd player—with two runners on base.

10TH COMPLETE GAME

The Dodgers got Newcombe started on his 10th complete game with three first inning runs, two scoring in Carl Furillo's triple off loser Tom Cheney. Newcombe allowed only five hits for his second victory, holding Musial hitless for the second consecutive night.

The Giants and Redlegs, who have scored a total of 37 runs in two games, swapped five-run outbursts in the sixth. Trailing 10-8, Cincinnati scored three in the ninth on a single by George Crowe, a hit batter and Whisenant's pinch homer off loser Pete Burnside. Hank Sauer and Red Schoendienst of the Giants and Gus Bell of the Reds also hit homers.

A pair of rookies—Harry Anderson and Ed Bouchee — produced the power for Philadelphia. Anderson slammed a two-run inside-the-park homer and Bouchee had four hits including a home run to lead up a 9-6 Philly lead. Ten pitchers were used by both clubs with Dick Farrell the winner and Jackie Collum, the third of six Cub pitchers, the loser.

Leafs Edge Marlins 5-4 In Cold Air

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only 5,265 shivering rooters turned out for three International League contests Friday night as temperatures dipped near freezing.

At Rochester, the Red Wings and Richmond Virginians stumbled through a three-hour, 32-minute contest before the largest crowd of the evening, 2,131. The Virginians got three runs in the 10th and defeated the Red Wings 8-5.

Gail Henley's two home runs provided the excitement for 1,573 bundled customers at Buffalo, where Columbus Jets downed the Bisons 5-3, and a crowd of 1,581 fans watched Toronto Maple Leafs edge Miami Marlins 5-4.

At Montreal they just figured it was one cold day and postponed the game between the Havana Sugar Kings and Royals.

Richmond, held hitless for three innings by Rochester reliefer Billy Harrell, lowered the boom in the 10th. Johnny Jadlak opened the inning with a single and scored on Jerry Thomas' second double of the game. Ed Bouchee got a free walk, a fielder's choice and Sonny Dixon's single off reliever Jim Pearce accounted for the insurance runs. Dixon, Richmond's fourth pitcher, was the winner.

Columbus' Cholly Naranjo limited to a two hit performance for the season, striking out seven Bisons and scattering 10 hits. Henley's 9th inning perfect night at bat, adding a single to the homers.

Toronto's second-run homer in the third inning and Sam Jethroe's solo smash in the fifth provided most of the hitting punch for Toronto. Bob Tiefenauer, making his first relief appearance in 14 games, came on in the sixth and was credited with the loss. Francisco Herrera, Miami's first baseman, hurt the Marlins most with his hitting. He collected two hits and batted in two runs.

Flin Flon Needs Win for Cup Nip Habs 3-2 for 3rd Victory

REGINA (CP) — Flin Flon Bombers edged Ottawa Canadiens 3-2 Friday night in the fifth game of the Memorial Cup series. The victory, Bombers' second straight, gives the western champions a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Thus Flin Flon became the first western team since 1948 to take three decisions. They need only one more victory to become the first western team to win the Memorial Cup in 10 years.

As in the three previous contests the game was decided in the third period. With the score tied 1-1 Flin Flon scored twice early in the final frame and held Ottawa for the win.

Bombers will have a chance to write a finish to the series with a win over the eastern champion Canadiens in the sixth game here Monday. The seventh game, if necessary, will be played in Regina Wednesday.

If overtime is needed in a seventh game, it will be the regulation 20 minutes only. If an eighth game is needed, it will be played Thursday to a finish.

WENT AHEAD IN THIRD

Flin Flon took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a goal by centre Orland Kurtenbach but Ottawa's Dick Dumouchel tied the game in the second. Two quick Bomber goals by Patty Ginnell, his fourth of the series, and Harry Beatty put them ahead 3-1 early in the third.

Bill Carter, also scoring his fourth goal of the playoff, narrowed the margin to 3-2 at 9:35 but Ottawa couldn't get the goal-tender.

The game provided the near-capacity crowd of 3913 with plenty of action. Tempers were at a high pitch in the late stages of the game and Ottawa coach Sam Pollock was ejected before the game ended for the third period for objecting too vigorously with the referees.

Assistant coach Scotty Bowman took over and he also went after the officials at the end of the game.

Referees Dutch Van Deelan and Curly Smault, both of Edmonton, handed out nine penalties. Ottawa took five, including a misconduct to John Annable for talking back to the officials.

The ice again appeared sticky, with the temperature in the arena nearly 70 above.

Goalie Claude Dufour stood out for the eastern champs. He stopped 27 shots, nine in each period, compared to only 17 saves by Bomber netminder George Wood.

Ottawa dressed centre Gerry Wilson for the game. The Winnipeg native suffered a knee injury and had not laced on a skate for seven weeks while recuperating from an operation. Although he made several nice plays it was obvious that Wilson was lacking condition.

It was a desperation move on Pollock's part as he expects to lose two players at the weekend when they return East to write university examinations. Centre Mike Lagace is due to write his at Laval while winger Gilles Tremblay must return to Hull Monday.

One of a series of Canadian Indian Legends

LEGEND OF THE MUSKRAT

Muskrat helped his Indian friend Wisagatcak prepare dinner by hardening the bear's grease. He did this by swimming through the water with it.

As a reward, his broad, fleshy tail became thinner and smaller, allowing him to swim much faster. That is how the muskrat got his tail and why he leaves a smooth, greasy wake when swimming.

Weather Clear, Track Fast

Bold Ruler Is 8-5 Favorite In Colorful Run for Roses

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Nine three-year-olds, survivors of an original field of 133, were poised today for the mile and one-quarter of the second richest Kentucky Derby before a Churchill Downs crowd of some 100,000.

But the starting status of the 10th member of the classy field remained in doubt pending a final workout this morning by Calumet Farm's injured Gen. Duke.

Trainer Jimmy Jones said he planned to send the son of Bull Lea a quarter-mile exercise this morning and then hoped to make a decision whether the colt will be in the starting lineup at 4:30 p.m. EST.

Jones can have until 45 minutes before post time to decide whether the Duke's left front foot has healed sufficiently to permit him to join stablemate Iron Liege in the post parade.

EXPECT FAST TRACK

Clear skies with a decided nip in the air and a lightning fast track were in prospect for the first clash of the greatest field ever assembled for America's No. 1 turf spectacle.

Fourteen world and track records either have been broken or equalled this year by seven of the 10 entries in races enroute to the Derby. The speed and staying power of so many horses places in jeopardy the record of 2:01 2-5 hung up by Whirlaway in 1941.

If the starting fee of $1,250 is paid on all 10, the race will have a value of $133,300. The richer Derby was last year, when it was worth $165,950 with Needles winning $125,450.

FAVOR BOLD RULER

Bold Ruler, owned by Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable, trained by 82-year-old Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and ridden by that master of Derby lockers, Eddie Arcaro, remained the firm choice at 8-5 with prospects his starting odds will be even lower with or without Gen. Duke.

Gallant Man, youngest and smallest horse in the race, is considered a serious threat on his ability to strike fast and hard in the home stretch.

All of the other outstanding candidates are either front runners or like to stay close to the early pace. They include Federal Hill, who'll likely attempt to steal a long early lead; Round Table; Bold Ruler and the Calumet pair.

A victory by any of the others could well be classed an upset.

Machen Easily Disposes of Old Joey Maxim

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Eddie Machen, a classy athletic specimen, went shopping today for a new opponent in the heavyweight class after scoring his second victory over former light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim with a unanimous 10-round decision.

"It's awfully hard to get matches," said the unbeaten 24-year-old former lumberjack whose lashing lefts and rights had Maxim in trouble during most of their 10-round bout Friday night.

Manager Ed Flaherty agreed. "We've got some plans but don't know who they'll materialize. Everybody's ducking my boy."

The aging Maxim, now 35, was most effective in the 3rd round when he shot a pair of sizzling rights to Machen's chin.

Machen concentrated his fire on the midsection in the early rounds then swivelled his attack to the head. He had Maxim's nose bleeding in the 5th and opened a cut under the former champion's eye in the eighth.

It was the 31st straight victory for Machen. His record now shows 32 decisions, 25 defeats, 4 draws with 21 knockouts.

Tony Anthony Boxer of Month

MILWAUKEE (AP)—New York City's Tony Anthony, knock out winner over Chuck Spelser, today was named the No. 1 light heavyweight challenger and selected as boxer of the month in the National Boxing Association May ratings.

Anthony now is in line for a crack at the crown worn by light heavyweight champion Archie Moore.

The new ratings found former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer listed as No. 1 contender for the title Sugar Ray Robinson won for the fourth time May 1 when he knocked out the West Jordan, Utah, battler in the fifth round of their return match at Chicago Stadium.

Regals, Aces Renew Series On Sunday

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces and Brandon Regals will take a well-earned rest here until Sunday before renewing their struggle for the Edinburgh Trophy in the fourth game of the best-of-nine series.

Quebec has a 3-1 edge. They took the opener last Sunday 5-4, dropped the second game Wednesday 5-1 and won Thursday at Montreal—the only game away from Quebec ice—5-4 in overtime.

All games have been in doubt until the final siren. The Quebec Hockey League champions were hard-pressed to keep Regals from tying the first game into extra time when the westerners launched a six-man attack with more than two minutes to play.

The second contest almost went past the 60-minute mark. It evened the count with 15 seconds remaining but the Western Hockey League champs scored five seconds before the end to post the win.

Orval Tessier, high-scorer in the QHL this season, has been Aces' big gun during the series. He got the winning goal in both Quebec victories and has a total of five tallies for the three games.

Netminder Lucien Dechene, the WHL's all-star goalie and most valuable player, has been outstanding for Regals.

Durelle May Meet Wallace On May 30

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Boxing promoter Chris Shaban said Friday night he is still negotiating with Harry Sheppard and Frank Bricker, co-managers of Gordie Wallace, to have the Brantford boxer meet Yvon Durelle, Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., for the Canadian light heavyweight title here May 30.

Shaban, who has sought to match Durelle and Wallace for some time, said he was in a telephone conversation with Sheppard this week and plans to contact Bricker, hoping to close a deal.

Shaban said that only the Canadian title, which Durelle hasn't defended in two years, will be at stake if the two meet here. He hoped to have Wallace lay his British Empire crown on the line at the same time, but he said Wallace's handlers won't agree to that.

Durelle, who mixes fighting with commercial fishing, scored his last ring victory in New York two weeks ago against highly-regarded Angelo DeFendis of Brooklyn.

Argos Quest Good Kicker

TORONTO (CP) — Managing director Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts said Friday his team intends to conduct punting classes in an attempt to find a good kicker before the Big Four football union season begins.

He said about 10 men have been found so far for the class, to be held in June.

"We don't care about past experience or what sports they've played. We just want a punter. We'll carry a Canadian if he can do nothing but punt. An import player would have to do something besides punt," Hayman said.

Short Putts

From the Country Club
By DOUG GRANT

All signs point to the biggest and best golf season ever at the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

No less an authority than club pro Gerry Balash reminds us that perfect weather and moisture conditions have brought the course along several weeks ahead of schedule.

Membership is up, particularly in the junior ranks.

George points out that new dining room facilities and improvements to the club house and course will contribute to both social activities and play on the course.

"The biggest change in playing conitons is establishment of our own grass growing nursery here which will enable us to resurface the greens with a superior type of grass called CIS. This special grass stands up well and it absorbs water better in the hot months than ordinary grass so we can't take a combination of burning heat and moisture."

Larger, alternate tees will also add to variety and placement of holes. There will be extra or alternative tees for holes 1,5,7, and 9. Two sets of markers, while for the first time around and red for the second turn, are designed to improve the variety and challenge of the course.

Golfers determined not to waste any time in getting in the groove can't do better than to visit George's driving range on Sidney St. which is operated by his wife Dorothy from noon until 10.30 p.m. during the week and from 10 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Jack Mitchell, pro at the old Pellerville Golf Club, is giving lessons at the driving range by appointment. This veteran instructor can be contacted at 8-7801.

George is also giving off-the-cuff advice to struggling newcomers. About 20 per cent of the people who pay 50c to drive a bucket of 45 to 50 balls, are members of the Quinte Club. The others are either "green fee" players at courses throughout the district or people who confine their fun and exercise to the driving range itself.

The Quinte Club pro is looking to the swelling junior ranks for coming champions. He has presented the George Balazs Junior Club Handicap Trophy with the object of stimulating competition among the youthful championchasers.

George believes that improvement of the short game is the best way for most players to reduce their scores. Some mastery of bunker shots is also a must. Unlike most pros and golf writers who advise "explosions" for getting out of the bunker under all conditions except when a high lie and a flat bunker bank call for a putter — the Quinte pro recommends a stroke in which the club head strikes just behind the ball with an open face as for a high pitch on the fairway. It works well for him and judging from the way the explosion works for most of us (it gives us rand in the eye and a pain in the neck) this one is worth a long second look.

During the coming season the green of the 300 yard first hole will probably be driven a dozen or more times but with the ground still a little slow and the air quite cool this long distance markmanship is considered quite a feat at this time of year. Art Bridge recently made it look easy in lashing his tee shot within ten feet of the pin. Art who figures most power comes from the wrist, also put his drive past the bunker on the third.

The writer of this column will be pleased to hear commentary and tall tales from other victims of hegiits of the fairways.

George Durna, chairman of the games committee says the Ladies Opening Field day is the first on a schedule of competitions, listing of which is yet to be completed.

The men aren't losing any time either in matching strokes. The President vs Vice President's handicap match set for Sunday. This, like the ladies get together, will be a bit of a social introduction.

It is rumored that the losing captain, Ted Parker, or Jim Walker will be obliged to push the ball with his putter from tee to green on the 300 first hole.

Farmer Boy Knocks Self Out When He Misses Kiniski Klock

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Farmer was in the Dell
And Givin' Kiniski—Well
Hi-Ho His Kicks they Flew
He Misbed—and Heard the Bell.

That's about the size of it. Gene Kiniski, the Edmonton Bulldozer is a hunter of parts. He knows a duck when he needs one. He needed one last night in one of the most boisterous bouts ever seen in a Belleville ring.

Farmer Boy, a handsome husky from the hinterlands, showed he was anything but a sissin' Rube. He matched everything but pure swank the Terror of the Prairies offered.

In fact Joe (Don't call me Sammy) Gollop was all ready to flip the Farmer's hoeing hand in victory, when it happened.

The Farmer, with falls all squared, was kicking his heels up in the third heat like a young colt in its first pasture. Kiniski bowed appreciatively every time the Farmer's hoofs caressed his whiskers.

But his timing was bad. The Farmer double-soled the kill. Kiniski ducked and rural feet crashed into a ring-post. The Farmer doubled and ended on the canvas—a self-knockout.

It was a rip-roaring bout with Kiniski living up to his position as president of Hate Inc. Beaten in the second fall he swaggered and strutted in the ring refusing to leave for the rest interim. Instead he staged a one-man ballet in a fan-baiting exhibition.

And this Farmer is good. Big husky and handsome, he gave the Bulldozer some fancy treatment at times in a bout that was consistent action all through. They can bring this pair back any time.

Kiniski, who spat disdainfully at the foeman in the introductions, won the first fall with a knee-back-breaker. In the second heat the Farmer started reaching for the Kiniski moon with a pair of oversize feet. He set the Edmonton clock back to standard time with several well-placed smashes and pinned the Bulldozer after 17 minutes of rugged battling.

Baron Gattoni, who needs a cavalier's hot and sword to qualify for a Three Musketeer's job, has flowing curls and a pointed goatee. They're not phony. Gattoni proved that when Fred Pesek lugged him around the ring a couple of times using the curls or/and goatee as bow-ropes. However the long-hair got the nod in a fast-moving semi-final.

Two familiar faces were back in the preliminary with Leo (The Lear) Hemmaig up to his old tricks and giving Pat Flanagan the victory through disqualification.

It was announced that next week's card will headline those pygmies of pachydermy, the famous midgets.

Howard Beaten By Art Persley

HALIFAX (CP) — Arthur Persley Red Cross, La., now fighting out of New York gave Canadian lightweight champion Rickey Kid Howard of Halifax a boxing lesson here Friday night in a 10-round bout that Persley commanded all the way.

Two judges and the referee all voted Persley the winner.

It was Howard's first fight in five months and he looked bad most of the way, missing jabs repeatedly and failing to follow through when he did land solidly.

Howard had a three pound weight advantage over Persley, weighing in at 138½.

Wings, Hawks Player Dicker May Involve Lindsay, Hall

WINNIPEG (CP) — Murray (Muzz) Patrick, general manager of the New York Rangers, said today Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League have completed a "big player deal involving at least four NHL players."

Patrick, in an interview during a brief-stop-over here on a flying trip to Quebec City, said the trade was completed no later than Wednesday night at Chicago.

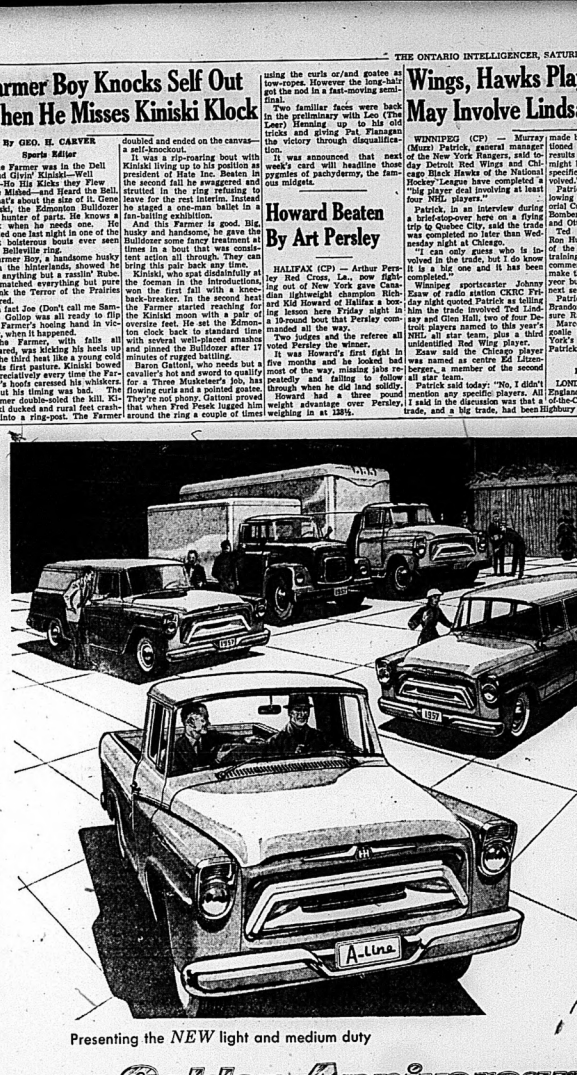
"I can only guess who is involved in the trade, but I do know it is a big one and it has been completed."

Winnipeg sportscaster Johnny Esaw of radio station CKRC Friday night quoted Patrick as telling him the trade involved Ted Lindsay and Glen Hall, two of four Detroit players named to this year's NHL all star team, plus a third unidentified Red Wing player.

Esaw said the Chicago player was named as centre Ed Litzenberger, a member of the second all star team.

Patrick said today: "No, I didn't mention any specific players. All I said in the discussion was that a trade, and a big trade, had been made by these teams. I also mentioned what some of the possible results of a Detroit-Chicago deal might be but I did not name any specific player as definitely involved."

Patrick left Regina Friday following the fifth game of the Memorial Cup series between Flin Flon Bombers, New York farm team, and Ottawa Canadiens.



Ted Hampson, George Konik, Ron Hutchinson and Mel Pearson of the Bombers will be at our training camp next season," he commented. "I don't think they'll make the jump to the NHL in one year but all of them can turn pro next season."

Patrick named Bob Chrystal, Brandon Regals' defenceman, as a sure Ranger next year.

Marcel Pailie, Cleveland Barons goalie last season may be New York's netminder next season, Patrick added.

Queen for a Day Has Continued For Twelve Consecutive Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Let's take a look at Queen for a Day, which is celebrating its 12th birthday this week.

A large crowd, predominantly female, packed into the Moulin Rouge for the birthday celebration. The crowds are a daily occurrence, the desire of housewives to be queens apparently being strong.

Each candidate filled out a card indicating her wish for the day. Program aides quickly sifted through 500 of these and came up with 21 that appeared promising. The 21 women were summoned to the stage and interviewed for a minute apiece by emcee Jack Bailey to determine their personalities. Five were chosen. Here is what they wanted:

1. Equipment for a husband's new service station.

2. A new clarinet for a brother, upset because a sister had been brutally murdered.

3. A job.

4. Three sewing machines for neighbors who cared for the woman after surgery.

5. A missing father to help straighten out a brother in trouble.

WHAT IS ITS POWER

What is the power of Queen for a Day that has kept it going five days a week for 12 years on radio and TV?

(The program is carried by National Broadcasting Company networks.)

The obvious answer is the Cinderella angle. The queen gets trundled in a gold limousine to beauty salons, movie studios and night clubs and is gifted with a glamorous wardrobe, etc.

But the show also has the appeal of soap operas and agony hours. After the housewife listens to the travails of the candidates for queen, her own troubles seem slight and she can return to scrubbing the floor with improved morale.

Queen for a Day's best asset, of course, is Bailey. He is alternately bumptious and sympathetic. He does his best to keep pace in a show that could slog down in sentiment.

The show's chief debit is the cascade of commercials, which seem as frequent as those on disk jockey shows.

DESPAIRING FAN SAVED

MENTON, France (AP)—Claire Pinsonat, 14, threw herself into the Mediterranean clad only in a locket containing a picture of the late James Dean, American movie star. Beside her clothes police found a note which said: "He is my idol He is dead. I must die, too." Fishermen pulled her out of the sea and brought her ashore safely.

Jordan Crisis Hurts Nasser As Arabs Cannot Abide Loser

Associated Press correspondent Tom Masterson was in Jordan throughout most of the recent government crisis there. Now back at his home base in Beirut, he has written the following assessment of the situation.

By TOM MASTERSON

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—President Nasser of Egypt seems to have emerged a loser from the Jordan crisis. His popularity in the Arab world outside Egypt has skidded visibly and Arabs cannot abide a loser.

King Hussein's victory over the pro-Egyptian, pro-Syrian and pro-Communist forces which ruled Jordan for a year dealt a severe blow to Nasser's prestige.

It was obvious throughout the crisis that Nasser was fighting against Hussein and his supporters. Nasser's Voice of the Arabs—the most effective propaganda machine in the Middle East—broadcast vitriolic attacks against Hussein almost daily during the crisis. Cairo radio and Egyptian newspapers and magazines, all controlled by the government, did the same.

Hussein twice complained publicly about attacks on him by the Egyptian press and radio. Jordan authorities even tried to jam Voice of the Arabs. They banned all Egyptian newspapers and magazines in Jordan, closed down the Egyptian government's Middle East news agency and expelled Egyptian newspaper men.

Nasser's failure to stop defeat of the pro-Egyptian clique in Jordan stunned a good many Arabs. He had built up an almost legendary reputation for turning defeat into victory. And a good many Arabs, refusing to count him out, are looking for him to pull still another rabbit from the hat.

Oddly, Hussein has gained little popularity among Arabs despite his victory. Rightly or wrongly, he is being blackened in the eyes of many Arabs for what they call U.S. interference in the internal affairs of Jordan.

At the height of the crisis President Eisenhower proclaimed American support for forces behind Hussein and sent the U.S. 6th Fleet to the eastern Mediterranean. This has been branded American intimidation. Finally the United States gave Hussein $10,000,000 in aid.

To many Arabs this smacks of a Jordan-American alliance.

British Papers Split on Winnie's Criticism of UN Role in Suez Crisis

LONDON (Reuters) — Several right - wing British newspapers have endorsed Sir Winston Churchill's criticism of the United Nations' role in the Suez Canal crisis, but a Liberal paper, The News Chronicle, says his "sudden punch" against the UN was unworthy of a great statesman.

Churchill said at a meeting here Friday that he did not think the attitude of UN last fall had been helpful either to the free world or to the cause of peace and prosperity in the Middle East. In his first public address in a year he defended former prime minister Sir Anthony Eden's policy of intervention.

"The accustomed vision and steady purpose are exhibited in the criticism he directs at the UN over Suez," The Daily Express declares.

STILL LOOKING AHEAD

"At 82, his imagination can be stirred and uplifted by what lies ahead of mankind," Lord Beaverbrook's independent right - wing newspaper adds.

The Yorkshire Post (Conservative) comments: "Sir Winston Churchill joined his voice to those of the many Conservatives who are pointing out how strongly events in the Middle East are justifying the policy adopted by Sir Anthony Eden during the Suez crisis in the autumn.

"He (Sir Anthony) is convinced . . . that a stand would have to be made for good faith in international dealings. That stand still needs to be made."

BACK TO THE JUNGLE?

The News Chronicle declares: "Sir Winston Churchill's long silence was broken Friday. It seems a pity, 'now, that he did not keep silent longer.

"The sudden punch at the United Nations is unworthy of a great statesman.

"The United Nations' limitations are manifest. But unless those nations that signed the charter support it, we are back in the jungle."

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Monday, May 6, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—A great deal will depend upon your personal attitude, your reactions to necessary tasks, to new assignments, tedious details, etc. Accept all graciously, and you will be the gainer. Finances under fair aspects.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Venus and Jupiter boost private gains, attainment through sincere, intelligent efforts. Your occupation and other personal affairs share fine aspects; make the most of good influences.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mercury's position suggests care in making decisions, answers, signing papers, etc. Have patience with matters requiring time. Avoid worry, anxiety.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Moon's aspect stresses the need for a genial disposition, understanding of others' problems. Avoid worry, anxiety.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Suppose you have to slow down some today? It may be more advantageous to do so; give you time for surer, better judgment; time to reflect when and where to move next.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Turn some attention to the mechanical side of your nature; find new ways to increase your assets. Travel, dealing in products of the earth, handling machinery, tools highly favored by Saturn.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — An excellent opportunity here to apply your gifts for building, manufacturing, dealing in livestock, farming, lumber and tools, for organization work, and systematizing enterprises, etc. Plan wisely.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Head up and smile! Favorable Saturn and Jupiter aspect indicate that your sagacity, wit, humor and other natural attributes can put you out front. Sound finances, business fawnet.

November 23 to December 31 (Sagittarius) — Similar to Scorpio. You should be able to put the day's activities, personal and general high on the credit side. You can profitably mix business with pleasure.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Whatever your occupation, you can make strong strides forward and still not lose touch with outside affairs that may bring happiness to family, friends, yourself.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — This can be a good day if you show initiative and incentive. But you must avoid indecision, doubt. Be systematic; put your talents to work.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Common sense and good judgment in allocating duties and other activities will put you in the right groove for gains, benefits. Recognize your own ability and talents and know they can work for you.

You born today are among the Zodiac's most efficient, all-round capable and intelligent folk. You have abundant talent, a likeable personality, are trustworthy, generous and innately honorable. All these if you are living true to your finer qualifications. Curb tendencies toward luxurious living, spending beyond income, over-indulging in rich foods, beverages. Keep usefully and intelligently busy always; avoid idlers. Tackle your tasks with faith. You can reach the top. Birthdate: Lt. R. E. Peary, Arctic explorer.

The Week's News

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The election battle was on in next week for Ottawa, where he will be the guest of Governor-General Massey.

TENT TOUR

Dr. Linus Pauling, a Nobel prize winner, estimated Britain's forthcoming H-bomb tests in the Pacific will result in 1,000 fatal cases of blood cancer.

Dr. Pauling, chemist at the California Institute of Technology, is one of a number of scientists to warn against the dangers of radiation resulting from nuclear tests.

But the scientist made clear that the effects of such tests are small when compared with natural radiation. Still, when even a small percentage of hazard was applied to the human race, "the number becomes large enough to anyone interested in human suffering to be concerned about it."

AIR INSPECTION

The Russians offered air inspection of part of their territory in return for an aerial look-see at a large part of the western United States and Alaska.

This plan, unveiled at the United Nations disarmament sub-committee conference in London, was hailed as "one thing was sure, said Mr. St. Laurent. The federal government would not allow any signing away of large chunks of B.C. power to American interests.

BARS IMPROVIDENCE

The Liberal government would not take any "dog-in-the-manger" stand against the development of resources in United States benefit. But it would prevent "any improvident deal that would jeopardize B.C.'s long term industrial development."

Cost of developing the Columbia has been estimated at about $1,000,000,000. An American firm has offered to build a dam to provide power mainly for American aluminum production, but the federal government stepped in with legislation to prevent the B.C.-American deal.

"We have nothing to spare or give away," Mr. St. Laurent's federal leader said in apparent reference to the American proposal.

BOUT WITH HECKLER

Hecklers interrupted him throughout the hour-long speech. One was so persistent that the audience roared: "Throw him out! Throw him out!" But Mr. St. Laurent appealed on the man's behalf, arguing that "if you put him out, he won't be any better at the next meeting. If he listens, he may improve."

When he talked of trade and Canada's decisions to open new negotiations with Australia, New Zealand and the mother lands of future Caribbean federation, the heckler, who has described himself as an unemployed, 52-year-old CCFer, cried:

"What about trade with China?"

To this, Mr. St. Laurent smoothly replied:

"Would you like a passport to China?"

The crowd roared with laughter and applauded.

When Mr. St. Laurent spoke of the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline, another voice from the floor shouted:

"Hurrah for Tanner! Hurrah for Tanner!"

This was a reference to Nathan Tanner, president of the Trans-Canada Pipeline Company.

Mr. St. Laurent replied that he did not know Mr. Tanner personally. But of one thing he was sure — the Liberal government would do everything appropriate to continue to encourage private enterprise.

TAUNTED ABOUT NORMAN

He also was invited from the floor to talk about the suicide of Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Cairo, but the prime minister ignored the taunts of "Talk about Norman! Talk about Norman!"

The prime minister made these other points at the rally:

1. The Senate inquiry into land use was a form of "educational" process to be followed by federal measures to make sure that Canadian food production does not fall behind consumption needs.

2. He still hoped to make progress in getting the provinces to agree to make the Canadian constitution completely amendable in Canada on federal-provincial and provincial matters. Parliament now has power to make amendments on federal matters. Others still have to be approved by the United Kingdom Privy Council.

Earlier, Mr. St. Laurent told reporters the Liberals had no fear of the Social Credit party in the east. They were not surprised, after the recent Social Credit Toronto convention, that the party's leader, Solon Low, had decided to make no more speeches in the East except one at Ottawa.

JAPAN TESTS ROCKET

AKITA, Japan (AP) — Japan's first two-stage supersonic rocket, the Kappa-3, zoomed today to an altitude of 12 miles in its first test. Its designer, Prof. Hideo Itokawa, termed the test "highly successful" and said no further experiments were needed. The 15-foot, 300-pound rocket is the result of one to be used for Japan's international geophysical year observations.

SEEK MISSING PAPERS

TORONTO (CP) — The preliminary hearing of Edwin McDonald, 32, on a charge of absconding while on $50,000 bail, was adjourned late Friday when a document which the defence said was important to its case could not be found. McDonald elected trial by judge and jury.

The Election Campaign

Prime Minister Offers Heckler China Passport

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent offered a heckler a passport to China during a fast-moving, 14-hour round of electioneering Friday in which he firmly pledged federal financial aid to harness British Columbia's mighty Columbia River for power.

The method of financing would depend on the B.C. Social Credit government, he told an overflowing crowd of some 3,000 in downtown Georgia Auditorium. If B.C. agreed to treat the project as a national venture, financing could be done under a joint federal-provincial crown company or by a purely federal company.

If B.C. decided, however, to handle the power developed by private industry, there would be no federal aid. One thing was sure, said Mr. St. Laurent, the federal government would not allow any signing away of large chunks of B.C. power to American interests.

Diefenbaker Sees Conservative Victory in June

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—John Diefenbaker, after nine days of election campaigning, says a Progressive Conservative victory in June 10 can and will be achieved.

And in speeches Friday, he spoke of some Maritime issues in a manner aimed at helping to bring about that result in the eastern provinces.

"A few short weeks ago they said it couldn't be done," he said at a luncheon at St. George.

At night, in this metropolitan centre of 75,000 persons, he told an audience of more than 1,100 that he has found "an attitude not of defeatism but one of encouraging anticipation in the days ahead."

WOULD STUDY CHIGNECTO

On Maritime area issues, he said a Progressive Conservative government at Ottawa would give the provinces a better tax-sharing deal and carry out a complete investigation into the feasibility of a decades-old proposal for a Chignecto canal to link the Bay of Fundy with Northumberland Strait.

The survey would determine "whether the dream of past generations can become a reality in the future."

The Conservative leader had a crowded schedule Friday, touring the dockside and port area here and shaking hands with a couple of hundred patients at a veterans hospital before heading 30 miles west to St. George for the luncheon. He spoke to some 50 persons, then drove another 50 miles to St. Stephen for a mid - afternoon meeting in the high school auditorium.

PARADE BEFORE SPEECH

Before his night meeting here, he spoke briefly at a convention dinner of the province's Young Conservatives — Conservatives whose delegates later provided a chanting, placard-waving demonstration prior to his public speech.

New Brunswick's Conservative premier, Hugh John Flemming, introduced him as "a man who will lead a great prime minister." The addresses of Mr. Diefenbaker and Premier Flemming were broadcast over a local radio station and later the party leader appeared on a 15-minute local television broadcast.

HONDURAS CROWD DEMANDS WAR

Honduran Col. Hector Caraccioli, left, member of the three-man junta which rules Honduras, and Honduras Foreign Minister Jorge Fidel Duron, look down at a huge crowd below during a demonstration April 30th in which the crowd asked for "war on Nicaragua." Duron, leaning over the railing, is addressing the crowd. A ceasefire has now been arranged after border skirmishes.

Nicaragua, Honduras Accept Pact to End Border Fighting

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—Nicaragua and Honduras have agreed to halt their border skirmishing. President Luis Somoza signed the cease-fire Sunday night. It became effective upon word that the three-man junta governing Honduras also had signed.

A peace mission of the Organization of American States negotiated the agreement. It was flying to Tegucigalpa, Honduras, today for a formal signing ceremony there.

Ricardo Arias of Panama, chairman of the five-nation OAS committee, signed with President Somoza. The agreement calls on Nicaragua and Honduras to "refrain from any activity including troop advance susceptible of aggravating the situation."

The OAS committee was given four days to present a plan for withdrawal of troops from the disputed frontier and creation of a buffer zone.

The cease-fire halts the fighting between rival border patrols that has been going on the last five days in a large tract of jungle called the Mosquito Coast, which both Nicaragua and Honduras have claimed since the 19th century.

OIL STARTS TROUBLE

Although the area is undeveloped and inhabited mostly by the Mosquito tribe of Indians, there have been reports in the last year that oil deposits had been found there.

The ground fighting never involved more than 300 soldiers of both sides. Up to 50 have been claimed killed. During the week both countries claimed that the other's air force had bombed and strafed fishing villages in the disputed territory.

President Somoza's signature on the cease-fire document was held up several hours by unsettled questions at the airport because he is "in a very early period of convalescence."

Sir Anthony was operated on April 13 for a bile duct obstruction.

Tommy Manville Declares 'I Do' For Tenth Time

NEW YORK (AP)—White-haired Tommy Manville said "I do" again Sunday and married a towering Texas showgirl.

Blonde Patricia Gaston, 27, became the newest Mrs. Manville in a 40-second ceremony at the fashionable Hotel Pierre. It was her first marriage and Manville's 10th.

Manville, a sag in his shoulders but a champagne sparkle in his eyes, said of his latest marital adventure:

"It was the fastest ceremony and it will last the longest. I knew I wanted to marry her the minute we met. She says it's a chemical reaction."

The 63-year-old asbestos heir met Miss Gaston about three weeks ago.

Asked what she liked best about her husband, the beaming bride replied: "His sense of humor."

As an historical aside, Manville told reporters his first nine wives have cost him about $2,500,000 in alimony and other settlements.

The latest Mrs. Manville retired last week from the Zlefeld Follies. She is almost six feet tall.

Today's Chuckle

The man shoned the mental hospital to ask if any man had escaped.

"No," said a doctor. "Why?"

"Well," replied the caller, "I just wondered . . . somebody has just run off with my wife."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Widespread light frost occurred again Sunday night in Southern Ontario, while milder air moving into the central portion of the province kept temperatures well above the freezing. Skies were mostly clear.

Afternoon temperatures today were expected to be in the 60s. There will be cloudy periods in eastern regions this afternoon but clearing is expected tonight. Temperatures will be below the freezing mark in eastern parts of the province again tonight, while milder air advancing from the west will hold temperatures in Central and Southwestern Ontario above freezing.

The outlook for Tuesday is for sunny and dry weather with afternoon temperatures in the 70s except in far Northern Ontario.

DOUKHOBOR SECT WANTS TO RETURN TO SOVIET UNION

No Track Damage In Blast Near Nelson

VANCOUVER (CP)—An explosion shattered the silence in the British Columbia interior night in an area where a group of restless Sons of Freedom Doukhobors is awaiting a reply to a request to return to Russia.

A blast 120 feet from the CPR tracks near Nelson, B.C., came only 20 hours after it was made public that the Freedomites have asked permission to return to the country they left at the end of the last century because of persecution.

Nick Kanigan lives in a Freedomite settlement near Nelson, confirmed Saturday that the radical sect has asked permission to return to the Soviet Union. Kanigan said the request was made two weeks ago to Dmitri Chuvanin, Soviet ambassador at Ottawa. He said he knew of no reply having been received.

The Sunday night explosion dug a small hole inside the CPR right-of-way at Slade, 15 miles east of Nelson. No track was damaged.

TO SURVEY HOMELAND

If the Soviet Union gives permission, Kanigan said he one of five Freedomite delegates who will go to Russia to survey conditions in his homeland. He said 2,500 of the radical sect are ready to go to Russia anytime and "I think double that number would go if they could."

Reason for the proposed move was stated by Kanigan this way:

"It's hard living here in Canada. When we came, we were promised a 40-second ceremony at the border. We don't feel we're getting it."

Freedomites, a splinter group from the 10,000 Doukhobors who live in B.C., claim Canada's public schools have militarism. They have refused to send their children to them. The B.C. government has detained more than 100 of their children in a special institution at New Denver—66 miles from Nelson.

Discouraged almost since the day they set foot on Canadian soil, the Freedomites have paraded in the nude, burned schools, and blown up railway bridges in protest against what they call persecution by federal and provincial governments.

Anthony Eden To Convalesce In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Sir Anthony Eden, convalescing from a Boston hospital operation, arrived in Ottawa by train today to go to a place of convalescence visit as guest of an old friend, Governor-General Vanier.

The former British prime minister, accompanied by Lady Eden, was met by a department of transport aircraft sent to Boston by the Canadian government to fetch him up.

Government House officials have said Sir Anthony's stay here is to be a complete rest. Reporters have been asked not to seek interviews at the airport because he is "in a very early period of convalescence."

British in Dither Over Derby Hats, Brown Shoes for Any Kind of Wear

LONDON (AP)—Male fashions authorities, who deplore contemporary sloppiness in the clothes of British gentlemen, are in a dither about derby hats.

The British they are called bowlers. They are hard as iron, and there is a surprising number in active service, worn in combination with tightly-furled umbrellas.

The debate was started by a member of the Junior Carlton Club who wrote indignantly to The Times:

"It is curious to note the number of men (some of whom obviously should know otherwise) walking around in bowler hats and brown shoes. This could not have happened once."

The discussion grew to surprising proportions—ranging to such subjects as the vulgarity of rednecked ties—and culminating in a column-long editorial in The Evening News which concluded that this is a degenerate age.

The clashing colors of shoes and derbies was supported by some authorities, including a member of the Scottish Guards.

"The bowler is an all-around general purpose hat, and should be equally at home in the cattle market as it is in Pall Mall," he said.

"There is no reason it shouldn't be worn with brown shoes or tweed suits. In the case of men, the shoes should match the suit, not the hat."

A kind word was spoken for the brown bowler by another correspondent, and many Englishmen were astonished to learn that a derby can be brown. Brown bowler and brown shoes seems to be a combination which is granted a modified approval.

Report Macmillan Will Visit Bulganin in Moscow in Fall

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan will visit Moscow this fall, some members of Parliament predicted today.

Government officials said no such trip is in the planning stage. But many politicians expect the prime minister to accept the long-standing invitation of Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

Bulganin and party leader Nikita Khrushchev toured Britain in April, 1956, and Sir Anthony Eden, then Britain's prime minister, had planned to return the visit. The revolt in Hungary and the attack on Suez, however, complicated and worsened Anglo-Soviet relations.

Acceptance by Macmillan of the Bulganin invitation may come after British finishes its hydrogen bomb tests at Christmas Island in the Pacific. Macmillan is expected to broach the subject at a conference of Commonwealth prime ministers in London next month.

Macmillan leaves for Bonn Tuesday for talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the first discussions on German soil between a British prime minister and German chancellor.

Any Moscow meeting between Macmillan and Bulganin would concentrate on the issues of world disarmament and nuclear tests.

After the Christmas Island tests, Macmillan would be able to talk with the Russian leaders on equal terms as the representative of one of the three "hydrogen powers."

Macmillan and Bulganin also would be expected to tackle the questions of German reunification and Soviet policy in the satellite countries.

Conservative party leaders visualize the "summit" meeting as that of striking out on a British foreign police somewhat independent of the United States. This would please the party domestically as well as perhaps finding a real way to lessen east-west tensions.

The Soviet Union is believed anxious for a British-Russian meeting because of Soviet fears over nuclear developments.

Israel Displays Her Might On Ninth Independence Day

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Israel celebrated her ninth independence day today with the biggest display of military strength in her short history.

All branches of the armed forces paraded five miles through Tel Aviv. The feature exhibit was booty captured from the Egyptians in last fall's Sinai war, including Soviet T-34 tanks and U.S. Shermans.

Half a million Israelis, close to one third of the country's population, converged on Tel Aviv to watch the two-hour spectacle.

Also on view was some new equipment not previously displayed to the Israeli public. This included a French self-propelled gun mounted on a tank and a French anti-craft gun.

The captured equipment also included Czech 57mm. anti - tank guns and Soviet self - propelled guns.

In a special broadcast, Prime Minister David Ben - Gurion declared that, despite the military defeat of Egypt last fall, there is no certainty over the fate of the Gaza Strip or freedom of Israeli navigation in the Gulf of Aqaba. He promised that this will be done few years at least 500,00 Jews must be transferred to the Negev Desert. Including those on the grants. He appealed for help from the West and said that 100,000 immigrants he estimated will come here this year.

Four ships arrived in Haifa Sunday with 2,600 immigrants, including 400 from Egypt. It was the largest number in a single day in six years.

Three-Ton Chunk Of Ice Crushes Lobster Fisher

HALIFAX (CP)—A storm that raged across northern Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island last week has claimed the life of a lobster fisherman, in addition to causing heavy damage to boats and lobster traps.

James Gollan, 61, died Sunday after being crushed by a three-ton chunk of Northumberland Strait ice.

The ice washed over a seawall on the Caribou waterfront during a storm Wednesday and Thursday. He was attempting to salvage his boat when the ice struck him. when the ice slid, pinning him from the waist down.

FERRIES FREED

Three CNR ferry-freighters were freed from the ice-jammed Pictou Harbor today after 36 hours of icebreakers Sunday.

The C.D. Howe cut loose the Cabot Strait, imprisoned or five days, and the Stormont and Scotian followed, smashed through rafting floes to free the Random.

All are owned by CNR of Sydney. The Burego became stuck Thursday with eight passengers aboard. The Cabot Strait has 35 passengers plus cargo.

NONE IN DANGER

Numerous smaller ships were also trapped in the 17-mile fied bocking Sydney harbor. None was reported in danger.

Meanwhile, the icebreaker N. B. McLean headed for Bay of Islands, Nfld., where several freighters are trapped.

Veterans mariners said ice conditions off the Cape Breton and Newfoundland coasts are the worst in 40 years. Newfoundland-Nova Scotia ferry and freight services have been thrown off schedule, along with coal and steel shipments.

Decide 'Murder' Really Suicide

TORONTO (CP)—Police said a middle - aged woman suffering from diabetes, and possibly cancer, committed suicide Saturday in Centre Island by setting fire to her dress. They said that they first thought the death was murder but later found a suicide note.

Coon's Owners Evicted by Pet Raising Family

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Adams still can't get into their bedroom because of the pet raccoon named Nicey.

Adams said his wife found Nicey in a tree a year ago. He said Nicey was a fine pet until the mating season last February.

"We noticed about then that Nicey started to get mean," he said.

Last Friday, Nicey's temper reached its peak. She gave birth to seven young ones in the chest drawer in the Adams' bedroom. She spat and raged at Mr. and Mrs. Adams when they left the bedroom. Adams says he thinks there are a few baby racoons.

"We can't get in to see, but my wife thinks there are about four of them. They're hollering," he said. "Nicey would probably bite us so we decided to sleep in the living room."

Asked how his wife plans getting rid of the babies, Adams replied:

"She isn't. She's going to keep them all."

Kissing Dance Swells Crowd At Youth Club

DURHAM, England (Reuters)—A dance involving as many kisses as steps has rocketed attendance at Youth Club dances here, the police reported today.

Organizers of the Vane Tempest Youth Club said attendance has increased from 15 to more than 100 in less than a month by the introduction of the "Snowball" dance. Two couples dance in the middle of lights dim and a couple take the floor. They dance four bars, kiss and then part and dance four bars. They call it "slow, slow, kiss, kiss, slow" rhythm.

The couple parts and pick their own partners. This goes on until everyone in the hall is "snowballed" into the kiss-dance.

Police say only complaints have come from "old folk," the organizers say.

ANTI-COMMUNIST COALITION LOSES SYRIAN ELECTIONS

Pro-Egyptian Forces Win 3 of 4 Contests

DAMACUS (AP)—Syria's pro-Egyptian leftists have won three important parliamentary by-elections, downing a new anti-Communist coalition. The government forces lost a fourth contest, but it involved only local issues.

The government-backed candidates scored victories in weekend elections marked by a light turnout of voters and charges of political foul play. All three seats in the 142-member parliament previously were held by right-wingers now in jail on charges of trying to topple the government of President Shurki el Kuwatly.

The Damascus victory went to handsome 33-year-old Riad el Maliki, who stumped on a platform of all-out support for Egypt and condemnation of the Eisenhower doctrine. El Maliki polled 20,329 votes to 18,437 for right-winger Mustafa Sibal, leader of the Moslem Brotherhood in Syria and Jordan.

NEED EXTRA DAY

All four contests were to have been settled Saturday, but balloting had to be continued in three of the races Sunday since the first day's turnout fell far below the required 51 per cent.

The election was regarded as significant because this marked the first time the Moslem Brotherhood, People's party and other anti-Communist groups have been free to campaign openly.

However, observers believed a victory for the right would have had little effect on Syria's relations with the West. The rightists came out strongly for Arab nationalism, opposed ties with the Soviet bloc and denounced the Eisenhower doctrine for protecting the Middle East against communism.

The election was marked by some violence.

Near Homs, one man was killed and seven injured in a fight between opposing factions. Also 5 students were involved in a scuffle in Zabadani, but police quickly broke it up.

Russia Fearful Of A-Weapons in West Germany

BONN (CP) — Russia warned Bonn again during the weekend that arming West Germany with troops with atomic weapons would have "grave consequences."

Moscow radio Sunday broadcast the text of a new note to Chancellor Adenauer, the note being delivered to the German leader Saturday in conference here with U.S. State Secretary Dulles.

The note said Adenauer's letter to Premier Bulganin suggesting West Germany had asked for atomic weapons misrepresented the statements made by the chancellor to Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov.

English Jazz Pianist Says Romance With Swedish Princess Not Finished

STOCKHOLM (CP)—The nephew of a British peer today was reported to have told a Stockholm newspaper his romance with Princess Margaretha of Sweden is not all over.

The master of the Swedish royal household announced Sunday night that Robin Douglas-Home had proposed to the princess, grandaughter of King Gustaf, but her family rejected him.

The royal spokesman said the affair "has come to an end" between the princess and the part-time jazz pianist ended more than a year ago.

Sweden's biggest daily paper, Dagens Nyheter, said Douglas-Home told it by telephone from London that the royal statement was "full of nonsense."

"This is far from being finished, the princess and I are very much in love.

One report said his latest letter to the princess arrived here Sunday.

Douglas-Home, 25, a London stockbroker's agent by day and a jazz pianist in a hotel by night, is the nephew of the Earl of Home, leader of the Conservative party in the House of Lords. The princess is 22.

A communique issued Sunday night by the lord high chamberlain, Marshal Birger Ekeberg, from King Gustaf Adolf's country estate, said:

"The king has not imposed any ban on such a marriage. On the other hand he does not favor it at present. Princess Margaretha to consider such a serious decision very carefully."

Count Carl-Reinhold von Essen, master of the royal household, said:

"Reports that Mr. Robin Douglas-Home asked for Princess Margaretha's hand are true."

"But," he added, "the whole matter was settled 11½ months ago. It was a little innocent affair in London as so often happens between young people and the whole matter was declared ended with Princess Sibylla's reply to the Douglas-Home letter of proposal. (Princess Sibylla is Princess Margaretha's mother.)

"This reply was very polite but definite. The proposal was from the Swedish viewpoint to be considered as impossible. I cannot clearly understand why the matter has been taken up in the press so long afterwards."

Princess Margaretha first went to England in 1932 to study English, and returned to London in 1956. Her father was killed in a plane crash 19 years ago.

Her 21-year-old brother, Karl Gustaf, is next in line for the throne but Margaretha is not in line of succession. Swedish law permits her to marry anyone she likes, since she is of age.

Thousand Police And Troops Quell Major Polish Riot

Reports From Garrison Town Indicate Military Mutiny

WARSAW (AP)—A major riot was reported today from Jaroslaw, a garrison town in southwest Poland.

More than 1,000 police and troops were called in to quell the disturbance.

No date was given for the affair. It apparently occurred just before the weekend.

A report in the Warsaw newspaper Spandar Mlodych suggested it was one of the most serious of recent outbursts against Communist state authority. It hinted at the mobilization of a military mutiny.

MILITARY INVESTIGATION

These indications were:

1. The arrival in the town of Gen. Kuropieska, a district military commander.

2. Appointment of a military investigation commission to determine responsibility for the trouble.

The paper said the outburst started with the arrest of a soldier on a charge of drunkenness. It added that other soldiers and "young hooligans" sided with the soldier. A crowd went to the police station and "started a fuss." A crowd of several hundred gathered outside the police station and began throwing stones. The paper added: "An appeal by police for calm and order had no response. The trouble increased. A number of soldiers were hurt and police were forced to use tear gas."

The paper said a battalion of reserve police and a second battalion of the army riot squad were brought in. A battalion is about 800 men.

Nineteen persons were reported under custody, seven of whom were held. One of those arrested was an army sergeant-major.

Mounties Ride Twenty Miles to Visit Hospital

LONDON (CP) — Members of the RCMP, who officially open a five-month visit to Britain with a parade through London streets today, paid a surprise visit during the weekend to the Canadian Red Cross Memorial Hospital at Taplow in Berkshire.

The visit, was in response to a letter written by children at the hospital who asked to see the officers and men of the force. The famous musical ride — "on your horses, please."

The detachment of 32 men, wearing their colorful "review order" dress of scarlet tunics and blue breeches, made a round trip of 20 miles on horseback to visit the youngsters.

Four Teen-Agers Facing Charges Of Manslaughter

OTTAWA (CP)—Four teen-agers — two of them juveniles—face manslaughter charges following the death of 17-year-old Rene Jodoin in a street fight outside a Roman Catholic church in west-central Ottawa.

Rene Delorme, 16, Vincent Tramarit, 17, and two juveniles were charged late Saturday after police questioned about 40 young people about a fight that began inside the basement auditorium of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church during a youth organization dance, and resumed outside after a priest broke it up and banished disputants from the hall.

The four charged were held without bail pending a court appearance scheduled for today.

KICKED DURING BRAWL

Jodoin died at Civic Hospital at 4 a.m. Saturday from injuries suffered when, according to police, he was kicked in the head during the brawl that broke out Friday night.

Funeral services for the youth, who left school last October to become a clerk in the federal civil service, are to be held here Tuesday at St. Jean Baptiste Roman Catholic Church, 1½ blocks from the scene of the fatal beating.

Jodoin, with his brothers David, 19, and Maurice, 16, and two friends, Gerald McCarthy, 17, and Michael Morris, 19 — were not members of the organization but went to the dance because their own community hall was closed for inspection.

Police said it appeared the parish youths resented the intrusion of their territory" by outsiders.

Call Sen. McCarthy 'Fearless Watchman'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph R. McCarthy was eulogized at a funeral mass today as a fearless watchman "in troubled times" who revealed to millions of Americans the threat of communism.

Many of those present, including Vice-president Nixon, and other high officials, were among the more than 5,1 which overflowed the pews of St. Matthew's Cathedral.

The celebrant, Reverend Rev. John Cartwright, a friend of the senator, said McCarthy filled a role which will be more and more honored as history unfolds its record.

"It was his privilege in a time of great confusion to sound the voice of the great problem of our time," Magr. Cartwright said.

The first priest and missionary Rev. John Grier who died at 80 in 1871. His great grandson the Rev. Dr. D. Owen of Toronto took part in the ceremony yesterday.

Among the distinguished guests was Dr. Charlotte Whitton, former mayor of Ottawa and friend of the pioneer rector's granddaughter Margaret Grier, assistant to the Deputy Minister of Labor at Ottawa when she died in 1947.

The east window and companion lights were blessed and dedicated by the bishop in memory of the late Mr. Grier and his granddaughter, the entrance doors in memory of the late Miss Mary Corrigan, the English altar, dossal curtains and fontals; credence table and communion rail for the late William MacDougall of the Carrying Place and the notice board for the late Mrs. Agnes Black.

PROCESSION FORMED

Archdeacon of Ontario, J. B. Creeggan of Belleville, who delivered the sermon explained the significance of the holy figures in relation to the scene depicted in the memorial window. "There can be no doubt John Grier, the first rector and missionary had a part in calling the church St. John the Divine," he observed. Making reference to the other memorial gifts he said it was necessary to have fitting doors to the entrance to our Father's place of worship.

The procession of the Bishop and the Clergy to the south door for the blessing of the new doors was followed by the unveiling of the east window and the blessing of the altar and other gifts.

The Rev. Geoffrey Rennison, rector of the parish sang the evensong.

At a reception held at the church parsonage for out-of-town guests afterwards, Mrs. Rennison received the visitors.

Two Would-Be Mariners Have Voyage Cut Short

Two young would-be mariners had their voyaging cut short Saturday evening when they were spotted on their raft out in the Bay of Quinte.

The two boys, Alf Baker, 28 Water Street, and Bill May, 399 Chidsey Street, both 13 years of age, were brought ashore by city police, who commandeered a boat following a report from a resident, who had seen them on the bay.

And the raft, it was a dandy. Police said it was built with fish barrels tacked together with the use of barrel staves.

Police Blotter

Edward Walker Dow, Jr., 18, of 38 Byron street, Trenton, has been charged by Belleville police with careless driving following a two-car collision at the corner of Coleman and Water streets on Saturday night.

Police said the damage of about $125 to each vehicle resulted when a car driven by the Trenton youth was in collision with another driven by Arnold Everetts of R. R. 2 Picton.

Two cases of vandalism were reported to police. Jack Eggleton, Oshawa complained that the top of his 1955 convertible parked on Queen street Saturday night had been slashed, while Ed. Faulkner, 185 Yeomans, reported his car had been damaged while parked at a Front street service station. The left windshield of the auto was shattered and fenders scratched, apparently by a brick.

Several Acres Of Marsh Burned Near Bay Bridge

A raging marsh fire billowing huge columns of black smoke into the air and heading straight for the Morch Manufacturing Company building in the city threw a scare late Sunday afternoon and provided a bit of weekend diversion for hundreds of interested spectators.

Several acres of marsh south and west of the Morch buildings and east of the Bay Bridge Road were burned over and a fisherman's shack of unknown ownership was destroyed.

Several department trucks were rushed to the scene as firemen battled the blaze.

Early Sunday evening firemen were called to another marsh fire at the south end of Herchimer Ave., while Sunday night they were called to Ransome for an oil burner, which was giving trouble.

Harmony Night at Collegiate Enjoyed by Large Audience

A few hundred music lovers gathered in the auditorium of Belleville Collegiate Institute on Saturday night to hear some of the finest barbershop quartets in Ontario.

The occasion was the sixth annual harmony night sponsored by the Belleville chapter of the Society for the Protection and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

Quartets from East York, Orillia and Toronto, as well as a 20-man chorus from the Belleville chapter provided three hours of pleasant singing that were liberally sprinkled with witticisms and zany antics.

Emcee for the night was a former president of the local chapter and now a member of an East York quartet — The Canadian Chordsmen — George Shields, who was introduced by the president of the Belleville chapter, Ken Reid, as one of the finest barbershoppers in Canada."

In return for the complimentary introduction, Mr. Shields waited until the Belleville chorus had finished the rendition of "Sweet Adeline" before presenting the chapter, Chapman Memorial Trophy for the greatest membership increase of all chapters in Ontario in 1956.

Belleville John Bush inadvertently opened the evening's entertainment when Mr. Shields called him from following the program, signed by Mr. Bush: "Best of luck on your sixth annual harmony night. I hope you knock them (the audience) dead." Another wire expressing best wishes was received from Ted Dillicher of London, a former Belleville villian.

For the remainder of the evening Belleville chorus vocally recalled hit tunes that were popular before Elvis Presley donned his first diaper. Many in the audience found themselves singing the songs they used to sing when they were children. Three voice quartets received first obscurity, by harmonious bass, baritone and tenor voices.

To give an air of authenticity to the singing, the stage was decorated with a barbershop backdrop, complete with candy-stick posts on both sides of the stage front and a board fence running off from the show.

MULTI-COLORED COSTUMES

But aside from the fine listening entertainment, the quartets gave considerable color to the program through their multi-colored costumes.

The Toronto Rhythmaires were garbed in tartanned jackets believed to be Campbell's tartan, white slacks, lipd red string bow ties. On the other hand, the Dpamichords from East York were dressed in scarlet jackets, blue slacks and striped ties. The Tonesifters from East York were decked out in white jackets, green trousers, checked vests and red string bows, while the Canadian Chordsmen wore pea-green jackets, red string bows and brown slacks. The last quartet, the Barbachords from Orillia — wore dark green jackets, brown slacks and brown string bows.

Common to all quartets were white "Alberi Derbies" chapeaus.

The Belleville chorus wore white shirts, red string bows and brown slacks.

During the second half of the program each quartet let its hair down. The Barbachords, with Fred Towse playing the ukelele and Red Street plucking a "bass fiddle", the group filled in 15 minutes of humorous antics combined with wonderful vocal arrangements.

The "bass fiddle" was made of a broom handle and a wire that was attached front to the wash tub sound box. Believe it or not, the instrument produced a great deal to the rhythm of the vocals.

DELIGHT TEEN-AGERS

The Tonesifters, featuring Ed McVeigh, offered their interpretation of "That's My Desire" and in a few more fine old melodies.

Unfortunately the audience had a few teen-agers in the crowd who just couldn't refrain from giving vent to their emotions through the medium of heavy breathing and girlish giggles.

Gord. Lang of Toronto Rhythmaires faced the same problem when he bawled "Anytime" and a few other ditties. But he managed to complete his stint without being overwhelmed.

Dangerous Dan McGrew made his 1957 debut in B.C.I. through the efforts of the Canadian Chordsmen. Al Shields (Dangerous Dan) looked about as dangerous as a week-old kitten.

The Dynamiteords, Dave Walton lead, gave a beautiful rendition of "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen".

Closing the evening's entertainment was the grand finale, "Keep America Singing", for which the quartets and the Belleville chorus joined forces on stage.

During the intermission Belleville's Jimmy Corradi entertained on the piano.

George Shields led the audience in a community sing-song.

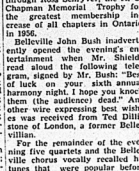
Fall of Italy's Government Seems Certain

ROME (AP)—The fall of Italy's three-year-old government and new elections appeared imminent today as Social Democrats pushed plans to quit the coalition.

The main differences are purely domestic. Italy's non-Communist political parties—of which the Social Democrats are one—agree on the need for continued membership in the Atlantic pact—western foreign policy.

The crisis arose Sunday night when defiance from the party's majority centre bloc voted unanimously to demand a showdown when the full party congress meets next month. Approval by the full congress appeared assured.

Although the governmnt of Christian Democrat Premier Antonio Segni has several weeks' grace, there was speculation the cabinet might resign much sooner



SECOND BIG WALKOUT

Withdrawal of the Social Democrats would leave Segni with only the support of his own Christian Democrats and the small Liberal party, about 275 of the 399 members in the Chamber of Deputies. A fourth member of the coalition, the Republicans, quit two months ago, contending they wanted a free hand.

Vice-Premier Giuseppe Saragat, leader of the Social Democrats, called for the showdown at a party meeting. He charged the government was no longer able to carry on its job, that the coalition "no longer has enough support to bring about any efficient reform action."

"The illusion that communism is no longer a danger has created a relaxation in the lies among the parties," he said.

The next day, he added, would be to try anew to unite his faction with the big Socialist party under Pietro Nenni, Stalin Peace prize-winner.

Leo Lucciola, declared "Mr. Bowling" at the 6th annual open tournament which ended Saturday evening at the local Bowl-O-Drome, receives glasses as the top kegler of the tournament. He rolled up a total score of 2535 and as the winner received the hand-some Lloyd Cleaners bowling trophy, a $100 bill from the Bowl-O-Drome's management and a Gruen wristwatch shown here being presented by Ed Logan of Ed Logan Jeweller.

Leo Lucciola Wins 'Mr. Bowling' Title From Field of 60 District Bowlers

Leo Lucciola is "Mr. Bowling" of Belleville and District after the sixth annual competition for the title and what goes with it. Lucciola racked up a ten-game aggregate score of 2525 for an average of 252.5 from a field of sixty keglers from the city and Eastern Ontario.

The competition concluded at the Bowl-O-Drome Saturday night with the new "Mr. Bowling" nosing out runner-up Bill Fraser after an exciting finish. Fraser wound up with a score of 2516 just nine pins off the pace.

Former title-holders Jim McKenzie and Al Lockwood finished third and fourth respectively with scores of 2461 and 2422. Next in order came Les Lennox, 2396; Leo Filion, Cornwall, 2381; Jim Lloyd, 2374; Jim Hyndman, Cornwall, 2366; Fred Light, Kingston, 2358 and Earl McDonald, 2339.

The new "Mr. Bowling" was presented with the handsome new Lloyd's Cleaners Trophy in its first year of annual competition. The presentation was made by Jim Lloyd in the unavoidable absence of his father, Addison Lloyd, the donor of the trophy.

Lucciola also received a $100 cash award, a beautiful wrist watch, the gift of Eddie Logan, well-known Belleville jeweller, who also presented the winner with a miniature of the trophy as his permanent possession.

The bowlers finishing in the first six positions were the recipients of handsome awards.

Competing bowlers represented Belleville, Kingston, Cornwall and Trenton.

Pupils Assist In Planting 7,000 Trees

Elementary school pupils from the immediate rural area north of Belleville, together with pupils from Trenton High School, the Deaf and St. Michael's, planted approximately 7,000 trees last Thursday on Moira River Conservation Authority property in the Hallaway district.

Approximately 120 pupils turned out for the planting under the direction of Zone Foreman W. E. Edwards of Napanee.

Students taking part were Carmel, Turner's, Johnstown, Moulis, the O.S.D., St. Michael's, Young's, Foxboro, Avondale, Gilead and River Valley. The largest number of pupils turning out for the planting was from the Foxboro school.

The school pupils finished off planting which earlier in the week had been carried on with the tree planting machine and pine and white spruce were the species planted.

Friday about 50 students from the agricultural classes of Belleville Collegiate and Quinte Secondary School under the direction of Mr. Robt. Phillips and James Musgrove planted some oak and spruce on a rocky ridge hill at Hallaway which could not be planted with the planter.

The site being planted in the Hallaway area is what was formerly known as the Delville property purchased by the Authority last year. In all the Authority has 22 acres in the area. Scene of Saturday's planting can be seen on oak and spruce on a rocky ridge hill at Hallaway. This year 68,000 trees will be planted on the site.

District Masons Attend Divine Service at St. Andrew's Church

On Sunday afternoon 400 Masons from lodges in the Prince Edward district attended a divine service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Belleville.

Led by the parade marshal, Rt. Wor. Bro. Tommy W. Solmes, and assisted by Worshipful Bro. C. Barnett, the Masons marched from B.C.I. to the church via John St.

The pastor of the church, Rev. R. D. MacLean, called the congregation of lodge members to worship at 3 p.m. and gave the invocation and responsive reading (Psalm 118) after the singing of a hymn.

Rt. Wor. Bro. J. L. Good, District Deputy Grand Master, read the Scripture lesson (Ecclesiastes 12: 1-7), following which the Stirling A. F. and A. M. quartet sang. Bro. Rev. W. K. Pace, Dean of Trent read the Scripture lesson from I Corinthians 3: 6 — 17 and Bro. Canon A. S. McConnell offered prayers for the Queen, people of Canada and brother Masons.

Bro. Rev. W. H. V. Walker, district chaplain, gave the benediction and dedicated the offering, following which the Stirling quartet again sang.

Bro. Rev. W. K. Pace had the honor of giving a brief sermon. He chose as his text 2 Timothy 3:5 and titled his address "The Symbolism of Masonry".

Mr. Pace called upon Masons to remember the great sacrifices their ancestor Masons made in the days, not so long ago, when Masonry was outlawed in Europe.

Masonry, he contended, is a form of religion, although lodges are undenominational. He said that the Masonic order was meant to be an electric current of activity and warned against the misuse of the symbols and ritual used at monthly lodge meetings.

Mr. Pace urged the congregation not to be blinded from the true meaning of Masonry and added that he was disappointed with the actions of some in their daily living.

MASONRY NEEDS REALITY

"What Masonry needs today is reality, not sham," he said. The symbols that are used by the builder are necessary for members to be mindful of their faith in God.

"Better no Masonry at all, rather than have it a hollow husk," he said.

Masons are men from all walks of life dedicated to one common cause: to spread the glory of God and to help their fellow man, in any way possible.

Following the singing of a final hymn, Mr. MacLean gave the benediction.

Organ music was played by Bro. Egerton Boyce.

Also in attendance was Wor. Bro. V. Richardson, District Secretary, and Bro. Leslie McLaren.

After the church service, the Masons filled out of the church and walked to the B.C.I. grounds, where they were dismissed.

80 Forest Fires Cover 1,600 Acres In Tweed District

Careless smokers, campers and fishermen, coupled with an extreme fire danger condition, have resulted in a total of 80 forest fires and over 1,600 acres being burned over this year in the Tweed forest district.

"Owing to the dryness of the bush, forested areas are in an extremely dangerous condition," said "Mac" Wilson, in charge of forest protection in the Tweed area.

Over the weekend about 130 men were out fighting forest fires, two of the largest, 150 acres and 75 acres, being in the Sharbot Lake district.

Already this season 80 forest fires have been reported in the Tweed area and these have burned over a total of 1,600 acres. Only 36 fires were reported during the entire 1956 period.

The two larger fires in Olden and Bedford townships in the Sharbot Lake area are the only ones which are still burning. The others having been brought under control.

Mr. Wilson noted that with the tinder dry condition of the forests, extreme caution was necessary to prevent further outbreaks. Careless smokers and fishermen lighting fires have been largely responsible for fires reported so far this season.

BRIGHT IDEA

Orchids are in order for one local business firm which, by the simplest of twists, has turned a common practice into a gimmick which could revolutionize merchandising, bring to all of us a host of articles which we have long dreamed of possessing—and keep the bankruptcy courts busy.

This firm rang a change on the old "give-away" or reduced price system. The change was simple, a complete switch from the main item to that offered at a nominal price—the pairing in this case being a washing machine and a high quality casting reel.

There must be dozens of homes in this district where the little woman has been hinting, none too subtly, that the suds-maker in the cellar was gasping its way to its grave. Pop, however, has been able to turn a deaf ear to these appeals by the quite simple method of pointing out five dozen other articles for which there is an urgent need. He has not dared to mention that he would like a new fishing reel. So, when fishing reel and washer come together in one deal—well, what do you think happens?

We now dream of some other suitable pairings. An album of Elvis Presley records might be appropriately linked with a briar pipe—a vial of the more expensive perfume, depending upon who, in the opinion of the Presley fan, holds the family purse-strings.

Mink coats are naturals to go with outboard motors, while it is fairly obvious that living room suites and automatic shotguns were made for each other, the purchase of the former not necessarily involving target practice on the purchaser with the latter if the proper pairing is made at the start.

It might even be possible to reverse the order with some of these items, if investigation reveals that the suggested pairings are faulty in their presumption of the location of the main sales resistance. In that case outboard motors should be accompanied by weekly corsages, automatic shotguns by a Sunday afternoon at the swank restaurant, bottles of perfume and pipes by comic books. We could tell you what could be linked with the Elvis Presley records in this reverse pairing, but we don't dare.

ALL-NIGHT PARTY

Here is a story with a moral.

Dorothy Barclay, writing in the New York Times, deals with girls' activities at this season of the year when U.S. high schools hold their "proms," apparently once-a-year dances, the "Big Night" for all students.

More and more parents, she says, are getting together in their groups to set standards ahead of time on just what "everybody" will be doing.

The parent of a boy-or-girl-age knows, it is virtually impossible to ban anything which "everybody" is doing without creating a major domestic crisis.

Setting standards for "everybody" therefore looks like a sensible idea.

The results, though, may be surprising.

Because in some cases "everybody" has been turning prom night into a dusk-to-dawn party, one high school in Washington, D.C., made it official. The program started at 8.30 p.m., with four hours of dancing. At 1.30 a.m. a bus arrived at the school gym to transport the students to a theatre for the showing of an as yet unreleased film. At 2.30 a.m. everybody returned to the school for a "splash party" in the swimming pool; with other games for non-swimmers. A breakfast party was held from 5 a.m. to 6 a.m.

As we said, there must be a moral in this story. What it is, though, we hesitate to suggest.

With training like that, though, these Washington teen-agers should be able to work up quite a New Year's Day hangover in a few years' time.

SPEEDING THINGS UP

A jet transport, with a load of passengers and all the amenities of a scheduled flight, made the trip from Seattle to Baltimore in three hours and 45 minutes. Let-down procedure had to begin as it was flashing light over Toledo. Let's see now. On a smooth stretch of the Oregon Trail a man with a good outfit and favoring weather might have made close to four miles in that time. It's getting harder for us to be skeptical when somebody says our great-grandchildren will be poking about the moon on their weekends. —Detroit Free Press.

Revolt Hard on Reporters

By Ojen Clemenp, Associated Press chief of bureau for Southeast Asia, in the Sat. Eve. Post.

It was early in Jakarta. The flies had not yet gone to bed, and the mosquitoes were just beginning their night's work. Moslems were in the mosque for the last time that day. Government officials slumbered in prolonged siestas. It was so peaceful, even though four millions were under war in these paradise islands and the nation was in a state of siege, that AP's James Wilde and Murray Fromson decided, to take in a movie.

It turned out to be a horse opera. The hero was chasing the heroine — or vice versa — when three lights flashed on, and to the accompaniment of barking commands, soldiers with guns and fixed bayonets race down the aisles.

Ah, action! thought Wilde and Fromson. They were disappointed. All the army wanted in the was see everybody's identity cards. It happens monotonously often in Asia these days when it seems to tire of the raids, although they seldom find anything amiss.

While this is a tame war it is most frustrating for reporters. It is almost impossible to get a story in one day, or share a room with three strangers.

Trips into the outlying islands are hard to arrange. Correspondents travel by plane, jeep, boat and bicycle. Alan Dawson, correspondent Kalb, of the New York Times, reached Padang in Sumatra last week a few hours after a rebel surrender. Fromson arrived to find a message from Kalb awaiting him at the airport: "Come over quickly. I've arranged the finest meal I ever had in Indonesia."

Fromson found the big, jovial Kalb opening a can of asparagus soup and a can of sardines he had found in a store. "A feast", he said. He and Fromson feasted.

Taxicabs are expensive and scarce. Cycle drivers never know or care where they are going. Fares are high, especially for foreigners.

Censorship holds up cables interminably at times. Sometimes the censor's use of English was not what the story written in Indonesian. The cable office is opposite the AP office, just across the open sewer that masquerades as a canal, but that's no help.

After correspondents pursue further delay cables to count the wordage and at night there is no one in the cable office able to count words. So a boy on a bicycle takes the copy to Radio Indonesia, a mile distant, where the words are counted at leisure. About four hours later the boy returns and last night's cable went out with today's dawn.

The capital and countryside are flooded with rumors, and some of them can be annoying. Recently there was a rumor about an opposition report of an ambush of rebel soldiers, "the last bloodshed" on the Indonesian crisis. Four hours later the word was that a rebel band had been an ambush all right — of the sort that the Darul Islams have been putting on for years, averaging about 200 Indonesians a month when the weather is right.

'Dairy Month' Far Too Short

Brockville Recorder and Times

June has been designated by the Association of Dairy Farmers of Canada as dairy month. Why June? Why one month a year?

In this part of Eastern Ontario, with so much of our economy depending on our dairy herds and milk products, "dairy month" should be observed 12 months a year. Each county has lived in the past attained a wide reputation for the quality of its cheese.

Diminishing use of cheese as food has resulted in the closing of many cheese factories. As for yields, while those still in operation put up a product that still commands top dollar prizes at cheese exhibitions, public apathy towards the value of dairy products has resulted in a steady decline of business.

"June is dairy month" is the slogan adopted by dairy farmers. It is to be hoped the dairymen themselves, organization of the public in making the month a success but it would be better for the future of dairying in agriculture as a whole in this region if "dairy month" continued throughout the year.

Desk Useful As Barrier

Stratford Beacon-Herald

According to a psychiatrist in New York, a desk is useful because it not put a desk between him and a visitor. A desk, says the gentleman who skilled in psychology, established a barrier against the person who come to see him.

Well, that might be a very good reason for having one. If there is a desk between you and the salesman could gradually edge close enough to the big man, clapping him on the knee and calling him "Old Man", or "Old Top." He might even poke the big man in the ribs when he tells a joke, and call him on the chest and say: "Look here, Mr. So-and-So, get a load of this."

The desk is the most important piece of office furniture. An imposing looking desk can give visitor the impression that the little squirt behind it is really a big shot. And it should be as far from the door as possible, so that the boss can size-up the fellow walking across the floor. Benito Mussolini of Italy is said to have established great importance, by his desk, a long way from the door for that very reason. Gave the visitor a long journey, as if he were walking the last mile.

Modern desks are a desk where is the big man to plant his feet when he's having his coffee break?

Anybody Can Fly a Plane

St. Catharines Standard

You no longer have to be a cross between a millionaire and a gambler to fly your own plane, reports an article in the current issue of Esquire Magazine.

Generally speaking, says the article, "Who Me, Fly My Own Plane?" anyone over 16 with coordination enough to drive a car and healthy enough to pass a physical examination for life insurance can get a private licence.

Age doesn't matter. Many private flyers did not start taking instructions until they were in their 50s or 60s. As for safety, flying is considered less dangerous than driving.

The feature article, which includes a complete breakdown on the operating costs of flying on private plane, points out that relatively few craft are used exclusively for pleasure. The major advantage of the private plane is the manner in which it cuts unprofitable travel time to time-saving wear and-tear on the user.

The economy of the post-war average citizen, says the magazine, to feel that somehow he "just isn't the type to fly" is completely invalid.

No psychological or personality tests are given any more, than are given to obtain a driver's license, but the mental screening is entirely different—and better.

And now we hope that you feel better, knowing that you too are capable of flying an airplane.

Gray, which was a bright and warm spring morning the bird was attracted by the brightness and in some way managed to escape to the outside and eventually it reached the topmost branches of an elm tree which stretched its branches over the roof of and to the air. All the cajoling and coaxing of the family failed to bring Polly to earth. The bird raccously squawked defiance to the world in general and obstinately refused to leave its lofty perch. The city firemen came to the rescue, but they could not reach the bird. Last night Polly repented, caused probably by an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach. Mr. Smith was standing in his garden when he heard a whirring of wings and suddenly with a few plaintive squawks the bird settled upon its master's shoulder. A minute or so later Polly was devouring the first meal since deciding to take to the open spaces.

Ottawa Journal

Ladies have many erroneous ideas about their husbands' income activities, and we suppose the erroneous ideas will continue. Fishing is an apt illustration of divergent viewpoints. A woman lurches fishing for the results in the creel. She doesn't understand that when spring works along to a certain height, a man needs to go fishing. The fact that fishing requires little in the way of equipment and may result in a dollar's worth of fish is just a burden that the husband must carry.

Fishing isn't catching fish. Fishing is getting out doors so that a man can feel the sun and the wind and the rain on his face. It is getting off by oneself on the edge of a meadow creek; it is following a clear-water singing brook through a quiet woodland; it is hearing the screech and faith-restoring steadfastness of friendly trees, the green of new grass, the blue of violets' faces along the brook edge, and the challenge of a cock pheasant's crow from woodland edge.

Fishing gives a man a chance to get acquainted with himself, and when he comes home, a bit tired physically but refueled in heart and mind, he knows that a day's fishing has done something for him.

Personal Health Talks

How Does One Become an Expert?

Readers who are familiar with this column should have no illusions about the qualifications of the conductor. If you missed it before, let me repeat.

I began the study of medicine at the age of 16 in the office of my preceptor, the late Dr. Daniel A. Eiseline, Shortsville, N. Y.,—a village on the eleven path line 6 miles from Canandaigua. Dr. Eiseline nearly drove me out of the profession the very first day, by handling me Gray's Anatomy and telling me to familiarize myself with it, in preparation for my first quiz at the end of the week. Fortunately I had already had two years of Latin in Canandadigua: and that, I think, was all that kept me from chucking the idea of studying medicine and going out to look for a job.

I shudder sometimes at the very thought of it — working, I mean. I tried it one summer, loading a cart with clay and driving it to the hopper to dump the load, then back to fill her up again, then to the hopper to unload and back for the next load. Before I became demented, brother Andy rescued me—"Here, Doc, you do the work for you-self" he said, "and I'll take over."

For the remainder of the week or two I served at hard labor in the brickyard. It gave me a feeling of respect for the honest working people of this world.

For nearly two years after I received my degree at University of Buffalo medical school I endured the rigors of internship—I'm afraid, there are no cures.

Hospital which stood on what is now the University of Buffalo campus. In the course of my internship, I took the State Board examinations in Illinois and received my licence (No. 5087) to practise any and all branches of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, or whichever specialty I prefer.

There you have my pedigree. I was never an employee of the American Medical Association. I can boast of no present or past connection with Chicicine. I've been quaching it in the public prints for way over half my lifetime. Since I served two years internship in hospitals and four years in horse-and-buggy practice in Penn Yan, at the foot of Keuka Lake in western New York, I have specialized exclusively in health . . . note I say "health", and not medicine. This quantum me as an expert in the field.

So please remember that it is only after long and thorough study and a fair amount of experience that I have found functionally efficient teeth are essential to health and to longevity; that every man, woman, or child—or cat or canary or dog—needs periodic attention; that every sedentary adult should practise belly breathing and morning rolls as a routine; that we have yet to discover a medicine which cures a chronic disease. As a health expert, I do not diagnose, I merely point out the way to prevent the chronic disabilities for which, I'm afraid, there are no cures.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On account of my shape, which is somewhat squatty, I have never been able to wear ready-made trousers but have had to have them made to order—ever since I was married it, that is. The last pair I bought cost $38. For a pair of pants! It seems no time ago since I could get a Harris tweed suit with two pair of pants for $38. The material in them is just the usual, Plain good English flannel. There is nothing new or extraordinary about the cut or finish of them. But $38!

My tailor is a thinking man.

"No," he said, "I wouldn't say the price of them has gone up. I would say the value of the dollar has gone down."

"I prefer to think," I countered, "that the price has gone up."

"As you wish," he said. "Now, you take me for instance. I have been a saving man all my life. My wife and I have lived frugally, without pretension. We have saved and hoarded and put our money away in bonds, securities, insurance. The dollars we put away in the 1930's would, if I bought a pair of pants like these for $38. Those dollars we stashed away in the forties would buy pants like these for $14. Here we are now in our late forties, and all the dollars we have saved have withered and shrunk, as if we had been saving apples or something."

"Not me," I said. "I only told each other we were doing the right thing. Everybody else was goody goody in the world applauded us, and our kind. The statesmen who sold us bonds, the bankers, the leaders, parsons, the whole world except those who have been debt inflated. Fifty times, that's what they are!"

"Well, what should you have done, all these years?" I asked.

"Bought the things that have gone up," said the tailor. "Like houses, land, furniture, property of all kinds that is durable and basic. Goods."

"I suppose," "should have bought enough $8 flannel pants to last me my life."

"Some molds would have got into them," reminded the tailor.

So we agreed that not only can you not win with you, there is not much sense getting it.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SOUL'S REAL ENEMY

What is the greatest obstacle in the living of an upright moral life?

Undoubtedly it is compromise. Occasionally we are overcome by some great temptation. Usually, however, we descend from higher ideals to lower by an insidious habit which is sometimes so gradual that we are not conscious of the incline that we are on the way down. Some little compromise, almost unnoticed at the time. It was made, results later in a transgression of principle and significance that our whole life may be shaken to its foundations. We may bring our shoulders today over a little deflection, but tomorrow it may involve us in the end of trouble.

But one of the most appalling things about moral decline is that often we come to the end of the road without the realization that we have been selling out our souls to a serious extent. Many a man establishes a certain pattern hard to change.

And the whole descent begins with a little compromise—that compromise which is the most deadly and subtle foe of the human soul.

PUPILS PLANT THEIR SCHOOL TREES

Trees, that will grow along with the children, were planted by the pupils and teachers at Glen Park school in Toronto. The tree-planting was made into a community ceremony with the pupils running the shovels and filling the holes with earth and water and the teachers and education officials working alongside the children. Mrs. George Herman, vice-president of the home and school club, appointed herself as a tree-holder as one sapling was planted. The idea was particularly popular with the youngsters as they were excused from classrooms for the afternoon.

Weston Bakery Warehouse Shambles After Safe Blown

An over-load of nitroglycerin used by yeggmen to blow a small wall safe at the Weston Bakery distributing warehouse in West Belleville Saturday night not only blew the door safe off the safe but dented coins and shredded bills in the strongbox and sent the safe door sailing across the office where it smashed a six inch chunk out of a hot water radiator.

Approximately $4,000 in cash and cheques is said to have been in the safe which contained Saturday night receipts, but police believe much of the money may have been damaged so much in the blast that it would be abandoned.

Police asked if any persons found any of the damaged money to notify them immediately.

About four inches of water from the smashed radiator which let the water out of the heating system covered the office floor when an employee discovered the break-in Sunday morning. An electric clock, the cord of which had been pulled from the wall plug was stopped at 3.32, apparently setting the time of the break-in.

Police Inspector J. Clair Hayes, who with Detective Harold Reid, investigated the safe job, stated the men responsible as professionals.

"An over-load of nitro was used to blow the safe," he said.

Police said the bakery warehouse office was a shambles with four inches of water on the floor and papers from the safe blown about.

The explosion which ripped the safe door from its hinges was heard by a next door neighbor, Mrs. W. Jack who thought the noise was from her own furnace or hot water boiler and thought no more of the matter.

Sunday morning as Weston employees mopped up the water and cleaned up the mess, the office manager noted that several times before yeggman had attacked his safe The last time they tried to hack the back off the strongbox.

Colombian Army Occupies Capital As Riots Staged

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Unrest continues in Bogota despite occupation of the Colombian capital by 25,000 troops.

Police used tear-gas and streams of cold water during the weekend to break up demonstrations against President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla's reported plans to have himself re-elected by a handpicked constituent assembly.

The disorders continued Sunday, even though the armed forces had seized the capital in what was described as routine military manoeuvres. Police threw tear gas shells at a crowd gathered around a Roman Catholic church where a priest renewed his attacks on the government. The gas seeped inside, halting the Sunday mass.

The government said Sunday night that the country was quiet, although some "isolated, anti-social individuals" had been foiled.

But the high school and university students at the forefront of the demonstrations appeared determined to continue a protest strike in defiance of an official warning to return to classes or face possible loss of their army-exemption status. Outside the capital, student strikes were reported in Cali, Medellin and Pasayan.

The student demonstrations began last week in protest against the arrest of Guillermo Leon Valencia, candidate for president in 1958. He was released after two days, but the demonstrations kept on.

A political crisis has been building up since Rojas' supporters initiated plans to have him re-elected next year by the constituent assembly, which he named to rewrite the constitution. Rojas took over in a military coup in 1953. Under the present constitution he could not succeed himself.

The Liberals and dissident Conservatives — bitter enemies for years—joined in backing Valencia in an attempt to force return to constitutional govern m e n t. Another Conservative faction supports Rojas.

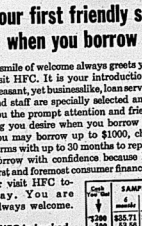
The army has remained loyal to Rojas.

Change Would Be Money Saver For County

What could be a money saving measure for the county during July sittings of county and Supreme court was approved Friday morning by Hastings county councillors attending this week their annual spring session.

Councillors approved of a motion to petition the Ontario Attorney General's Department for a change in court regulations which would allow members of the petit jury to be called for the second day of court instead of for the first day of the sittings.

County Sheriff T. Solmes told council that a check of Supreme Court sittings over the past ten years showed that the petit jury was used on the first day only on two occasions.



He said not calling the petit jury until the second day of court would result in a considerable saving to council. During Supreme Court when there are criminal cases a total of 62 petit jurymen are called.

"The result would be the saving of a day's pay for 62 men," the sheriff noted.

He noted the saving would be about $300 to the county.

Later in the session Reeve Charles Buskard of Deloro moved that the county petition the department

The mother of the bride received in powder blue nylon net over taffeta and carried a corsage of sweetpeas and 'mums. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom in copen blue crepe, with a similar corsage.

The bride's table was decorated in pink and white, centered with a three-tier wedding cake.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Rochester, Watertown and Ottawa, the bride wore a blue brocaded taffeta dress with white accessories.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Belleville, Carrollton, Tweed and Queensboro.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn will reside at Eldorado.

FAWCETT — ELMY

Easter lilies and ferns formed a lovely background in Hillowing Street United Church, the marriage of Lois Bowena Elmy, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Elmy, to Joseph Albert Fawcett, of Camp Borden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Osbourne Fawcett, of Morrisburg, Ontario, on Saturday, April 20, at 3.00. The Reverend C. W. Coleman, pastor of the church, officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. Clifford Trimble, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Ron Elmy, brother of the bride, who sang, "Through the Years," before the ceremony, and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Earle Elmy, the bride was radiant in a floor-length bridal gown of white, French lace over nylon taffeta with fitted bodice complemented by a long sleeved jacket buttoned at neckline with Peter Pan collar. The bouffant skirt was accented by ruffled net. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a lace headband studded with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Miss Elva Brooks, of Morrisburg, Ontario, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, gowned in shrimp nylon net over shrimp taffeta, with matching headdress. She carried a hosegay of blue and white 'mums and Lohana lili roses.

The two little flower girls, the Misses Frances Blackburn, niece of the bridegroom, and Sharon Powers, niece of the bride, were dressed alike and wore their pink nylon with white hat and shoes, and carried a nosegay of blue and white 'mums centred by a tiny pink rosebud, and the latter also had a gold prayer book with white hat, shoes and gloves, and carrying a nosegay of blue and white 'mums centred by a pink rosebud.

Mr. Bruce Elmy, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs Richard Bowen, of Camp Borden, John Rivard, also of Camp Borden, Allan Nobes of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom, and "Shorty" Long, of Tweed, were ushers.

A reception was held at the Kiwanis Centre. The brides' table, appointed with white damask, was centred by a three-tier wedding cake in pink and white, topped by a pink and white lace heart encircling the tiny bride and bridegroom, with the pink and white streading streamers from the ceiling above centred by a white bell, and the bridal bouquets added a lovely nuptial accent, as did the pink and white tapers in silver candelabara.

The bride's mother, for her daughter's wedding, chose a navy blue lace-embossed taffeta over grey, with navy accessories and corsage of white 'mums. The bridegroom's mother, who assisted very nicely in blue sheer with pink accessories, and corsage of white 'mums.

For travelling to Montreal and points east, the bride donned a green jersey dress, with beige shorty coat flecked with brown, yellow hat and accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums. The young couple are residing in Belleville.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride, luggage; to the groomsmen, cuff links and tie pins; the bride's gift to her bridegroom, luggage, to her matron of honor, mother-pearl necklace and matching earrings, and to the flower girls, silver bracelets.

Guests were present from Morrisburg; Toronto; Consecon; Stockdale; Camp Borden and Tweed.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored at a presentation of a wool blanket by her fellow workers at the Northern Electric transformer department.

Following their marriage in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Douglas Sanderson are shown signing the register. The bride is the former Miss Barbara Ann Meiklejohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grenville J. Meiklejohn, of Marmora. Tabernacle United W.A. Topic Centred On "Mother's Day"

The Women's Association of Tabernacle United Church met in the church parlor on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Davidson, president, opened the meeting with a Mother's Day thought, and welcomed all those attending.

During the business period, the roll call was answered with the number of calls each member had made on sick, shut-ins and bereaved families.

Acknowlegements of flowers and cards were reported, and invitations read from Bridge Street W.A. to attend their "Spring Tea" this month; the Women's Hospital Auxiliary meeting on May 21st, when they will have a speaker on "Mentality Of Patients," and the W.A. Presbytery convention to be held in Trenton on May 30th when Rev. H. R. Lane, Toronto, associate secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, will address the convention. Miss Myrtle Johns was elected delegate.

The annual nursery of $50 was granted Albert College, also a gift to Boy Scout Ed. Burtt who will be attending the Scout Jamboree in England this summer.

The June meeting will be a joint meeting with the W.M.S. when the minister will be the speaker. Group No. 3 will be in charge for the evening.

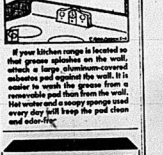
Mrs. A. Rose had charge of the devotional. Following the hymn, "Holy Spirit, Truth Divine," Dawn upon this soul of mine; Work of God and inward light, Speaker on "Mentality Of Pa- Speak to me that I may see clear my sight."



She gave a meditation on how a young man came to fully appreciate God's gracious help and mercy.

Miss Myrtle Johns read an article on Mother's Day with the theme, "Mary of Galilee was granted the highest joy ever granted a woman — to be the mother of Jesus Christ. We shall never know just why God chose Mary, but this we do know, Mary possessed two of the characteristics that Jesus valued most of all—humility and self abandonment to God's will."

Mrs. J. T. Nunn read a poem, "The Mother Look," and Mrs. C. Parker read a humorous program in a lighter vein reading, "Ma's Tools."

The usual cup of tea was enjoyed after the W.A. benediction.

If your kitchen range is located so that grease splashes on the wall, cover the splash area with asbestos pad against the wall. It is easier to wash the grease from a movable pad than from the wall. Hot water and a soapy sponge used every day will keep the pad clean and odor-free.

Historic Print

By TRACY ADRIAN

This amusing print commemorates the day back in 1869 when, for the first time, America had a railroad that ran from coast to coast. It is colorfully crowded with little figures of trains, cowboys and Indians on backgrounds of turquoise, natural relief, or charcoal.

The fabric is used for an attractive playsuit with wet-look short shorts, a blouse with a Peter Pan collar and an overall panel in front complete with suspenders.

Women's Activities

FRONT ROAD L.A.

Members of the Front Road United Church Ladies' Auxiliary had the pleasure of holding their May meeting at the home of Mrs. T. J. Whittle on Thursday. It was a special occasion in that Mr. Bruce Besley, who recently graduated from Queen's Theological College was present, opened the meeting and conducted the devotional, the theme being, "Forgiveness." The Scripture lesson was taken from Matthew 18:21-25. Two articles pertaining to the theme were read by members as follows: "To One Who Smiled," by Mrs. H. McMullen, and "Mother, the Artist," by Mrs. T. J. Whittle. Mr. Besley closed the devotional with an article and a short talk on "Forgiveness."

BUSINESS SECTION

The group had sent its sympathy to the F. Purdy family during their recent bereavement in the death of Mr. Purdy. A lovely thank-you card was received from Mrs. Purdy.

A congregational pot-luck supper is being planned for Wednesday evening, May 29. There will be a short meeting of entertainment and it is hoped all members and interested neighbors will attend.

Mrs. C. Reid conducted a contest in which the answers to each word defined started with "for." The winner, Mrs. L. Monteith, received a lovely bottle of cologne.

The meeting was closed with little Gary Ray singing, "Jesus Loves Me."

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. Botting.

Mere hostess refreshments which included a variety of nut breads, tarts, squares and a delicious white cake.

Everyone enjoyed the socia! get-together.

Success Story

By ALICE ALDEN

If it isn't a real cape, then more than likely it'll be a cape coat this spring. The cape has taken over and makes a welcome addition to the sartorial scene. This one uses a soft, no-wrinkle wool jersey to do a superb capecoat, a sleeveless coat with elbow-length cape. This description is pretty in beige, a good town and travel navy, and has slit pockets. It is worn either cluten or wrap-around fashion.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LONELY PEOPLE MUST WORK ON THEIR OWN PROBLEM

If there is one thing more than another that I wish lonely people could be made to realize it is that they themselves are the ones who primarily have to solve their own problems.

So many boys and girls, men and women—mostly the unmarried, widows and widowers in this group, of course—write me about how lonely their lives are, and want to know what they can do about it. It never seems to occur to them that the first move toward doing something about it, and many subsequent moves as well, must come from them.

To those lonely people who are unmarried, and who are firmly convinced that marriage would solve their problem, there is another important thing that should be emphasized. This is that while it would be a very fine thing if a happy marriage came their way, it is perhaps even more likely that life thoroughly and delightfully lived without a husband or wife.

I get many letters that [illegible] me from women who have been married to one husband for "Since my husband died [illegible] ago I hardly ever get out of the house except to see my mother. I find life so lonesome, and trying to bring up my three children by myself is so hard. My friends tell me I should go out more often by myself, but I don't know where to go.

"If you could help me find a little happier life and tell me where I could go to meet decent people of my own age, I will surely appreciate it. I would specially like to meet a nice man who might make me a good husband."

The first thing I think this young woman should do is to stop pitying herself. The next is to stop making the finding of a new husband the primary concern of her life. If she will do as I suggest, and start taking steps to broaden her circle, she certainly can, as I have said, find that there is much happiness to be had even though one is single.

Why can't she start by having good times with the friends she already has? Has anything that except for visiting her mother, she has scarcely been out of her home since her husband's death. I can't understand why she hasn't.

If her problem is her children, she and her friends, many of whom no doubt also have children, certainly could take turns baby-sitting with each other's young-sters and their own, leaving the others free for an afternoon of fun. Or they could all of them get together in the home of one of the group, say once a week or so, bags, and see or play cards while their children play together? There are all sorts of ways of arranging these things if people will just use their heads a bit.

The good way to make friends and acquire more interests is to take part in some community activity. Life is always richer when we do something to help others. Also, there is no better or quicker way to make new friends of both sexes than to take an active part in some type of community enterprise. Since this woman apparently lives near enough to her mother to visit her easily, no doubt her mother would be glad to take care of the children occasionally to leave her free to take on some regular activity.

Any of these things makes a good beginning for a wider social life, but it takes real initiative for anyone to make a start, and initiative is something no one can give another person. It must be found within one's self.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

FOR MOTHER'S DAY—A TOUCH OF BEAUTY

A bottle of perfume or any other form of fragrance is the ideal Mother's Day gift.

With only one week more to shop for your Mother's Day gift, are you wracking your brains wondering what to get? And will you wind up doing just what you did last year, and the year before that and, Heaven only knows how many years before that—getting a couple of pairs of hose, fin the case of mother, or a slip that's too small, or a handbag that's the wrong color? Or are you willing to settle for the conventional box of candy which won't be one bit of help to her figure, or a bunch of carnations that will land in the waste basket, tired and wilted within two days? Why, why, why do we do these things, girls?

This year let's all use a little imagination. Let's try to remember that Mom works hard all year 'round, that she spends every available penny on her family, and never thinks of herself. Let's remember that Mom's not only a wife and a mother, but she's also foremost, a woman. And that, as such, she loves the little touches of beauty and luxury which she had in her youth but which she seldom buys for herself now.

With this thought in mind, it's easy to think of dozens of lovely gifts which she'll appreciate—not for just one day but for a long time to come.

Perfume is one sure-fire hit. If Mom's busily buying clothes for rapidly-growing children, perfume's probably a luxury she does without. So why not buy some for her? If you can't afford the extract itself, a lovely toilet water or cologne will do the trick. Or, you may try one of the perfume concentrates. In stick or cream form, they're comparatively inexpensive and are long-lasting, too.

Also welcome are new lipsticks—especially those which come in beautiful jewel-colored cases. You might get her some of new facial creams, or such fragrance accessories as bath salts, dusting powder, wonderfully scented soaps. The list is endless. All you have to do is go to your favorite cosmetics counter and look over the items you'd just love to have for yourself. Then, instead of buying for yourself, buy it for Mother one for Mom. It may be hard to believe but, deep down in her heart, Mom's still a girl, and the touch of beauty and loveliness which appeals to you is equally thrilling to her.

GOOD MANNERS

TODAY'S FAVORITES: SHADED ANTIQUE ROMAN AND SCRIPT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm about to start shopping for my wedding invitations. I've been studying the advertisements, but I can't decide what type of lettering to choose. What do you consider the most popular lettering for wedding invitations and announcements today? — B.B.

The favorite type of lettering for today's brides is, I should say, Shaded Antique Roman. Deservedly so, too, I think, for this lettering is graceful, effective, youthful. However, always in excellent taste, indeed the most conservative and traditional lettering is Script, either the conventional size Script or the larger lettering, the handsome London Script. (Warning: If you do choose Script, please don't choose the too-small lettering, which has a skimpy appearance.)

BETTER SERVE BOTH TEA AND COFFEE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it really incorrect, as I have been told, to serve coffee instead of tea at an afternoon "Tea"? I like coffee so much better than I do tea! — Dorothy.

As a general rule it would not be correct or the hostess to offer only coffee when she invites guests to a "Tea." But it is entirely correct, and has become quite customary, to serve coffee as well as tea in the late-afternoon. If you are absolutely positive that all the guests you are expecting as well as you yourself, prefer coffee, then you will probably be safe in serving only coffee. However, in the spirit of true hospitality, you must not serve just what you prefer, but, in so far as possible, you must provide a choice for your guests. And many people remember still prefer to drink tea at tea time!

INFORMATION ON MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. It is, we understand, correct to include the date on the formal marriage announcements. Yes?

2. But when announcements of an elopement are sent out, and quite a long time has elapsed between the marriage and the announcement of the marriage, is it absolutely necessary to give the name of the small town and the name of the state where the ceremony was performed? — Reader

1. Yes . . . on these announcements the date when the ceremony was performed must be given, even when the announcement is sent out some time later and regardless of how much time has elapsed since the marriage.

But good as my word I did keep on with my experimenting and think I've turned up a pecan pie for the records. It is packed with calories. Just cast your eye over the recipe and if you are underweight start winding yourself up for a baking session.

I served it for dessert to ten on Easter Sunday after a main course of roast turkey, which is another story you will read tomorrow. Pete and my sister Doris were the waiters on that occasion and when they brought those pies to the table all of the reducers, of which there were five, wilted and stopped struggling. The temptation was too much and no one resisted, and all were glad. See what you think of

EMMEN'S NORTHERN PECAN PIE

When you finish reading this you will no doubt say it is an expensive pie. I know. But on special occasions you will want just such a recipe to draw on to raise some hosannas. Five eggs, ¼ cup melted butter or margarine, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 4 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1½ cups maple syrup, 1 cup pecans (small size—4 oz.), ¼ teaspoon salt, heavy cream to whip for topping. Beat eggs well and add butter, sugar, syrup, vanilla, lemon juice. Mix well until sugar is dissolved then add pecans. Pour into unbaked 9-inch pie shell in glass or aluminum pie plate. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 300 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes longer or until set at centre. Note: If very large eggs are used this will fill a 10-inch pie plate. When removed from oven coat at room temperature then chill if desired. Just before serving decorate top with unsweetened whipped cream and garnish it with whole pecans. Next morning avoid the scales. Still have a sweet tooth? Read on!

MAPLE ICING

Into a saucepan put 2 cups sugar, 1 cup maple syrup, ½ cup milk, 2 tablespoons corn syrup and cook stirring constantly to 238 deg. Fahr. (soft ball when dropped in cold water). Remove from heat, add 1 tablespoon butter, do not stir, let cool to 110 deg. — candy feels warm when pan is held with palm on outside. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla then beat with spoon or electric beater until mixture looks dull and small amout when dropped from spoon holds its shape. Add 1 cup chopped nuts and stir and pour onto buttered pan 9 x 5 inches. When cool cut into squares. 1¼ lbs.

Mother Starts Children Early To Learn to Ski

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Lois Fergstad, a former United States national women's slalom and downhill ski champion and now a mother of two, believes in starting children early on skis.

Her two-year - old daughter, Janet, was seen on skis on Mount Norquay here recently, navigating quite well and extricating herself whenever she got tangled up.

The Fergstads live at Lacombe, Alta., but Mrs. Fergstad—the former Lois Woodworth—was born and raised in this Rocky Mountain resort where she was a ski instructor for two years before her marriage.

She holds the Avril Harriman Sun Valley cup and was on the Canadian FIS ski team at the competition in Aspen, Colo, several years ago.

"Children are easier to teach than adults," said Mrs. Fergstad. "They obey you immediately and don't care how they look in doing it. If they learn young enough, skiing will come so naturally they won't ever have to 'cork at it.'"

Mrs. Fergstad's second daughter is five months old.

British Pilot Is First Woman Captain on Scheduled Airliner

BACK INTEREST

LONDON (CP)—A slight, dark-haired woman, who took up flying as an act of bravado when only 16, today holds a place in British aviation history as the first woman captain on a scheduled airline.

Dolores Moggridge, a 36-year-old South African known as "Jackie" to her colleagues, is a familiar sight to her neighbors at Taunton, Somerset, in her chic navy uniform of jacket, trousers and peaked cap trimmed with gold braid.

"I think I look like a musical-comedy admiral in this get-up," she said, "but it's appropriate for a flier's job."

She decided to call herself "Jackie" 20 years ago, "Whoever heard of a pilot called Dolores?" she asks.

At 17 she came to Britain from Pretoria to gain her professional flying licence and she has spent most of her time in and around aircraft despite being a housewife and mother of an 11-year-old daughter.

WARTIME SERVICE

During the war she served as a radar operator with the Women's Auxiliary Air Force and later ferried planes in the Air Transport Auxiliary, flying bombers from factories to airdromes. She was awarded the King's commendation for services in the air for her work.

"There aren't many planes I can't fly," she acknowledges under questioning. "I flew 85 different types of bombers during the war and I've even flown Meteor jets."

In her present capacity she flies passenger planes to the Channel Isles and the continent during the summer season. The rest of the time she ferries British aircraft to airdromes in the Middle East.

Her husband, a building contractor, views her flying career with benevolent tolerance but occasionally says it's time she got the flying bug out of her system.

Recently, she completed her autobiography Woman Pilot and if things go well she'd like to do more writing. Meanwhile, she wants to achieve a long-cherished ambition—to break through the soundbarrier.

A British air ministry ruling prevents women taking Sabre-jet courses, but Jackie hopes she'll persuade them to overcome their prjudice sometime.

Delta Marsh, Manitoba

Crossroads of Duck World

At Manitoba's Delta waterfowl research station a scientist studies the "impressionability" of day-old ducklings.

These babies believe him to be their mother and follow him everywhere he goes.

Special studies of wild geese are made from behind portable "blinds" set up in the marsh. The theory is that ducks cannot count; if one person leaves the "blind" they think all have left and carry on unselfconsciously.

Quick-drying paint is daubed on the wings of a mallard drake so that he can be easily recognized in flight for study purposes. The paint does not interfere with flight and is lost during the next moult.

Crossroads of the duck world, Delta Marsh, stretching for 19 miles at the foot of Lake Manitoba is the site of one of the world's foremost waterfowl research stations. Captive flock are studied under natural conditions by scientists and students who come from all parts of Canada, the U.S., England and New Zealand to study with the small permanent staff of biologists. Netted cornucopia decoys ducks to slatted trap at narrow end.

A biologist finds a nest in the marsh and "candles" an egg to discover how advanced the incubation is. Only the research station itself and the little village of Delta are bird sanctuaries.

Mallard nests of dried reeds prove effective in encouraging ducks to nest at specific spots in the marsh. The station also attracts many famous bird artists.

Cartier
copper and Canada

As Jacques Cartier sailed into the welcome, quiet waters of Baie des Chaleurs in 1534, he and his men caught their first sight of Indians on the shore . . . and their hands involuntarily clasped the copper-gilted weapons at their sides.

The gesture was symbolic, though they knew it not. For some 420 years later, amid the vast virgin forests, was to rise the Gaspe copper smelter . . . a new source of work and wealth for Canadians.

Chrysler Corporation Stages Most Sensational Comeback Record in Car Industry

DETROIT (AP)—Not on a wing and a prayer but on a fin and a prayer! That's the way Chrysler came back.

Somewhat oversimplified, this sums up one of the basic reasons why Chrysler Corporation so far this year has staged one of the most sensational comebacks in automotive history.

Those fins jutting into the air on each side of the Chrysler make of cars caused a lot of talk among auto owners. More important than that, the over-all rakish styling caught on fast in the market place. Results as of now:

Last week Chrysler reported first-quarter earnings of $46,545,521 equal to $5.34 a share on record sales of $1,150,723,712. In the same period last year the corporation had earnings of $10,905,772 or $1.25 a share on sales of $743,349,267.

GAMBLE PAYS OFF

Chrysler spent more than $300,000,000 to bring out the 1957 line of cars. They had lower silhouettes, wider grilles and those high, sweeping rear fender fins. The whole styling change was as nearly revolutionary as anything in auto industry history. Chrysler called it the 1960 style brought into the 1957 market.

It was a gamble with public taste, but it's winning.

The No. 3 member of the auto industry's "Big Three," which includes General Motors and Ford, Chrysler is taking a substantial slice of the market away from General Motors. GM currently is down about eight per cent from last year's production and sales.

Chrysler has boosted its market penetration to more than 20 per cent so far this year against last year's 16.3 per cent. Its Plymouth division, which for three years had been running fourth in sales, behind GM's Buick division, is back in its historic third place.

With more than 29 per cent of the total car market, Chrysler is ahead of its 1957 goal. The next step undoubtedly will be the 23 per cent share it held before the slump in its fortunes.

Back of the big Chrysler resurgence are several outstanding figures—Lester L. Colbert, 54-year-old president of the corporation; Virgil Exner, who is director of styling; Paul Ackerman, director of engineering, and James Zeder, engineering vice-president.

Unlike his two predecessors in the Chrysler presidency — Walter P. Chrysler and Kaufman Keller —Colbert is not a mechanic.

He came to Chrysler through its legal department. Tall and solidly-built, Colbert is affable, a salesman and a tremendous worker.

Colbert became president of Chrysler Corporation in 1950. This was the time, say industry experts, when Chrysler needed a major overhaul. It needed a sharp departure, they say, from the ultra conservative styling that had marked the product of much of the early post-war period.

Colbert started the rejuvenation program with a sweeping decentralization plan that made each division of the corporation autonomous. But it was 1955 before Chrysler built a car wholly along Colbert's ideas.

TO ALL LIFE INSURANCE POLICYHOLDERS:

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Retirement Savings Plans Eligible for INCOME TAX DEDUCTIONS

The Income Tax Act (Canada) was recently amended to permit individual taxpayers to deduct from their income, within certain limits, premiums paid for retirement savings plans in 1957 and later years.

The savings portion of either a new or an existing life insurance policy may be qualified as a retirement savings plan. Existing life insurance policies therefore need not be surrendered in order to take advantage of this tax relief.

The possible advantages of the deduction should in each case be considered in relation to the restrictions required by law to be included in a savings plan to make it eligible for the deduction, and in relation to the policyholder's own particular tax circumstances.

Policyholders interested in the new deduction should consult their life insurance underwriters or their companies.

Diefenbaker Opens Two-Day Drive in Quebec

Prime Minister Defends Govt. In UN Stand

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—With a week of Maritime campaigning behind him John Diefenbaker today opens an intensive two-day drive for support along the Quebec side of the Ottawa River.

The Progressive Conservative leader had eight stops scheduled, mainly in Pontiac-Temiscaming by-riding unriver, in what will likely be his most active day since his tour began April 25.

His main speeches will be at Fort Coulonge, Campbell's Bay and Shawville in a riding which has not elected a Conservative since 1896.

Mr. Diefenbaker ended his Maritime trip Saturday with a whistle-stop swing along New Brunswick's north shore through four constituencies.

RADIO ADJUDICATION

First stop Saturday was at Moncton, where he said a Conservative government would set up an independent body to adjudicate in disputes between the publicly-owned CBC and private broadcasting stations.

At present the CBC was its own judge in such disputes, a situation which endangered "freedom of the individual to think and to hear."

He referred to Prime Minister St. Laurent's letter of protest to the CBC last fall about a radio commentary by a professor at Winnipeg.

This was undeniable evidence that the government "having stultified Parliament may move further ahead, unless stopped, to dry up the wells of free information to which Canadians are entitled."

BUY OUT MATINEE

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke to some 650 persons in a Moncton theatre where the local party organization bought out the matinee show, and later let children in for a free movie.

Running connection was a Liberal nomination convention in a nearby high school, attended by an estimated 450.

The Conservative leader spoke to about 625 at Campbellton in the evening in another movie theatre. He followed nearly two hours of preliminary speech-making and held his own address down to about 30 minutes.

He said the Liberal government for years has been content to allow the export of raw materials for processing in other countries. This was not the way to build the country and provide jobs.

A Conservative government would carry out a program of regional development "to round out Canada's first 100 years as a nation."

Between Moncton and Campbellton he made three whistle stops, using for the first time a loudspeaker at the rear platform of his private railway car.

About 150 turned out at Rogersville, an unscheduled stop; another 150 at Newcastle, and 100 at Bathurst.

heckled. Sharpest heckling was at Vancouver Friday night when he pledged federal aid to develop the Columbia River for power, a project that might take as much as $1,000,000,000 to complete.

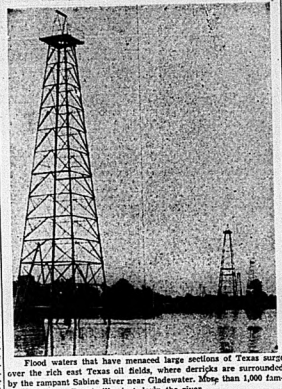
The heckling of one unidentified man who later described himself as a CCF'er was so persistent that the crowd shouted: "Throw him out! Throw him out!"

There was also some heckling during his foreign policy speech here Saturday. However most of his speech was greeted by loud applause.

Mr. St. Laurent's speech covered the world front, including the Hungarian situation, the "precarious peace" of the Middle East, and reasons why Canada should continue to support the United Nations.

MID-EAST REVIEW

There were three reasons why the UN succeeded in bringing peace to the Middle East.



"It was because the United Kingdom and France are great responsible nations, schooled in democratic traditions and therefore heedful of majority opinions.

"It was because Israel is aware of the facts of life, which for her means that she must some day reach a mutually acceptable accommodation with her Arab neighbors if she is ever to know peace.

"It was because Egyptian leaders—little as we may think of them—are realistic enough to appreciate that the only practicable alternative — complete identification and collaboration with Moscow and acceptance and another satellite—carries with it too great risks for her national freedom and independence."

Earlier, Mr. St. Laurent visited the little town of Ladysmith—population 2,000—where he held his youngest baby of its campaign—one-month-old Patrick Canning.

Barbiturate Jags Serious Problem In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Teen-agers on barbiturate jags are becoming a serious problem in Montreal, says Police Inspector Walter Boyle.

He says the youngsters buy the drugs in drug stores and use them to produce "a cheap drunk with no after effects." The "goof balls," as teen-agers call them, cost about 13 cents each.

One or two are enough to induce sleep, authorities say, and five or six have the same effect as liquor. Although the long-term effects were not as serious as those of regular narcotics, continued use could create a hard to-break habit.

Legally, they can be sold only on prescription, but Inspector Boyle says it is difficult to pin down offending druggists, since sales are usually made only by the proprietor to people he knows. Police have warned druggists against selling the pills, but so far have been able to revoke licences of only the most obvious offenders.

In one Montreal district police estimate there are three or four gangs who take goof balls regularly. Social workers and youth leaders say it is difficult to tell "hopped - up" youngsters from those who are merely drunk.

"You suspect them only when their co-ordination is out of kilter and they have a dull, glassy stare," said one.

The same leader said she believes most teen-agers have no idea the drugs can be dangerous. In an effort to exclude barbiturate - affected youngsters, some youth centres have laid down strict rules governing attendance at dances for teen-agers.

Mr. Rutledge, winner of the academic non - fiction award, died almost exactly a year before receiving it. Although it has been the board's policy not to make posthumous awards, it was decided that Century of Conflict should be declared the prize-winning book since the author was alive when the decision was made.

Mr. Rutledge was a graduate of the University of Toronto and became associate editor of Maclean's under Arthur Irwin. He had also been managing editor of the Canadian edition of Liberty. One of the poems in A Window on the North is adaptations from the Russian, written while he was in charge of affairs at the Canadian embassy in Moscow. Some of the others are translated from the Portuguese.

Socred Leader Expects Liberals To Lose in East

ABBOTSFORD, B. C. (CP) — Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said Saturday night Prime Minister St. Laurent is "pleading with tears in his voice" for the Western Canada vote because the Liberals expect to lose heavily in the East.

Mr. Low opened his three-day federal election campaign tour of British Columbia with a public address to 600 persons who half-filled the high school auditorium in this Fraser Valley farming centre.

The prime minister sent his son Jean-Paul ahead to try to convince the people that we were nuts and crackpots," Mr. Low quipped on Social Credit leader said.

He was speaking in reference to a statement made by the prime minister's son in Calgary that Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Mr. Low is a "crackpot."

He said after an examination of the achievements of the two Social Credit governments in Western Canada that they have done a marvellous job for a bunch of nuts and crackpots.

RAPS LIBERAL PLEDGES

Mr. Low criticized Mr. St. Laurent and Fisheries Minister Sinclair—whom he called the prime minister's "water boy"—for promises of federal aid in developing the Columbia River hydro-electric potentialities.

He said if the promises were not merely "an election dodge" Premier Bennett would have been invited to Ottawa and the offer would have been made in writing.

"The Liberals are a very promising party," he said, "but not so hot when it comes to keeping promises."

Mr. Low said the prime minister is worried about the political strength of the Liberal party in B.C.

"PUBLICITY BUREAU"

"The fact is that the so-called Liberal party is not going to have a than a well-financed publicity bureau. They have no grass root organization anywhere and they have to pay for everything they get done."

Mr. Low said the Liberal party does not have any support in the West because it has slowed down the country's development with the "right-wing policy" and "unwarranted intrusion" into provincial affairs.

The Liberal government has failed to come to grips with the financial problem of raising taxation, he added.

Not a single heckler interrupted the hour-long address.

Swedish Princess Called Home

LONDON (AP) — The Sunday Express says Princess Margaretha, 27, of Sweden, has flown home from England on orders of her grandfather, King Gustaf, because he disapproved of her romance with a London jazz pianist.

Until recently Margaretha had been living in London with friends of her mother, Princess Sibylla, and the Duke of Kent, British palace at Stockholm. Her father was killed in a plane crash 12 years ago.

The report says Margaretha has been ordered to see or get in touch with 25 - year - old Robin Douglas-Home, 25, who is in the London advertising agency by day and plays the piano every night in a Mayfair restaurant.

He sought royal permission to propose to the princess and was told it was "quite impossible." Douglas-Home is the nephew of the Earl of Home, lord president of the council and Conservative leader in the House of Lords.

Police said it was reported constable Nixon arrived home about 2 a.m. and that a quarrel developed during which his service revolver was fired at least four times.

Shipping Companies See Big Increase in Travel to and From Europe This Season

NEW YORK (AP— — The big rush to see Europe is on.

Shipping companies believe they will equal or exceed their 1956 record of transporting 1,004,000 transatlantic passengers.

The airlines expect to carry far more than the 785,000 they carried last year.

If you decide to go abroad by ship and haven't yet made reservations, your chances are slim if you want to travel tourist or cabin class. They're better if you are thinking of more expensive first class reservations.

Tourist and cabin berths were booked practically solid months in advance of the tourist season—April 1 to August 31.

The scramble for seasonal berths persists despite airline competition and the increasing total of passenger ship tonnage on the Atlantic.

Seventy-six liners, more passenger ships than at any time since 1933, will ply the sea lanes from United States and Canadian ports to Europe this summer.

Joseph Harper, chairman of the Transatlantic Passenger Conference, an association of 29 steamship lines, reports that only a scarcity of ship tonnage holds up phenomenal increases in seasonal passenger totals.

"Nearly every one of our 25 member lines reports that during the peak of the high season they would be carrying at least two or three times as many passengers if they had the ships to accommodate them," Mayper said.

Four new ships are providing about 3,700 berths and a 5-to-1 emphasis on tourist space over first class this year. Six others will be transferred from other runs to transatlantic service.

Two of the new ships will be on the United States-Europe run, first the Holland-America Line's Statendam, which arrived in New York on her maiden voyage in February, and the Swedish American line's Gripsholm due next month.

Two other newcomers will ply between Canada and Europe. They are the Canadian Pacific's Empress of England and Cunard's Carinthia.

The transatlantic conference estimates that 1,200,000 berths for Europe - bound travellers — 2,800 to and from the United States and 1,600 to and from Canadian ports.

One important factor in the increasing overseas traffic is the mass movement of tourists to and Europe. These attract thousands from the western hemisphere.

Tension Arises Again as Strikers Arrive for Pay

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)— Tension mounted again here today as 500 non-resident striking employees of Gaspe Copper Mines began arriving to pick up their weekly strike pay.

Some 500 United Steelworkers of America (CLC) members from various parts of the Gaspe Peninsula were expected in the pay line-up to live here in the weekly lineup for cheques.

The strike entered its ninth week today and appeared to be nearing a showdown as the company, Noranda Mines subsidiary, pressed to get its mine and smelter back in operation.

The union planned to take advantage of strike-pay day to hold a mass meeting here tonight to discuss the situation.

WORKERS RETURNING

Last Monday the company officially opened its mine and workers, both union and non-union, have been trickling in all week.

J. H. Stovel, a company official from Toronto, said: "We have about 250 to 300 persons at work now and another 100 are expected to start production on a restricted scale."

USWA spokesman Roger Bedard said there are "no more than 20 men back at work."

Foreman John Poirier estimates 150 strikers have returned to their jobs since strong attachments of provincial police and company-hired private detectives moved into the area last weekend.

LAST-CHANCE RUMOR

A persistent rumour in this company town maintains a company campaign urging a return to work will be the last attempt to feed the men for their jobs.

The rumour says company plans to bring in large numbers of non-union workers to get production going by the middle of May. If they do Company officials could not be reached for comment.

The trouble started last June when a company-obtained injunction restrained the Quebec labor relations board from hearing the union's application for certification.

The strike started in March 11, five days after the company dismissed the union's local president.

Still Criticizing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry Truman, recipient of the "profiles in courage" award Sunday he got a dose of the same from the boss'—Mrs. Truman—for suggesting that President Eisenhower doesn't spend enough time in Washington.

The former president had told reporters who accompanied him on an early morning walk Saturday that "you guys would be tired and bolled me in oil if I'd spent that much time away from the White House."

He told strolling newspaper men Sunday that his wife "gave me hell" for this remark. But Truman went on to criticize Eisenhower anew, saying no one is more disappointed in the present administration than he is.

Beck and Aides Summoned Before Labor Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor today called on Dave Beck and other teamsters leaders to answer charges that their union is dominated by corrupt influences.

Beck and a dozen other members of the teamsters union's executive board were summoned to a closed meeting of the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee to hear a detailed reading of the charges and to give their reply.

The position of George Meany, AFL - CIO president, and other leaders of the 15,000,000-member federation is that the big teamsters organization must clean out its corrupt leaders or be expelled out of the federation.

ALLEGE PERSECUTION

The Beck statements from Beck and his union have been to the effect they are being persecuted, that nothing is wrong in the 1,500,000 - member trucking union, and that most of the union's needed.

Beck and some fellow teamsters leaders have been under fire from Senate investigators for alleged misuse of union funds and for union funds.

Beck, indicted last week on counts of federal income tax evasion, has been summoned for two appearances before committees of the Senate committee, headed by Democratic Senator John McClellan of Arkansas.

UNDER SUSPENSION

Beck is under suspension as an AFL-CIO executive council and is due to answer, at a May 20 hearing before the federation's ethical practices committee, charges that he has brought the labor movement into disrepute.

The charges against Beck also figure in a lawsuit filed by the union, for he has acknowledged personal use of $30,000 to $400,000 in teamsters union funds.

Beck says he repaid the money, which he says he borrowed in interest-free loan, but he refused to discuss it with the Senate investigators, insisting the constitutional amendment privilege against possible self-incrimination.

Hees Maintains Liberals Soon To Pick Leader

LINDSAY (CP) — Progressive Conservative George Hees said Saturday night the Liberals will hold a leadership convention soon after the party's election of leadership to pick either External Affairs Minister Pearson or Finance Minister Harris to succeed Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Mr. Hees, former president of the national PC Association, told a Victoria riding nominating convention: "The Liberals are definitely" misleading the nation by pretending Mr. St. Laurent is the leader of the future. Mr. Hees said the prime minister is "in his 76th year; has been taking less and less of an active part in the proceedings of Parliament."

Premier Frost told the meeting the big issue in the federal general election is a better Dominion-provincial tax deal. He said the future should be financed out of the prosperity of the country rather than by the small landowner.

Says St. Laurent Laurier's Peer

TIMMINS (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Saturday night that in meeting Saturday that Prime Minister St., Laurent "will go down in history as the greatest prime minister Canada ever had."

"He will go down to stand in shadow of either Laurier or King," Mr. Howe said, addressing a Timmins riding nominating convention.

Edward Grieg, the Norwegian musical composer who died in 1907, was a descendant of a Scotsman who moved to Norway in 1779.

Wide Difference in Numbers Of Persons Each Member Represents in Parliament

OTTAWA (CP)—Although every Commons member has one vote when Parliament, there are wide differences in the number of persons each represents.

York-Scarborough constituency in Ontario had a population of 167,310 persons at last year's census, while Iles-de-la-Madeleine in the Gulf of St. Lawrence had 11,-356 residents.

These are the extreme departures from the general rule of representation by population under which Commons representation is decided after each decennial census. The last redistribution was made in 1952 after the 1951 census, and the next change will not be made until 1961.

MEMBERSHIP 265

Thus constituencies in the June 10 election are unchanged from the 1953 election.

The federal constitution specifies there shall be 265 Commons seats from the provinces, plus one each from the Yukon and Northwest Territories, for a total 263.

However, present Commons membership is 265 because of a proviso that represented that a province may not decline by more than 15 per cent at each redistribution. In 1952, Saskatchewan membership would have fallen from 26 to 21 through division by population, but the 15-per-cent rule left it with 25 members.

Thus total house membership is larger by two than it would otherwise have been.

There is another exception to the rule of setting provincial membership strictly according to population. It provides that no province shall have fewer seats in the Commons than it has in the Senate.

FOUR SEATS IN P.E.I.

Prince Edward Island, on a population basis, now would be entitled to two Commons seats. But it retains four seats, since it has four Senate seats.

The same provision, at the next redistribution, will see a New Brunswick's Commons membership drop from 15 to 10 unless it gets more than the number of Senate seats it holds.

This is the present distribution by provinces: Newfoundland 7, Prince Edward Island 4, Nova Scotia 12, New Brunswick 10, Quebec 75, Ontario 85, Manitoba 14, Saskatchewan 17, Alberta 17, British Columbia 22, Yukon 1, Mackenzie River 1.

After the rules are applied, every 10 years, to determine how many Commons seats each province may hold, the business of dividing up constituencies within each province is left to the Commons.

Every redistribution produces a charge of "gerrymandering" when it is time boundaries for party purposes) against the party in power and there has been some agitation to turn the job over to an independent commission, as in the United Kingdom.

NOT STRICTLY APPLIED

The population rule is not strictly applied in dividing up constituencies within each province. It is generally considered that urban ridings should have larger populations than rural ones. There also is considerable reluctance to upset greatly the established constituency boundaries.

Thus in the 1953 election, while the total vote ranged between 10,-000 and 20,000 in most ridings, there were 21 constituencies where the total of counted votes exceeded 30,000.

Some of the 21 were in the Toronto and Montreal districts. But in Halifax constituency, which returns two Commons members and each voter casts two votes, 124,316 votes were cast. Other three and single-member ridings in terms of votes counted were St. John - Albert and Westmorland - Kent in New Brunswick with 38,161 and 37,047 respectively. Hamilton in Ontario's Wentworth area district, with 36,887.

Largest ridings in terms of area of members, were those in the Northwest Territories, with 527,490 square miles, and Quebec's Saguenay, which extends from the Saguenay River north to Hudson Bay and Ungava Bay and has 374,950 square miles.

Smallest is Montreal Cartier, covering seven-tenths of a square mile.

Ngo Dinh Diem, President Of Vietnamese Republic, Now Strongest Asian Scene Leader

SAIGON, VIET NAM (AP)—When austere, scholarly Ngo Dinh Diem took over as his country's premier three years ago, the wise money was stacked against his chances of surviving for a month or two.

It seemed a safe bet. Diem—who once intended becoming a Roman Catholic priest and has sometimes a little monkish quality even after he decided against that—faced almost a formidable phalanx of troubles.

Across the 17th parallel divided Vietnam, Communists who had risen from the free South Viet Nam, the Viet Minh, were consolidating the effects of their flourishing subversion campaign below the border. In the South Viet Nam, private armies bedeviled the fledgling government, believed a Communist takeover imminent.

ONE OF ASIA'S STRONGEST

Tough - fibred Diem triumphed over all these obstacles. Today, as the first president of the Vietnamese republic, he emerges as one of the strongest leaders on Asia's fcbrile Asian scene.

When Diem proclaimed the republic Oct. 26, 1955, he aligned his government squarely with the democratic West. In order to survive, he said, "all democracies need . . . solidarity with regimes that have common ideals."

For many Asian Listeners, Diem's proclamation was the first colonial rule in Indochina added resonance. As his anti-Communist pronouncements, Diem has spoken up often and sharply.

In the black June days of 1954, the little ruddy - faced politician could hardly find enough men to form a cabinet, so sure were most of the experienced hands that his government was doomed to failure. His adversaries included as-

Witness of Disaster Recalling Every Detail Recounts Story On Eve of 20th Anniversary

Editor's note: On May 6, 1937, the dirigible Hindenburg exploded with terrifying suddenness while landing at Lakehurst, N.J., killing 36 persons. Murray Becker, who today is an Associated Press photographer, witnessed this disaster and took many graphic pictures of it for The AP. Twenty years later Becker recalls vividly every detail of those moments of terror. Here is his story.

By MURRAY BECKER

LAKEHURST, N.J. (AP) — It was a routine assignment. I was to take pictures of the dirigible Hindenburg when it landed at Lakehurst naval air station after a flight from Frankfurt, Germany.

The giant airship was scheduled to land at 6 a.m. on that May 6th 20 years ago. So I was on hand bright and early with several other photographers and a few reporters. But the hours dragged by and there was no sign of the Hindenburg.

Then about 4 p.m. someone shouted: "There she is!"

I looked up and saw the huge zeppelin floating majestically overhead the sun glinting on its silvery sides. Huge Nazi swastikas stood out brilliantly on the tailfins. I could see passengers moving about in the salon and crew members in the control section. On board were 36 passengers and a crew of 59.

Excited friends and relatives pressed closer to the fence near the hangar.

STORM CLOUD THREAT

But we learned from Cmdr. Charles Rosendahl, commandant of the station, that Capt. Max Pruss, Hindenburg commander, was wary of storm clouds and had radioed he would postpone a landing until at least 6 p.m.

Handling an 803-foot dirigible held up by 7,000,000 cubic feet of highly-inflammable hydrogen was easy job and Pruss wanted to be certain conditions were right before he came in.

I stood in the middle of the field and took some pictures of the ship as it glided past the mooring mast and headed south toward Atlantic City to escape the approaching storm.

Suddenly the wind swept the clouds overhead and a downpour drenched the field.

Shortly before 7 p.m. the Hindenburg, its lights blinking, returned to the field. The rain had turned to a drizzle.

I scrambled out to take pictures. At 7:20 the airship was gliding slowly toward the mooring mast at an altitude of about 200 feet. Two minutes later the ship was over the mast and two 400 - foot landing ropes were tossed to the ground crew. The Hindenburg's engines coughed slightly as the propellers reversed their direction, causing the ship to hover peacefully at a height of about 75 feet.

SUDDENLY AN EXPLOSION

I walked some distance away, hoping to get a picture of the giant at the exact moment it made contact with the mast. I wanted to shoot my picture from the tail looking under the belly toward the mast tower.

I never made that picture.

As I stood waiting for the zeppelin to swing around, a tongue of flame suddenly burst from the tail section. In the next second the section exploded.

"Oh, my God!" I shouted. I was stunned, but, with a photographer's instinct, I raised my camera and caught the ship on an even keel before it crashed to the ground seconds later.

Working almost automatically, I changed picture holders, rewound my focal plane shutter and within five seconds had a second shot of the huge ship striking the ground with flames pouring from the mast.

"I was conscious of a terrific blast of heat and of people screaming about me, but I ran forward, snapping pictures until the heat drove me back.

From a distance I recorded on film the smoking, twisted skeleton of this monster which only a minute before had been master of the air. Exactly 32 seconds after the first explosion the hydrogen had been consumed and only the red-hot metal framework remained.

SOME DID SURVIVE

Miraculously, survivors, many of them in flames, started emerging from the wreckage. Some were running, some crawling, others stumbling.

I continued to take pictures, repeating "Oh, my God" over and over.

I photographed a victim being led away two navy men. He was in a daze, his clothes completely burned away, his skin hanging from his arms. The Associated Press used this picture after painting some clothes on the man. I never was able to identify him and don't believe he survived.

After taking about 15 pictures I returned to the hangar where the press had set up headquarters. Here I arranged for a plane to carry my film to the Newark airport and for an Associated Press messenger to pick it up there.

Then I just sat down on the ground outside the hangar with my back against the wall and cried.

Inco Metals at work in Canada

In the platinum refining process, low octane naphthas flow through a bed of tiny pellets containing approximately 0.5% platinum. Contact with the platinum speeds the chemical reaction that changes the low octane naphthas to high octane compounds —the basis of most modern anti-knock gasolines.

INCO PLATINUM helps produce high octane gasoline in Canada

Using one of the world's most precious metals —platinum—many of Canada's oil companies are producing high octane anti-knock gasoline more economically than ever before! That is because the platinum causes a catalytic reaction that changes low octane naphthas into high octane fuel, and does this with maximum yield of marketable products.

A substantial proportion of the platinum used in Canada's oil refineries is Inco Platinum, mined by Inco workmen right here in Canada.

Platinum is one of the seven precious metals present in the Sudbury ores in recoverable quantities.

In oil refineries and other important Canadian companies manufacturing chemical, electrical, dental and medical products, and jewelry, Inco Platinum helps provide jobs for Canadians and better products for you.

This is another way that Inco helps stimulate the growth and development of Canada's economy.

Lift Suspensions On 4 Golfers

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Four tournament golfers given month suspensions for a poor effort in the Kentucky Derby Open have had their sentences alleviated with a probation of 90 days and a $200 fine.

Ed Carter, U.S. Professional Golf Association tournament bureau manager, said Saturday the players—George Bayer, Doug Higgins, Don January and Ernie Vossler—had admitted their guilt and expressed regrets for their actions.

He said that the players face stiffer penalties if they violate their probation.

The four were allowed to play in the Colonial National Invitation tournament now going on here because it was not a PGA co-sponsored event and was not bound by the rules of the PGA.

The four players were suspended for making a travesty of the game in protest against failure to receive permission to withdraw from the Kentucky Tournament. All said they wanted to withdraw from the third round because they were then out of contention for the money and didn't want to have the expense of playing further.

Vicenzo Wins Colonial Golf

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Roberto De Vicenzo, the play for fun" golfer who wins the big money incidentally, went home to Mexico City today ready to convert $5,000 first money in the Colonial National Invitation tournament into pesos.

"It weel be somethin' like 60,000 pesos," he smiled as he left the PGA golf tour. The others rolled on to Hot Springs, Ark., for a tournament starting Thursday.

De Vicenzo won Colonial Sunday with the highest score ever recorded—284 for 72 holes—but his cool, devil-may-care play down the stretch as Dick Mayer of La Jolla, Calif., saw his castle of dreams tolled by bogeys under the pressure was of championship caliber.

De Vicenzo had a two-under-par 68 third round and closed out with a 70 on the final while Mayer, who had taken a four-stroke lead to start the last 18 holes, wilted to a 75.

Third was Ed Furgol of St. Andrews, Ill., who had a 71-72 for 286, while down in a tie for 11th place at 291 was Art Wall Jr., who blew a two-stroke lead he held at the halfway point with 75 and 76 on the last two rounds.

Al Balding of Toronto hit 73-79-71-71 for a total of 294 and won $200. Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., hit 73-78-67-74 for a total of 292 and $531.25.

BUT HE'LL EAT 'EM

An editorial writer has taken it upon himself to belittle the popular brook trout, and those who deem this tastiest morsel of the skillet variety, a foeman worthy of his steel some May 1st.

This writer in the dusty confines of his office derides the use of the word "official" as related to the opening of the trout season. He probably scratched a greying noggin as he searched for the words he deemed were most suited to his editorial needs of the moment.

Wrote he, probably gnashing his teeth in frustration, "the word 'official' is a tribute to the propagandist skill, if not the piscatorial taste of a relative small coterie which delights in hauling smelt-like charr from ditch-sized creeks and calling the catch speckled trout."

He grudgingly admits "charr makes good eating . . . a five-pound rainbow . . . or a German brown of similar size . . . must produce a thrill." Note he used the word "must."

He brazenly states that "a man has to have some excuse to get outdoors and even a seven-inch fish is a better excuse than none." (Why doesn't he use it?)

He probably did not have to seek the Muse very long for this comment. For the rest, the trout fisherman's guilty conscience must probably bear the large share of the responsibility. With the storm windows still on, the lawn uncut, and the garden undug, he feels so one. He definitely displays a lack of knowledge of the fighting qualities of what he called the "chicken-poxed charr" when he says "that hooking a nibbling perch is ten times more difficult than snaring a trout . . ."

Tsk, Tsk, Tsk. This is frustration in its most glaring sense. Some kindly soul should take this writer in hand, lead him away from his tome-surrounded office and out into the pure clear air to the side of a babbling stream where the brooks abound, put a fishing rod in his hand and let him experience a new sensation.

For it is definitely clear that he is a victim of circumstance. He infers he knows something about the fighting qualities of a "pickerel or a lordly muskie," but there any connection with the landing of other piscatorial species ceases.

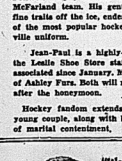
Reading between the lines one can only gather that he has never experienced the thrill of landing lightning hookfuls on opening — or any other day. There is definitely a yearning note in his editorial matter — and perhaps some of these springs he will be able to forego his loyalty to mesmerizing windows, smiling gardens and sweet-lawns and in a sudden show of strength of purpose, shout to all and sundry, "I'm going, anyway."

Editorials do not carry bylines, but this department has a very good idea as to his identity. If he is whom we think, then his attitude toward the speckles is understandable. Also his written statement in which he fails to understand why anglers travel long distances to get their trout. "With some of the biggest pickerel in the province poking their fins right up to our doorsteps every spring, going north for speckles would appear a strange performance to anybody but a fisherman."

For, and we may be mistaken, he is one of the type of anglers who are content to drift around in a boat close to home, lazily enjoying the warm afternoon or evening atmosphere, hoping that a good size pickerel, muskie, or even a pike will grab his lure, and in the event of "no luck," modestly relate the story of the big ones that got away.

There is only one cure for this rare anti-brook trout species. That is to "sidetap" him and, as was stated before, take him to a trout-infested stream, and turn him loose.

WITH BEST WISHES



There was a gathering of the hockey clans—and others, on Saturday. Jean-Paul Payette, popular McFarlands centre, took pretty Phyllis Favreau as his bride in a morning ceremony and later the Mass and where gave the happy pair a fitting sendoff on a two-weeks honeymoon in Montreal and other points.

Six of Paul's 11 brothers, as well as his two sisters and "Papa" Payette, looking as youthful as any of his stalwart sons, were there. More about this remarkable family later.

Jean-Paul, the "baby" of the family and its last bachelor, won a well-deserved popularity with players and fans alike in his first hockey season here. He won the beautiful Frank Follwell Trophy for the "most sportsmanlike" player of the McFarland team. His gentlemanly attitude, among other fine traits off the ice, endeared him to fandom and he is one of the most popular hockey players ever to wear a Belleville uniform.

Jean-Paul is a highly-esteemed, permanent member of the Leslie Shoe Store staff here with whom he has been associated since January. Mrs. Payette is on the regular staff of Ashley Furs. Both will return to their respective positions after the honeymoon.

Hockey fandom extends sincere congrats to a popular young couple, along with best wishes for a long, happy life of marital contentment.

Oust Chisox With Two Wins Unknown Handcuffs Bums As Cincy Climbs Into Third

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The question is: "Who did Ernie Johnson surprise the most—Brooklyn or his own manager, Fred Haney?"

The 28 - year - old righthander rankled somewhere back of everybody else on the Milwaukee pitching staff. Haney hadn't used him in a month—and the last time was in an exhibition game, against the Dodgers, in Fort Worth.

And when the Dodgers knocked out Bob Buhl, who had beaten them eight times last season, for a 5-3 first-inning lead Sunday at Ebbets Field, Ray Crone was Haney's relief selection. It wasn't until the fourth, after hittin' Henry Aaron had belted a three-run homer to cut the Dodger lead to 7-6, that Haney gave Johnson a call.

Johnson set down the first 15 men he faced and coasted up with a 10-7 victory—knocking in the clincher himself with a single in a three-run ninth off pulled Milwaukee into a two-game lead over the Brooks in the National League race.

BLOOPER ONLY HIT

Johnson struck out five, walked just one and yielded only a blooper to Gino Cimoli's blooper to left in the ninth.

Cincinnati put together the season's longest winning streak in other leagues, trimming Baltimore 6-2 and 7-3 for seven in a row that hoisted the third place Redlegs within a game of the Dodgers.

Elsewhere, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated Philadelphia twice, 8-2 and 4-0, with ex-Phillie Del Ennis driving in five runs. The New York Giants and Chicago Cubs split, the Cubs winning 8-3 in 10, then losing 6-2.

Braves got down to work after starter Sal Maglie left for a pinch-hitter as the Dodgers fanned five against Crone in the third. After Aaron, who had 4-for-5 and took the league bat lead with .417, made it close against Don Bessent, Milwaukee wrapped it up against Rene Valdes in the fifth. Roy Campanella's two-run homer was the big shot against Buhl in the first inning.

CRASHED INTO WALL

The Redlegs were touched by injury, with left fielder Frank Robinson forced out of the game for a time after crashing a wall. It was Robinson's three-run homer that bagged the opener for Brooks Lawrence, who had a five-strikeout six-hitter. Don Gross went all the way for the nightcap decision, helped by Gus Bell's second home run.

Ennis batted in three and Stan Musial two as the Cards scored four in the sixth and three in the seventh to win the opener after being held to three hits by Curt Simmons for five frames. Lloyd Merriman, gaining his first decision in the majors, shut out the Phils on three hits in five relief innings. Sam Jones then fourhit the Phils for the sweep, with Ennis' singles beating Harvey Haddix.

Cubs, who held lost nine in a row, blew a 3-1 lead in the ninth-inning of the opener, then came up with five in the 10th. In the second game, the Giants banked their offense slump with the help of errors, walks and Daryl Spencer's two-run homer.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

In games Saturday, Brooklyn beat St. Louis 4-2 on Charley Neal's two-run single in the ninth; Pittsburgh's Vern Law shutout Milwaukee with two hits for a 1-0 victory; Cincinnati scored five runs in the eighth to defeat New York 5-2, and Jack Sanford of the Phillies struck out 10 Chicago Cubs and pitched a four-hitter for a 3-2 decision.

LEAD BIKE RACE

DELHI (CP)—A strong American trio, Dick Courtwright, Ted Smith and Pat Cullinan, all of Buffalo, took a three-point lead over the Canadian team of Pat Murphy, Art Johnston and Fred Marcus of Toronto, at the close of the second day of the international nine-day bike derby here Sunday.

The two top teams lead third-place Montreal by one lap.

Royals, Richmond Drop Twin Bills; Toronto Wins

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The doubleheader whammy still has its hold on Richmond Virginians in the International League. The Vees have lost three of the four twinbills they've played this season—and each time they tumbled from first place.

This time Buffalo let Richmond have both barrels, winning 9-8 and 8-7, enabling the Miami Marlins to climb into the league lead alone after falling Montreal twice, 4-3 and 6-2.

Warm, sunny weather lured 12,000 to the Montreal doubleheader, the Royals' largest crowd of the season. At Buffalo, the Bisons' largest Sunday turnout in several years, 8,000, sat in on the doings.

SURFEW STOPS GAME

Toronto also scrambled ahead of the Virginians, by nine percentage points, in 7-3 decisions over Havana. The second game was halted 2-2 in the ninth inning when Toronto's curfew struck. It will be completed the first twilight's regularly 'scheduled game.

Rochester and Columbus split their doubleheader, the Red Wings winning 6-2 after a 2-1 defeat.

A grand slam home run by Frank Herrera got the job done for Miami in the first inning, handing Jack Spring his fifth straight win over the year last season his second after losing.

In the seven-inning second game the Marlins scored five in the fourth inning. Ellis Burton and Earl Hunsinger gave up two Montreal runs in the fifth, Burton's pinch homer in the fifth and gave way to the hitless relief work of winner Hank Foiles.

Richmond and Buffalo had themselves a field day with old-fashioned slugfests, with the Bisons hammering four home runs. A three-run homer by Eric Tipton with two out in the ninth capped a four-run Buffalo rally that gave the Bisons the sweep in the nightcap.

Four runs in the seventh gave Toronto the win in the opener. Rodriguez led the Leafs with four hits and three runs batted in. Don Johnson went all the way with an 11-hitter to win it. Vince Amoroso was the loser.

Doubles by Tony Bartirome and Johnny Lipon and a single by Howie Goss produced Columbus' two runs in the opener. Dick Hickerd won the nightcap in relief, working 4 2-3 innings after starter Gary Blaylock reinjured his elbow after one inning. Three runs in the third did it for Rochester. Tony Taylor was the loser.

On Saturday, the Leafs defeated Columbus 6-3 and 4-2. Starter Jim Pendergast edged Columbus 4-3; Montreal beat the Marlins 3-2 and Richmond downed Buffalo 5-4.

HOW TO BUY A GOOD USED CAR

When inspecting a used car most people have learned to check the engine oil by pulling out the dip stick. A close examination of the dip stick itself can tell you much more about the condition of the ENGINE . . . which is really what matters.

Short trip driving and failure to change oil frequently enough speeds up "acid action" in the engine of all cars. Eventually this acid attacks the steel surfaces of crankshaft, wrist pins, etc., until the engine is in sad condition.

With the dip stick wiped clean, examine it closely for pock marks, fine etching or other evidence of acid eating the surface. A badly pitted dip stick usually means that the engine is in the advanced stages of "acid action."

A used car is an investment in care-free driving. That's why it pays to buy quality . . . and QUALITY COSTS NO MORE AT PINDER'S.

Quebec Aces Take 3-1 Lead Edge Regals 4-2 in 4th Game

BY TOM MITCHELL

QUEBEC (CP) — Brandon Regals fell victim to the powerful Quebec Aces and the Edinburgh Trophy last Sunday.

Aces took a firm grip on the series—never won by a visiting team since its start in 1954—by defeating the Western Hockey League champions 4-3 and a 5-2 lead in the best-of-nine set. It was the first game between the two clubs which was decided by more than a single goal.

A crowd of 10,358 fans saw the Aces, Quebec Hockey League champs, score goals in every period. They led 4-0 before Regals scored twice in the last six minutes.

Stan Maxwell, Brent Macnab, Dick Gamble and Orval Tessier bedetied the Quebec tallies. Brothers Elliott and Bob Chorley counted for the westerners.

Maxwell potted Aces' first goal just past the mid point of the opening period. Regals netminder Lucien Dechene could not block the shot—coming from 18 feet out during a scramble. Brandon did not get a shot on Quebec goalie Al Millar until after the eight-minute mark.

Halfway through the second period defencemen Macnab made it 2-0 with a perfectly-executed slap shot from just inside the blueline.

Regals were unable to take advantage of four penalties issued to Aces during the period. Ted Lee Colwill came close with his shot bounced off the goal post.

Gamble made it 3-0 at 6:31 of the final frame. He took a pass from Floyd Hillman, carried in on Dechene and beat the high-flash shot from just outside the creasg. Tessier rounded out the Quebec scoring less than a minute later, gathering in a pass from teammate Marcel Bonin and poking it in from the corner of the net.

A penalty to Gamble set the stage for the first Regals' goal. Elliott Chorley triggered a high, partly-screened 30-footer after a pass from defenceman Bob Chrysler to break Millar's shutout at 16:51. Bob Chorley got the final tally—a low 10-footer—at 18:32.

Six of the seven minor penalties issued by referee George Gravel went to Quebec. Elliott Chorley's goal was the only one scored when a team was shorthanded.

Dechene blocked 21 Quebec attempts, 10 of them in the first 20 minutes. Millar stopped 19 for the winners.

The fifth game will be played here Tuesday night.

Parkdale, Whitby Victors in Hamilton Relays

HAMILTON (CP) — Parkdale Collegiate of Toronto won the A division of the annual Interscholastic Ontario Relay Carnival Saturday, winning out over favored Central Secondary School of Hamilton.

Whitby successfully defended its B title but it took a second-place finish in the final race of the day to edge Preston 20-18. Preston won the race, the 880-yard sprint medley, but Whitby's three points for second provided the victory margin.

Lilwell High School was the top point-getter of the day with 24 and took the C Championship over Niagara Falls and Oakville.

Upper Canada College set three records and wound up with 23 points in winning the D division for private schools. Ridley was second.

E, a new division for Niagara district schools, was won by Dundas.

In winning its third successive B crown Whitby captured the senior 880 and 440-yard races, was second in the sprint-medley relay and second in the junior 440-yard. Whitby ran the mile in a record time of 1:21.5.

Preston set a record of 1:45.5 in taking the sprint medley and equalled the 47.5 record in the junior 440.

Lilwell copped firsts in all three senior events and in the junior division in the C division. Niagara Falls and Oakville split wins in the other two races.

Dundas set a record of 46.6 in the 440-yard race and of 137.9 in the 880-yard event as they cleaned up E division.

Ridley won the 880-yard race for grade nine students but placed well behind Upper Canada College with 18 points.

Aston Villa Takes 'T' Coop' With 2-1 Win Over Manchester

By KEN MOTHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Peter McParland's tough Irish skull Saturday swept Aston Villa to a stunning 2-1 victory over vaunted Manchester United in the annual Football Association Challenge Cup final.

In a rough, bruising game played before a sellout crowd of almost 100,000 fans that included the Queen, McParland scored both the goals that spelled the end of the Busby Babes' drive to become the first team in 49 years to win the English League and cup double.

McParland headed home the first goal in the 23rd minute of the second half, but his shull did the real damage to Manchester before the game was six minutes old when he collided head-on with Ray Wood and the pounding United goalkeeper was carried off on a stretcher.

The injury, fourth to mar a Wembley final in as many years, is certain to be set off a furor over a revision of British soccer regulations that prevent the use of substitutes. Wood, left on the field for 30 minutes, then returned to spend most of the remaining time wandering aimlessly along the United right wing. He didn't return to the goalmouth until the final seven minutes and by then it was too late.

Villa failed to take advantage of the man advantage they enjoyed throughout most of the scoreless first half and Manchester appeared moving in for the kill in the second when McParland went into action. He leaped into the air to nail captain Johnny Dixon's lob and head into the corner of the net for the first goal.

Five minutes later he picked up a rebound to drive in a sizzling grass-cutter to make the score 2-0. United centre half Jackie Blanchflower, who took over from Wood, had no chance to save on either.

Centre forward Tommy Taylor got the lone Manchester goal with eight minutes to go.

Afterwards doctors said Wood had a fractured cheekbone. "We wanted Wood, who had blackouts after the collision, to stay off the field," United manager Matt Busby said. "But he pleaded with us to let him go back."

The Aston Villa victory preserved one record and added another for the Birmingham club. The league - cup double, which United had hoped to win, was last pulled off in 1896-97—by Aston Villa.

And the victory means that Aston Villa has won the massive silver trophy that is England's most coveted soccer prize seven times—once more than any other club.

MEMORIAL CUP ACTION

Goalie Claude Dufour of Ottawa Canadiens kicks aside a dangerous scoring thrust by Harvey Fleming (6) of Flin Flon Bombers during the fourth game of the best-of-seven Canadian junior hockey finals at Regina Wednesday night. Bombers won the game 3—1 to deadlock the Memorial Cup series at 2-2. Ottawa defenceman Andre Tardiff comes back to check Fleming. (CP Photo).

Flin Flon, Habs Play Tonight In Regina

REGINA (CP) — Flin Flon Bombers will have a chance to win the Canadian junior hockey championship tonight when they meet the eastern champion Ottawa Canadiens in the sixth game of their Memorial Cup final.

Bombers lead the best-of-seven series three games to two after defeating Canadiens 3-2 Friday. A seventh game, if necessary, will be played here Wednesday.

If Bombers win tonight, they will be the first western team since 1948 to bring the cup west. Port Arthur won in 1948 and Winnipeg Monarchs captured the championship in 1946.

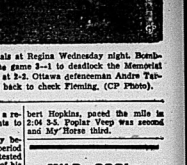
Manager-coach Sam Pollock of the Canadiens received a wire from Jimmy Dunn, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, warning him that he will be suspended should there be a repetition of Friday's complaints to the officials.

Pollock was ejected Friday before the start of the third period after he too vigorously protested a misconduct penalty to one of his players.

Pollock said his boys still haven't played top form in the series.

Ottawa lost forward Mike Legace who flew to Quebec City Saturday night to write university examinations.

Coach Bob Kirk of the Bombers is quiet, the presumably confident.



"So many Flin Flon fans are in Regina that we wonder who is looking after the mines back home," Kirk said. All the Bombers are in top shape and Kirk plans to use his regular lineup.

SHARON'S COUNSEL WINS

MONTREAL (CP) — Sharon's Counsel, a six-year-old bay mare owned by Dominion Motors Stable of Owen Sound Sunday captured the featured $1,400 Handicap Pace at Richelieu Park.

Sharon's Counsel, driven by Wilbert Hopkins, paced the mile in 2:04 3-5. Poplar Veep was second and My Horse third.

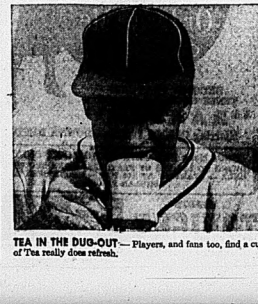
INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor



The diagram above shows why a second-baseman must be thinking baseball every second he is on the field. In this diagram the letter A shows his normal defensive position. B shows how he goes to cover first base when a ball is bunted down the first-base line.

C is his destination in backing up first base when a ball is bunted down the third-base line with the first-baseman taking the throw. D shows the path he takes when his opponents attempt a double steal with runners on first and third and a left-handed pull hitter at bat—the shortstop taking the throw from the catcher. E shows him moving in to take the throw from the catcher on the double steal with a right-handed pull hitter at bat.

F indicates the position he assumes with a right-field hitter at bat, and G where he moves when a left-field hitter steps into the batter's box. If it is where he goes when the infield is waved in by the manager to be in position to make a play on a base-runner who may be expected to try to score from third-base on any ball hit on the ground.

Probably the most common mistake young second-baseman make is that of playing too close to the hitter. Since you are closer to first base than the shortstop and third-baseman, you can play deeper and still throw out the batter—and playing on the edge of the outfield grass will enable you to field more balls hit to your left and right. However, you must get to know the opposing batters and shift your defensive position to cover the areas where they can be expected to hit the ball—keeping in mind the game situation, the kind of pitch your pitcher will throw and the condition of the playing field.

Room one Bidding went like this:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 C	1 D
Pass	1 H	Dbl	2 H
Pass	3 H	Dbl	All Pass

This doubled contract of three Diamonds went down two tricks for a loss of 300 points. No fool would have sense enough to get into such a contract. It takes brains to get into such trouble.

Room two bidding went like this:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	2 D
Dbl	Pass	Pass	Pass

The doubled contract of four Diamonds went down four tricks for a loss of 700 points. Of course, it was a tough situation. But only a man with a couple of silvells can afford such luxuries.

The excuse south has is that he uses these overcalls to interfere with opponents. But this is like using phone nose to block a sneeze. Why not find a defence that is less painful?

East and west would not have reached a contract worth more than 150. To prevent it, the loss of 700 or even 300 reminds me of the oldest merchandising line.

Hasman bought figs for two shekels and sold them for one. When told he was losing money, he sighed: "Ah, yes. But think of the big business I am doing."

Leafs Player Pulls Fast One On Sugar King

TORONTO (CP)—Pablo Bernard of Hawaii Sugar Kings Sunday learned a baseball lesson he'll probably never forget: Never trust an opponent.

Bernard was first base when Angel Hall came to bat in the fifth inning of an International League game with Toronto Maple Leafs.

While pitcher Don Johnson was delivering, Bernard took off and stole second base easily.

Scott, meanwhile, had swung at the pitch for a strike. But one of the Leafs yelled that the batter had tricked the ball.

Bernard took the Leaf player at his word and started casually back for first base. Pitcher Johnson threw to shortstop Hector Rodriguez who caught Bernard and tagged him out a few feet short of first base.

Northland Will Stay With OASA

COCHRANE (CP)—The Northland Football Association decided at its annual meeting Sunday to remain affiliated with the Ontario Amateur Softball Association.

There had been reports earlier that the group might break away from the Ontario association because of a rule change.

Bill Jocko of Virginiatown, secretary treasurer of the Northland association, said the rule, which allows Northern Ontario teams to pick up as many as three players if they have lost that many or more to hockey or football training camps and colleges, will be reinstated at the next meeting of the Ontario association.

The meeting here was attended by 2 delegates from such centres as North Bay, Rouyn-Noranda, Kapuskasing, New Liskeard, Kirkland Lake, Timmins and Cochrane.

Leo Del Villano of Timmins was re-elected president, Ed Rice of Rouyn, Que., was chosen vice-president; Nick Nastasiuk, Timmins, second vice-president, and Roger Lavergne, Cochrane, third vice-president.

Fight for Two Titles

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—G. K. Garnett, New Brunswick representative of the Canadian Boxing and Wrestling Federation, said Sunday night a proposed May 31 fight at Moncton between Yvon Durelle of Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., and Gordon Wallace of Brantford would be for two titles.

Durelle is Canadian light heavyweight champion and Wallace holds the British Empire crown.

Moncton promoter Frank Shabeen has been quoted as saying that if negotiations are completed quickly the Canadian title will be at stake.

The boxers could stage a non-title bout but could not fight for one title without putting both on the line, Garnett said. This information had been given him a few months ago by J. Onslow Fane, chairman of the British Boxing Board of Control.

7,000 See First Sunday Game

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast League played the first game of Sunday baseball this weekend under threat of prosecution. But that didn't stop a crowd of 7,000 persons from attending the game.

Mounties lost the first game with San Diego Padres 9-7. Mounties were leading 1-0 in the second when the game was called at the end of the sixth inning because of 6 p.m. Sunday curfew.

Before the game the Lord's Day Alliance said the Vancouver team would be prosecuted if they played.

The British Columbia legislature refused at its last session to legalize Sunday sport here.

Police checked the crowd at the game and took several names. They also questioned manager Cedric Tallis of the Mounties.

Said Tallis: "Whatever happens we're going to play next Sunday anyway."

12 New Adult Western Series Will Be on TV Next Season

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gunsmoke, the granddaddy of adult westerns on radio and television, is embarked on its sixth year — and what a brood it has sired.

No less than 12 new adult western series will be on TV next season, and it will take some agile channel switching to miss watching neurotic cowboys killing off neurotic gunslingers.

Gunsmoke Jim Arness has asked his agent to look for scripts with more adult appeal.

The adult westerns really came into their own during 1956 and, as a group, emerged the most popular shows on television. Big Jim Arness, the marshal Matt Dillon of Gunsmoke and Hugh (Wyatt Earp) O'Brian, a few years ago just featured players in the movies, suddenly found themselves international names.

Gunsmoke is one of the most popular television shows in London, where for some reason or other it is called Gunlaw.

BORN ON RADIO

The series, born on radio, is the brainchild of writer Norman Mestion and producer - director Norman MacDonnell. It started because the two adult westerners became annoyed with the cliche rut in which the traditional western had become bogged.

"We made a list of every western cliche and determined to avoid them at any cost — even our jobs," MacDonnell recalls. "For instance, the devotion of a cowboy to his horse. That's a lot of bunk. The two things a real cowboy loves best are his saddle and hat."

MacDonnell said the series also toned down action, previously the main ingredient of the movie western.

"We never have action for action's sake," he says. "In fact, we have never had a chase on Gunsmoke either on radio or television."

MacDonnell credits Mestion with first using the description "adult western" in selling the Gunsmoke series to CBS-radio.

CONRAD IN ORIGINAL ROLE

William Conrad was and still is the original Matt Dillon on radio. Network brass picked Arness for the TV version, mostly because of his tremendous 6-foot-8 frame.

The same height had been a handicap in his movies where shorter stars refused to work with such a towering actor.

Conrad, shorter and heavier, is probably closer to the original concept of Dillon as envisioned by Mestion.

Dillon is not all hero. He isn't pure and he often makes mistakes. He's even violated the movieland code of the west by shooting from ambush and sometimes in the back.

"We had one show," MacDonnell says, "where Matt killed four men but he was ashamed of himself afterwards."

Arness explains his license with the western code: "Look at the tombstones at Boot Hill cemetery. There were just as many shot from the back as from the front."

Barbarians Trim Western Team

VANCOUVER (CP)—The speed of the Barbarians, touring British rugby team, proved too much as they defeated the battling British Columbia All Stars 19-6 before 8,000 fans at Empire Stadium-Saturday night.

The British team scored two goals, two tries, and a penalty goal to the all stars' two penalties. At half time, the Barbarians led 6-3.

The game was marred by an injury to English forward C. R. Jacobs, who suffered a possible fractured hip in a goal-line collision with standoff-half Ted Hunt.

TIED IN SECOND HALF

Shortly after the interval Neil Henderson, All Star's brilliant kicker, tied the score at 6-6 with a penalty goal.

The close marking and hard tackling of the local side midway through the second period did not stop Barbarian forward R. W. Marques, who broke the tie.

In previous games of their tour, the Barbarians defeated the Ontario All-Stars 32-0 and 47-3.

AT THE PARK — In "Love Me Or Leave Me" . . . Doris Day and James Cagney as they appear in MGM's musical drama, "Love Me Or Leave Me", opening tonight at the Park Theatre. Highlighting the glamor and excitement of the Roaring Twenties, the new CinemaScope offering tells the story of Ruth Etting, singing sensation of Broadway and Hollywood whose name is still enshrined in the hearts of millions. On the same program a tense drama "Ransom", starring Glenn Ford and Donna Reed, Show starts tonight at 8.00 p.m., doors open 7.15.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was doing my homework on the living room floor on my stummick, and I started to make a mogg indistinct by the time I got my wuj feet like African drums when something is bee at the same time, and pop said, Sit Feet sake, Benny, what is the meme of all this racket you are making?

I'm doing my homework, pop, I said, and he said, Well I'll tell you what I'm doing, I'm trying to reed my paper agenst heavy odds, I'm trying to get the jump on two of this editorial 3 times, and it still hasn't come in, he said.

And for land sakes how can I do my bridge problem while you are making that gastly tumult and racket-ma said.

Me thinking, Heck. And I thought, Oh boy, if I'm as quiet as the middle of a cemetery and dont make a single sound they'll start to get nervius and think I am afraid of suddinly got struck by lightning or something.

And I layed there without moving and making not a sound breathing and didn't even hardly think, being a fierce stranger in my living but nobody didn't even notice it, and I thought, Heck, G rosh am I what do they care? I dont even think of me unless they hear me making some kind of a noise.

And I yelled out, Hee high ho, pop said, and ma said, One more sound and you'll leave the room. Making a fool better again and I kept on doing my homework with ordeserly sounds.

THIS IS CALLED CLIFF WASHING

An occupation that insurance companies might hesitate to cover is cliff "washing" on the sheer rock walls of the new highway to Bigota, Columbia. Here at Coquera, workmen are suspended from ropes as they smooth out projecting surfaces to prevent erosion and landslides. The 30-mile highway will open up the cattle country.

Municipal Votes In Britain Test Govt. Popularity

LONDON (Reuters)—A political test of strength got under way today when polling began in a weeklong series of elections for Britain's municipal councils.

The Conservative government hopes the local contests will demonstrate it is regaining its popularity among voters after a recent series of parliamentary by-elections showed a slump in support.

This fall-off in popularity was due partly to the Suez crisis but mainly, it is believed, to public discontent over the rising cost of living.

The municipal government elections involve a turnover of 7,500 council seats in England and Wales and 900 in Scotland. Only one-third of the total number of seats in each municipality is vacant because the councils are entirely reconstituted over a three-year cycle.

The Labor party is hoping to make considerable gains at the expense of government supporters.

The Socialists say the swing away from the government is continuing and is prompted by high living costs and the government's new bill to decontrol rents for 800,000 homes.

But Labor leaders point out that when the present group of seats was vacant in 1954, the Socialists won more than 600 from their anti-Socialist opponents and a further landslide in their favor now is unlikely.

The Labor party brackets all its opponents—whether running as Conservatives, Liberals, independents, ratepayers' representatives or Progressives—as pro-conservative, and reckon gains fro many of them as government party losses.

Anti-Socialists, despite Labor's constant encroachment in the last 30 years, still control between 65 and 70 per cent of the municipal governments.

Planes Stir Air, Save Grape Crop

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Killing frosts struck the Niagara Peninsula fruit belt Saturday and Sunday nights. District farmers said they recorded ground level temperatures as low as 23 degrees.

Before dawn today and Sunday, about 1 light planes rented by the fruit growers flew over grape vineyards to churn up the calm, cold air and raise the temperature.

George Hostetter, in charge of the grape vineyards of Bright's Wines Ltd., said it was too early to tell whether any damage was done. But he said he believes the company's vineyards were saved by the planes, adding that temperatures were raised about four degrees a few minutes after the aircraft churned up the air.

MORE THAN 400

WINDSOR (CP)—Customs and immigration officials and police officers from both sides of the international border were honored Thursday night at a testimonial dinner here.

The officers, from Port Huron and Detroit, Mich., and from Sarnia, Windsor and Niagara Falls, Ont., were honored for the services they provide the travelling public.

John Fisher, executive director of the Canadian Tourist Association, was guest speaker.

APPROVE PARABOLIC ARCH

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's hottest aesthetic debate — over the parabolic arch proposed for a Canadian National Exhibition entrance—ended Thursday with a vote of approval for the parabola. When the design, by architect A. G. Keith, was first put before the city parks committee last February, one member called it "a lopsided loop."

TORONTO MAN TRIES TO GAS 6 CHILDREN

Britain Proposes Plan To Register All Nuclear Tests

Suggests 3 Powers Agree To Give UN Advance Notice

LONDON (AP)—Britain has put forward a long-range plan calling for registering, limiting and finally stopping nuclear explosions.

The British plan, made Monday to the United Nations disarmament sub-committee here, suggested that Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union immediately draft an agreement for "advance registration with the United Nations of nuclear test explosions." It also suggested "limited international observation" of all nuclear tests.

The plan would establish a committee of technical experts to "consider possible methods of limiting nuclear test explosions." This would lead to a cessation of nuclear tests after prohibition of the production of fissionable material for weapons as part of a general disarmament agreement.

UNDER PRESSURE

The British government has been under considerable pressure from the Opposition Labor party to postpone its first hydrogen bomb test, scheduled for the Christmas Island area in the Pacific in the next few months. The Japanese government also has asked several times that Britain call off the tests, but the cabinet has stood firm on its decision that the tests are necessary for the defence of the free world.

Cmdr. Alan Nobl, British delegate to the UN sub-committee, told the five-power group that Britain is voluntarily undertaking to "conduct nuclear explosions in a way which would keep world contamination below the level where it would be hazardous."

Noble termed the Soviet Union's latest call for abolishing nuclear tests "clearly unacceptable," but added that Britain regards the Russian proposals on the whole as a "serious negotiating position."

An American spokesman agreed that the Soviet suggestions could be the basis of fruitful negotiations."

In Tokyo, a Japanese group today called off plans to send protest ships to the Christmas Island area during British's forthcoming hydrogen bomb tests.

CARTOONIST RECOVERING

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cartoonist Milton Caniff was reported in satisfactory condition today in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital, where he was admitted for treatment of what a hospital spokesman described as "a congenitally recurring leg infection." Caniff draws the cartoon strip Steve Canyon and originated another strip, Terry and the Pirates.

Hamilton Family Has Home Burned By Sadistic Crank

HAMILTON (CP)—Police and arson investigators began a search today for a sadistic crank who has made the life of a Hamilton Beach family a nightmare for the last year.

Twelve months of annoyances, disturbances and frightening shocks were climaxed for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mudge and their three small children Monday night when fire drove them from their home.

The two-storey frame structure in which they had a downstairs apartment, was damaged by a fire of unknown origin. Damage to the house and contents was $8,500.

The children, Diane, 11, Linda, 6, and Annie, 5, were in bed when the fire broke out. Mrs. Mudge ran next door to the home of her brother and on her way fell down a 15-foot flight of stairs. She suffered a severe back injury.

The fire was another link in a chain of events which has struck the family.

Two months ago, Mrs. Mudge received a phone call telling her Mr. Mudge was in hospital critically hurt.

She went to General Hospital, saw a body being wheeled into the morgue and collapsed. Mr. Mudge had not been hurt—was not, even in hospital—but Mrs. Mudge was there for four weeks recovering from the shock.

Monday fire engines and police cars raced to the home. Someone had reported a fire. False alarm.

Later, two hearses arrived. They had been called by an unknown person.

Then came a florist's truck, laden with flowers. They had been ordered by an unknown person.

In the evening, a fire department inhalator and two ambulances arrived — another false alarm.

Changes Small In British Votes

LONDON (Reuters)—The Labor party lost control of three urban district councils in first results announced today in Monday's local municipal elections throughout Britain.

But the results from polling Monday in 15 urban and rural district councils showed little evidence of a pronounced swing in favor either of the pro-government or Socialist parties.

SONS OF FREEDOM MAY FIND NEW HOME IN RUSSIA

B.C. Govt. Will Assist If Soviet Admits Them

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — The psalm-chanting, fire-raising Sons of Freedom, a radical branch of the Doukhobor sect, may find a new home in Russia.

Leaders of the 2,500 Freedomites reported Monday an application to relocate in Soviet Russia's Borodinka district has come to Canada nearly 60 years ago—has met with a favorable reception at the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa.

"They have been most favorable to further negotiations," said Bill Moojelsky, a spokesman for the group's religious sect.

He would not disclose the contents of the reply from Soviet Ambassador Dmitri Chuvahin.

It would not be proper for us to divulge the contents at this stage," Mr. Moojelsky. In Ottawa the embassy declined comment.

AT A MEETING

Plans for further negotiations with the Soviet Embassy were made known as the Freedomites at a sobranye—a combined prayer-meeting and business session—held Sunday in Krestova, a village on a 2,000-foot plateau beside the Selkirk mountains.

So far the Sons of Freedom have made no approach to the government of British Columbia.

Premier Bennett said, however, that government assistance would be given them if they decide to go to Russia.

"If they decide of their own free will that they want to go to Russia will admit them, then we will give them assistance," he said.

A dynamite blast rocked the Freedomite centre of Glade, 12 miles west of Nelson, Sunday night. It blasted a small hole near the C.P.R. track but caused no damage.

CLAIM NO FREEDOM

The Doukhobors were promised freedom of religion when they first came to Canada. The Freedomites, however, say they have not been given the freedom they sought when they fled from Russian persecution in the days of the Czars.

Some of the children in the New Denver school were taken from their parents by police.

While the radical members of the sect seek freedom, the Canadian Union of Doukhobors live in peace, obeying Canadian laws.

Biggest Change Since Lenin In Soviet Economy Studied

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Supreme Soviet today opened a new session to consider a plan for the biggest economic shakeup in Russia since the death of Lenin in 1924.

Proposals by party chief Nikita Khrushchev call for a massive reorganization and decentralization of industry and production in the world's largest planned economy.

Khrushchev will report in person on party and government plans to re-shape industry and central government control activities. He was expected to speak this afternoon at a joint session of the houses of the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament.

If instituted, the Khrushchev plan will affect some 300,000 state enterprises and 40,000,000 workers. It is based on Russia's long-range design to outstrip the United States in per capita production in an "historically short period."

The Communist party chief's proposals call for a swing away from "Stalinist" centralization in which control of production was concentrated in the hands of powerful policy-making Moscow ministries. Executives were carried out by a vast bureaucratic network.

The new measures would break down concentrated control and transfer power to local planning boards in each of the 15 republics forming the Soviet Union. The plan is due to come into force before next winter.

The party approval by the more than 1,300 members of the Supreme Soviet is certain. But the plan itself will take months and possibly years to realize fully. When and if it is completely achieved, it will give a new face to communism in operation in the Soviet Union.

The plan represents the biggest session of Soviet economy since Stalin collectivized the farms nearly 30 years ago.

Mass Movement Into Siberia Being Built up by Russia

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union has embarked on a mass movement of peoples into Siberia and central Asia to man the new industrial regions being built up there.

This movement, which is still in the formative stages, will last, by present reckoning, at least one generation and may become a permanent migratory movement across Siberia.

The immense areas north of the Chinese border and bordering the Arctic Ocean are to be industrialized.

Soviet scientists are studying how to thaw the permafrost of the tundra, the ice-covered steppes of northern Siberia, so that coal, metals and diamonds may be mined more easily and housed built for the northern settlers. They are experimenting, too, with particular types of grain which can grow in soil which is permanently frozen only a few inches below the surface.

Thousands of engineers already have moved into the southern regions of Siberia, along the Chinese and Mongolian borders, drawing up plans for the big hydro-electric stations which will supply power for the new industrial plants.

The great thrust of people eastward, forecast by speakers at the 20th congress of the Soviet Communist party in February, 1956, is becoming a reality.

The settlers who will be expected to people the new areas with their families during this century fully will be offered good wages, equipment, houses and the lure of "fighting for the progress of socialism" to urge them on to adventurous battle against the rising sun.

Young men and women who volunteer in the cities of European Russia are told they will have to spend from two to three years at a time. At the end of the first two years they are entitled to a six-month paid vacation, free transportation and free accommodation at all health resorts. The salaries which they earn in the Far East will be higher than their pay in Moscow, just north of Mongolia.

Thousands Pay Last Respects To McCarthy

APPLETON, Wis. (AP)—Thousands who knew him not only as a U.S. senator but as a friendly neighbor paid their last respects today to Joseph R. McCarthy.

Late Monday his neighbors gave a solemn final homecoming to the late senator after his body was flown to Wisconsin following funeral services in Washington.

McCarthy, guarded by two members of the marine corps, reposed in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, and thousands strode past through the night and signed four registers in the vestibule.

Police Chief Herbert Kapp estimated that 2,000 persons an hour walked past the coffin in the first four hours it was in the church. The line of those waiting was four blocks long and at times was five blocks long. The body remained in the open church throughout the night.

Trying to Form New Govt. From Centrist Front

ROME (AP) — President Giovanni Gronchi today began the search for a politician to patch together a new government from Italy's moderate centrist front following Monday night's 17-per 22 months in office.

Seen as strong possibilities are two prominent lawyers, both members of Segni's Christian Democratic party. They are Aldone Zoli, finance minister in the old government, and Antonio Segni, defense minister, as minister without portfolio under Segni.

Before conferring with prospective candidates, Gronchi must go through the formality of Democrat premier appears certain. Although short of a majority in the lower house Chamber of Deputies, the party's 262 seats are 119 more than the second-place Socialists.

FELL APART

Segni's tottering four-party coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialist Democrats (anti-Communist Socialists), Republicans and Liberals fell apart Monday night when Vice Premier Giuseppe Saragat and the three other Socialist ministers pulled out of the cabinet.

WHITE SLAVERS NABBED

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Federal police announced Monday they have smashed an $8,000,000 white slavery ring—one of the largest in the history of Latin America. Sixteen persons are under arrest, including eight Frenchmen who formed the ring's brain trust, police said.

Brighton Man Killed at Salem

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Carson Fenton, aged about 30, of Brighton, was killed this morning in a car-transport collision on Highway No. 2 at Salem, five miles west of here.

Marcel Delorme, 31, of St. Decothy, Que., driver of the transport, is to be charged, said Crown Attorney Harry Deyman of Cobourg.

The crash occurred in the middle of the community.

ATOMIC POWER SEEN WAY TO END BONDAGE TO OIL

Six European Nations Urged to Rush Work

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—A top-priority program to usher in the atomic age in Europe and so end dependence on Middle East oil was submitted today to the six "Euratom" countries.

The report, entitled "a target for Euratom," was drawn up at the request of Italy. Work will start immediately.

The report, drawn up by Louis Armand of France, Franz Etzel of West Germany and Francesco Giordani of Italy, aims at targets of 15,000,000 kilowatts of nuclear power for the next 12 years.

CALLS FOR ACTION

It says this "ambitious" program will be put immediate action, and for co-operation with Britain, America and Canada, experts warn that if industry in the Euratom countries does not embark immediately on atomic power now, it will soon be unable to face, competition, and Europe's industrial development, mostly Middle East oil, will rise to "intolerable heights."

"As the quantity of oil imported from the Middle East increases, there will be a corresponding increase in the political temptation to interfere with the flow of oil from that region.

"A future stoppage could be an economic catastrophe to Europe. Excessive dependence of our highly industrialized countries on a comparatively unstable region might even lead to serious political trouble throughout the world. It is essential that oil should be a commodity and not a political weapon."

MUST CO-OPERATE

Co-operation with the U.S., Britain and Canada "must be the foundation of Europe's atomic progress . . . Agreements of association should therefore be concluded between these countries and Euratom as soon as possible after its establishment."

Discussing the types of nuclear reactors that could be used, the commission referred to the American one used in the Shippingport, Pennsylvania Nautilus and the type successfully operated at Calder Hall as well as two British and Canadian reactors "not yet in commercial phase" but which appear specially appropriate for Europe.

ROYAL ROMANCE DENIED

ROME (AP)—Reports of a romance between the pretty 19-year-old Princess Beatrix of Holland and Prince Henry of Hesse were emphatically denied Monday by the prince's family. A statement issued through the Italian News Agency said there was no truth to the reports, published in some European magazines and newspapers.

Prison Romance Leads to Escape So Baby Can Be Born Outside 'Pen'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two fugitives from the, Kansas State Penitentiary told today of their romance that blossomed into a jail break and their escape Jan. 2 because they wanted their baby born outside.

They were held for investigation of a kidnap-robbery that netted $2,000.

Inspector George Hoover identified them as Martha Stachura, 27, and Hernando Cotton, 49.

Martha was serving a term at the Lansing, Kan., prison for selling a mortgaged auto. Cotton first was sent up for stealing an auto-mobile, then was given a life term for killing a fellow prisoner. The latter sentence was cut down in 1939, later was commuted to 15 years. Cotton had been assigned as a utility worker in the prison.

Officer Ray Boucsal arrested them in San Bruno, Calif., Sunday night after helping them push a stalled car. Bucsal recognized the car's licence as that of a machine reported stolen.

Inspector Hoover said the couple told this story:

They met in the Kansas prison when Cotton went into the women's section on a utility repair job.

Cotton used a utility tunnel linking the men's and women's sections of the prison for meetings with Martha. Later they had "dates" within the tunnel itself and communicated by notes secreted in pipes.

Last December Martha realized she was pregnant. Cotton then procured a hideout in the machine shop on the men's side, stocking it with food and clothing.

Martha went through the tunnel to the hideout, Cotton walked away from the prison together.

They bought a toy pistol. With it, Insp. Hoover said, they robbed Anthony Trvellick, 22, of $3. They drove in Trvellick's car to suburban Daly City. There they released Trvellick and gave him $2 to obtain a taxi when he said he had no other money.

Officer Boucsal spotted them later.

Kansas prison authorities said the couple would be returned to prison.

Gas Jet Opened Atop Coal Stove; Uncle Arrested

Miracle Building Was Not Torn Apart by Explosion

TORONTO (CP) — Police formally charged an uncle of six children today with attempting to murder them by leaving them alone in his rooming house with a stove gas jet open.

The gas burner lay atop a coal stove in which police found a flickering. A spokesman said it was "a miracle" that the building wasn't torn apart by an explosion.

William Wood, a 31-year-old jobless baker, was picked up by officers shortly after a man walked to the nearby home of Wood's brother-in-law and told him he had left the gas on and that the place was about to blow up.

The brother - in - law, Norman Lockwood, promptly called police and three constables sped to the rundown two-storey brick home.

Constable Thomas Cooke, John Glendinning and Allan McInnis ran through the fume-filled interior in search of the children. They found most of them sleeping and carried them into the street.

The father, Wray Annis, left home Monday with his truck to take a load of refrigerators to Owen Sound and returned to Toronto by Wood.

Wood was arrested when he returned to the Annis home with his brother-in-law after police had been called.

The mother and father discovered what had happened when they returned home and found an explanatory note on the kitchen table. Mrs. Annis headed for the Children's Aid Society shelter to see her children—Eleanor, Janet, 12, Barbara 7, Bruce 6, Susan 4, Patrick 3, and Edna 2.

Constable Cooke said: "I could smell gas as soon as I walked in the door. I turned off the jet and opened some windows while the others looked for the children."

Inspector Adolphus Payne said of the house: "Why it didn't blow up is clever know. It's amazing there was no explosion or fire."

The note police left for the parents read:

"Family is O.K. Contact No. 3 police re children."

Macmillan Flies To Bonn to Talk With Adenauer

BONN (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan flew to Bonn today for a sweeping three-day review of British-German relations with Chancellor Adenauer.

Macmillan was the first British prime minister to visit a German government in more than 18 years —since the late Neville Chamberlain went vainly seeking "peace in our time" from Hitler in Munich in 1938.

Macmillan and Adenauer will be concerned mainly with the cut in British troops in Western Germany, which has created opposition in many countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The British leader will try to convince Adenauer that the 13,000-man reduction in Britain's 80,000 Rhineland troops by the end of the year will not lessen NATO's effectiveness to defend Western Europe.

Britain Expels Romanian Attache

LONDON (Reuters)—A Romanian legation attache here will be expelled on charges of attempting to recruit spies in Britain, the foreign office announced today.

Eugen Periianu was given a week to leave the country. He has been at the Romanian legation here since August, 1951.

The Romanian minister in London was summoned to the foreign office this morning and told that Periianu has been putting pressure on persons of British origin, or who have relatives in Romania, in attempts to recruit them as spies.

Recognition of Canadian Talent Urged by Rotary Club Speaker

Dr. Ettore Mazzoleni, principal of the School of Music of the Royal Conservatory of Music, yesterday called on Canadians to "wake up and give Canadian talent the recognition it deserves."

He cited the CBC as being one Canadian medium that is greatly interested in Canadian talent and is doing much to develop it.

The Swiss-born musical conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra was guest speaker at the Rotary Club meeting in Bridge Quinte.

He attacked the apparent attitude of Canadians toward concert music and placed the blame on Canadians for Canada's reputation of being a country that introduces and develops talent solely for export use.

"Opera development in Canada has been one of the most exciting prospects in recent years and will be even more exciting in the future," he said.

Dr. Mazzoleni said that Canadians are apparently becoming more interested in Canadian opera by the fact that annually about 60,000 people visit the Stratford Gardens in Toronto for the one week run of the Rotary Club-sponsored Metropolitan Opera Company.

"There is more music now than there ever has been," he said, and mentioned radio, television and the gramophone as the factors which are contributing much towards the demand of interest in "good" music.

Opera isn't new to Canadians. Bonizetti's show titled "The Barber of Seville" was performed at Quebec City in 1871.

"It will be even many ventures to establish Canadian opera companies on a year to year basis, many fail, because each wanted to being at the top on a large scale," said Dr. Mazzoleni.

He said that to organize operas in Canada on a professional basis First, Canadian talent must be uncovered and, when found, it must be developed. Next training is possible before giving it a chance to perform in public.

The speaker would like to see a trans-Canada tour for opera talent conducted.

"This country is just as rich in talent as any other country in the world," he said.

OLD TRADITIONS OUT

Modern opera singers must be complete actors as well as singers. The day of the magnificent singer, yet poor actor, is gone. Opera used to be sung by a huge, fat soprano as the prima donna and tenor, an equally big tenor playing the part of the lover. Now, with the advent of television, radio and the movies, Dr. Mazzoleni asserted modern youth will not accept the old traditions.

"If we are to interest young Canadians in opera, we must set up a new tradition and provide them with realistic acting," he said. "The big voice no longer means very much in opera. It's the acting that counts now."

The speaker said it's about time Canada built a few half decent halls, where opera and other kinds of "good" music can be played. At present, even in Toronto, Massey Hall, Eaton Auditorium and Maple Leaf Gardens are far from being top-notch halls. Edmonton and Calgary are the only cities in Canada that have taken appreciable step toward building suitable halls.

He claimed that more opera should be sung in English, because people want to know what the performers are singing. But it is also important that opera only is sung in its original language.

LACK SUFFICIENT FUNDS

Another reason that is facing the development of Canadian opera is the lack of sufficient funds to carry out the initiated programs. Canadian opera singers must be able to sing opera in this country as the professional singers will paid for doing it or they will leave Canada in favor of a foreign company.

Dr. Mazzoleni echoed the sentiments of the well-known Canadian ballet dancer, David Adams, that artists are the best goodwill ambassadors any country has. Music and all the arts, are accepted by every race and creed. Language and political barriers are suddenly forgotten when a distinguished company visits a city or a country.

The speaker said that in 1955 money spent in the U.S. on musical entertainment far exceeded the amounts spent on sports, entertainment that year, and he believed the same to be true in Canada.

"Music is an enormous business and spreads infinitely in all directions. But opera is the best deficit builder in the world because there is nothing that will overcome its expenses," he concluded.

Dr. Mazzoleni was introduced by the president-elect, Joe Demona, and thanked by Donald Mackinnon and President E. G. Gurney.

Will Davies, Native of City, Now Canada's Top Illustrator

The story of Will Davies, a Belleville boy who overcame many initial obstacles to become an artist's career, has a distinct Horatio Alger touch.

Thirteen years ago, Davies then 19 left for Toronto to attend an art school. In those years he had turned to Belleville where he did drawings of insects for the Dominion Entomological Laboratory.

Today he is Canada's top illustrator with an average income of $500 a week.

Will Davies is the son of the late Mr. Olive Davies, well-known figure-skating circles, and Mrs. Olivia Wese, also a well-known figure skater and instructor in this city.

The 32-year-old artist is celebrated in advertising and publishing circles for his clever relaxed drawings. He is an illustrator for TV's Canada's largest commercial art house. His talents are in so much demand that he has been booked three months in advance. He has reached the point where he has to refuse assignments.

Davies was born in this city and graduated from Belleville Collegiate Institute. Born with ability he looked to art as a life career. Said his mother discouraged him, saying he might "starve in an attic".

But he persisted. In his spare time he drew portraits and designed ads for BCI dramatics. Then he "got a break" in the form of a bursary which enabled him to enrol in a Toronto College of Art. After three years, Will was granted what he called "a real" onto engraver for $30 a week.

One of his most treasured possessions and which Davies keeps years in his drawings is a linoleum yellow teddy bear. He used it as a model for his work in the early days and it has never left his side. Recently the bear has appeared in a series of national advertisements.

Davies selected a field of endeavor that looked anything but promising when he began working from art school ten years ago, at that time a twilight career. Today artist figured he was doing well with $10,000 a year. Today the demand for top artists far exceeds the supply.

It is not easy work. He has to meet deadlines which are just as important as those of a daily newspaper. He has little chance change or improve a drawing once it is completed.

He uses live models and cameras. He does his own photography but not the darkroom work. He has quick sessions doing quick pencil drawings of models.

He does his work in a small room in TDF headquarters, using a drawing table, a straight-backed chair, paint brushes and an old fish bowl for water. The teddy bear occupies a place of preference.

Davies, despite his success, indulges in few luxuries. He lives quietly with his wife, Mary, and their four daughters in Scarboro.

BCI Cadet Corps Inspected, Winning Companies Honored

Four hundred and fifty Army Cadets from Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School were inspected this morning at the fair grounds by Major E. A. Cooley, C.D., of Kingston.

In the inspection party were Herb Worship, Brock and Hall Forester, Mr. Arnold Orr, principal of the school, Mrs. Orr, Mrs. Worship, chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School Board, Major Angus Duffy, Capt. Ira Sheldon, Lieut. A. O. Dulmage and Capt. F. Evans, area cadet officer.

After inspecting the corps and touring the several displays, Major Cooley presented the coveted Strathcona Trophy to "D" Company for being the smartest senior company with rifles on parade. He also presented a trophy to "C" Company for being the smartest junior company without rifles on parade.

The Major briefly addressed the parade and congratulated the cadets on their "fine parade" and commended highly the good turnout and the smart steadiness on parade.

"Your demonstrations were first class," he said, "and I must add congratulations to the Vice-Principal who has given such a pleasant atmosphere to the inspection." Mrs. Sheldon presented the "unexpected pleasure to bring you the greetings of the Queen and to tell you we are all so very proud of our Cadets. May you keep high ideals for the good of yourself and your country."

Capt. Brookes Allen, chairman of the high school board congratulated the corps on their fine display and thanked them for the fine displays.

The chairman of this board, "I declare a half-holiday today for you," he told the cadets and gratefully it was received.

At 10 o'clock the 450 cadets stood smartly at attention as the flag colors were marched on. Then the corps marched around the oval. Col. Andrew Robb, ordered a general salute, which was replied to by Major Cooley.

Following the initial ceremonies, Major Cooley inspected the corps beginning at "A" Company and ending at "D" Company.

PRIZES AWARD

While the inspection was progressing the trumpet band from the Royal Canadian School of Signals, Kingston, under the baton of Corporal T. V. Abbott, played appropriate music. The band, dressed in flaming scarlet tunics and blue trousers with red stripes down the sides, was very smart.

The inspection completed, the corps marched in column of route. Canaks, then in column of route, past the reviewing stand where Major Cooley congratulated an snappy "eyes right" with an equally snappy salute. Then the corps advanced in review order in the middle of the field where the finals were held. Here the inspecting officer walked off the field, with his party, to inspect, while, in the field, the display of signalling, first aid, map reading, vehicles, rifles and Bren guns.

Following the tour of the displays Major Cooler made the presentations to "D" and "C" Companies.

This year the annual inspection was made under ideal weather conditions. Last year, heavy rain and cold temperatures cast a damper on it.

The cadets looked smart, indeed dressed in their pressed uniforms and highly polished shoes and accoutrements. They are to be commended on their drill procedure, too.

No inspection is complete unless a few men pass out, while standing rigidly at attention. This morning there were more than half a dozen lads "flaked out" from the intense strain to stand under.

Babies' Home Trying to Get New Playground

PLAINFIELD (Special) — The Babies' Convalescent Home at Plainfield is in process of setting up a playground for their mentally retarded children. Last year the Home had great difficulties to keep the children on the grounds with an all prevalent fear that one of the youngsters might break away and get out on the road. This year they feel that a protected supervised playground is the answer to these troubles. A fence will be erected, 7 feet high, 50 x 50 feet square, 1½" mesh gauge, chain link fabric, with two doors, opening to the outside only. A permanent structure. There will be swings, a teeter-totter, and a shelter with room for the little "creepers" to navigate and be out of danger. This is a project for safety and in the meantime a lot of fun for the children. These retarded children seem to have only steam in order to at night be tired enough to be kept in their beds. Many local people have been wondering what's really going on there, but now they can come and visit the place. Any time all are welcome and will have an opportunity to see the choice open at play. Only too few people realize the handicaps the children and the staff are confronted with. Love and care in the rain are the only medicine these children need.

During the Christmas season many donations were given by organizations, merchants and private individuals. There has been a balance accumulated, which has not been used for Christmas as it is hoped to use it for the purchase of the playground is approximately $1,000 and at least $1,000 has to be collected in order to have the project completed. The home has petitioned the Hastings County Council, the Thurlow Township Council and the Belleville City Council, for assistance. Many friends have already made generous gifts and the following are donors, specifically for the project:

Ladies Auxiliary A.N.A. No. 40, $25; Mrs. W. M. Brown, Parkhill, Ont., $10; Mr. and Mrs. C. Shulman, M.D., Toronto, $5; Judge John R. Robinson, Halleybury, $25; Mr. A. Bower, Cornwall, Ont., $10; Mrs. Hazel Carruth, Hamilton, $10; Mr. Russell H. McMullen, Belleville, $10; Mr. J. B. Leslie, Belleville, $10; Mr. F. Follwell, Belleville, $5; Dr. R. S. Morgan, M.D., Belleville, $10; Mr. and Mrs. G. Nunne, Belleville, $10; Mr. J. D. Empson, M.D., Roslin, $10; Dr. B. Allore, M.D., Belleville, $10; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. M. Bongo, Toronto, $10; $35; Staff, Bank of Nova Scotia, Belleville, $8; Mr. G. Allen, Colbourg, $3.50; Moira Schuster Limited, Belleville, $10; Bell Telephone Co., Toronto, $25; Mrs. Harry McCreary, Plainfield, $10; Mrs. Thelma Shipley, Kitchener, $1.50; Dr. J. N. Hart, M.D., Roslin, $10; Lee Grills' Dairy, $5, The T. Eaton Co. Ltd., Belleville, $10; Loyal Order of Moose 1004, $10.

The home will publish periodically the amount received and will keep the public posted on developments.

It will be appreciated if those who have lists and return envelopes will kindly write their progress in collections for the playground.

Butter, Cheese Production Down During March

TORONTO (CP)—A 38.8-per-cent decline in March creamery butter output and an 18.2-per-cent drop in cheddar cheese production from the same month last year were disclosed in the Ontario agriculture department's monthly dairy report released today.

Creamery butter production during March 1957 was 3,897,800 pounds, compared with 5,630,200 pounds in March, 1956, and cheddar cheese production 1,826,600 pounds, compared with 2,234,000 pounds in the same month last year.

Cumulative production of creamery butter for the first three months of 1957 amounted to 10,288,500 compared with 13,972,900 in 1956. Cheddar cheese output dropped from 4,624,100 pounds to 4,264,700 pounds.

Total volume of milk produced by farmers had been reduced in recent months because of poor feeding quality of crops harvested last year.

Residential, Farm Properties In Thurlow Get 32.1 Mill Rate

A split tax-rate set Monday afternoon by members of Thurlow township council will result in a reduced mill-rate for residential and farm properties for 1957.

The general rate for the township for residential and farm properties is 32.1 mills, a reduction of 3.9 mills from last year, while the general rate for commercial and industrial properties is 38.3, up 2.3 mills from last year.

The split tax rate is the result of the unconditional grant paid by the provincial government, but which must be used to reduce the mill-rate on residential and farm properties.

The 1956 millrate for all properties was 36 mills.

Breakdown of the general rate shows 15.51 mills going for county purposes; 4.70 mills for township roads; 4.35 mills for township purposes; 1 mill for the township building account; .95 mills for relief; .37 mill for the provision, and 11.41 mills for secondary schools, making a total of 38.30 mills which is the business and commercial rate. The unconditional provincial grant reduces the rate by 6.20 mills to 32.10 mills for residential and farm lands.

The total tax role for the year will exceed $459,000 as compared with $406,818.35, 1956. Much of the increase comes from new assessment.

In addition to the general rate is a three-mill levy applicable to all public school supporters in the township, and trustee's levy, school debentures charges and special area rates where they apply.

Two of the township's public school boards, S.S.U. 4 (Thurlow - Huntingdon), and the South Thurlow Public School Board, have lower requisitions this year as compared to last.

SCHOOL RATE DOWN

The rate for the former school is 11 mills as compared with 14.6 for 1956, while the South Thurlow area rate is 9.8 mills as compared with 10.4 for 1956.

Most of the boards have requisitioned for the same amounts as last year: 7 mills S. S. No. 23 (Gilead) at 13.3 mills, and Union S. S. No. 23 (Thurlow-Sidney) at 8 mills.

The other Boards show increases in their rates from 1956 as follows:

U.S.S. 10/16 (Thurlow-Sidney) 18.7 in 1957, as compared with 9.8 in 1956.

U.S.S. 12/14 (Thurlow-Sidney) at Foxboro, 9.6 for 1957 as compared with 9.3 mills in 1956.

S.S. No. 9 — Carmel, 16.2 mills for 1957, as compared with 10.3 in 1956.

S.S. No. 6 — Cannilton-Corbyville, 8 mills for 1957, as compared with 7.5 mills for 1956.

S.S. No. 11 — Cow, 4, 11.9 mills for 1957, as compared with 8.7 for 1956.

S.S. No. 7 — Con. 3, 10.2 mills for 1957, as compared with 8 mills for 1956.

S.S. No. 22 — 9.2 mills for 1957 as compared with 6.7 mills for 1956.

S.S. No 5 (College Hill and Hillcrest) 22.5 mills for 1957, as compared with 19.8 mills for 1956.

North Thurlow Public School Area Board, 6 mills for 1957, as compared with 5.8 for 1956.

Separate School rates remain the same in the case of Holy Rosary Separate School Board and at St. Joseph's Separate School Board, but St. Anne's Separate School at Point Anne increased from 9.7 in 1956 to 12.2 in 1957.

Veterans Deliver Knockout Punch In Fund Drive

TRENTON (Special) — The Victory Europe' dinner held at the Legion hall here last night was the signal for veterans to deliver the knockout punch in the fund raising campaign for funds to erect a new headquarters in Trenton this year.

Comrade Bill Fraser (Senator W. A. Fraser), who introduced guest speaker Legion Provincial President Henry Harvey, announced that he would put four times the amount of bonds any Legion member acquired following the dinner. He urged them to generously participate in the financing.

At the dinner to send off the bond drive earlier this year Senator Fraser told Trenton Legion members he was prepared to put up any slack in the sale of bonds.

Provincial President Harvey told legionnaires last night Canadian war veterans had two great days of commemoration. One the first is Armistice Day and the other is V. E. Day, he explained.

President Harvey, who is circulation manager of the Ottawa Journal drew attention to the aims of the Canadian Legion. He said the 2,000 branches in Canada shouldered the job of community welfare, training and good citizenship. He described the Poppy Fund as the heart of the organization. He assured his fellow veterans that the Legion was not forgetting behind them and their families and noted that there was still a great many veterans in hospitals who had to be looked after all the way on "the long road back."

Immediate Past President Edd Donaldson moved the vote of thanks.

W. E. "Elmer" Sandercock brought greetings from the provincial government, while Frank S. Follwell delivered a similar message from the Federal government. Comrade Ross Burtt, Mayor of Trenton, welcomed the distinguished visitors on behalf of the local citizens.

Branch president John C. Farrell introduced the guests at the head table.

1808 CHURCH DAMAGED

GAME BECOMES TRAGEDY

CANTON, Ill. (AP)—Police said a 2½-year-old boy, playing "cowboy" with a real gun, shot and killed his mother Monday as they were riding in a car. The youngster, Randy Brown, was in the rear seat. His mother, Mrs. Evelyn Brown, 22, was in front with the driver, Eugene J. Marlow, 28. Marlow told police the boy found a 22-calibre pistol he used for target shooting under the front seat, pointed it at the back of his mother's head and pulled the trigger.

Twenty-Six Runners Face Start Gun In Ken Colling Cross-Country Race

Twenty-six harriers from five district secondary schools will go to the wire tomorrow afternoon for the annual running of the Ken Colling Memorial Bay of Quinte Cross-Country Run.

The course this year has been altered to eliminate the hazard of the Canadian National Railways tracks at the coal chutes. The distance, formerly three and one quarter miles has been decreased to four miles.

The 1957 running of the race takes place Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 from the BCIVS campus with participants from Bancroft High School, Albert College, BCIVS, Quinte Secondary School and St. Michael's vying for the trophy, crests and other prizes.

First place finisher will receive the Ken Colling Memorial Trophy, donated by Cleo Colling in memory of his brother. Crests will be given to the first twenty four runners to cross the finish line and the first six will receive cash awards. Mr. Cleo Colling will be present to make the presentations.

BCIVS heads the list of entries with 13 of the boys hailing from that school. Quinte Secondary School has eight entries, including Jim Green, last year's winner and holder of the record for the old five mile course; two each from Bancroft and Albert College and one from St. Mike's rounding out the field.

The race will start from the BCIVS campus with the course running along Queen Street to McDonald Ave., north, on McDonald to Greenlawn Ave., on to Herchimer and north to Station Street and west on Station to Church Street. The harriers will find the toughest section of the course here, up the Church Street hill to the finish line, opposite BCIVS.

Mr. A. E. Orr, principal of BCIVS, is the starter with Bob Vaughan of the Boys' Athletic Society acting as master of ceremonies. The governors supervising the race are Messrs. "Red" Townsend, BCI; Jack Sisson, QSS; N. A. 'Pete' Beach, Albert College and Father McGee of St. Michael's.

The timers will be from QSS, BCI and Albert College with N.A. Beach the chief timer. Judges are from the four city schools under Father McGee, while scorers and first aid men will be from BCI.

Following is the entry list with the numbers each boy will wear and his school:

Short Circuit Believed Cause Of $3,000 Fire

A short circuit in a lamp socket which set fire to the lamp shade is believed the cause of a fire which late Monday afternoon caused close to $3,000 damage to house and contents at No. 2 Wicket Street.

Occupants of the house, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Cosma, were both away from home when the fire broke out, the smoke being noticed by a neighbor who turned in the alarm.

Fire, smoke and water damage to the house was estimated at close to $2,000 with another $1,000 lost to household contents. The hallway and living room downstairs, and two upstairs bedrooms were damaged by the blaze.

The fire started in the downstairs hallway and spread through to the living room and then into the upstairs bedrooms before being brought under control by firemen.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said the blaze was fought with water from tank trucks, which can be put into operation faster than hydrants can be hooked up.

NOBODY MUST BE INVITED TO THINK

W. L. Clark, writing in the Montreal Daily Star, says that "the Canadian government has spread abroad the impression that the $100,000,000 to be spent for culture in the next two years is not tax money, but money willed for cultural purposes by the late Sir James Dunn and the late Isaac Killam."

Mr. Clark quickly exposes any such claim as nonsense.

"Inheritance taxes on the Dunn and Killam estates were expected to bring about $100,000,000 to the Canadian treasury," he says. "That is tax money that should go to the common purse."

So far, it is impossible for the reasonable person to disagree with him. This "windfall" of inheritance taxes is no different from any other tax money.

The next sentence, though, begs for an argument—and will get it from a hundred sources.

"It is not money that was handed to the government to spend on television and other so-called cultural programs."

Now, taken as a simple statement of fact, that is true. The sentence, though, clearly implies that the government should not spend money for cultural purposes.

A sound argument can be advanced to support this stand, but only if those advancing it will also concede that various levels of government are already spending money for a hundred and one projects which they have no business supporting.

If "so-called cultural programs" should not receive federal tax money, why should municipal tax money be spent for recreational purposes? Why should provincial tax money be spent to provide camp sites? If it is permissible for city councils to finance hockey teams, to make grants to tourist and orders holding conventions and to provide municipal golf courses, why should not the federal government assist other citizens to write books or produce plays? If the provincial government is justified in stocking streams with fish or providing roadside tables for picknickers, what is so appalling about the federal government displaying an interest in poets or ballet dancers?

Or is our attitude that displayed by a neighboring city, where an anti-noise by-law passed in 1948 is under discussion. The by-law does not prohibit advertising by means of a sound truck, but does require that permission first be obtained from the chief of police. The chief of police can use his discretion as to what shall be advertised, provided that it is not "the advertising of any activity carried on for, or in the interests of, any religious doctrine, political or economic principles or policies or any other controversial issue."

It's all right for sound trucks to make a nuisance of themselves as long as they are advertising bingoes or ball games, bathing beauty contests or fireworks displays—anything at all, except religion, politics, economics or any other controversial issue. Nobody must be invited to think.

COLOR AND CAR ACCIDENTS

Kitchener is keeping a record of the color of cars involved in right-of-way accidents at intersections.

Sgt. Wilfred Henrich, head of the Kitchener police traffic squad, is conducting the study. Sgt. Henrich, or whoever first conceived the idea that such a check would be useful, deserves commendation.

The record book is providing some striking statistics. During one month, 57 per cent of cars hit at intersections were light grey or sand in color. Of course, before jumping to conclusions, one ought to know what percentage of the total number of cars using Kitchener streets are light gray or sand colored. There does seem good reason, though, to infer that color may be a factor in accidents. For instance, the record shows that light green cars were involved in many early-morning crashes and light blue cars in accidents at dusk. These results need to be checked against other figures, at other places, for coincidences can be the very devil, but there is good reason to believe that the Kitchener survey may lay the foundation for a useful bit of research.

The Attorney-General's Department is watching it with interest. If the final report provides any basis for belief that color is a factor in traffic accidents, the Ontario Provincial Police ought to undertake a comprehensive survey.

If it is definitely established that there is one color, or a group of colors, which tend to reduce accidents, then the legislature would be justified in making it compulsory for all vehicles using Ontario highways to be of this color.

COURAGE

There are tears we mustn't shed,
There are sighs we shouldn't sigh.
We must face the world instead
With a twinkle in the eye.
If it's inner pain you feel,
That is something to conceal.

There's a certain form of care
Never intended for display.
And a hurt you have to bear
All alone from day to day
Of the bitterest of blows
On the surface never shows.

Time the gravest hurt will heal
And the darkest skies will clear,
Time some reason may reveal
Which today does not appear
Oft, when all is done and said,
There are tears you mustn't shed.

Turtles of Trengganu

By Vernon Bartlett in "London Calling"

Malaya is a country of mountains covered with some of the thickest jungle in the world. Most of the people live in the west, and there are only two roads in all over 400 miles that cross the country to the east coast. This means that there are along this east coast, for many days of almost deserted beaches, and it was to one of these lonely beaches that I went late one night to see one of the most extraordinary sights in the world.

There was on this beach one rowing boat with an old man in charge of it. We were a party of four: two local Malay boys, my wife, and myself. One of the Malays woke the old man up and asked him something. "Three o'clock," he answered, and then went back to sleep again. So we sat down on the white sand to wait. It was now only midnight, and the turtles were not expected to come ashore to lay eggs for another four hours. There was a full moon and a clear starlight—but no cool after the heat of the day. I did not much mind how long I had to wait, for a few days later that I read a warning to people not to go to the beach at night in small parties because tigers were very fond of turtles' eggs.

As a matter of fact we did not have to wait very long. I realized that something that I had mistaken for a rock in the shallow water was moving. I aroused one of the sleeping Malays, and in the end, it was the first of the turtles.

According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, these are more than 200 species of the order which we call by the name of tortoises or terrapins. This black creature, crawling over or through the sea, was a leatherback, the largest living turtle in the world. This particular creature was relatively small, probably not much more than five feet long and a little under four feet wide, but it looked quite alarmingly large to me, for from the crown of its head to the tail length, and weigh nearly two-thirds of a ton.

These leatherbacks do not have scales like most turtles but a leathery hide stretched over ribs or bones running from head to tail. Also that they have much unlike small dinghies turned upside down on the sand. Ever so slowly, with flippers on each side, it jerked its way up the steep beach. We kept quiet and still, because if we alarmed the turtle it began to lay its eggs it might turn back to the sea.

At last it decided the sand was of the right consistency, the right dampness for digging, and with its flippers it dug a hole about twenty inches in diameter and three feet in depth. This took quite twenty minutes, in the course of which it covered itself with sand. Then it began to lay its eggs, roughly a hundred of them, white round, and just the size of billiard balls. But the shells are soft.

All the time it was laying its eggs the turtle groaned and grunted, and thick glutinous tears streamed down its face. When the egg-laying was over the turtle very carefully flipped the sand back into the hole and smoothed it so that nobody would know where the eggs were. The poor brute did not of course realize that the two Malay boys had been scooping the sand out of the hole as fast as they were laid, and that there would not be in six weeks' time or so a lot of little turtles making their dangerous journey down to the sea.

Very little is known about these reptiles. Sometimes as many a hundred of them lay eggs in one night on this three-mile stretch of Malayan beach. So far I have heard of no such three miles of beaches in the world to which they come. On each one of them people are supposed to take the eggs, which looked upon as quite a delicacy although their chief value is in causing because the white does not set.In the case of Malaya the right to take the eggs is outlined every year and it brings a revenue of nearly $800 to the Sultan of Trengganu.

So it seems quite probable that unless something is done to protect them these immense creatures will soon become extinct. I do not know whether there are in different parts of the Indian Ocean other stretches of lonely beaches where man is not an enemy even more dangerous to their young than bird of prey and sharks. But what I do not know is that I have ever seen anything more impressive than the sight of these monsters, driven by the instinct to reproduce their kind, coming year by year in their hundreds to this one stretch of lonely beach on the east coast of Malaya.

Communist View of Hell

From Pravda, Communist Paper

A citizen arrived in hell and found that there were two entrances to the place. On the left a poster proclaimed: "Capitalist Hell". Above the doorway on the right there was a poster: "Capitalist Hell".

He further noticed that there was a considerable queue in front of the capitalist inferno, while at the entrance of the free enterprise hades there was the devil and all by himself, and no customers.

The doomed citizen approached the counter which stretched out from the red place of torment.

"How do they treat you in the Communist hell?" he inquired.

"They first torture the people, then set them on the coals, and all the while they make them sit down on nails," he was told.

"And in the capitalist hell?" he inquired.

"Exactly the same thing."

"Then why is there such a queue in front of the Communist hell?"

"Because in the Communist hell they are always short of coal and razor blades!"

Plane Drops Icicle Bomb

Windsor Star

If you are one of those people who can't hear an airplane pass overhead without wondering if a dislodged bolt, or monkey wrench, or piece of baggage is falling in your direction, you're going to need another tranquilizer. A 100-pound icicle that fell to earth near Owen Sound the other day, 100 feet from some children, is believed to have formed on the wings of fuselage of a plane flying through a Georgian Bay storm.

Yet the chance of being hit by that kind of flying ice is a bit longer, it would appear, than the risk of being hit by lightning. Lightning bolts are fairly common, but this is the first time falling airplane ice has crashed the newspapers.

Arms Choice Poses Problem

Christian Science Monitor

The many-sided, fast-shifting problem of choosing which arms to develop in any defence program is further complicated by continual technical breakthroughs. In that category ranked the new "inertial guidance" system just announced at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Its full or near-full value as yet are not yet clear, but it is said to be able to steer a plane, ship, or missile to its target blindly. Already it has piloted a B-29 from Boston to Los Angeles. Apparently a development of the telescopic compass which is proving so useful in aviation, this instrument is described as unaffected by any outside influence.

It is essentially the same as important in machines as men. For weapons it means that there is no need of a guiding radio or radar beam which an enemy can jam, and so render useless a missile aside. If it also persists in claims that its original and despite weather and the "drift" caused by the earth's spinning, this device may relieve many problems for those who must defend against it. And it may facilitate possible long-range "missiles" by making it possible to use thousands of cheaper planes as pilotless bombers.

This possibility may have nothing to do with the decision to slow down the B-52 program. But such planes might well have a role to play in bridging the gap before the long-expected missiles are ready to help keep the peace.

In face of such switch-arounds in the weapons picture "inertial guidance" suggests the need of defence planners for directing even more fundamental—spiritual guidance.

Are You A Dental Cripple?

Just between ourselves and not for publication, tell me. Can you name four chronic diseases or ailments that are curable by medicine, manual or mechanical manipulation, physical therapy, or any other kind of treatment? Well three, then? Not even two? Of course you can't. I'll name one.

Consider for a moment the endless list of miracle medicines we wonder drugs that have been foisted on the public in recent years. Each new drug, in the words of the medical man subsidized to introduce it to the over credulous profession, gives great "promise" of being the cure for the incurable disease in question —tuberculosis, cancer, the "common cold" (whatever that may be), "arthritis," etc.

Just how can so many doctors, the best doctors, string patients along with a succession of wonder drugs that have only temporary remedial effects, if any?

These thoughts occur as I read a letter from an Ontario lady: "I am eighty years young, have my own teeth, and I can still walk three miles to church."

Note particularly that the lady has her own teeth. I suppose and hope she has at least twenty of them. Or if not twenty of her own, then, say, ten or twelve of her own and eight or ten artificial teeth. It doesn't matter as long as they are all functionally efficient. Functionally efficient means that she can chew as well as you or I; or as well as I can, at any rate. For all I know, you might be a dental cripple — if you are, I hope this article will make you feel ashamed of yourself for neglecting your teeth.

Perhaps I am speaking too many, I'm afraid—think it is just one of my nutty notions that sound teeth or, rather, functionally efficient teeth, determine the state of general health and longevity. They demolish this theory immediately by mentioning some odd character who continued breathing thirty years after he had lost all his teeth. But I have outstanding fecent comments and testifying as an expert, I insist that child's play. Sound teeth and long longevity is functionally efficient teeth.

Strength for The Day

SEVEN-HEADED HYDRA

In this busy world we hardly get one thing done until there is something else to do. We solve a problem only to find a bigger problem confronting us. The atom-bomb brought the most horrible of modern wars to an end, but it has left bigger problems than a hundred such wars would create.

There is a legend in ancient mythology of Hercules who went out to slay the seven-headed Hydra. Every time he cut off a head, another menacing head immediately grew. This is a parable of the way of saying that life is a continual string of challenges and problems. We get on one thing only to confront something else. We win one victory only to find ourselves besieged and threatened with the destruction of perhaps everything we have won.

The first thing we have to do in such a situation is to face the fact that is the way things are, and that it is not going to change just for us. Multimillionaires have misery and as agonizing problems to solve as do people who are struggling to make a living. Privation. They are not the same kind of problems but they are big problems and agonizing problems. The educated and the uneducated, the rich and the poor, the evil and the good—all these have to confront the seven-headed Hydra. They smite off one head, and behold, there grows another more menacing than the one before.

Then, of course, there was the very large constituency of the public which did not smoke at all. I had all sorts of devices made for them, male and female, who abhorred "the weed," and when they visited the factory I used to go out and walk in the back yard for a smoke. I was a lifelong cronie of tramps, in hotel lobbies, and other places of assembly. Smoke-hating people were like fish in water heard in these places of banishment.

Some little boys tried pipes and cigars, with sad effect. It was cigarettes that appealed to the juniors. And the strange thing is that now that cigarette is universal over the place in nearly every home, you have to look for the boy hiding their band at the vice.

The reason may be it is too easy. No challenge in it.

Patient Fishermen

Fort William Times-Journal

Patience is a requisite quality of a good fisherman at any time —but this must surely be proved by those who fish through the ice off Burton Island in Lake of the Woods. Statistics compiled by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forest regarding census made among fishermen last winter that would seem to be proof.

A total of 296 fishermen were contracted. The average time they catch a fish was 36 hours. It took 1.09 hours to catch a sauger, 5.5 hours to catch a walleye, 49.5 hours to catch a perch and 74.4 hours to catch a pike.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Though the cigaret habit has grown enormously in recent years, one also sees seldom encounter anybody who doesn't smoke, man or woman, it is surprising that only so few small boys are to be seen smoking.

In my boyhood, you could hardly look behind a fence without finding two or three of the youngolds having a whiff. Sometimes real cigarets that they had filtered from a sporty older brother; sometimes imitation cigarets of cedar bark, dried fern or rattan of a baby carriage or porch chair. Rattan made a good cigaret, but was full of holes, drew beautifully, though it was hotter than a linseed poultice.

Indeed, if memory does not delude me, you were more likely to find a lassling a smoke behind a fence or back shed than you would an adolescent. The reason is because I was always looking behind fences and back sheds. It was a good place to have one myself. But it does seem to me that back in the 1900, those adults who smoked cigarets were the sporty type; people with hair on both sides of their heads; older men who could not help but look a little self-conscious. For cigars and pipes were the man's smoke. And of course a good deal of chewing. The school principal in my childhood chewed. We all knew it. We had been warned to be on our guard to share with him. It was generally accepted that he was allowed the juice, which accounted for his angry temper. Nobody ever saw him spit.

And naturally, no lady smoked. Even in the theatre shows in which you started to go when you were about fifteen, taking a seat far back in the shadows) when one of the actresses lit a cigaret on the stage there was a definite sense of shock.

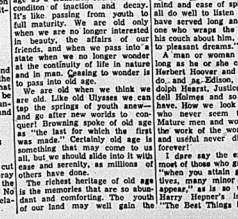
TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHEN ARE WE OLD?

I like to look upon advancing age as a transition rather than a condition of inaction and decay. It's like going from high to low in full maturity. We are old only when we are no longer interested in beauty, in the affairs of our friends, and when we pass into a state where we no longer wonder at the continuity of life in nature and in man. Ceasing to wonder is equal to into old age.

We are old when we think we have all the answers and when we tap the springs of youth anew—and go about the world as children once more. Browning spoke of old age as "the last for which the first was made." Certainly old age is something that may come to us all, but we should slide into it with ease and serenity, as millions of others have done.



The richest heritage of old age is the memories that are so abundant and comforting. The youth of our land may well gain today many lessons that come with old age. There is that maturity of mind and ease of spirit. We may well do so listen to those who have served long and well, "like the wise who wraps the dregs of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

The aged need not be old so long as he or she can inspire as Herbert Hoover and Robert Hope do, and as Edison, William Randolph Hearst, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes and so many others have. How we look up to those who have gone before us in years! Mature men and women carry on the work of the world. The great and useful never die. They live forever!

I dare say the experience of most of those who grow old is that "when you attain to proper perspectives, many minor problems disappear," as is so well stated in Harry Emerson Fosdick's book, "The Best Things in Life."

Election Campaign

New Pioneering Era Promised By Diefenbaker

SHAWVILLE, Que. (CP)—A new pioneering age, focussed on Canada's North, has been promised by John Diefenbaker if a Progressive Conservative government is elected June 10.

Canada's future is in the North, the Conservative leader told some 500 persons in the high school auditorium here Monday night as he wound up a one-day tour of Pontiac - Temiscamingue constituency in the upper Ottawa Valley.

"We are just in the beginning of pioneering development in Canada," he said. He could envisage one of two new provinces developing in the far north territories.

He added: "16,000,000 people can't continue to occupy the wealthiest area in all the world—they can't just sit there on the safety deposit box. . . We've got to act."

To continue exporting mineral ores and other natural resources without proceeding them in Canada first merely exhausted what providence had provided without developing the country.

Earlier, as he moved through this farming area, Mr. Diefenbaker referred at a luncheon meeting in nearby Bristol, Que., to Prime Minister St. Laurent's recent statement that he plans to attend the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London June 26.

"I'm going there too, I think," the Conservative leader said.

It was another of a series of confident statements about the federal election's outcome that Mr. Diefenbaker has made, especially last week, as his Maritimes tour drew to an end.

When Pontiac County warden Earl Pafford at the luncheon presented him with a gallon of maple syrup and hoped "it will sweeten you up," Mr. Diefenbaker replied, smiling: "The last few days have had that effect even without maple syrup."

The 61-year-old Conservative chieftain shook hands and chatted on the sidewalk at Quyon with about 60 persons, including 92-year-old James Amm who boasted that he voted for Sir John A. Macdonald's Conservatives in 1887.

Mr. Diefenbaker paid two more get-acquainted visits, at Campbell's Bay and Calumet Island, before moving on to Bryson for supper.

At Bryson the Roman Catholic parish priest, Rev. Thomas Tait, offered his best wishes to Mr. Diefenbaker said: "I fully expect you will be the next prime minister."

At the same place Mrs. Diefenbaker made her second speech of the campaign; she has travelled with her husband from the start.

At Calumet, on the village hall steps, the party leader tried a few words of French and then stopped.

"I wish I could have spoken longer in French but my notes disappeared," he said. "When my notes have gone my French is gone as well."

Controversy Over Children Greeting P.M. on Tour

ABOARD ST. LAURENT TRAIN (CP)—A controversy has appeared in central Alberta on the question of whether school children should be asked to turn out to greet Prime Minister St. Laurent on his current election campaign.

Some teachers say they should. Others maintain there should be no compulsion; that Mr. St. Laurent is not making his tour as a statesman but as a politician and that children should not be asked to turn up at political rallies.

Children have shown up everywhere on his western tour. Some were brought by their teachers; others by their parents. They pleaded for his autograph and some have come forward bearing bouquets of flowers for Mr. St. Laurent and his daughter, Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell of Montreal. One at Jasper, Alta., came forward with a gift of hand-knitted socks for the government leader.

GREETED CHILDREN

And at each stop, Mr. St. Laurent has hugged and kissed some of the children, chucked some under the chin and played with them, calling on local school superintendents to give the children a holiday as a memento of his visit.

But some teachers at the resort town of Jasper Monday viewed the situation from a different light.

Schoolteacher H. T. R. Gilmore, 59-year-old war veteran, said:

"We were ordered to bring the children here by the school board though some of the teachers objected. I don't think children should have to take part in compulsory attendance at a political meeting.

"If they bring children out here for one of the political leaders, I hope they will do the same for all the others. Otherwise, it would be unfair."

J. E. R. Fisher, chairman of the Jasper school board, said that the board had not ordered the school children to greet the prime minister.

GAVE PERMISSION

He said the board merely "gave permission for the children to be paraded to the station to give them an opportunity to see the prime minister of Canada."

Permission was granted by Mr. Fisher on behalf of the board after Dean Tweedle, principal of the Jasper Elementary and Junior High School, made a request before noon Monday when he learned that Mr. St. Laurent would stop at Jasper.

Mr. Tweedle said he asked Mr. Fisher for the board's permission to take the children to the station after requests from several Jasper ratepayers were received, suggesting that the children be given a chance to see Mr. St. Laurent.

Both Mr. Fisher and Mr. Tweedle emphasized no political motives were involved.

AT STATION STOP

Mr. Gilmore spoke to reporters at the Jasper railway station where Mr. St. Laurent made a 20-minute stop during his 1,100-mile CNR trip from Vancouver to Saskatoon.

"I've been teaching for 14 years," added Mr. Gilmore, "and this is the first time I've seen this business of ordering school children to a political meeting.

"Mind you, I don't think the school board had any political motive in this. I think it wanted to make sure the children saw the prime minister. But I don't see why the children could not have seen him on some other occasion."

At Edson, some 50 miles east of Jasper, high school principal M.D. Meade, 50-year-old former CCF candidate, took a different view.

DIDN'T FORCE

"We didn't force our children to go to the Edson station. He arrived here after school hours. When our school superintendent told us the prime minister would be passing through, I told the children they might like to go down and meet him."

"I knew Uncle Louie wouldn't talk politics here. Why it was right here in the 1949 election, that he first got the name of 'Uncle Louie.'

"If the other political leaders gave us enough time, we'd do the same for them. We'd do it for John Diefenbaker, Solon Low and naturally for Mr. (M.J.) Coldwell."

The Jasper-Edson riding is currently represented by Charles Yuill, a Social Crediter.

Hees Predicts Sixty Seats In Ontario

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP) George Hees, former national president of the Progressive Conservative party, predicted that with the support of Premier Frost his party will capture at least 60 seats in Ontario.

He told a federal election rally here Monday night that the Ontario premier's prestige across the province is "almost beyond bounds" and made this forecast: "Today's support from Mr. Frost indicates clearly that the Conservatives will win at least 60 seats in Ontario. This swing will form the cornerstone of the next Conservative government."

HELD 32

The Progressive Conservatives held 23 of the 85 federal ridings in Ontario at the dissolution of Parliament.

Mr. Hees, seeking re-election in Toronto Broadview, said he based his prediction on a Gallup poll published April 17 which indicated 47 per cent of Ontario voters favored the Conservatives instead of the previous 41. Liberal popularity dropped to 42 per cent from 47.

"The most significant thing of all is that the field survey which produced the figures was made in early April," said Mr. Hees. This was before Premier Frost offered to back Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker "and pledged the full support of his cabinet, his members and his whole organization."

MEASLES ABOARD SHIP

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The 22,270 - ton British liner Strath-saver arrived Saturday night with almost 100 British migrants ill with measles.

Both have a bank account - and a purpose for saving

Nurse and father both agree that some things are too important to leave to chance. So, like most Canadians, each uses a chartered bank for planned saving, making regular deposits to accomplish a definite purpose.

Your own savings plan may be a short-term, modest one — maybe a vacation trip, or new drapes for the living room. Or your goal may be long-range, like providing more security, greater comfort and independence for you and your family.

But whatever use you find for the money you save, you'll always be glad you saved it!

"If John hadn't been sick and off work for six weeks, things would have been fine, but we really missed those weekly cheques.

"By the time he got back to work, the bills were beginning to pile up. The strain was getting us both down when someone helpfully suggested Citizens Finance.

"They have an office near here so we went down to see them. The manager was very understanding. He arranged things so that we got enough cash to clean up all our debts and now we make just one easy payment every month."

Club Activities

SO-ED OUTDOOR CLUB

The So-Ed Outdoor Club had its second outing of this season on May 5th at Oak Lake. The change to a little warmer weather warranted a few new members for the "Polar Bear Club."

After everyone thawed out, a baseball game commenced, including a few non-members of the Club. Apart from dodging horses and avoiding children it was most stimulating.

After eating everything that didn't bite back, the more energetic completed the afternoon with a game of football, (of a sort). Result: one twisted knee; one twisted shoulder.

Next Sunday afternoon, May 12th, the Outdoor Club will be off again, possibly to Crystal Beach, but plans are not definite as yet.

Manly Macdonald Paintings Highlight Spring Fair of U.W.C.

On Saturday at the Elwanis Centre, the University Women's Club of Belleville and district held its annual "Spring Fair" and exhibition of Manly Macdonald paintings. The many guests from Belleville and the surrounding district were welcomed by Mrs. P. T. Seibert, the president. This year's "Spring Fair" was another successful activity of the club under the presidency of Mrs. Seibert; through her enthusiasm and executive ability during her two-year tenure of office, the club has had many successful ventures and reached an all-time high in membership. Also greeting guests were Mrs. J. Haig, vice-president, and Mrs. J. E. Pugh, general convenor of the Fair.

PAINTINGS DISPLAYED

It was a privilege for the University Women's Club to once again exhibit a group of paintings by Mr. Manly Macdonald, R.C.A. This exhibition is considered to be a signal contribution to the cultural life of the community, a facet of education which the club feels is worthy of interest and promotion. Mr. Macdonald's presence at this showing greatly added to its attractiveness for he graciously discussed the various aspects of his paintings with all interested viewers.

A large part of the main floor of the Centre had become a veritable Art Gallery with paintings displayed on the walls and on a central display aisle. Of particular interest was the fact that practically every picture exhibited had been painted by Mr. Macdonald within the past year and with a few exceptions they represented local scenes. The versatility of the artist was evidenced by the variety in his painting; every season of the year was depicted, running the gamut of color from the muted to the vivid.

QUIET TONES

One picture representing a new approach to Shannonville was particularly indicative of the quiet tones. Here the Shannonville mill is featured on an early winter afternoon. Shadows on the snow and a sky with scattered clouds bring out the play of subtle color.

The artist showed his ability to portray atmosphere in a scene overlooking the Trent valley. Mauves, light green, and pale blue are used to depict the haze over the hills on an early spring day. Another popular canvas showed birch trees along the Bay of Quinte. Here the feeling of spring is shown by the distinctive growth of branches and by the play of sunlight upon the white bark of the trees and the still water.

In contrast to these, the artists has used vivid colors to do a scene of the Trent Valley on a late October day. This painting was characterized by the rich red of the oaks. Vivid colors were again used in a late autumn picture of Rodon Creek. The spectator felt the lazy mood of a late autumn day where the reflection of color ranged from yellow to red and shaded from the deep green of the evergreens to the blue-green of the water.

LYNDHURST BRIDGE

An extremely interesting canvas showed the Lyndhurst bridge, one of the few stone arch bridges in Ontario. In this early morning scene, blues and greens and the gray stone of the bridge predominate. In another picture the grist mill is shown from across the river on a clear spring day. Reflections in the deep blue of the water are sharp and show the artist's ability to deal with a perfect mirror of what is reflected in his eye.

Marine painting or seascape is considered as a branch of landscape art. Mr. Macdonald is equally clever with this type of scene. In a scene of boats docked in Belleville harbor, he showed a strong feeling for color and light upon the smooth surface of water.

Manly Macdonald has been noted for "his distinctive work in landscape, marines and figures" and his pictures indicate his ability and mastery of the beauties of form and color. In addition many of his canvases have the ability to transport the viewer to the time and scene of the painter.

As has been his custom in previous years, Mr. Macdonald again generously donated a picture to the club for the purpose of a draw, the proceeds from which go to the scholarship fund. Ticket sales were heavy both before and at the time of the fair. At 4.00 p.m. Mrs. Macdonald made the draw and the lucky winner of a beautiful painting was Mrs. Carmen Alton, of Tweed.

HOME COOKING

The Home Cooking table on the main floor was well patronized and guests had the opportunity of leisurely viewing the art exhibit and visiting this table before being ushered to the second floor tea room.

The tea room was tastefully decorated in a floral motif. Each window featured flower box arrangements of gay colors and the central pillars were decorated with sprays of apple blossoms and large cabbage roses. On the wall behind the tea table which was centred by multi-colored spring flowers and backed by green tapers was a raffia network inter-twined with apple blossoms. Tea-room assistants were kept busy by a continual flow of guests who filled the attractive tables and enjoyed the delicious refreshments.

CONVENERS

Conveners for the 1957 Spring Fair were as follows: General convener, Mrs. J. E. Pugh; Convener of the Tea Room, Mrs. A. S. Lewis; Art Room Convener, Mrs. M. Smykalik; Home Cooking Conveners, Mrs. J. E. McArthur and Mrs. L. R. Finlayson; Advertising Convener, Mrs. D. Curzon; Ticket Conveners, Mrs. R. G. Wales and Mrs. H. T. Floyd; Decorating Convener, Mrs. J. E. Kuntze; Over-all Publicity, Mrs. J. H. Bateman; Press, Miss June Stephens and T.V. Publicity, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, Mrs.

Due to the efforts of all the conveners and their assistants, and to the co-operation of each member of the club and particularly due to the kindness of Mr. Macdonald, this year's "Spring Fair" was an even greater success than previous ones.

UNITED CHURCH W. A.

WELLINGTON — On Tuesday afternoon at the United Church the W.A. entertained members of Bloomfield, Bowerman's, Burr's, Victoria, Concession, Hillier and Rose Hall W.A.'s at a special meeting.

The president, Mrs. Harry Pierson, was in the chair and Mrs. Mayhew was pianist. The president welcomed the guests, the special speaker, and the members.

Mrs. Harold Nash gave the devotional, thought-provoking topic, "Stewardship at Easter."

Misses June Pierson and Beverley Tait sang a beautiful duet, "Green Hill Far Away," accompanied by Mrs. Jack McNeill at the organ.

The president reminded members of the WA rally for the north section of the county to be held at Albury, also of an invitation to a tea at Hillier on May 15th.

A piano trio was enjoyed by Mrs. Mayhew, Lynda McKnight and Joanne Herrington. A vocal solo, "I Know a Dream Catcher," by Mrs. McNeill was much appreciated.

The offering was received by Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. Bond and Mrs. Douglas Taylor and dedicated by the president.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. J. L. Ross introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Jack Marsh, of Belleville, president of W. A., Belleville Presbytery for Hastings and Prince Edward, who spoke on "Faith and Prayer". All were inspired by her helpful devotional address, and appreciated the preview she gave of plans on foot for the amalgamation of the WMS and WA organizations in Canada. She ended with a "Prayer Poem."

Mrs. Frank Harris, on behalf of those present, thanked Mrs. Marsh for the pleasure she had given. Refreshments were served at quartet tables in the church basement by members of the WA. The tea table was centred with an Easter lily and daffodils and on either side was a candelabra.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Poulter and the WA life member, Mrs. Ida McFaul.

Seated at the head table with Mrs. Pierson were Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Charles Wallers, of Belleville, Mrs. Bert Wallers, Bloomfield, Mrs. Leila Weeks and Mrs. E. V. Cook, Consecon, Mrs. Monahan, Hillier and Mrs. Johnston, Bowerman's.

Mrs. Bert Wallers moved a vote of thanks for the pleasant afternoon.

Inaugural Choir Meeting Held At Parsonage

On May 2nd the inaugural meeting was held at the Ivanhoe parsonage of all those responsible for the music at the different charges. Under the direction of Rev. G. Teskey, the group was organized and Mrs. Hilda Bray was appointed as president and Miss Jean Silge as secretary.

Discussion of problems common to all rural choir groups followed; hymns for the month were chosen. It was also discussed that a church service without a choir always seemed as though something was lacking. Books were given to different members for future study of training and directing choir groups.

At the close of the meeting, Mr. Teskey showed three short films entitled: "Come to the Fair," "Folk Song Fantasy" and "Voices from Acadia."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Teskey.

The next meeting will be held in June.

HOW TO GET THE MOST FROM YOUR PERFUME

KEEP YOUR THOUGHTS AT HOME AND YOU'LL BE GLAD YOU DID

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Not too long after I married, at 17, which was two years ago, I realized that I was not really in love with my husband but with another fellow I used to go with before I was married.

I don't know what to do about this, because my husband is a very fine fellow and wonderful to me, and I don't want to do anything that would hurt him. Yet I keep thinking all the time about this other fellow, especially because it would be so easy to pick up the phone some time and make a date to see him.

Do you think I should tell my husband that I know now I made a mistake when we married, or what? — Mrs. S.R.

Dear Mrs. S.R.:

One of the reasons why it is foolish for girls to marry very young is just because things of this sort so often happen later. Girls in their teens should be free to have fun with lots of friends, instead of taking on the responsibilities of married life. Unless they do have fun at the time it is normal for them to do so, they almost always feel unhappy about it when they are older and unable to go around the way they'd like to.

I doubt very much indeed if you are in love with your previous sweetheart. What I think is that you have this feeling of restlessness and frustration that comes from having been tied down too young, and you'd like some excitement.

I think you would make a great mistake if you did anything that would cause trouble between yourself and this husband who is so good to you. And I think, further, that if you'll concentrate on making him happy, instead of daydreaming about another man, you will thank your lucky stars some day that you did.

An "empty" perfume bottle left in lingerie or handkerchief drawers for a few days gives them a tantalizingly lovely fragrance.

Every woman loves perfume, and men love women who are constantly surrounded with an aura of fragrance. However, the very women who, while realizing the effectiveness, want to be practical and saving of their precious francs, are often the most wasteful with them, and the most ineffectual, too.

This is the considered opinion of Lilly Dache, noted authority on beauty and glamour, who insists that the average woman's traditional method of applying perfume—a drop on each ear lobe—is a complete waste since it creates no scented aura, therefore does nothing for her.

To create real perfume magic, she suggests 1) Immediately after a hot bath or shower, after lightly drying with a towel, put cologne concentrate all over the body. The body absorbs the fragrance and gives it off again for hours, acting as a wonderful background to the perfume you use. Of course, it's imperative that your cologne concentrate and your perfume are the same.

2) If you're giving a party, it's smart to spray your living room and your entrance hall with your personal fragrance before the guests arrive. Spray the light bulbs, the sofa, the draperies and even the rugs. Cologne as well as perfume cologne concentrate is good for this purpose.

3) Don't throw away an "empty" bottle of perfume until you have left it in your glove, handkerchief or lingerie drawer for a few days. That last tantalizing drop which won't pour will evaporate beautifully into your belongings.

4) Always apply perfume to the palm of your hand as well as the inside of your elbows and wrists and other pulse spots, for there's nothing quite as alluring to a man as carrying away the fragrance of an attractive woman after they have been introduced.

5) Perfume should move as you move, to keep its loveliness wafting around you. Besides the pulse spots, the best application areas are places where the air circulates, such as your hair, your veil, the hem of your skirt, the ruffles of your pretty petticoat. Liberal spraying with toilet water is best for these areas, with perfumed added as an accent.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: COMPLIMENTS vs. FLATTERY

If you are so narrow in your mind that you hold back on giving a compliment because you are afraid that it will be misinterpreted as flattery, you are, unhappily, losing out in a pleasant and pleasure-giving social relationship. Since flattery is insincere, any flattering words of yours will inevitably sound insincere. But when you genuinely say words of appreciation of a fine quality in a friend, a good achievement, an appealing manifestation of kindly consideration, your words will inevitably have the real ring of sincerity that a compliment should have.

IS IT EVER DISCOURTEOUS TO WRITE "PERSONAL" ON AN ENVELOPE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a discussion we are having in our family, please tell us: Is it, or isn't it, courteous to write "Personal" on the envelope of a letter sent to a person's home? (We don't mean a letter sent to a person in his or her office.) — Mother and Father.....

It is certainly discourteous to the other members of the family to write "Personal" on a letter sent to a person's home. It seems to assume that a letter sent to that home may perhaps be opened by any member of the family. Not a pleasant idea!

Turkey Makes The Party

By Mary Moore

When my children were babies, key a la king I could. I said, "Ruth, my principle is to do everything as well as I would if I knew it was the last time I would have the opportunity". She never forgot it and I have tried to live up to it. Shortly they moved to New York and I have not seen them since.

On Easter Sunday we had another "first" and a "once only". My brother's family came to dinner, bringing his first grandchild, Lynn Marie, to her first formal event at the tender age of 1 month. Also with us was a New York friend-of-her youth of my sister's, who is in town doing a big supervisory job for a high class department store opening. Etta is a glamour girl and realizing the uniqueness of the occasion we drank her health in orange juice — which may have been quite an innovation to a New Yorker!

Since nothing was too good, we had a Grade A, - Oven-ready turkey - the superior of which has not yet been bred.

I want to outline the colourful menu for it looked like Spring Busin' out all over.

EASTER DINNER MENU

Orange Juice in green stemmed glasses, Roast Turkey with Mushroom Stuffing, Giblet Gravy, Scalloped Tomatoes, Cranberry Sauce, Old-Fashioned Creamed Asparagus, Avocado, Orange & Lettuce Salad with Garlic French Dressing, Emem's North Pole pie (see May 6th) Milk for the Children, Nuts, Coffee.

The table centre was low pink tulips and white hyacinths and 8 white & pink candles.

ROAST TURKEY WITH MUSHROOM STUFFING:

The turkey was so fine and clean I did nothing but stuff and truss it: Saute in 4 to 6 tablespoons butter ½ chopped onion, ½ cup each chopped celery & parsley and ½ lb. scrubbed, sliced mushrooms until limp but not at all brown. Add 1 loaf of sliced, white bread cut into tiny dice. Toss to mix. Add 1 ½ teaspoons salt, ½ to 1 teaspoon rosemary leaves or poultry dressing and some pepper. Fill turkey cavity and close cavity with skewers. Tie wings and legs securely to body. Rub butter over skin sparingly. Cover loosely with an outsize sheet of foil, place on trivet on broiling pan or bottom of roaster and roast 4 ½ hours at 300 deg. Fahr.

(NOTE: Our turkey had to be ready for 3.00 p.m. because Doris and Pete were leaving on the 9.00 p.m. train, so we put the turkey in to roast at 225 deg. Fahr. at 10.30 a.m., went to Easter morning service and on our return at 1.00 p.m. raised the temperature to 300 deg. Fahr.)

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A GREAT FAMILY!

There was a gleam in the man's eyes. It could have been the glint of an unshed tear—or perhaps a scintilla of shining pride.

After all, one cannot witness the nuptials of the remaining member of a family of seventeen children without some sign of emotion.

JEAN-PAUL PAYETTE

And Mr. J. P. Payette, father of eleven sons and two daughters, the living members of a large brood, watched in silent admiration as his "baby" Jean-Paul Payette, took unto himself a beautiful bride, the former Phyllis Favreau, late of Val D'or, now of Belleville.

A splendid type of French Canadian citizen, Mr. Payette, after all is no stranger to family wedding ceremonies, receptions and whatnot.

"This," he smiled, "is the last. I have seen all of them married now. Jean-Paul, the baby of the family, has married a wonderful girl, one whom we are proud to call a member of the 'Fayettes'".

Mr. Payette looked around the reception hall where a large party of friends and relatives had gathered to mark Jean-Paul's nuptials.

Six sister-in-law brothers were there. Two attractive matrons smiled approval. They were Jean-Paul's sisters. Four other brothers could not be present due to force of circumstance.

There were Roland, Oliver, Ernest, Roger, Henry and Pete Payette, Larry, of Cloutlaus, New Brunswick; George, of Lasalle; Lucien of Scotland and Albert of Cornwall, were unavoidably absent. Mrs. Rose Boucher and Mrs. Jacqueline Marleau, both of Cornwall, looked on with sisterly pride.

Pete and Paul had met several times during the past hockey season. Pete was one of the star centres of the Cornwall Cheelies, while Paul proved himself with the McFarlands. There was no brotherly love shown between them in the heat of hockey battles and one or two of Paul's rare penalties were the result of lic scuffles with brother Pete.

From the time they graduated from the diaper ranks, those Payettes played hockey. In fact they had a team of their own during the minor days, and many a puck battle was fought in the Payette home.

And one of the younger stars of the Payette squad was none other than sister Jacqueline, she used to don the goalie pads and other equipment, and was rated among the best for her age. Versatile, she could take her place — and often did — on the defence or up front with the scoring troops. And often she had to be the arbiter for hockey arguments. In addition she was as handy with a lacrosse stick or a softball bat as with a hockey stick.

Quite a family, these Payettes. And just to show they are versatile, they gave an example of French Canadian folk dance at the wedding reception with Jean-Paul leading French Canadian folk songs in good voice.

And so ended the wedding celebrations of "The Last of the Payettes" (single that is). After two weeks honeymooning in Montreal and other centres, Jean and Phyllis will be back in the city. And will resume his position as a permanent member of the staff of the Leslie Shoe Stores here while Mrs. Payette will be back with the Ashley Furs.

LOOK WHO'S HERE

Those perky pygmies of pachydermia, the famous midgets will decorate the ring of the arena come Friday night—and as usual the ballyhoo artists will put on a show that should rock the time honored edifice. Included are Sky Low-Low, one of the heavies of the art, who teams with an Irish emadhaun, Irish Jackie, who will match their artistic mite, acclaimed Royal Littlebrook, a member of the British Empah, and the Brown Panther, a colored fascimile of fast motion at its best.

Headlining the card are a couple of old buddies of the faithful, Prince Malava, born to the Sammies purple, complete with headgear, sarong, bare pinkies and last but not least, Coconut Willie, his drum-thumping benchman, who skins the signals to the "boss." Opposing the South Sea Island princeling will be that topnotcher from down under in New Zealand and a great favorite here, none other than one Pathrick O'Connor. Opening the festivities will be Faithful Flanagan and one Bill McDaniels.

Big Celebration Will Honor Whitby Dunlops

WHITBY (CP)—Ontario County will honor the Allan Cup champions, Whitby Dunlops, Wednesday in what is expected to be one of the biggest celebrations in the county since VE-day.

The day will be declared a public holiday in Whitby, the town of the champions 25 miles east of Toronto. A parade of some 40 floats, eight bands, drum majorettes and open convertibles for the hockey heroes will set off from the hockey arena in the evening and canvass through the streets.

After the parade a dance will be held in the arena. George Dudley of Midland, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and Ontario Hockey Association president Lorne Cook of Kingston, are expected to attend the celebration.

Dunlops last week recorded two firsts in Senior A hockey competition when they eliminated Spokane Flyers to win the Allan Cup. They won the cup in four straight games and were also the first team to win the trophy in their first year in Senior A competition.

Dodgers 14th Inning Victory Shaves Braves Lead to Game; Kansas Nips Nats, Tigers Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lew Burdette was mad enough today to spit. And so were the rest of the Milwaukee Braves from manager Fred Haney down.

The object of Burdette's, and his teammates', anger is the much belabored five-ounce baseball the Braves' pitcher often has been accused of mistreating. Because the little horsehide decided to take an unorthodox bounce at the most inopportune moment, Burdette was deprived of his fourth victory, and the Braves a 4-3 triumph over Brooklyn Monday that would have boosted their first game margin over the Dodgers to three games.

Instead, the Braves had to be content today with a narrow one-game lead over the Dodgers who beat them 14 innings to gain a split in their two-game series at Ebbets Field.

SCORED ON SACRIFICE

Here's what happened. The Dodgers were at bat in the 12th, trailing 4-3, two outs, runner on first and second, and Carl Furillo the batter. Milwaukee had gone ahead by one run in the top of the inning on Eddie Mathews' stroked his fourth hit, a single raced to third on another single by Andy Pafko, and scored on Johnny Logan's sacrifice fly.

Burdette, who had overcome a 3-0 deficit and a warning from plate umpire Lee Ballanfant after nearly decapitating Campanella with a pitch, was getting along swimmingly. Except for the first inning, when Carl Furillo smashed a three-run homer, the Dodgers hadn't managed a single split distance of a run. Burdette disposed of the first two batters in the 12th, Gino Cimoli, who was to break up the game two innings later with a home run, clubbed a double for his fourth hit.

Sandy Amoros walked on a 3-2 pitch but the game apparently was over when Furillo sent a bouncer to shortstop. Just as Logan got set to field the ball, it took a bad hop over his head and Cimoli raced home with the tying run, sliding in ahead of Pafko's frantic throw to the plate.

HOMER BY CIMOLI

In the 14th, with the score still deadlocked, Cimoli stepped up and socked a home run into the right field stands. Furillo then left the field amidst a home run to break up the overtime tussle.

Cimoli's fifth hit of the game further cheered Brooklyn's chagrin because the Dodger outfielder had made only four hits through out the entire 73 games—and his loudest hit was a long-liner. The Dodger victory was gained by Sandy Koufax, who retired the Braves in order in the 14th inning for his first major league success against them.

In the other game in the National League, Chicago Cubs whipped New York Giants 6-2 to move into a seventh place tie with Pittsburgh. Young Don Kaiser hurled a six-hitter for his first victory of the year.

A four-run explosion in the sixth, which clouted Ruben Gomez from the box, gave the 22-year-old bonus righthander the win. Lee Walls, acquired along with Dale Long in a trade with Pittsburgh last week, drove in two runs. Ed Winceniak, rookie second baseman, drove in two more. The defeat was the first suffered by Gomez, who had won his first three starts before he was sidelined by a virus attack.

Kansas City Athletics, pre-season experts' pick for a spot around the American League basement, have proven to be the early season surprise of the league.

Lou Boudreau's apparently underrated outfit went over the .500 mark Monday with an 8-2 victory over Washington as Ned Garver hurled a six-hitter at the Senators. The triumph gave the A's a 10-9 record for the campaign and undisputed possession of fourth place, a half game in front of Cleveland Indians.

Detroit's Tigers, who had been in a three-way tie or fourth with Kansas City and Cleveland, dropped into sixth place when the Baltimore Orioles walloped them 14 to 13 innings. All other league clubs enoyed the afternoon off.

SIX-RUN LEAD

A six-run lead in the first inning, highlighted by rookie outfielder Jim Piersall's grand slam homer made tile rest of the afternoon an easy one for Garver as the Athletics handed the Senators their eighth straight defeat and 12th in the last 13 starts. Chuck Stobbs, who lasted through one frame, was charged with the defeat, his fifth against no victories.

Jim Brideweser, sold last season by Detroit to Baltimore, gained revenge with a double-header double that drove in Gus Triandos and Dick Williams with the tie-breaking runs in the victory went to George Zuverink, who permitted only four hits in seven relief innings. The defeat was charged to Don Criniacs. Dick Williams' bases-loaded single in the eighth scored two and enabled Baltimore to tie the game at 6-6.

Aces Favored To Take Cup In Two Games

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces, their stock boosted Sunday by a solid 4-2 victory over Brandon Regals-in the fourth game of their best - of - seven Edinburgh Trophy series, are now being favored to wind it up in the next two games. The win, which gave the Quebec Hockey League champions a 3-1 lead in the East-West contest, was the first game Quebec or other clubs not decided by a single goal. Aces held the Western Hockey League title holders scoreless for over 50 minutes while running up a 4-0 lead.

The clubs played one game—the third in the series—in Montreal but the rest are scheduled for Quebec ice. Aces dropped only six of their 34 home games during the season.

WORST GAME

Playing coach Don Raleigh of Regals described his team's play in the 4-2 loss as "our worst game of the season." Regals were without the services of centre Norm Johnson, benched with a charlie-horse, and missed Raleigh when he left the game before the last period with a pulled shoulder muscle.

Both will be back in the lineup for tonight's game. Aces have come through the series without a serious injury.

The sixth game is scheduled for Thursday night with other games, if needed, set for the following Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday.

Should Have Two Memorial Cups Says Pollock

REGINA (CP) — Sam Pollock, manager-coach of Ottawa Canadiens, said Monday night after his team scored a 4-3 victory to deadlock the Canadian Junior hockey final with Flin Flon Bombers that "it is too bad they can't divide the Memorial Cup."

"These are the two best Junior teams in the country. It's a crying shame they each can't have a Memorial Cup."

Pollock paced Ralph Backstrom and Gerry Wilson as his best players Monday night. Backstrom played at least 15 minutes of each period.

In the Flin Flon dressing room, Bomber coach Bob Kirk said his team's "own bad mistakes" cost them the game. "But kids make mistakes. We all do."

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—H. W. Jensen of Niagara Falls fired a hole-in-one during the weekend at Oaklands Golf and Country Club, the first of the season in this district. He used a No. 4 iron on the 130-yard 13th hole.

Gordie Howe Wins Hart Trophy For 3rd Time in NHL Career

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings is the 1956-57 winner of the Hart Trophy —awarded to the player adjudged most valuable to his team—the National Hockey League announced Monday.

Howe has won the prized award, and the $1,000 that goes with it, for the third time in his 11-year NHL career.

The Detroit star won easily. He polled 111 points to 58 for Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens, who was runner-up in the mid-season voting but fell off badly in the second half. Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers was third with 31 points.

The voting was done by hockey writers, broadcasters and telecasters in the six NHL cities. Each city's vote was weighted to give equal voting strength. Five points were awarded for a first-place choice, three for second and one for third.

HAD EIGHT POINT LEAD

Beliveau led in the mid-season voting with 51 points to Howe's 43, Terry Sawchuk, Boston Bruins goalie who quit the team in mid-season because of illness, was then third with 35.

Howe's extra winnings for the season thus reached $4,500. He won the NHL scoring championship, was a member of the title-holding Wings, who finished first in the regular race, and was voted to the rightwing spot on the NHL first all-star team. Each achievement was worth $1,000. He also won $500 as a member of the first team, against Boston Bruins, in a semi-final of the Stanley Cup series.

IN SELECT COMPANY

By winning the trophy for the third time, Howe moves into select company. Its season-mates are Eddie Shore won it four times and the late Howie Morenz three. Other than those three stars, no player has won the trophy more than twice.

During the season just closed, Howe scored 44 goals and had 45 assists for 89 points in his 11 seasons with Detroit, the 29-year-old native of Floral, Sask., has won the NHL scoring title five times, has been selected to the first all-star team five times and the second team three times and has been a member of eight NHL championships and four Stanley Cup winners.

Fullmer Return Hardly Noticed

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A father and mother quietly greeted their son at the airport here Monday. Hardly anyone else noticed.

Four months ago, Gene Fullmer returned home a conquering champion. He had taken the middleweight boxing championship from Sugar Ray Robinson in a rugged 15-round bout in New York.

Hundreds of fans cheered last January as he stepped from the plane. Thousands more watched a parade wind through downtown Salt Lake City and on to West Jordan, Gene's hometown.

Monday only Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fullmer greeted Gene and his wife, Dolores.

For Gene no longer was middleweight champion. Sugar Ray, a vicious left hook, knocked Fullmer out in the fifth round of their rematch May 1 in Chicago.

All Tied up

Backstrom Sparks Baby Habs To 4-2 Win Over Flin Flon; Seventh Game Slated for Wed.

REGINA (CP) — Captain Ralph Backstrom led Ottawa Canadiens to a 4-2 victory over Flin Flon Bombers Monday night to force a seventh and deciding game in the best-of-seven Memorial Cup junior hockey series.

Backstrom scored the tying and winning goals as Ottawa roared back in the third period to overcome a 2-1 margin. It was the fifth straight game in which the winning goal came in the final period.

Canadiens won the second game 4-3 and three goals in the last four minutes and the third 5-2 with a four-goal third period. Bombers scored three times in the final frame to take a 3-1 decision in the fourth and scored twice in the third to win the fifth 3-2.

PLAY AGAIN WEDNESDAY

The seventh game of the Canadian junior championship final will be played here Wednesday.

Other Canadiens scorers were defenceman Jean Picard and forward Dick Dumoulchel, who scored into an open net late in the third period after Flin Flon coach Bobby Kirk pulled his goal minder.

Patty Cinnelli and George Konik scored for Bombers. It was the fifth goal of the series for Cinnelli.

Both goalies were outstanding. Bombers' George Wood for the first time in series was under more than rival Claude Dufour. Wood made 28 saves, including 13 in the final frame, to Dufour blocked 18, only two in the last period.

Sloppy clearing by Bombers paved the way for the opening goal. Picard stole the puck from Ginnell and moved in to beat Wood with a partially screened backhander at 5:19 of the first period.

Play opened cautiously in the second and the western club tied the count at 4:47 as Konik's shot dribbled over Dufour into the net.

The second Flin Flon goal came when Ginnell slapped home a loose puck.

Poor clearing also set up Ottawa's second goal. Murray Balfour took the puck from Gauthier and went in on Wood, who made a brilliant save. The puck fell loose, and Backstrom pushed it into the unguarded net.

It was almost the same story on Backstrom's winning goal at 14:46. Dumoulchel scored in the insurance marker with two seconds left into the open net.

Suspension Robs Shoemaker of Preakness Ride

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—One of the biggest missives in racing history has cost jockey Willie Shoemaker a 15-day suspension.

Churchill Downs suspended Shoemaker Monday for "gross carelessness" in misjudging the finish line in last Saturday's 83rd running of the Kentucky Derby.

Shoemaker's mount, Gallant Man, finished second in a photo finish with Calumet Farm's Iron Liege.

After the race, Shoemaker said his mistook the 16th pole for the finish line and eased up on his mount.

Shoemaker said the suspension will keep him out of the Preakness at Baltimore's Pimlico track May 18 where he had been assigned to ride Gallant Man in that race.

Shoemaker said he believed "my missue cost Gallant Man the race, but certainly not by a length, I believe he would have won by a nose or more."

Earlier he commented his boner was "a natural mistake. I thought the 16th pole was the finish line. That's all there was to it."

Ford, who had to leave the game Saturday because of the ailment, has been sent back to New York for treatment.

Leafs Blank Sugar Kings 8-0; Royals Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals, pre-season favorites to win the International League pennant, are finding the early season going just a bit tough.

The Royals ended a four-game series against first-place Miami Marlins Monday night and suffered their third defeat. They lost 4-3 and dropped five games off the pace.

Meanwhile, Toronto Maple Leafs co-favorites with Montreal, coasted to an 8-0 victory over Havana Sugar Kings in a regularly scheduled game. Havana edged Toronto 3-2 in the completion of the second game of Sunday's doubleheader, which was halted by Toronto's curfew after six innings.

In the only other game scheduled, Buffalo Bisons made it three straight over Richmond Virginians with a 9-4 triumph.

PITCHED SIX-HITTER

Lefty Gene Snyder, pitching for Miami, recovered from a shaky first inning to go the distance, allowing the Royals only five hits. It was Snyder's second victory against no losses. Bill Wilson hit a two-run homer in the first and from there on Snyder had the Royals under control.

The Maple Leafs backed up Jim Pearce's eight-hit pitching by pounding three Havana hurlers for 12 safeties. In the completion game, Cecil Scull broke the game open for Havana with a run scoring single in the ninth.

Toronto came back in the first inning of the regular game by scoring three quick runs. They added three more in the sixth and two in the seventh. Pearce went the distance for his third victory in four decisions. Hector Rodriguez with two hits and Sam Zeltzer with three paced the Toronto hitting attack.

Glenn Cox, who picked up his second victory of the season for Buffalo, needed an assist from Steve Nagy. Ray Noble's grand slam home run in the eighth put the Bisons well out in front.

Will Fight for One Title Only

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Promoter Chris Shaban says he is interested only in matching Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., and Archie Moore of Brantford for the Canadian light heavyweight title, now held by Durelle.

Shaban was commenting on a report by G. K. Garnett, New Brunswick representative of the Canadian Boxing and Wrestling Federation, who said Sunday night a proposed bout on 30 fight here between Wallace and Durelle would be for two titles, the British Empire and the Canadian.

Garnett said the boxers could stage a non-title bout but could not fight for one title without putting both on the line.

Shaban said Monday he has been informed by Gene Letourneau, national commissioner of the Canadian Boxing Federation, that the CBF had no authority to sanction a British Empire title fight between Durelle and Wallace. Wallace is the present holder of the Empire crown.

Ford, who had to leave the game Saturday because of the ailment, has been sent back to New York for treatment.

Chuck Dressen May Get Gate Award Talk With Nats' Boss

DETROIT (AP) — Surprised almost to the point of disbelief at a published report that he is about to be fired as manager of the last-place Washington Senators, Chuck Dressen awaited the arrival of the club's president for a showdown meeting.

Calvin Griffith was due in Detroit today, A story out of Washington Monday night quoted Griffith as saying "something drastic" would have to be done about the Senators' situation. They have lost eight games in a row and have only four victories to show for their first 20 games.

"I'd have thought Calvin would have notified me if he planned to discuss something like that," said the 56-year-old Dressen.

"The whole thing comes as a shock to me," he said after hearing that the Washington Post and Times Herald said it has "learned that Griffith's plan for drastic action includes the dismissal of Dressen and the promotion of one of the team's coaching forces, Georgie Cookie Lavagetto, as manager with temporary status."

The report said Griffith was prepared to offer Dressen a post as assistant to the president.

Kluszewski May Get Surgery

CINCINNATI (AP)—It will be several days before a decision is reached as to whether Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati Reds' first baseman, will undergo an operation, it was announced Monday.

A team of nine specialists said Saturday he has a "protruding intervertebral disc" and that operation was recommended for the 140,000-a-year Reds player.

The pain in Klu's left hip developed in March, 1956, during spring training. He was in and out of the lineup throughout the season. He has played one game this year—the opener.

LIFT SUSPENSIONS

BUDAPEST (Reuters) — The Hungarian Football Association has lifted suspensions on 11 players who stayed temporarily in the West and told them they could play for the national team again.

Nine were suspended from international competition for six months and club games for three months when they came back last February after touring South America with the Budapest Honved club in defiance of a ban by the Hungarian association.

'Ole Arch' Wants $100,000 for Anthony Fight

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) Archie Moore wants at least $100,000 Monday to defend his light heavyweight boxing world title against Tony Anthony.

The 40-year-old champion told a press conference: "I've got to get at least $100,000 in the almost five years I was kept waiting for a shot at the light heavyweight title and I believe it's only reasonable that I get the same amount for the title defence."

Archie said:

"I'm willing to defend my title against Tony Anthony if my monetary demands are met and if I'm in fighting shape again. For the time being I'm in the process of taking off 20 pounds."

He insisted that he never signed "a valid contract with the International Boxing Club to fight Anthony on June 7."

Archie said he did was "sign a document that I would fight the winner of the Anthony-Sandy Saddler fight." Anthony knocked out Spelser in the third round at Detroit April 24.

FINANCE NOT COVERED

He said the financial side was not covered in the contract "and moreover I was the only one to sign it—neither Spelser's nor Anthony's managers were present at the signing."

Moore also revealed that he received a telegram from Floyd Stevens, president of the U.S. National Boxing Association, informing him that if he did not fight Anthony on June 7 he would be suspended "and the title would be declared vacant one month later."

In New York, Moore's manager Charlie Johnston said:

"As far as the title fight goes, Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club is due in tomorrow from Paris and I expect to sit down with him to discuss terms."

Frisco to Make Another Bid For Major Ball

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco will make another bid for major league baseball Thursday when Mayor George Christopher flies to New York to meet Brooklyn Dodger president Walter O'Malley.

The mayor said his eastern trip "will be in the interest of baseball as we want major league baseball."

The Dodger president will discuss West Coast baseball with financiers and major league officials since he has been in the area from Los Angeles last weekend, the mayor said.

Christopher said three days ago that if Los Angeles get a major league team, San Francisco will "won't be far behind—there is an excellent chance for next year."

The Dodgers own a farm club at Los Angeles and there has been speculation that they might want to move their National League franchise there.

Beliveau Gets Boston Checkup

BOSTON (AP)—Jean Beliveau, high-scoring centre for the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens, arrived in Boston Monday for a checkup at the Lahey Clinic. He declined to reveal his possible ailment.

Beliveau said he is undergoing a series of tests which will continue at the clinic through today. He added he does not know how long he will remain in Boston.

The hefty centre was reported to be not in the best of health last month when the Canadiens defeated Boston Bruins in the finals of the National Hockey League playoffs.

Beliveau said in an interview last week he was "very tired" at the end of the regular season and during the Stanley Cup playoffs. He was examined near the end of this season by his personal doctor and was found to be suffering from a kidney ailment. It cleared up later.

Beliveau finished third in the league scoring race last season after a mid-season slump.

Ballydonnell ran the 6½ furlongs in 1.21.

The 24-day meeting at Old Woodbine continues until Saturday, June 1. Attendance and betting showed an increase of 25 per cent over the opening day of 1956.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was thinking sad to herself, and she said to pop, Oh dear, William, why did I have to go and buy that summer coat even if it was half price?

I'll tell you why, because it was half price, pop said, and ma said, It doesn't do a thing for me and now I'll have to force myself to wear it like a garment of sackcloth and ashes just because I paid 12 dollars for it and my conscience wont let me waist that much money.

You can always console yourself by remembering it was a bargain, pop said, and ma said, That will be cold comfort on a warm day.

And this afternoon I was alone in the house on account of ma being at the market, and the doorbell rang and it was a long thin man wanting to know if we had any old clothes to sell, and I had a suddin idea, and I said, We haven't got anything old but we've got something new, it's a lady's summer coat.

I'll take a look at it, the man said, and I went and got it out of ma's closit, and the man looked at it careful inside and out, saying, Well, it's not worth it, but considering that you ran all the way upstairs, I'll let you have a dollar for it.

Me thinking, Oh boy, ma will have a dollar she never expected, and she wont have to wear the coat.

Which just then ma came back from the market, saying, What's this? What's going on with my new summer coat? she said, and the man quick said, I was just offering the boy four dollars for it.

The result being ma sold it to him for 5 dollars and 50 cents with a happy expression and told me never to do that again.

Making me feel like a narow escape.

May Take Sunday Ball To Courts

VANCOUVER (CP) — Evidence collected by Vancouver city police detectives at Kerrisdale's Pacific Coast League doubleheader here will be referred to the British Columbia attorney-general's department.

Vancouver Mounties played San Diego Padres.

Two detectives were at the stadium and were reported to have taken down some names among the 5,600 who attended. Mounties general manager Cedric Tallis said they talked to him between games and inquired if any tickets were being sold. He told them all tickets were sold prior to midnight Saturday.

An official of the Lord's Day Alliance, which has fought the introduction of commercial Sunday sport here, said the Alliance has made no complaint about Sunday's doubleheader.

The secretary, Rev. H. T. Allen, added: "This is an open challenge. I don't see how the police can even ignore it. It is up to the police, not to us; we are not the law."

Bell Takes Pro Football To Congress

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National League, fighting a losing fight for exemption from the nation's anti - trust laws, Monday bombarded Congress with a 100-page brochure entitled, The Story of Professional Football in Summary.

NFL commissioner Bert Bell, at a press conference, said a copy of the brown paperback booklet had been sent to every U.S. senator and representative.

It contains a few words about Commissioner Bell, the story of professional football in summary and a digest of legislative conclusions and judicial decisions involving professional sports.

Bell admitted having registered as a lobbyist in Washington and said he would continue to fight the recent Supreme Court decision which labeled pro football a business and subject to anti-trust laws.

In the brochure, Bell tells Congress point blank that the Supreme Court decision "jeopardizes the continued existence of professional football in that it raises questions as to the legality under the anti-trust laws of even the player selection system and the reserve clause. If either of these were held to be an unreasonable restraint of trade, organized football . . . would come to an end," he says.

Audrey Hepburn, Fred Astaire, Paired in a Lavish New Musical, "Funny Face," in Technicolor

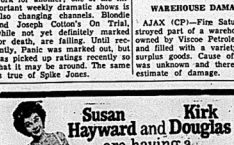
In addition to being the most lavish, colorful, rhythmic and eagerly-awaited musical to come along in a decade, Paramount's "Funny Face" has the distinctive of being the film to introduce an electrifying dramatic star Audrey Hepburn as a musical comedy performer.

Teamed mostly in the storied city of Paris, "Funny Face" teams Miss Hepburn, with filmdom's top male musical star — Fred Astaire. Thus, with this masterful stroke of casting, combined with the charm and beauty of its Paris background, plus a host of George and Ira Gershwin's most well-loved hit tunes, "Funny Face" comes onto the 1957 film scene as everything it has been cracked up to be, and more.

Audrey Hepburn, who won the Academy Award for "Roman Holiday," her first American-produced film, returns to her first love, the dance, in this film. She had considered making ballet her career before the occupation of Holland, where she lived during World War II, and became a chorus girl on the London stage and here Paramount executives discovered her and screen-tested her with sensational results. In "Funny Face," she was delighted at being teamed with her idol, Fred Astaire.

"Funny Face," starting tomorrow at the Belle Theatre, is Astaire's 28th film, and Audrey Hepburn, as his partner, joins a parade of stars who have danced on the screen with Fred over the years. Among Audrey's predecessors are such stars as Ginger Rogers, Eleanor Powell, Paulette Goddard, Rita Hayworth, Vera Ellen, Leslie Caron and many more.

The half-romantic, half-riotous story that threads through the maze of songs and dances of "Funny Face" is a light-hearted account of the adventures of a Greenwich Village girl (Audrey Hepburn), who has intellectual learnings and who, in spite of her stunning beauty, doesn't want to be a fashion model. A photographer (Fred Astaire), magnetized her into taking a special job. This requires her to join a Paris-bound fashion safari, consisting of the photographer, the woman editor of a style magazine (Kay Thompson), and their entourage. The object is to photograph the reluctant beauty against the Paris scene, to exude intellect, character and warmth as well as wear clothes startlingly well.



Behind the screen story is a real life story, which began when Richard Avedon during World War II and Leonard Gershe, fellow members of the Merchant Marine, got the idea of producing a stage musical concerning a high fashion photographer. Avedon, then studying photography in the Merchant Marine Photographic School, did become a high fashion photographer later on, and Gershe wrote the book for the projected stage musical. With Astaire playing the photographer and Gershe contributing songs, together with Roger Edens, the stage version of "Funnyface" and the projected musical now makes its bow on the screen. Edens has been associated with Gershe on the film's original music, Edens produced the magnificently-mounted picture. Stanley Donen directed.

Titles listing the musical numbers in "Funny Face" includes the Gershwins' memorable title tune, "Funny Face" in addition to an impressive selection from some of the many composers' great music: "S'Wonderful," "How Long Has This Been Going On," "He Loves and She Loves," "Let's Kiss and Make Up" and "Clap Yo' Hands."

New Roger Edens and Leonard Gershe songs that progress the film story are: "Bonjour, Paris," "On How To Be Lovely" and "Think Pink." The song "Marche Funebre" is by Roger Edens.

Fall Fate of Many Programs Still Hangs in the Balance

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — All three major networks are working overtime shuffling and reshuffling their autumn schedules, trying that show and that for size, and the fall fate of many a program still hangs in the balance. But everything points to a lot of chances. As of this writing, the decision of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz to stop grinding out new weekly adventures of Lucy still stands, but CBS will return some of the popular shows in a new spot—Wednesdays.

Pencilled into the Lucy Monday night spot is a new film series called Dick and the Duchess. Desi and Lucille would like to do a once-a-month, hour-long I Love Lucy, but CBS hasn't been able to find a sponsor willing to pick up the cheque for the film, price-tagged at $200,000 a shot, even though the show remains at the top of everybody's rating pile.

GLEASON SHOW IN DOUBT

There is still no solution concerning the television future of Jackie Gleason or his show, and the time has been filled with an hour film, Perry Mason, based on the popular Erle Stanley Gardner mystery books. No one knows, either, what happens to Robert Montgomery, or Sid Caesar, and now it looks as though Ray Bolger's Washington Square series may get the axe.

After years and years, Roy Rogers will no longer be ridin' and fightin' on Sunday evening—but there still will be film cowboys in the old half-hour spot. Private Secretary will make way for a new series called Sleuth and Sons. Both—Bengal Lancers and Sir Lancelot will fold their tents.

Hey, Jeanie, departs to make way for Have Gun, Will Travel and the sturdy and venerable Two for the Money will disappear in favor of New York Confidential starring Lee Tracy.

Singer Patti Page will come into the old Wednesday night Arthur Godfrey spot and photographer Bob Cummings will be replaced by Harbor Master, starring Barry Sullivan.

BIG THINGS FOR DINAH

NBC's early evening 15 minutes across the board, now holding Dinah Shore, Jack Paar, Perry Como, Nat King Cole and Dinah Shore, will be dispersed. Only Dinah moving into a greater television exposure with a big variety show modelled on her last season's hour-long variety shows, knows what the future holds.

George Gobel is another performer involved in a shuffle. His old show dies, but he will do an every-other-week 60-minute variety show, alternating with Perry Fisher.

Danny Thomas leaves one network for another; one of the important weekly dramatic shows is also changing channels. Blondie and Joseph Cotton's On Trial, while not yet definitely cancelled, are for dead, as failing. Until recently, Panic was marked out, but has picked up ratings recently so that it may be around. The same is true of Spike Jones.

Lana Turner, Wed Five Times, Believes She Has Had Enough

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Not me; no, sir. I'll never get married again."

These familiar words came from an unfamiliar source—Lana Turner. Many a recently divorced star utters the same sentiments. But Lana! This is too much.

"Don't you think I've just about had it?" she reasoned.

She had a point there. She has been married five times to four men—Artie Shaw, Steven Crane (twice), Bob Topping and Lex Barker, from whom she recently separated.

I reminded her that her pal Clark Gable made a similar remarriage edict—and some time later married for the fifth time, to Kay Spreckels.

"That's right; he did," she reflected, adding with a giggle, "well, you have to make conversation."

She said she hasn't started dating again, adding: "I haven't got any plantaxes."

The Hollywood swains may have a hard time catching up with Lana. She intends to shake off the smog and spend more time working time in Acapulco.

"I need a chance at happiness," she said, "and I can't find it here. The life in Acapulco is just right for me. I can get away from the pressure of this town and live the easy way."

I hope to get my house started down there in June. Then I'll live down there all the time, coming to Hollywood only when I have a picture to do."

Perhaps as an antidote to unhappiness, Lana has plunged herself into work. She now is making The Lady Takes a Flyer with Jeff Chandler, her first film in almost a year and a half. During her lunch hours, she is undergoing fittings for wardrobe in Peyton Place, which she starts the day after she finishes Lady.

Hard, Peyton Place, she says, not for 10 days in Acapulco, but she's overseen the building of her home. Then she flies directly to England to begin Another Time, Another Place, which she plays a newspaper woman. Never saw any dolls like her around the city room.

"I only wish I could have started this grind with a little more energy," she remarked. "I haven't worked since a year ago November, when I finished The Rains of Ranchipur.

"But just before I started this picture everything happened. There was the marriage breaking up, the television show (with Bob Hope), and the business with my daughter."

She referred to Cheryl's refusal to return to a private school, choosing to adventure on skid road. The girl is now in a public school and happy. Lana offered to take her to England with her, but Cheryl is content to remain here with her grandmother.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, May 8, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — The daring and different can be striking but, for best results, it must be monitored by sensible analysis, prudent execution. Acquaint yourself thoroughly with day's requirements. Tackle essentials in order of importance.

April 22 to May 21 (Taurus) — Don't be so self-assured and overconfident that you overlook the value of helpful advice and suggestions. Use that good head of yours; don't argue. Day can be very good.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — You could be too anxious, too hasty, too energetic now. In all things aim to be calm, poised, reasonable, tolerant. But defend principles, capabilities.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Hold that mind, that retort! Will it hurt needlessly? Or will it lead to bickering and wasting time explaining late?

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Investigate, analyze, then voice your opinions carefully. Work with consistency, cooperate with others, and the day will be happier, more successful than you may think.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — There may be a tendency toward over-enthusiasm, overlooking small but necessary details and tasks. Be careful about this and you can gain top results.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Your aspects are better than most now, but you may have to curtail action a bit because others may be at odds with your opinions or methods. Keep trying; you can make new strides.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Though the day may present some restrictions, there are many opportunities for you wide-ranging activities in accordance with possibilities, capabilities.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Be unselfish in thought and action and the day will bring you many unexpected blessings, benefits. Make time for some rest, relaxation, to ease tension, replenish energies.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Uncertainties may lead to frustrate, distract channels of thought. Be careful to avoid errors. Don't allow emotions, distortions to overwhelm you. Don't let likes to sway your better judgment and spoil chances of gain.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Promote matters you prize, understand; don't bog-scotch around the uncertain. A good period for making necessary improvements.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — In dealing with others bear in mind that you, too, seek favors, want success in work and other matters. Show your even balance, your courteous manner and a gainful day will follow. Have patience, understanding.

You born today are endowed with such qualities as friendliness, dependability, a sense of responsibility, the ability to carry on despite hardships, general all-around capability and a liking for the better things of life. Be careful not to over-indulge in pleasures, luxuries, rich foods, beverages. When justly aroused, you can be a bulwark of defence, or, if wrongly domineering. Normally you get along with whatever type persons you meet, but are happiest when associates are intelligent, appreciate art, music and good literature as you do. Birthdate: Harry S. Truman, U. S. Pres.

HOME BECOMES GAS-FUME BOMB, UNCLE CHARGED

William A. Wood, 31, has been charged with the attempted murder of six children, all nephews and nieces. Shortly after their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wray Annis of Toronto, had left their house with Wood in charge of the children, he went to the residence of a brother-in-law and said the house was going to blow up. Police rushed to the home to find it filled with domestic gas fumes from a small stove on top of a coal stove in which a fire was burning. Police said the house was a potential bomb which could have wrecked itself and other houses alongside of it.

Sister of William A. Wood and mother of the six children, Mrs. Annis had gone on a short trip with her husband when police found the home filled with explosive gas. Police say Wood told them he did not think the children were being properly treated and that he had planned to take his own life as well as those of the children. When Mr. and Mrs. Annis returned home they found a note left by police: "Family is O.K. Contact No. 3 police re arson." The children had been taken to the Children's Aid Society shelter by police.

European Integration Seen Major Topic at Bonn Talks

BONN (Reuters)—European integration loomed today as the major topic of discussion between Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain and West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer as they began the last day in their current round of talks.

Macmillan's view is expected to be essentially that which he expressed Thursday night at a dinner given in his honor by Adenauer. In his speech he said Britain had "rejoiced at the signing of the Rome agreements which established a market" which will make a customs-free area involving six western European countries — West Germany, Italy, France, The Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxemburg.

"For reasons which I know you understand," Macmillan said, "we could not ourselves become members of this inner ring."

Apparently he was referring largely to the commitments which Britain already has with other members of the Commonwealth.

"But we are with them," he added, "that the project of the common market can only serve the interests of European prosperity if there is associated with it a free trade area on a wide basis, the completion of a wider free trade area."

It was believed by observers here today that the reference to "free trade area" was meant to be a broader sense to European cooperation—were not to mean that Britain fully-backs European integration and by no means considered itself above and cool to the idea of eventually to joining itself.

However, Britain has previously promoted a "grand design" aimed at merging present European institutions such as NATO, the Western European Union and the Coal and Steel Community into one organization.

But West Germans fear that the "grand design" may only make it more difficult to get parliament to ratify the common market and atomic pool (Euratom) treaties recently agreed upon by officials of the six countries involved.

The first day's talks which took place between the two leaders Tuesday were believed to have been given over largely to a discussion of proposed cuts in British military expenditures in German view is one of alarm that British plans to cut her NATO forces in West Germany from 62,500 troops to about 50,000 this year and to concentrate defence on the production and use of atomic arms.

It was for this reason, observers said today, that Macmillan agreed in his speech that conventional forces are still necessary to repel minor attacks in western Europe.

The fact that Britain is planning to end conscription just as it is introduced into West Germany, Macmillan said, should be construed only as a difference of emphasis rather than of purpose.

The fact that he reassured West Germany that aggression against the West would be met with a "full strategic nuclear response" was taken as meaning that Britain has no intention of pulling out of the continent of Europe and leaving it to its fate.

DETROIT STRIKE COULD CLOSE ALL CHRYSLER PLANTS

Threatens Company's Fight to Boost Sales

DETROIT (AP)—A vote on a strike which could shut down Chrysler plants across the United States was scheduled today by United Automobile Workers at the company's Detroit-area stamping plants.

The 23,000 members of Local 212 were called to decide whether to give the International UAW for authority to strike in a dispute involving what union claims is "job security protection." Balloting won't be completed until tonight.

A company spokesman said a strike would "within days" close most of the firm's plants, affecting some 95,000 hourly rated workers.

JOB TRANSFER RIGHTS

A strike at this time would hit the company at a crucial period. Chrysler currently is reporting record sales and production in an all-out fight to regain a larger share of the automobile market with its radically changed new models.

At issue, basically, is a dispute over job transfer rights for unskilled workers at Chrysler's new plant in Twinsburg, Ohio.

Chrysler contends it already has reached agreement with the international UAW on providing an all-Twinsburg for any displaced Detroit production workers.

Officials of Local 212 have said they want a written agreement covering the same thing. Chrysler says salaried workers will not be affected by the Twinsburg deal — are the Twinsburg, but if they are, the company is willing to negotiate.

Over Dozen Homes Burned As Northern Ontario Fires Race Through Dry Forests

Sudbury Smoke Is So Thick TCA Has to Reroute Flights

SUBURY (CP) — Hot, dry weather and stiff wind have touched off the season's first bad rush of forest fires in northern Ontario.

Worst trouble spots Tuesday in more than a score of outbreaks were at Lake Wanapitei near Sudbury and Matheson in the Timmins district, 130 miles north. Between them they destroyed more than a dozen homes, ravaged farm and lumbering properties and threatened several communities.

After sifting through the reports of pilots who scouted the fires from the air, the forestry department cut its estimate of the burning area to 8,000 acres from 20,000 acres. It said, however, that the figure might be too small.

The ring of flames around the Sudbury and Porcupine mining districts belched out smoke clouds so thick they disrupted airline schedules. Firefighters were recruited from miners, farmers and lumbermen to help the embattled crews of the Ontario department of lands and forests.

The major fires were still out of control early today and in some cases firefighters said a downpour held out the only hope. More sunny weather, however, was forecast for today with the "possibility of showers and thunderstorms in the evening.

NEAR SUDBURY

The biggest blaze was racing unchecked around Lake Wanapitei, 20 miles east of Sudbury, after chewing through 30 square miles of scrubland and causing heavy property damage at the communities of Skead and Baxter's Bay on the lake's south coast.

It flared Tuesday to dangerous proportions after winds gusting up to 40 miles an hour fanned it into 300-acre fires. By nightfall it had spread to seven different points along the eastern and western shores and bore steadily northward defying the efforts of 200 firefighters to hold it in check.

The situation was equally serious in the Cochrane district around Timmins where 11 fires were raging Tuesday night. The persistent battle by men, bulldozers and pumpers was showing results at some of the outbreaks, however.

At Matheson, a lumbering and mining community of about 750 persons 30 miles east of Timmins, some of the 40 firefighters were working well inside the fire lines to save buildings and homes in its path. At least one farm and a number of other buildings were reported destroyed.

Divisional forester Ted Hall of Cochrane said some of the outbreaks were touched off by "scattered fires" in the bush and long, dry grass left behind when the last of the snow melted last two weeks ago.

Once started, they blazed furiously in the path of the gusty wind, with no green growth, the bush is paper-dry.

REROUTES PLANES

The smoke pall around Sudbury and Timmins was forcing Trans-Canada Air Lines had to reroute its Sudbury-bound flights to Toronto.

There is little valuable timber in any of the fire districts. Most of the burned-over area consists of slash, scrub and small bush interspersed with pockets of farms and stands of small spruce or pine.

Reports from Cochrane of the Sudbury Star counted at least 12 burned-out homes in a two-day period. The fires raged on Tuesday night.

One house was burned in Skead, smbering town of about 400, and four others in the vicinity. Several were up in flames at Baxter and's Bay, a community of about 12 families just to the south.

Collins reported that at the height of the blaze the entire community of Skead fled to Lauzon's Landing, point of land jutting out into the lake, to escape the flames.

The fire swept through the yard of the Pompure Lumber Company at Skead, destroying stacked lumber but not harming the mill.

Late Tuesday night the branch road to the Nickel Rim mine was cut off at a point about seven miles north of the Sudbury-Skead road. Several families live along the road but it was not known whether they were in danger.

Specially-prepared frozen food was flown up from the Sudbury school at Dorion and trucked in to the firefighters, but even at that they were without support until late at night.

STARTS FROM STUMP

One outbreak at Hoyle in Whitney Township was believed sparked by a smoldering stump a former settler had to burn out two weeks ago. It destroyed three of his buildings before spreading to a strip along Highway 101 for three miles, then jumped across a log jam on the Porcupine River.

It later jumped the Ontario Northland Railway tracks at Hoyle, a concession road, threatening farms on the west.

Fire, pigeon and icehouse on the farm of Eugene Larose on the east bank of the Sesekinika were engulfed.

The Boland's Bay fire raged out of control when winds linked up two 300-acre outbreaks. Lands and forests officials said "everything possible" is being done for threatened families and supplies are being rushed to the fighters.

115 Patients Evacuated From Quebec Hospital

QUEBEC (CP)—Workers began mopping-up operations today after flames and water forced evacuation of 115 patients from Quebec's historic St. Dunstan Hospital.

A general alarm was sounded quickly Wednesday when flames began licking at the roof of a seven-storey wing of the building about 1 p.m., but the blaze was contained after an hour-long struggle and no injuries were reported.

Fire damage was heavy on the roof and top floor. Water-pouring in from fire hatchets drenched 110 feet above the pavement sloshed through the three top floors.

SOON AFTER START

Police, hospital authorities, Red Cross personnel and an army detachment began evacuating the patients shortly after the blaze began. Some were taken to undamaged parts of the wing, built 26 years ago.

One hundred and fifteen were taken by ambulance, private car and bus to the hospital's annex, two of them military establishments.

The hospital, run by the women's religious order of Les Augustines de la Misericorde de Jesus, is situated in upper-town Quebec at the corner of Palace Hill and des Ramparts.

Cause of the blaze has not yet been established and no damage estimate was available immediately.

Decentralizing Red Economy Won't Relax Kremlin's Grip

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev's new plan to "decentralize" the Soviet economy isn't the sweeping transfer of power from the Kremlin that a first glance might make it seem, in the view of American observers.

The Communist party chief has asked the Soviet Parliament, the Supreme Soviet, at its current session to approve the abolition of 20 large centralized ministries in Moscow. Their functions will be turned over to regional economic councils scattered over the vast Soviet territory.

Khrushchev claims that many problems can be decided on the spot, without referring them to Moscow. The new economic organization, he says, will mean "a possible sharp cuts in the huge army of supervising bureaucrats.

There is probably some truth in some of Khrushchev's contentions. The Soviet economy now is too large and complex to be administered on the highly centralized pattern which has prevailed up to now.

But there can never be any real decentralization of economic or any other kind of authority the Soviet Union until the Soviet government ceases to be totalitarian.

Close study shows that Khrushchev's new economic organization system does not relax the Kremlin's central authority and control in the least. It only transfers the transmission of that authority and control into different channels of communication.

Moscow will still set prices and wages, fix tax rates, determine disbursements of government expenditures allocate scarce materials, operate the control of financial system, determine economic policies, allocate capital investments and set economic goals.

The Soviet government has come out before with much similar schemes to decentralize the economy. They all failed.

Why? Because any genuine decentralization would require the Soviet government to limit its own powers and trust officials in the provinces to run things as they saw best. But this contradicts the essence of Soviet totalitarianism.

Labor Makes Slight Gain in Scottish Votes

LONDON (Reuters)—The latest results in municipal elections polled in Scotland Tuesday showed the Labor party edging into a slight lead with a total gain of 21 seats. Labor also won control of one town council.

The election for 900 seats in Scotland are part of a turnover of one-third of all local government seats throughout British for which voting takes place this week. In England and Wales 7,500 seats are involved.

The main political interest lies in Thursday's contests in some 400 towns in England and Wales.

The elections are being watched closely as a pointer to the current popularity of Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative government, the first such national test since the fall in Suez crisis and the resultant economic difficulties.

COMMUNISTS LOSE 3 SEATS

The results to date in Scotland gave Labor 31 gains and 19 losses.

The Communists lost three seats while Scottish nationalists won two.

Labor gained control of the town council in Newmilns, Ayrshire, but their biggest successes was in Clydebank where they obtained all the 21 seats, gaining six from Independents and one from a Communist.

2,000 Blokes From Three Warships Plan Proper Smashin' Time on Buck

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Seven thousand hiccups—a sum commonly known around here as one dollar —now looks proper smashin' for the blokes from these British warships when they crumbled they'd be known around Norfolk as "just another bunch of drunken sailors."

A spokesman for the civilian liberty committee working on plans for International Fleet Week in Hampton Roads, hearing of the generous one-buck-a-day allowance assigned each of the 2,000 sailors by the admiralty for their 10-day liberty during the festivities here, has presented a rippling list of free entertainment items.

Already lined up are:

1. A trip to Jamestown, where their countrymen landed 350 years ago; 2. A circus known as the biggest show on earth; 3. An ice show; 4. A symphony orchestra concert; 5. Dancing by the renowned Jose Greco; 6. Music by American jazzmen Woody Herman; 7. The Grand Old Opry (specializing in country music); 8. Auto races and wrestling matches; 9. Beach parties, with hot dogs; 10. Sightseeing.

The sailors are from Britain's biggest warship, the aircraft carrier Royal, and two destroyers, the Diamond and the Duchess. An admiralty spokesman said he thought a dollar a day would be enough—"they will live on board, and are all essentials are available."

The London News Chronicle helpfully published a table of "current prices in Virginia," including the going rates for food, beer and dancing.

Of the allowance, The News Chronicle lamented, "No, it won't go far."

Tear Gas Ends North Dakota Prison Riot

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP)—More than 200 inmates armed with axes and an acetylene torch barricaded themselves inside the North Dakota State Penitentiary and took Tuesday, but officers broke the revolt by driving the convicts back into their cells with tear gas.

The uprising, which started during a smoke break, ended five hours after it began with the locking of the cell block with the choking gas. No one was injured.

The tear gas attack came after Warden Oscar J. Nygaard returned to Bismarck from Mandan, a town, 100 miles east of here, and after Penitentiary guards assured that no prison personnel were held as hostages.

The prison population of 220 inmates began the demonstration outside the huge factory in a protest over food, recreation and some guards. Convicts broke into a storeroom. They took axes and began smashing everything in sight, it was reported. The acetylene torch was not put into use.

HALIFAX (CP)—Colorful, practical footwear and apparel, products of the Atlantic provinces industries, have been shown off to Canadian businessmen, politicians and newspaper men here.

It was the opening Tuesday night of the exciting Atlantic apparel and footwear exhibit, sponsored jointly by the Canadian Manufacturers Association and the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland cut out to be close neighbors and show Canada what we've got.

Premier Stanfield said it was "a magnificent example of self help. It is going to manufacturers a fine opportunity to contact buyers from all parts of Canada."

Premier Flemming of New Brunswick said the exhibit was an example of what can be accomplished among good neighbors."

Premier MacKinnon of Prince Edward Island said "the spirit" that prompted the exhibit "will bear very fruit in the future."

J. T. N. Bulman, of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, congratulated exhibitors "for their unity in attacking economic problems. May all four Atlantic provinces become greater, because they can do so, so does Canada become greater."

The premiers of the four Atlantic provinces will gather around-a table here today for the second time and swap ideas on how to sow prosperity through the area they regard as economic common ground.

Ten months have passed since the four heads of government left a one-day gathering with "renewed optimism," hopeful that a committee from the four provinces could gather groundwork for a common attack on a lagging economy. This committee will make its first report today.

N. Robertson To Take Over Washington Post

LONDON (CP)—Norman Robertson, Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom for the last five years, left today to take up his appointment as ambassador to Washington.

Robertson, who at 53 is regarded as one of Canada's top diplomats, if travelling to the United States aboard the liner Mauretania, accompanied by his Dutch-born wife, Zette, and their daughter, Rosemary Judith.

A dazzler among diplomats but shy in society, Robertson takes over the Washington post at a time of strain in Canadian-American relations, most over the Herter-Norman case.

Appointment of a successor to Robertson as the important London post is not expected to be announced until after the Canadian general election next month. The deputy high commissioner, G. D. Pierce, is the high commissioner.

Robertson has long been one of Canada's leading policy makers. As right-hand man to the late Prime Minister Mckenzie King in the Second World War, he played a leading role in the war effort. He prefers to work quietly and unobtrusively in the field of diplomacy than part in affairs of state is seldom known to more than a handful of insiders.

The London Observer says Robertson "has been one of the chief shrewdest and fairest observers of British politics accredited to our capital in the post-war years."

The Manchester Guardian says the tall, broad-shouldered Canadian will be missed more in London than any present member of the diplomatic corps."

Ousted From Leading Role in Opera Texan Negro Girl Will Support It

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A University of Texas music student plans to see an undergraduate opera even though she was removed from a leading role because she is a Negro.

"Of course I'm going to see it," said Barbara Louise Smith, 19. "We support these things."

Dr. Theodore Granik, opera chairman said he asked that Miss Smith be removed from the role because, as he put it, "the people of Texas don't want mixing of Negroes and whites publicly and the University of Texas should not do it from that standpoint."

Chapman is a leader of a bloc of legislators demanding stronger segregation measures.

University officials refused to comment.

Miss Smith was reluctant to say specifically why she was taken out. She only said it was not because of her singing ability.

"Don't you know that if it was my singing ability," she said in an interview, "I would never have been selected for the part in the beginning. I'm not going to be that naive."

Accepts Trophy for Smartest Company

Cadet Major Paul Kennedy, officer commanding "C" Company, BCI Cadets, receives the trophy presented for the first time to the smartest junior company without rifles at yesterday's cadet inspection. Cadet Major Kennedy is shown receiving the trophy from inspecting Officer Major E. A. Coolen, C.D., of Kingston, while other members of the inspection party, including Major Angus Duffy, and Mayor Jane Forrester, look on. In the centre background are Mr. A. E. Orr, B.C.I. principal, and teacher James Musgrove who kept watchers up-to-date with a running commentary on the inspection.

Reviewing Officer Inspects Cadets

The annual B.C.I. cadet inspection at the Belleville Exhibition Park Tuesday was greeted with bright and sunny skies and typical spring temperatures. Over 430 smartly turned out cadets under the command of Cadet Col. Andrew Robb, were inspected by Major E. A. Coolen, C.D., of Kingston. Major Coolen and other members of the official party are seen inspecting "A" company as the inspection gets underway. Following the inspection the balance of the day was declared a holiday for the students.

Royal Canadian Air Cadets Praised by Inspecting Officer

One hundred and seventy-five members of No. 608 (Belleville) Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets heard high commendation this morning from Wing Commander G. H. Avent, D.F.C., C.D., Staff Officer Personnel Administration at RCAF Training Command Headquarters, Trenton, on the occasion of their second annual inspection, which was held in the Belleville Armouries.

"It has been a great honor and privilege for me to inspect such a fine squadron," said W/C Avent, "I am pleased with your past record of achievements. The main duty of an Air Cadet squadron is to produce good citizens, and from what I've seen here this morning, I'm sure Belleville has many fine citizens in you.

"On behalf of the RCAF I would like to say a word of thanks to the officers, inspectors and the sponsoring committee for the type of men they are turning out in 608 Squadron.

"This squadron is competing for the Strathcona Trophy for the first time. It is impossible for me to say at this time if you will win it. Nobody can say until after every squadron is inspected. But if 608 does win it, you have my hearty congratulations.

"I wish you the best of luck for the coming year and congratulations on your fine turn out and steadiness on parade."

The highlight of the inspection arrived when Allan Smith, president of the (Belleville) Wing of the RCAF Association, presented a $200 Memorial Scholarship, on behalf of the Wing, to Flight Sergeant Ron Poste, who was chosen Cadet of the Year. The scholarship will be used by F/S Poste to assist him through university in 1959.

Mr. Smith explained to the gathering of cadets, students and parents that 418 Wing decided to form a Memorial Scholarship to perpetuate the memory of Belleville and district airmen who died in the line of duty in war and peace.

Congratulatory remarks were heard from Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester, who said: "It is a very great pleasure for me to bring you the greetings of Belleville. We are very, very proud of you and we congratulate you and hope that you may continue to have an interest in the service which you represent."

Also offering a few words of commendation was Leslie Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School, where 608 Squadron is located, and chairman of the Air Cadet sponsoring committee of the Bay of Quinte High School Board. Mr. Reid said: "I would like to express my sincerest appreciation to you for the efforts of every member of the squadron, who have made this annual inspection so successful. We at Quinte are proud of the squadron and we must give thanks to the officers and instructors, but it wasn't for the co-operation of every cadet the squadron wouldn't be what it is today. I give you thanks and congratulations for a job well done."

The vice-chairman of the Ontario Air Cadet League, Douglas Whitley of Trenton, said: "Since last year I see an increased number of Cadets and a greater spirit ron all the way around.

"Of all your achievements over the past year, I was particularly impressed with your Air Cadet Week program, which you had at Quinte, to build up a tremendous relationship between Cadets and the rest of the school.

"I bring you greetings from the provincial league and I thank the sponsoring committee of your squadron for doing such a good job.

"Congratulations on your fine appearance here today."

Mr. Brookes Aller, Chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School Board, commended the Cadets on "the fine showing you have made today. You have a smart appearance, which is something to be proud of."

Mr. Allen heralded a round of happy cheering when he said: "As a general reward and on behalf of the board, I declare the rest of today a holiday for students and staff of Quinte Secondary."

The inspection got under way at 10.30 this morning with a general salute, to which W/C Avent responded. Following the opening ceremonies, the commanding officer of 608 Squadron, Squadron Leader E. A. Craighead, D.F.M., accompanied W/C Avent on a tour of inspection of the Cadets.

Later, the squadron marched past the reviewing officer in close columns by flights and gave a smart "eyes right" as they passed the senior officer, who, in return, gave the squadron a smart salute.

At intervals throughout the inspection, the Quinte High School band, under the direction of A.R. B. Schroder, played appropriate music. The musical touch of this band added considerably to the impressive atmosphere of the parade.

Advancing in review order, the squadron gave another general salute, to which W/C Avent and his party marched off the parade square.

S/L Craighead-turned the parade over to Warrant Officer Bill Cox, who took charge of the parade.

A FRIGHTENING ACCUSATION

Shakespeare said it. "The evil that men do lives after them—" There was little good to be interred with Hitler's burned bones in that bunker in Berlin, but his evil conquest of France is still unbroken, according to the frightening theory of M. Pierre-Henri Simon, quoted by Paul Johnson in "The New Statesman and Nation" of London. Simon, a non-political Catholic and a reserve officer, has published a book charging that France has succumbed to the psychological forces which, in this century, have led to "the re-establishment of torture as a legitimate and defensible weapon" and is using this weapon ruthlessly in Algeria.

Johnson charges that Premier Guy Mollet has washed his hands of the Algerian situation, that he has given his resident minister, Robert Lacoste, a blank cheque and that Lacoste has, in all intents and purposes, handed over the job of pacification to Gen. Massu and his paratroopers. "These gentlemen," writes Johnson, "back from Suez in an unsatisfied mood, are only too anxious to square things with 'les melons', whether Egyptians or Algerians."

There has, says Johnson, been a sharp decline of terrorist incidents, at any rate in Algiers, but "there is a dark side to the moon."

"There is abundant evidence," writes Johnson, "that such incidents (torture) are not isolated examples of brutality by exasperated soldiers; that there is organization, complex equipment, a atmosphere of routine. There are many witnesses, often unprintable. Doubtless some are exaggerated, or even pure fabrication. But all journalists who have visited Algeria agree that they contain a solid basis of truth, that torture is being systematically applied by both the police and the army, and with the connivance of the authorities at the highest level."

These are terrible charges. Why have they not been given wide circulation in French newspapers?

Because, says Johnson, Premier Mollet "does not hesitate to use the very wide powers at his disposal to seize or suppress newspapers which break the conspiracy of silence," because "most French papers operate on a shoestring" and because "the loss of an edition is a financial disaster."

Here is additional evidence of the value of a free press, one which is protected against government interference, which can only be punished for misdeeds after due process of law.

The charges may also suggest to some that France ought not to be permitted to hide behind the argument that events in Algeria are her "domestic" affairs, which the United Nations has no right to investigate.

Aside altogether from the Algerian situation, though, this argument ought to force us to recognize two frightening facts.

One is that mentioned by M. Pierre-Henri Simon, "the re-establishment of torture as a legitimate and defensible weapon." When the history of our age comes to be written, this may appear as a darker blot against twentieth-century man than even his scientific skill in the art of mass killing.

M. Simon says France is a "victim of Hitler." This may be disputed. Comparatively little is to be gained by debating the origin of this revival of torture as a legitimate weapon for so-called civilized governments. That it was either the Communists or the Nazis who first resorted to it appears proven, but which first produced that "complex equipment" and "atmosphere of routine" to which Johnson refers? If the Communists did not teach the Nazis they have proven apt pupils of the Gestapo.

If, though, the acceptance of torture had been confined to them the world would not be such a frightening place. The horrible truth is that we have all been too willing to condone torture used against the torturers. There were columns written about the atrocities committed by the North Koreans during the Korean War; the fact that South Koreans were guilty of similar deeds was given little space. In Cyprus and in Cyprus, British soldiers have been accused of mistreating helpless prisoners in a revolting manner. That they were tried for these acts does much to lighten the strain of Britain's honor, but it does not remove it completely. Now, in Algeria, if Mr. Johnson and M. Pierre-Henri Simon are right, we have a problem of greater proportions, a government connivving at the use of terrorism to fight terrorists.

And if some reader says that one must "fight fire with fire" it shows how widely this twentieth century disease has spread, that even in Canada we have not escaped its taint.

For the essence of true civilization is that there are some things which the civilized man will not do to his enemy, even if the refusal to do so means that he himself will be the victim rather than the culprit.

JUST FOLKS

NEW BABY

He'll now be wakened in the night
And he may have to walk the floor,
But he will think it quite all right
To lose of sleep an hour or more.
He'll learn a formula to make,
A carriage he will push and steer,
And there are pleasures he'll partake
Because the wished-for baby's here.

Oh, many changes must be made,
The first smile he will wait to see!
He's taken up a father's trade
And fathers all must patient be;
He'll have to know what infants wear
And what to do when tears appear;
He'll give up many a gay affair
To stay at home. The baby's here!

A husband is a care-free man;
He only has a wife to please.
But now for years he has to plan
And there's a triumph he foresees.
Now he has splendid hopes and dreams,
Delights to share and hurts to fear,
And life has purpose, and it seems
Much different now the baby's here.

Clocks and Conscience

New York Times

The crocus and the circus are reliable signs of spring for the city dweller and his country cousin. During the generation passing another marker for the season has become equally infallible for most urbanites—or for a good many of their less remote cousins just before they step into May. It is derived from the same basic changes in nature that produce the crocus and motivate the circus, but it reflects in a curious way the mechanized view of human environment which is so characteristic of the present century. The matter what may be the condition of world affairs, Daylight Saving Time arrive in the small dark hours of April 28.

Americans have in recent decades broken every record for speed and sent sea, in the air and in the tunnels under the earth. They have invented or perfected innumerable and often incredible devices for saving time. They have also developed a habit each year at this time of suddenly stealing an hour from sixty of these precious, golden minutes we strive and struggle so fruitlessly to save.

Cutting out this hour under cover of darkness is a curious way to "save" up and about to notice the abrupt change makes it seem like something. It is time to be declare suddenly at 8 a.m. that it is officially 9 a.m., there are making hundreds of thousands of people an hour late at their stores, schools and offices. As it is, one can be persuaded that the sleep is simply jumped over and concealed in this way are in reality an investment to the future, a kind of time insurance paid for in one annual premium and yielding dividends throughout the summer while a liberal supply of daylight is on hand. There is also a final bonus next fall on that glorious day when one can deliberately let the clock run a whole hour beyond the time appointed for getting out of bed and still be right on schedule.

If the clock had never been invented we might not have had to DST as insurance against wasting the pleasant hours of summer. It is an addition to the mechanical counting of hours, minutes and seconds that makes it virtually impossible for us to shirk the focus of daily life easily and naturally at the seasons shift with the movements of the sun. Having learned to tell time by clocks rather than by the sun itself, as primitive men did, we now shift the clock back and forth twice each year in order to appreciate the sun. We rely upon DST to combat destructive and dangerous inertia; so in a sense do we apply DST to our own habits in the inwise and ineffective use of what should be the best hours of the best days of the whole year. But even as the bugs are developing immunities against DDT, a lot of people are learning how to kill time with the aid of DST—under DST as under Standard Time.

It all boils down to a contest between our clock and our conscience. The clock is merely a metronome to assist us in keeping in step with the movements of the earth. Whether we set it ahead or turn it back, or let it run down and stop, it is for the benefit of us. Likewise the way we use our time is finally up to us. Sometimes we should ponder at this point over an earlier stage of human history, about 2,000 thousand years ago, when two separate and distinct events occurred more or less simultaneously at distant points on the earth. In the Far East the Chinese invented the first clock, while in the Near East someone, perhaps King David himself, composed a psalm which reads "Teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

How H-Bomb Can Be Tamed

Montreal Star

When it was first suggested that a thermonuclear reaction of the hydrogen bomb could be regulated to produce productive energy rather than the explosive that a hydrogen bomb presents, the notion seemed fantastic. No material could stand the necessary temperature. Behind the recent announcement that encouraging progress has been made in the project to harness the atom in this manner, is the theory of magnetic containers. The theory is quite straight forward and fairly simple. Hydrogen the fuel for the thermonuclear process, can be electrified and made to create discharge. An electrified gas can be heated by the flow of electric current through it, the stronger the current, the higher the resulting temperature. And by using the "bestability" the electrified gas becomes responsive to magnetic fields. A magnetic field can be set up to keep the gas particles moving in a predetermined path for the time the temperature is raised to the required point. Then the magnetic field, or the "magnetic bottle" of which frequent mention is being made.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has taken over the projects, and has embarked on the construction of the third, at a cost of $20 million, of a series of units which it is planned to make proof against "leaks" earlier ones developed.

One would presume that there is no point in attempting to solve before the sun's fire can be made to burn in a controlled furnace, but success in such a project would be worth a great deal. Energy from the deuterium form of hydrogen is used, and it has been calculated that one kilogram of deuterium could produce the energy equivalent of 100,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity. Slightly less than one six-thousandth of the hydrogen in all the water on the globe is deuterium, enough to supply many times the power the world now uses for a billion years.

Fuel for thermonuclear power plants is universally available, one advantage over nuclear fission, and a tremendous reaction is said not to create the poisonously radioactive by-product of nuclear fission, another great advantage.

It still sounds more than a little fantastic, but no longer, as to a layman it seemed, technically impossible.

Prosperity Easy to Take

Financial Post

Many Canadians tend to believe, like the late Billy Woollott, that anything pleasant is almost certain to be either illegal, immoral or fattening. On that premise, conditions that give us two-thirds again as much income for one-third less work, are bound to have serious hidden drawbacks.

We refuse to shudder. We remain convinced that general prosperity is in itself a good thing, that the more people who have it the better off are social, political, moral and emotional problems are not rather than more acute in times of genuine prosperity; and that an economy with a high standard of living is likely to be less dull than a depressed society.

Strange Harmony

Peterborough Examiner

Strange noises were investigated in a church organ in Denmark, and a squirrel and a mouse were found to be sharing a nest in one of the pipes. That's what you call living in harmony.

Gullty Gadgets

Hamilton Spectator

A home economist fears that all the wonderful kitchen gadgets will rob the housewife of any outlet for creative talents. Well, she can still use all sorts of ingenuity in explaining why, with all her wonderful kitchen gadgets, dinner isn't ready.

Pneumonia We Can Cure

Cleveland Plain Dealer

The dispatch from London which told of the unsuccessful attempt of a civil servant to kill himself by jumping in the Thames and then lying naked on the freezing concrete sidewalk in his garden reminds us of the story about a physician who was called to attend a man suffering from a cold.

"Take a hot bath," the physician said, "and then stand in an open window and let the winter winds blow upon you."

"But I'll get pneumonia," protested the patient.

"Precisely," agreed the physician. "We know how to cure pneumonia."

The Melancholy Days Need Not Come

"When I was a girl in Buffalo, you advocated a daily ration of iodin for everybody. I remember that mother, a great follower of yours, decided my listlessness, moping, and slight lump in the throat might be from lack of iodin, and I started taking the iodin ration as you recommended. Soon I began to feel better and take new interest in life. I continued taking iodin for a year or more and then stopped it. Until here in Berkeley I began to feel tired all the time, no pep, downright melancholy. Wished I could remember what kind of iodin . . . as though by telepathic communication, one day I picked up the paper and there you were — at least your name — with an article titled 'Iodin Chases Blues.' I wrote at once for your pamphlet, got back on my daily sip of iodin, and thanks to you I'm back to my normal self and feeling just wonderful . . ." (Signed) "You know, I was a little disappointed in the Berkeley lady's report. Glad to hear from a reader who derived such benefit from this column, but the lady failed to state whether she has sufficient hair on her natural color to her graying hair.

Seriously, as I have said before, I don't know whether a suitable daily supply of iodin not only naturally restores natural color to premature gray hair. I'll believe that when I see it. All I know is that a good many readers taking iodin have assured me that their gray or graying hair has regained more or less of its natural color. All I know is that, all right, if right, I have said. If one wants to

Sun and Flowers Provide Setting For St. George's Guild Spring Tea

Bright sunshine without, and lovely flowers within combined to make an alluring atmosphere yesterday afternoon for the dainty "Spring" tea sponsored by St. George's Guild at the Chapel on Station street.

The thronging guests were cordially welcomed by Mrs. M. Pepper and Mrs. M. Welsh, while Mrs. G. Beare, Mrs. W. Parry, and Mrs. G. Bowers beside a lovely bouquet of pastel-tinted tulips, daffodils and sprays of Van Houti spires, were busily engaged in taking the admissions.

The rectangle of the auditorium was given over to the little guest tables, appointed with white and colored cloths, each centred by a tiny yellow basket filled to overflowing with after dinner mints.

GORGEOUS SNAPDRAGONS

The tea table with its snowy-white cloth was arranged along the eastern wall, and centred with a gorgeous arrangement of long stalks of pink and white snapdragons intermingled with with glistening British Columbia huckleberry sprays in a crystal holder, and flanked by tall green and yellow candles, and at either end the silver services presided over by Mrs. G. G. Wright, and Mrs. J. B. Creegan.

Those serving included: Mrs. F. Askey; Mrs. W. Beare; Mrs. F. Markle; Mrs. D. Domosly; Mrs. M. Quirt; and Mrs. W. Coleman; while replenishing were: Mrs. W. McLeod; Mrs. A. Briens; Mrs. G. Button; Mrs. G. Gulliver; Mrs. Jenkinson, and Miss L. Tower.

The three booths, aprons and novelties; plants and candy, and homecooking, were well patronized. The apron and novelties convened by Mrs. B. Clegg and Mrs. W. Collyer had a fine assortment of pretty aprons in colorful prints; some with white backgrounds scattered over rosebuds and banded top and bottom by pink, with matching ties and pocket; others were in blue with ruffles, while many were of the half-style, and a few of the all-over kind, strong and workable. Among the novelties were little green and blue velvet cushions, button centered; children's socks in many shades; dolls' bonnets; baby sets in soft wool in white, pink and blue; little dolls dressed in knitted outfits in shades of blue with matching bonnets; and dollies in pink and white crochet; pillow slips embroidered in pink; little blue flannel coatees appliqued with white Peter Rabbits, and many others.

The flower and candy booth, under the convenership of Mrs. H. Armstrong; Mrs. W. Sharp, Mrs. Hopkins and Miss A. Docter, catered both to the sight and to the taste. There were African violets in many sizes and colors, from the little beginners to the plants in full bloom with their lovely purple shades, also white and pale mauve.

The candies, maple creams; plain and nut-filled; chocolate fudges, and chocolates were attractively displayed in yellow, green and pink cups, as well as in cellophane bags and boxes.

COCOANUT DRENCHED CAKE

The homecooking table, under the supervision of Mrs. F. Collings and Mrs. S. Turner, was replete with cakes drenched with shredded cocoanut; golden brown angel cakes; cream cakes; lemon, cherry, apple and raisin pies; chocolate squares; nut-topped loaf cakes; Graham muffins; lafty tarts; hermits; tea biscuits; chocolate cup cakes, and relishes, were a few of the enticing confections which soon found ready purchasers.

A pretty and most successful tea convened by Mrs. G. Rowbotham, bringing commendation to all who participated.

Trenton Woman Jumps Into Lake To Save Brother

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Mrs. Arthur Koomen of Trenton is credited with saving her 10-year-old brother, Ralph Smith of Brighton, from drowning in Lake Kashabog on Sunday afternoon.

The boy's mother, Mrs. James Smith, said yesterday he slipped from the end of a dock that was being repaired by a friend, Jim Yarrow, and plunged into 30 feet of water.

He went under two times and he was going under for the third time when his sister jumped, fully clothed, into the lake and dragged him ashore.

Upon reaching safety, Ralph ran to his mother and cried, "Oh, Mamma, Mamma, I went down and down and never took in any water."

Lake Kashabog is about 30 miles north of Peterborough.

The accident happened on the western outskirts of the town on Highway 30, a few hundred yards east of the junction of the Hastings Road. Arthur S. Martin of Oak Street, and his mother, Greta Martin, escaped injury. Martin, driver of the car, told police he lost control of the vehicle as he rounded a curve, travelling west. The car received about $400 damage. OPP Constable Mac Rutherford, Campbellford, investigated.

13 B.P.W. Clubs Meet for Regional Conference

The thirteen Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Region five held their regional conference in Napanee during the past weekend. Chairman was Miss Marion Thomas, Peterborough, and Mrs. Dorothy Brown, Belleville, acted as conference secretary.

His Worship Mayor A. Douglas Alkenbrack, of Napanee, welcomed the group with a few remarks on the history of the town and commented that its population looked on Napanee "with a liberal amount of conservative pride as a town of good homes, good schools and good churches."

During the Saturday afternoon session, a workshop on "Women Power" evoked a good deal of discussion and interest. Discussion leader was Mrs. Margery Pewtress of Cobourg.

GUEST SPEAKER

Saturday evening the group met at Trinity United Church for a social banquet. Miss Frances O'Reilly, Lindsay, introduced Miss Jennie Pringle, Oshawa, guest speaker. A native of Napanee, Miss Pringle is now with the Personnel Department of General Motors in Oshawa, but has in the interim spent considerable time in Mexico. She called her address, "Winning Friends or B B P." She urged members to apply good public relations to their daily lives and work, and listed courtesy, understanding, sense of humor, generosity, honesty, enthusiasm, loyalty and faith as the main contributing factors. Miss Vera Nelson, Trenton, expressed appreciation to the speaker.

Sunday morning Mrs. D. Aylesworth conducted an inspiring devotional service. This was followed by a session of matters in which B and P members are vitally interested.

WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION

Miss Mabel Rooney, provincial vice-president, was the Sunday luncheon guest speaker. Introduced by Mrs. Marjery Giroux of the Picton club, Miss Rooney gave an impressive address of the progress and contribution women have made to civic, business and political life during the past 50 years.

She was warmly thanked by Mrs. Veronica Cadwell of Tweed.

Next year's regional conference is to be held in Port Hope, the first weekend in May.

Attending from Belleville were Mrs. Simone McFadden, president; Mrs. Dorothy Brown; Mrs. Eve Doolittle; Mrs. Irene Haig; Mrs. Arlene Ashbury and Miss Hilda Collier. .

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU MUST BE WILLING TO HELP YOURSELF

Dear Beatrice Fairfax.

I'm at my wits end. I nearly jumped off a bridge, and I don't know what stopped me. I have nothing to live for.

It all started when my fiance died. I've tried many different jobs and nothing gives me joy. I soon tired of them and buried myself in my sorrow.

Could you please help me?
— Depressed

Dear Depressed:

Only a limited amount of help can come to you from other people, no matter how much they want to help. The most effective help can come only from yourself, through your willingness and determination to overcome your depression.

All I can do is to point out to you some of the things which will definitely help you if you show this vital willingness and determination.

First, you should go to your family doctor, tell him exactly how you feel, and ask him if he will give you a thorough physical checkup to make sure there is nothing wrong with you which contributes to your depression. If he tells you you're in good physical condition, then the next thing you should do is get yourself a job in a field which interests you and which you know you're competent to handle, making it your resolution that, no matter how you feel, you're going to stick to it.

Another important thing is for you to find some group of young people your age which carries out a program of stimulating activities. Here you will need to make another firm resolution to throw yourself into each, at least, of these activities, with all your energy, and, again, prompting yourself to stick with the program no matter how little you feel like it at times.

I advise you, too, to take an active part in some organization of young people in your church, or, if you have no church you attend regularly, make a sincere effort to find one that would offer you a chance to get together with other young people.

Here, now, you have a suggested program. It's up to you to take it from here and have the will power to go to work on it, reminding yourself that there is hardly a person living who hasn't had some great sorrow and who, like yourself has had to learn to go on living usefully, and eventually happily in spite of that sorrow. Don't keep telling yourself that you have "nothing to live for." Instead, tell yourself that you owe it to the people around you to do everything you can to make them happy and not to let them be depressed by your troubles.

There is one other thing you might consider if you can't seem to get yourself started. That is, to talk the problem over with a psychiatrist who could go deeper into the causes of your depression and help you see more clearly what you can do to rise above it. I cannot stress too strongly, however, that the prime essential in recovering your normal enjoyment of life is your own determination to do so.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

SLEEVELESS DAYS ARE ON THE WAY

Arms and elbows which have become "sandpapery" after months of hiding in sleeves, can be restored to velvet smoothness through daily lubrication.

With the weather warming up more and more each day, arms are coming out of hiding and into short-sleeved blouses and dresses. It won't be very long until they're practically bare in sleeveless sheaths and then, just a few weeks more, and they'll be completely exposed as you frolic about in your swim suit. So start looking to your arms over now.

Give particular attention to your elbows. If they're dark and rough, daily treatment should include scrubbing with a soft brush, bleaching with lemon juice and plenty of lubrication. For this purpose, use a good hand cream, a lanolin lotion or the very economical Vaseline petroleum jelly. Slight lubrication, with all excess tissues away, is sufficient for morning treatment, but at bedtime take a little longer and massage your lubricating agent well into the elbows and over the arms for at least twenty minutes. When completely absorbed, tissue flimsy residue away and allow the lubricant to work all night.

If you happen to have too dark or too thick a growth of hair on forearms, take steps immediately to feminize the situation. Forearm hair can be bleached or it can be removed with wax treatments or electrolysis. In either case, you should get professional help and, if you decide on electrolysis, have a dermatologist recommend a reputable operator.

Upper arms sometimes have a tendency to become "sandpapery" as a result of friction from the fabrics which have covered them for months, but they can be restored to velvety smoothness with the same lubricating treatment you give your elbows.

Be especially careful about underarm fuzz at this time of the year. If growth in this area is especially heavy, use your razor or depilatory as often as necessary. Even if you have to resort to this treatment every couple of days, it won't hurt you as long as the skin is unbroken and clear. Which hazel or your petroleum jelly applied after de-fuzzing will keep a sensitive skin from feeling irritated.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

APPLYING FOR MEMBERSHIP IN A COMMUNITY CLUB

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Until recently our family has lived in a city where the social life was not especially informal. There were two very desirable clubs, and for membership in either, one had to be proposed, seconded, and have several letters of recommendation written by close friends. Now we have bought a house in this very attractive and well-managed development, and from what we gather, much of the social life centers around a community club (I think there may be two of these community clubs). I am not sure how to go about obtaining membership in a community club. Would I be expected to wait until someone I know fairly well offers to sponsor me (as in the club to which I previously belonged), or would there be an accepted informal way to membership — W.L.H.

Community clubs of this kind are usually fairly informal, and I'm quite sure that it would not be necessary for you to be proposed and seconded for membership. However, if I were you, I would make some inquiry about this, as subtly as possible. I believe you'll find that all you will need to do is to make application to the secretary of the community club for your membership or family membership.

SHOULD A WIDOW CONTINUE TO WEAR HER WEDDING RINGS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle an argument, will you please tell us whether you think it is correct for a widow to continue to wear her wedding and engagement rings. — E.

Correct it is indeed, for a widow to continue to wear her wedding and engagement rings — and it is customary for a widow to continue to wear the rings that are the symbols of her engagement and marriage. Sometimes, however, she prefers to continue to wear her wedding ring, and not necessarily her engagement ring. It is taken for granted by people of taste, people who respect tradition, that a widow who loved her husband continues to wear her wedding ring and continues to use his name (Mrs. John Robinson, for example) unless and until she re-marries.

If, for some reason, a widow has no wish or loving inclination to wear her rings, not even her wedding ring, there actually can be no "must" about this. No one has the right to force her to wear them, if she doesn't want to.

However, I heartily wish that a widow would have enough taste or even just common sense not to transfer her rings to her right hand . . . that's a really ridiculous idea, and certainly not correct.

1,000 Miniature Elephants Part Of Woman's Hobby

CALGARY (CP)—Miniature elephants in all sorts of materials and colors—even pink—have been a 25-year hobby for Mrs. R. H. Beavers.

She has more than 1,000 on her walls, over the fireplace and around various tables. It all began when a friend presented her with a red elephant to go with an old-fashioned coffee table.

Now she spends leisure hours reading about elephants, as well as collecting them. "Everybody needs something to keep them interested in their later years," she said. "Elephants just happen to be my interest."

The collection ranges in size from an ivory carving so tiny that a magnifying glass is needed to identify it, to a specimen two feet high. They are made of every imaginable material — elephants of plastic, pipe cleaners, gold, china, glass, cloth, straw, soap, pearl, ivory, wood, candy, copper and clay.

WIDE VARIETY

Some are worth about 10 cents; others are antiques of considerable value.

Not all of them are mere decorations, some make pretzel holders, sewing boxes, pretzel holders, teapots, bookmarks and pencil sharpeners.

Her most treasured piece is a tiny, gold-plated elephant, given on a serviette ring, presented one Christmas by her youngest son.

Besides the collection, items from most Canadian provinces and from every state in the U.S. Others are from Hawaii, Japan, India and Okinawa—many from persons who have heard about her hobby. Once, on returning from a holiday trip, she was able to add 52 to the group.

"My husband is afraid to take me on the elephant," she laughs. "He's afraid that one of these days I'll bring home a real elephant."

Tomato Aspic Prettied Up

By Mary Moore

As I write this summer seems to be arriving so quickly that the clothes I bought for my spring trip West (starting this Friday) will be out of season before I put them on.

I don't care. It cannot come soon enough for me for Marianne and Gary will be home for the summer and we will be cooking all kinds of meals: barbecue, porch, guest, reducing etc. But prior to all of these plans I have been doing some extra thinking about you.

I mentioned to you that our New York glamor-girl friend Etta is in town. Glamor and all Etta can cook and told me to tell my readers what the bridge hostesses in New York were featuring right now. Because everybody is weight-conscious and health-conscious and lung-conscious and nutrition-conscious, hostesses find health foods are eaten ravenously and that to-mato aspics with all kinds of different things moulded into them are the rage.

So first I will tell you how to make a good basic tomato aspic (jellied tomato juice) and then I will give you some of Etta's pet ideas for "prettyin' it up."

PLAIN TOMATO ASPIC

One tablespoon gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 1 cup tomato juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 slice onion, 1 whole clove, ½ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar. Soak gelatin in cold water. Add all of the flavorings to the tomato juice, bring to boiling point, stir into gelatin until it dissolves. Strain. Add lemon juice. It is now ready to pour into moulds and chill or to pour over additions which are to be moulded in it.

TAMATO ASPIC VARIATIONS

1) Fish: The amount of shrimp or lobster which is added to each individual or large mould depends on whether this is to be a substantial or light lunch. Whole cooked veined shrimp or bite-size pieces of canned or cooked lobster may be added. For instance if large shrimp are used in tomato aspic moulded in individual custard cups 2 or 3 at the most would be enough and would be added when aspic is cool but before it is set. Three or 4 ¾-inch cubes of lobster would be adequate in same size moulds.

The dressing for this is lovely: Mash ½ of a ripe avocado and add to it about ½ to 2/3 cup mayonnaise. Turn mould out on pretty salad plates, garnish with celery hearts curls, endive and 1 shrimp or meat from 1 lobster claw and top each mould with dab of avocado-mayonnaise and sliver of avocado. Same dish is served in some New York restaurants.

2) Vegetable: One-half-inch pieces of Frenched green beans; finely chopped raw celery and/or quick-cooked fresh or frozen peas and/or carrot dice; potato salad; sliced stuffed or chopped ripe olives. Choose your own for there is no limit to the variations.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Jean Parker (MONTREAL STAR SY. S)

Mother of a 15-month-er is concerned because her son shows no inclination to walk. Says she: "All the other children in the neighborhood about that age toddle like mad." Two answering suggestions offered by an expert in child development:

1. When baby's feet, muscles and "spirit" are ready, willing and able, you won't be able to hold that little Gulliver down.

2. "It's unfair to compare" either to baby's advantage or disadvantage. Children have a way of catching up with each other, all on their own.

Appreciation unlimited. Three treats for bright-eyed, snack-begging toddlers — all made possible with those good-tasting Gerber Junior Fruits. (1) Swell as spreads on bread. (2) Delightful brighteners for milk shakes. (3) Luscious "upper crusts" for sundaes. You choice of 8 heavenly varieties.

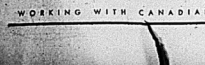
* * *

Match trick. More than one tot in the house? Try identifying little socks on the bottom with indelible ink. Makes it easier to match and mate socks when sorting clean laundry.

* * *

This from a clever mother: "Weaning Janie from bottle to cup was easy. I just used a small bouillon cup. Janie grasped the little handles easily and tilted nicely. Mishaps were at a minimum almost from the first."

* * *



Deliciously grown-up dish! Toddlers love "grown-up" foods and here's a main dish with "grown-up" quality. Gerber Junior Beef and Noodles with Vegetables is a flavorful combination of lean tender beef, tender egg noodles and carrot morsels for good protein content and high vitamin-A value. Gerber Beef and Noodles makes an ideal transition dish between strained and family foods. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

More Men Than Women Registered At Dating Bureau

MONTREAL (CP)—More men than women are registered in Montreal's only full-fledged dating bureau, and most are native Montrealers. One member is 72 years old, and men outnumber women all along the line.

"Our aim is to see that no man or girl sits home alone on a Saturday night if they don't want to," said Merle Taylor, founder and manager of the bureau.

Coming to Montreal from Guelph, Ont., several years ago, Miss Taylor found getting acquainted in the big city was more difficult than in a place like her home town.

Anyone who is over 18 and has a job, or can show good reason why he or she is not working, and who is willing to supply a few honest details, can become a member of the bureau, eligible for introductions to members of the opposite sex.

Although the bureau's purpose is to arrange dates, most of its clients admit their objective is marriage. It's been operating for three months, and already one middle-aged couple is planning a spring wedding. But it's not expected that soulmates will generally meet first try, said Miss Taylor.

"Clients may continue going out with their first introductions if they wish. But we'll supply any number of additional introductions, so they can make comparisons, until they find someone they really like."

The bureau accepts members of all creeds, races and backgrounds, but quickly turns away anyone who can't be "checked" or is plainly out to marry money.

"Fostering that sort of thing would only lead to trouble," its founder said. "Money is never mentioned by us in connection with any introduction."

Membership is on a monthly basis, with a straight $6 fee. Introductions are an added $1.50 apiece.

NO COMPLAINTS

Dating rules are few, but firm. Prospective members must apply in person, and parties on first dates are ruled out, unless the girl is hostess.

Couples are advised to go to a movie, dancing or bowling. The man must telephone the girl two days in advance to make arrangements.

After the "dates," Miss Taylor gets in touch with the principals to see how things went.

"Any report of unseemly or unpleasant conduct means cancellation of membership," she explained. "But so far we haven't had any trouble. The worst complaint is that the men talk too much."

"YOU DON'T PAY EXTRA FOR QUALITY, BECAUSE QUALITY PAYS FOR ITSELF"

Forced to Ration Helpings of Crepes Suzette

CALGARY (CP)—A visit to the kitchen of Mrs. Georges Rostoker here on baking-day finds this busy mother of four working swiftly with a kitchen scale and tiny brass weights. She makes crepes suzette in the manner of her native city, Paris.

A resident of Canada for six years, Mrs. Rostoker has not changed to using Canadian measuring spoons and cups. She follows her early teaching by weighing ingredients in grams. She juggles the little weights, ranging from 10 to 500 grams, with the skill of a trained chemist.

The attractive, dark - haired woman in Paris lived within a stone's throw of the Place de la Concord and the Tuileries gardens.

The guide to her cooking is a massive volume, L'art Culinaire Moderne, containing 3,500 recipes for French and foreign cuisine.

Proof that her crepes suzette is worthy of a master chef, Mrs. Rostoker has to ration the helpings to her youngsters, three boys and a girl, ranging in age from four to 11.

Election Campaign

Diefenbaker Ends Two-Day Swing Through Quebec

HULL, Que. (CP) — John Diefenbaker has ended a two-day swing through Western Quebec with a pledge of Progressive Conservative support for provincial rights and an appeal to the area's farmers and lumbermen.

"Over the years . . . under the excuse of emergencies and the like, the constitution has been invaded and provincial rights diminished," he said here Tuesday night.

The Conservative party had founded Confederation "and today it is the Conservative party which will save it." The federal system was necessary to "maintain the diversity within the unity which must be preserved."

Earlier in the day at Kazabazua, 42 miles north, he said agriculture has been hurt by heavy imports from the United States of foods which are also produced in Canada.

MEMBERS RIDE

He said Prime Minister St. Laurent had spoken of riding a golf cart with President Eisenhower last fall, when the president had expressed surprise at Canada's trade deficit of more than $1,000,000,000 with the U.S.

"The ride the Canadian farmers are getting from this government is nothing like the ride Mr. St. Laurent got at the hands of President Eisenhower."

In the last session of Parliament every Liberal member had voted against the Conservative proposal for flexible price supports for farm products — a program requested by farm organizations themselves.

Turning to the lumber industry, he said the government's tight-money policy has reduced house building and "struck a deadly blow" to lumbering.

Anti-inflation moves were necessary, but the most important steps should be to reduce unnecessary government spending and cut taxes to encourage greater development and production.

HELD IN HALL

The Kazabazua speech was made to an audience of some 275 in the village of 800 population. The meeting was held in an Orange Young Britons hall, decorated with the Union Jack and Quebec's Jeur-de-lis flag.

Both the Protestant and Roman Catholic schools in this predominantly English-speaking community were let off for the afternoon and some 200 pupils, holding Diefenbaker pamphlets, were waiting at the roadside when he arrived 30 minutes late. He had been delayed in Ottawa, 42 miles south, by a morning of filming television spot announcements for future use.

The children cheered loudly when Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker appeared, and were later given chocolate bars and potato chips.

An audience of adults filled the 300-seat hall to overflowing and many listened to the speech by loudspeaker from their automobiles outside.

FRIENDLY INTERRUPTIONS

Mr. Diefenbaker was interrupted several times by friendly interjections from the audience.

He criticized the government as one "which forgets the needs of the people except at election time" and which had raised pensions by the amount of two cups of coffee a day.

"Without sugar," one man called out.

In an introductory speech Gerard Desjardins, Union Nationale member of the Quebec legislature for Gatineau, described Mr. Diefenbaker as "the next prime minister of Canada." The same support was expressed Monday on the party leader's visit to Pontiac-Temiscamingue by Raymond Johnston, Union Nationale member of the legislature for Pontiac.

At Hull in the evening about 350 persons were present in a 450-seat school auditorium.

The constituencies of Hull and of Gatineau, which includes Kazabazua, have elected Liberals since they were established — Hull in 1917 and Gatineau in 1896.

LIBERALS HAVE WON

In each riding there is both an officially-recognized Liberal candidate and an Independent Liberal to run against Conservatives and possible third-party nominees. In the last election the winning Liberals had pluralities of 15,546 in Hull and 3,954 in Gatineau.

Today Mr. Diefenbaker opens a week-long campaign in Ontario with an evening speech in Brockville.

He is expected to campaign again in Quebec in the late stages of the campaign, probably with speeches at Quebec, Trois-Rivieres and Montreal.

SKELTON AT WORK

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Red Skelton, taken to hospital last Wednesday with a virus infection, returned to a CBS-TV studio Monday to rehearse his television show for tonight. Skelton said he had recovered completely and "I feel fine." The illness caused substitution of a filmed Skelton show for last Tuesday's telecast.

P.M. Believes Wheat Surplus Will Be Sold

REGINA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, winding up a fast-moving, 13-day western campaign, has expressed a belief that Canada's wheat surplus will be sold for "real money" in the "not-too-distant" future.

But his government, he told a rally of Liberal supporters in this province Tuesday night, will not entertain any measures that would break world prices for the bread grain.

He stated also, before a crowd of about 1,200 that gathered on a rainy night in the armories where 2,300 seats had been set up, that he believed the South Saskatchewan irrigation and power project had substantial indirect benefits for the economy.

But his government would not approve of federal aid for the multi-million-dollar project until he was convinced the economy would get more out of the proposal than was put into it.

And the 75-year-old Liberal concluded with an expression of hope that when the time came that the project was found to be of benefit to the national economy and undertaken, he may be able "to get back out here and see what indirect benefits have been produced by it."

REPEATS STATEMENT

He made the reference to the controversial dam at Saskatoon at a noon box-lunch rally and repeated the statement at Regina in the evening.

While he spoke at the armories in support of Liberal candidates, Solon Low, Social Credit leader, also addressed a meeting in a dance hall in another part of Regina. It was the first time the two had held meetings on the same night in the same city so far in the 1957 campaign. Mr. Low addressed about 150 persons in a hall where some 800 seats had been set up.

The Liberal meeting included entertainment by an attractive female vocalist, a seven-year-old boy tap-dancer and a young female organist. The Liberal organizer also asked his aides to pass the hat among the crowd to gain campaign funds. It was the first time this had been done in a meeting attended by the prime minister.

In his 3,000-mile western tour Mr. St. Laurent made speeches in 24 cities and 16 whistlestops, expressing confidence in Canada's future and emphasizing the need for national unity. He said he believed the major campaign issue was "good government" and that the only election promise he would make would be to do his best.

FLIES BACK

Today he heads back to Ottawa by plane to prepare for visits to Quebec, Southwestern Ontario and parts of the Maritimes.

After Mr. St. Laurent made his reference to the dam at the box luncheon Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who was with him, said in answer to reporters' requests for comments that Mr. St. Laurent had made the most "slightly encouraging statement" he ever has made on the project.

He was convinced that Mr. St. Laurent would approve of federal aid for the project some time within the next four years—if re-elected.

Building of the proposed dam at Elbow, on the South Saskatchewan has been under federal-provincial consideration for some time. Saskatchewan has asked for federal aid but Mr. St. Laurent has stated he did not believe the project was sufficiently beneficial to the national economy to warrant outlays of federal money.

Tuesday he said:

"That would be a vast undertaking, one which would take several years to implement and about which there would be no prospect, so far as federal participation is concerned, of its producing any direct revenue for the federal government."

STUDYING IT

But it would produce "indirectly quite substantial effects on the national economy." Federal study was being made from that viewpoint.

However, he did not want to make the dam "electoral bait." It had to be considered on its "intrinsic merits."

"And my colleagues and I will be ready to recommend to Parliament that it be proceeded with when we are assured that such indirect benefits would put back into the national economy more than what was taken out in interest and in amortization charges. At that time we would be ready to go ahead with it."

On the general agricultural front Mr. St. Laurent said that his administration had been able to accept and implement many proposals made by farm organizations—except that of parity prices, which, in effect, would relate farms "selling prices of commodities he has to buy.

"Oh, I can understand that it would be very satisfactory for a farmer to be assured of a fixed price for his produce. But all that glitters is not gold. Is there much use in the farmer producing more than can be sold in the market? Surely, that can't go on forever."

MARMORA

Hockey Teams Feted by Banquet

MARMORA — Marmora and Deloro Kiwanis Club recenly held a banquet in the Royal Hotel in honor of the hockey teams — the Marmora Millionaires and the midgets.

Mr. Carl McCoy, president of Kiwanis Club, was master of ceremoney and introduced Reeve W. Shannon, who spoke of the splendid showing the boys had made being a team with no imports in a town of 1,100 population.

The senior team (Millionaires), were victors in their home league but met more than a match at Napanee. The Midgets were also victorious in the home series meeting Thorndill and carrying the banner from that area, but went down in a hard fought battle with Port Elgin.

The Millionaires were individually introduced by "Bob" Gray, team captain, and the Midgets by Mrs. Mary MacDonald, team mother.

Around 75 were present to partake of the splendid repast and show their appreciation of the sportsmanship shown by both teams throughout the season.

Interest in the games ran high and took the Arena out of the red.
